

Her Seven Little Bodyguards - Chapter 1121

Chapter 1121 Camping Out

Eddie wasn't listening anymore. Furiously, he cursed, "Useless b*stard. Go and find out who else has grudges against Luke Corporation."

He wanted to gather everyone who was dissatisfied with Luke Corporation and pick on Hanson together. His aim was to make him miserable.

Currently, he had Lambert Corporation on the same boat as him.

Now that Bennett dared to openly challenge Vania, there was no way Hanson would let him go.

Moreover, Hanson had already taken action. Lambert Corporation was now in danger, and bankruptcy was imminent.

When Brandon told Eddie about Lambert Corporation's current situation, Eddie couldn't wait any longer. "What are you waiting for? Go and find them already!"

In response, Brandon nodded. "On my way."

However, he didn't know that the chairman of Lambert Corporation, Tyler Lambert, who was also Bennett's father, had a heart attack when he heard that his son had offended Luke Corporation. He was immediately sent to the hospital.

As soon as he was pushed out of the emergency room, he urgently sent someone to contact Hanson.

"Mr. Clark." Tyler looked at him with great respect.

No matter what, he was considered Hanson's sidekick. Offending him was the same as offending Hanson.

In a low and humble voice, he uttered, "Sorry for the disturbance, Mr. Clark

My son, Bennett, offended President Luke at Snow Mountain Ski Resort, so we came to apologize. Please allow us to meet President Luke."

"I see. Our president didn't take it to heart, though." Larry appeared to be surprised and responded sarcastically.

Not taking it to heart meant that they were not worthy of Hanson's attention.

He continued, "Mr. Luke is currently recording a program. Please come another day, Mr. Jones."

Tyler knew very well that it was just an excuse.

Moreover, their company couldn't afford to wait for another day.

He pleaded, "Please help us convey the message, Mr. Clark. We must see President Luke."

Larry waved his hand in dismissal. "I'm just his assistant. I don't have the authority to decide."

"If you refuse to convey our message, then we will camp out here."

Her Seven Little Bodyguards - Chapter 1122

Chapter 1122 Live Broadcast

Tyler thought that his plan would force Larry to agree.

"You are really persistent, Mr. Lambert." Larry pulled a blank face and instructed the receptionist, "Since he wants to wait here, then offer him a glass of water. Don't let them misunderstand that Luke Corporation mistreats the presidents of other companies."

"Sure." The receptionist immediately made a gesture of invitation, asking Tyler to wait in the waiting area.

Tyler suddenly became embarrassed because he didn't expect that Luke Corporation would not fall for his coercion.

For Larry, this situation was just like an everyday occurrence. At this moment, Tyler had no other choice but to sit and wait.

Larry and the receptionist ignored him and went about their business.

...

On the other side, the live broadcast Hanson would film was about to begin

Reading the news notification on his phone, Tyler knew that Hanson would not come to the company today.

Unable to hold on any longer due to his condition, he hurriedly left.

Upon hearing his remark, both Vania and the online viewers present in the live broadcast room couldn't resist sharing smiles.

'Have you noticed that President Luke is becoming trendier?'

'Agreed! Ever since he got together with Vania, he seems to be more aware of trends.'

The first stop of their shopping trip was a cafe.

Girls loved cafe-hopping.

There were quite a lot of people shopping in the mall today, and even the cafe had a long line.

"Wait here. I'll line up for you." Hanson considerately left Vania at the table while he went to join the line.

"Everyone, look! Isn't that President Luke?!" Hanson's height and appearance were too eye-catching.

Although he and Vania were dressed low-key today, netizens still recognized them at a glance.

In the past few days, netizens had been diligently watching their live broadcasts; hence they immediately screamed, "It's President Luke!"

"President Luke! Vania! We love you!"

Her Seven Little Bodyguards - Chapter 1123

The fans cheered enthusiastically, yet their behavior remained remarkably composed as they refrained from congregating in a large crowd. Despite being recognizable, Hanson chose not to shun their presence and serenely waved his hand to the netizens instead. "Let's not form a crowd here and keep the mall undisturbed."

