

HEAVEN, EARTH, ME

Chapter 2

One year later, in a luxurious house.

“AHHHHH!!!!” The screams of a woman could be heard, by her side there were three people, the one looking between her legs said with a calm face, “Lady Tatyana, breathe and push, little by little the head can already be seen”

The woman, Tatyana, couldn't help but scream, “WHY DOES IT HURT SO MUCH WITH MY LEVEL OF CULTIVATION!!!”

The doctor in charge, Dr. Ava, answered calmly “I already told you that when a woman gives birth her body loses all of its cultivation until the baby or babies are born. If not, don't you think the baby would die because of your muscle strength that can flatten mountains? ”

In truth, what Tatyana asked made sense. Even if she becomes a mortal, her countless years of experience should make her take the pain of childbirth lightly. She didn't expect that the world's laws were trying to kill her while giving birth because of the method she used to get pregnant! All because this kind of pregnancy goes against the heavenly order since it uses the natural Yin and Yang energies to create life.

Of course, she didn't tell the doctor about it. She didn't want anybody to know that her baby was born that way. Many high-level cultivators would flock to her and ask how to make it possible if they knew.

To avoid being killed by the heavens, Tatyana reached into her spatial ring, and while the doctor and the other two nurses looked at her, she pulled out a pill that she concocted for hiding when heavenly tribulation came and ate it. Eating this pill will hide her from the main heaven will. The one that she will have to bear with will be just the residual will of the heavens.

After that, it was a battle of wills.

Tatyana continued fighting for three hours straight, feeling excruciating pain. Knowing that she was in the last stretch, she made the final push, and with the help of the doctor and nurses, the little baby came out!

Tatyana was overjoyed. Not only did she survive her little meatbun came out safely! Feeling her cultivation returning little by little and healing her body, she felt satisfaction like no other. 'I won against the heavens! I managed to deliver her.'

She asked the nurse to give her the baby, and she started to look at her with boundless love and satisfaction. The baby was a little developed! With midnight black hair and closed eyes, she had pearly white skin with slight rosininess. Her cheeks were full, making one want to take a bite, her facial features were very delicate, and one knew that she would be a devastatingly beautiful woman when she grew up.

When she nestled her little meatbun in her arms, on the child's lower back, she felt something against her hand. She took out her breasts and let her baby drink from them.

While the child was drinking, she carefully rotated her to look at her back, and to her surprise, she had something protruding above her little butt! Not only that, it was growing at speed visible to the naked eye!

The four looked at the extra limb growing from her back speechlessly. First, it was black with small scales around it. However, at some point, it started turning golden. When it finished growing, all that was left was a half-black, half-golden scaled tail...

“ . . . ”

“ . . . ”

“ . . . ”

“ . . . ”

Tatyana looked at the doctor and asked with a small smile. “Dr. Ava, is it normal for the child to grow a tail when born? ”

Dr. Ava looked at her with her ever serious expression and answered, “No.”

Tatyana slowly returned her meatbun to the normal position and looked out the window. She was wondering why did her future wif- *COUGH* her little daughter have a tail... a bicolor one at that. The first half black and the other half golden.

To ensure no more abnormalities suddenly grew on her daughter, she analyzed her up and down. Tatyana’s sight froze at a certain point in the middle. This time she was utterly dumbfounded! She looked up to the ever-serious Dr. Ava and decided not to ask her.

Instead, she looked at the two nurses on the other side who had their eyes and mouths open widely while looking at a particular part of her daughter. “Is it normal for my DAUGHTER to have that little peanut attached above her privates?”

The nurse with long blonde hair stuttered while she answered, “L-L-Lady Tatyana, t-that is a p-p-penis.”

Her sister, the other nurse with short blonde hair, looked at the strange yet, extremely fantastic work of art before her with a stupefied expression.

Tatyana looked out of the window again to reflect on her life choices. Meanwhile, the little meatbun stopped her meal, looked at her mother, and tapped her shoulder twice as if to give support. This action made even the ever-serious Dr. Ava's facial expression crack.

Tatyana looked down after her daughter's taps. What greeted her was an extremely beautiful pair of eyes. They had golden irises that glowed with the radiance of the sun. Moreover, around the slit pupils, there was a little bit of red color. The red color was like growing roots reaching a quarter of the iris, making her gaze extremely exotic yet captivating.

When the nurse sisters looked at the little meatbun eyes, they couldn't help exclaiming, "So beautiful!"

Tatyana looked at the three of them and spoke imposingly, "All of you, I don't care if you speak around the house about her, but I don't want the fact of her having the two sexes and a tail. Until she grows up, this will have to get concealed. If it gets leaked, I will kill every one of you personally. I know that sooner or later, it will surface, but I want her to have as normal a childhood as possible."

They knew that Tatyana wanted time to educate the little miss, so the three of them answered with extremely serious expressions, "As the Lady says!"

The long-haired nurse called Anna thought to herself, 'If someone dares to look down on our little miss in the future, I will kill without mercy.'

Tatyana continued her order, "Dr. Ava, prepare the nourishing resources that I brought back for her. I want her to start strengthening herself as soon as possible."

Dr. Ava nodded and left to get the supplements for the baby. 'Lady Tatyana truly put effort into these. Not only will they aid in conditioning her body for cultivation, but they will also make her almost immune to any kind of disease.'

Tatyana turned toward the nurses and ordered, "Both of you will be her personal maids from now on. If anything tries to hurt her with malicious intentions, kill without mercy, then report to me. I don't want a single mishap to happen because of indecision!"

Anna and Eve answered with ferocious smiles, "Understood! We won't let anything befall the little miss."

Tatyana looked down at her baby, and a beautiful smile appeared on her face. Then she spoke her name for the first time, "From now on you will be called... Yaseña."

Yaseña's eyes curved into crescents and replied with a bubbly "Aye!" making their hearts melt into a puddle.