His influence held significant weight as the fans swiftly fell into accord the moment he spoke. "Certainly, President Luke. We'll heed your guidance."

Yet, hushed conversations persisted.

"President Luke showers Vania with such tender affection. He even buys her milk tea in person. I wish for a partner like him."

"His eyes only light up when he looks at Vania."

"They're such a perfect match."

Amidst the envious whispers of the fans, Hanson found deep satisfaction. He offered to the fans in line. "Feel free to choose any milk tea you crave today. My treat."

After all, loyal fans deserve regular rewards.

"President Luke, you're the best."

The moment these words escaped his lips, the netizens erupted in another round of joyful, deafening screams. "Thank you, President Luke."

While Hanson kindly treated everyone to milk tea, the fans graciously let him take his pick first

Soon, Soon, he purchased Vania's favorite milk tea flavor.

After witnessing his departure, the enthusiastic fans waved their goodbyes eagerly. In unison, they called out, "Farewell, President Luke, and President Greyson. May happiness accompany you."

The authenticity of this well-wishing caused his smile to broaden even further.

Today's outing is indeed the right choice. His smile could not be concealed no matter what.

Holding Vania's delicate hand, Hanson suggested, "There are new bags launched today. How about checking them out?"

The mention of bags immediately sparked excitement in her eyes. "Sure."

She sipped her milk tea, her smile reminiscent of a child savoring candy, and even her steps quickened.

Nonetheless, shopping could easily expose a man's true nature. As they stepped into the store, she dashed toward the exhibition area, brimming with enthusiasm. In contrast, his interest seemed limited as he settled onto a couch, taking a moment to relax.

'President Luke doesn't seem to belong here.'

'No matter how wealthy a man is, shopping just isn't his thing.'

'President Luke's reaction is so relatable.'

Yet, right at the moment when the netizens were poking fun, Hanson thoughtfully remarked, "Darling, go ahead and explore the bags. I'll hold onto your milk tea for you."

Without hesitation, Vania immediately handed her milk tea to him.

As he sat on the couch, his gaze shifted from the milk tea to the camera before him.

He naturally took a sip, followed by a meaningful smile.

This could be seen as an indirect kiss.

Consequently, the netizens went into a frenzy.

'That took me by surprise. I have a feeling President Luke did it intentionally.'

'Just look at that smug expression on President Luke's face. He definitely planned this.'

'Who would've thought President Luke could be so cunning?'

'I can't bear to watch whenever it reaches this part, yet it's just so heartwarming.'

The netizens promptly took screenshots of this scene and crafted it into a gif, humorously labeling it "Smug."

Indeed, Hanson was currently wearing a pleased and smug expression.

However, the more his fans responded in such a manner, the more contented he became. Yielding to the moment, he indulged in another sip, his expression growing even more audacious. The fans were utterly captivated.

'President Luke's displays of affection are always unexpected.'

Meanwhile, Vania remained blissfully unaware of the unfolding scene, engrossed in her joyful exploration of the bags. Her spirits were particularly high today, as every bag within the store aligned perfectly with her preferences.

Women just loved bags.

As Hanson savored his milk tea, she suddenly approached him and inquired, "Darling, what are your thoughts on this bag?"

.

Her Seven Little Bodyguards - Chapter 1124

Vania's gentle smile radiated genuinely. Particularly in Hanson's presence, she exuded an air of delicate femininity that warmed the hearts of netizens.

'Oh my God, what a truly youthful smile.'

'I'm absolutely in love with Vania. It's no wonder President Luke adores her. She's genuinely stunning.'

'Her smile gives me butterflies. If I were President Luke, I'd buy her all the purses in the world.'

The smile Vania just shared before the camera was utterly genuine. In the presence of the man she cherished, her affection for purses was fully displayed. It created a heartwarming and exquisite moment.

'Can anyone really argue that this smile isn't the most beautiful in the entertainment industry?'

The instant she graced us with that smile, the netizens screenshotted it. Undoubtedly, she rightfully earned the title of being the most beautiful in the entertainment industry.

Yet, they did not stop there, proceeding to compare her and other female celebrities in the entertainment industry renowned for their sweet smiles.

Following the comparison, the other female celebrities paled, and Vania emerged as a legend. She could now be considered a daunting presence among female celebs in the entertainment industry.

Possessing remarkable talents, unmatched beauty, a wonderful spouse, and remarkable children, she was hailed as the happiest woman in Hillsworth. However, these aspects were momentarily set aside. What mattered most to the netizens was to continue tuning in to the live stream.

Hanson, too, was entranced by her recent smile, nodding in response

"Choose whatever catches your eye. Today's expenses are on me, just as I promised."

He then handed his exclusive VIP card to the staff. "Please package everything my wife has shown interest in."

His words triggered another round of enthusiastic screams from the netizens.

'I feel like I'm engrossed in a novel about a domineering president rather than watching a live stream.'

'This is heart-wrenching. When will I find a husband like him?'

'I got lost between a dream and reality for a moment there.'

The netizens were brimming with envy, yet the one suffering the most was Joshua present at the scene. He was struck by both wealth and love.

Now, he was struck by the realization that being by Hanson's side was not as flawless as he had perceived. Thus, he addressed the camera, saying, "I want to get to know Mr. Clark and have a heartfelt conversation with him. I've only been his assistant for a day, and I'm already feeling overwhelmed. How has he managed to endure this for so long?"

'Haha, reality sure hits Joshua hard.'

'Mr. Clark, please show up. You've got company now.'

'I can see Mr. Clark in Joshua. Feel sorry for him for a sec.'

,

Surprisingly, the topic of sympathizing with Larry ended up trending instead of the discussion about Vania and Hanson's bag shopping. Noticing the online conversation, Larry promptly joined the live stream and typed, 'Currently working overtime. Unable to chat.'

With that single comment, the netizens grasped the extent of his misery and could not help but burst into laughter.

Just then, as Hanson was finalizing his purchase, he appeared in the frame and addressed the camera. "You're catching the live stream even during overtime, huh? It appears your attention isn't quite on your tasks. Consider your bonus deducted this month."

Deliberately adopting a chilly tone, he crafted an image of misery around Larry. In reality, the instant he concluded his words, Larry swiftly exited the live stream, leaving behind a chorus of netizens who could not contain their laughter.

'Mr. Clark sure is going through a tough time.'

'Is Mr. Clark subjected to this every day?'

'I wonder how much the bonus is. Is it enough for a deduction?'

Hanson, aiming to showcase his affection, once again fell short. Reality consistently differed from his expectations. He never foresaw that it would be Larry trending today, stealing his thunder.

Amidst his irritation, the live stream concluded amidst laughter and joy, and he ultimately resumed his role as the president.

Her Seven Little Bodyguards - Chapter 1125

The moment Larry spotted Hanson, he promptly chimed in, "President Luke, even if I lack some credit, I've been putting in the effort. Could you possibly spare my bonus from being deducted?"

He regretted joining in on the fun and watching the live stream yesterday.

After all, had he not already received enough doses of affection? Why indulge in an extra serving? It had truly been an ill-advised choice on his part.

"That depends on your performance," Hanson stated expressionlessly. He would not hesitate to deduct a larger portion of his bonus if Larry's performance was not up to par. After all, he stole Hanson's spotlight in trending topics.

Had Larry anticipated the consequences, he would not have touched that phone yesterday, nor would he have tuned into the live stream.

Just as he was ruminating, Hanson suddenly inquired, "Has anyone from Lambert Corporation shown up?"

Larry promptly switched back to work mode. "Yes, but Tyler Lambert had to leave due to not feeling well."

Despite that, there was no assurance that Tyler would not appear today.

A cold expression overtook Hanson's face. "It appears he hasn't learned his lesson. Your work efficiency appears to be deteriorating. Despite this dragging on for so long, they still haven't gone bankrupt."

The president's chilly words caused a shiver to run down Larry's spine. That's unexpectedly fast for an accusation. Didn't President Luke mention he would handle this matter gradually?

Despite his grievances, he swiftly nodded in agreement, saying, "I understand."

Lambert Corporation had to face bankruptcy promptly, or he would be the one facing the consequences.

On the other side, Tyler and Bennett were on their way to Luke Corporation. Yet, before they even reached the entrance, news came to them that their company had already succumbed to bankruptcy.

Unable to withstand the blow, Tyler collapsed right onto the ground.

Their company initially could have held on for a few more days, but bankruptcy arrived sooner than anticipated. Undoubtedly, this blow proved to be fatal.

Already somewhat shaken, Bennett suddenly felt his legs going numb, leaving him unable to stand. Regret flooded in for offending Hanson. He truly lamented entertaining the idea that he could ever attain his position

...

After a few days of recuperation, Liam was also discharged from the hospital. His immediate post-discharge action was to invite Vania to join him for dinner.

Eager to reach out to her, he dialed her number with anticipation, only to find the call unanswered. He resorted to leaving a voicemail. Interestingly, the one who happened to listen to the voicemail was Hanson.

This was due to her being in the middle of a shower. Without hesitation, Hanson readily accepted Liam's invitation.

In truth, Liam was slightly puzzled when receiving the prompt response. He had not anticipated Vania's swift agreement. Nevertheless, it was a positive outcome. Moreover, his invitation extended beyond her alone and invited his circle of close friends to join.

A gathering was planned for the day, and it was Hanson who received the invitations instead. However, he covertly deleted the voicemail on her phone.

"Darling, I need to go out for a while."

"Sure thing." She did not harbor any doubts and held complete trust in him. Observing her steadfast faith, Hanson felt a twinge of embarrassment.

He stopped in his tracks and looked at Vania tenderly. "Darling, why do you place so much trust in me?"

"Huh?" She blinked, her confusion evident. "Why would you ask that?"

As she had just completed her shower, a delicate mist still clung to her skin. Her eyes appeared especially watery and attractive. He embraced her tightly and smiled. "I'm heading out at this hour, and you're not curious about my intentions? Aren't you concerned I might seek out other women?"

She chuckled, expecting a different topic but finding this instead. With a grin, she inquired, "Will you, though?"

.

Her Seven Little Bodyguards - Chapter 1126

"Hold your horses first."

Liam put down his phone. "Fine. Ask whatever you want."

This guy must have something to say to me, and by the looks of things, I won't be able to see Vania again if we don't talk this matter over.

To Liam's surprise, the words that escaped Hanson's lips weren't what he expected. "Can I take another look at the photo of your elder sister, Anya?" he asked with a serious demeanor.

The sudden change of topic made Liam stunned for a moment.

Then, he asked nervously, "Have you discovered any new clues?"

"It's just a guess for now. Let me see the photo first."

"What kind of guess?" Liam asked eagerly.

"I won't tell you until I'm sure. So, let me see the photo first." Hanson emphasized again.

Knowing Hanson's temper, Liam could only nod.

He opened the album, handed the photo to Hanson, and asked again, "Do you need anything else?"

"Do you have a photo of that man then?" Hanson was referring to the man who eloped with Anya, of course.

Liam bristled with anger at the mention of that man. "No."

How is it possible for our family to keep a photo of that man?!

In fact, we don't even want to know anything about him!

"I see." After that, Hanson took out his phone and handed it to Liam. "Take a look at this photo."

The photo, which he managed to find after putting in a lot of effort, was also of a woman, taken with a man.

As soon as Liam saw the photo, he was shocked. His hands trembled, and his eyes widened. "Where did you find this photo?"

Liam rarely had such an emotional episode. Although there was some difference between the woman in the photo and his elder sister, he still couldn't bear to take his eyes off her.

.

Her Seven Little Bodyguards - Chapter 1127

Chapter 1127 A Member of the Joneses

It was like a certain kind of strange feeling, which gave him a slight headache when he tried to recall it.

"So, what do you think of her looks?" Hanson suddenly asked. Of course, he was asking Liam if the woman in the photo looked similar to his elder sister.

Liam looked at the photo carefully as he thought, Based on its condition, this photo was probably taken a long time ago.

Even though the woman in this photo doesn't have Anya's delicacy and arrogance, she still looks gracious.

"Yes, she looks very much alike. What's her name?" Liam asked excitedly.

Putting away his phone, Hanson calmly replied, "Roseanne Jones, Vania's mother."

Upon hearing that, Liam stumbled and fell back in his chair. As if everything had become clueless to him, his mind was in a muddle as he murmured, "It's no wonder she looks so much like her." So, it turns out to be Vanie's mother! I should have connected the dots in the first place, shouldn't I? After all, even her name shares a certain degree of similarity with Anya. Roseanne, huh... It seems she has created a new name using her nickname, Anna, which derives from Anya.

"And the man? Have you never seen him before?" Hanson frowned.

He suspected that Roseanne was a child of the Joneses.

However, he felt somewhat confused after seeing Liam's reaction.

I can still comprehend why he is against me if Vanie and I aren't related at all.

But now that there's proven to be a family tie between her and me, Hanson has no absolute reason to go against me.

Crossing his arms, Hanson looked at him with a straight face

"Because you are a man."

To him, as long as that person was a man, he could forget about courting Vania in front of him.

"But I'm her family," Liam rebuked. What the hell is going through Hanson's mind?! I will never stoop so low that I will prey on my own family member.

Hanson calmly took a sip of water. "But this matter has yet to be confirmed, which means I am still doubtful of your identity."

He wouldn't do something that wasn't in his control.

As for Liam, he was really speechless at Hanson's freakish possessiveness.

Slamming his hand on the table, he declared, "Regardless of her identity, I have acknowledged Vanie as a member of the Joneses."

I had felt a sense of familiarity when I met her long ago. Right now, after seeing the photo Hanson had shown to me, I am even more convinced that she is a part of the Joneses!

Meanwhile, Hanson wasn't worried at all whether Vania had any relationship with the Joneses. "Still, she is my wife." He put stress on his point.

It was something that no one could change. Even if Vania was indeed the child of the most beloved daughter of the Joneses, that future had no way to decide her marriage on her behalf either.

Chapter 1128 Two Accidents in One Day

Furthermore, they were now legally married.

Liam was fuming mad as he thought, How frustrating! Well, since he's blind to all arguments, it's better I say nothing.

As a result, he sensibly chose to keep quiet.

Just as the two men ended their argument, Liam's phone rang pressingly.

The call was from an unknown number, and although the number was unfamiliar to him, Liam inexplicably felt nervous.

At once, he answered the phone.

A woman's voice came through the phone. "Is this the family of William Jones?"

"Yes." Liam felt even more anxious, and a sense of impending doom surged in his heart. Something must have happened to William!

As expected, the woman on the other end of the phone said anxiously, "This is the emergency room. Your family member is being resuscitated at the Hammond International Hospital. Please come immediately."

In an instant, Liam, who had just been discharged from the hospital, felt nothing but dizzy. He almost fell to the ground, but thankfully, Hanson caught him.

"Is something wrong with William?" Hanson asked.

Based on Liam's reaction and the timing, Hanson knew he couldn't rule out this possibility.

Still shocked, Liam could only steady himself with his support. Without hesitation, he said, "It's the same group of people."

Hanson nodded. "Yes, you're right. You should start suspecting the Keplers." It can't be Eddie. He can't possibly pull off such an intensive series of actions. Besides, he doesn't have that capability.

Moreover, he won't dare to attack the Joneses so intensively like this.

After hearing what Hanson said, Liam was simply momentarily stunned before promptly reacting. "I know what I should do."

If the Keplers really are behind this, I won't let them get away with it.

Nonetheless, the dinner this evening was unlikely to proceed after what happened to William. Once again, everyone gathered at the hospital.

Meanwhile, in the hospital, the raging Bryan cursed, "Don't let me find the person who did this! Otherwise, I'll tear them to pieces."

At this point, he was aware that someone had targeted the Joneses. There's no way such a series of accidents is a coincidence!

His eyes turned bloodshot, startling Jennifer, who quickly tried to calm him down. "Take it easy. Let's first think of a solution together, for we should prioritize Mr. William's health right now."

Just then, Vania walked in with documents and the people from the company's legal department, exuding a strong presence.

She calmly stood in front of Thomas, full of confidence.

As for Thomas, he looked at her with a puzzled expression. His brows furrowed tightly. At this moment, he already anticipated the reason she showed up before him.

Before he could speak, Vania handed the documents to him. "Your father did it, so you deal with it."

She was referring to today's car accident, which was also Liam's.

Thomas wasn't surprised at all. As a matter of fact, it was exactly what he had expected.

Only, he never thought Benjamin would turn out as ruthless as expected, which was completely different from his impression of him.

In the end, he still decided to give up everything, including me, for Yvonne's sake.

Because of him, the current me basically hangs my head in shame in front of these friends. Thinking of this,

Thomas tightly clasped his hands with dull eyes and replied, "I will take care of it."

Nevertheless, he didn't reach out to take the documents, for he didn't want to see Benjamin's criminal records.

Vania didn't care whether he wanted the documents or not. Still, she kindly reminded him, "I have brought the people from the legal department. You can communicate with them if you need anything."

Realizing that Vania was helping him, Thomas nodded gratefully. "Thank you. I will fix it." Since he knew that staying here was useless, he immediately left with the people from the Galaxy Corporation's legal department.

Before everyone barely had time to say much, the door to the ward was pushed open.

The doctor who came out was the same doctor who drew blood for Vania previously.

Her Seven Little Bodyguards - Chapter 1129

He was even more nervous compared to last time and sweat appeared on his forehead.

However, the remaining 1% was uncertain because William chose to concede.

Jennifer Watson also held onto Bryan's hands as she was worried that he might lose control of himself. "Let's go with Vania's plan."

Bryan listened and eventually eased his grip.

April immediately stopped the experiment at hand when he learned about the situation.

He said directly to Vania as soon as he saw her in the operating room, "Please have Lily come over, Vania."

They needed all the help they could get when a life hung in the balance and having a miracle-making doctor at the side would at least boost their faith.

"I've already done so. You should take a look at the situation first."

April felt more at ease when he learned Lily was on her way.

Then, he promptly led his medical team inside.

Vania inquired when she saw the doctor was trembling, "Do you still need blood for backup?"

They should prepare it in advance if the doctor thought it might be needed so that they wouldn't panic in the midst of a crisis.

The doctor nodded vigorously at Vania's words. "Yes. It's necessary."

His nerves had clouded his memory of that crucial step.

He made a gesture to Vania before saying, "This way, Mrs. Luke."

Although his hands were shaking uncontrollably, he rationally thought about arranging for a nurse to get Vania's blood donation done painlessly.

However, Vania appeared calm as she pointed toward Bryan, who was by her side.

"The patient's son is here."

The doctor subtly touched his own forehead, and he said to Bryan with the utmost respect, "This way, please, Mr. Jones."

He had overlooked that due to nervousness once again. How could he forget about the fact that there was no way William would have compatibility issues with his own son's blood?

Now, he had to arrange for a nurse to do the job, and his anxiety only intensified when he was facing Bryan.

Lily arrived after Bryan's blood donation was completed.

Naturally, her seven little companions were there with her.

"Daddy, Mommy." Lily greeted Vania and Hanson before entering the operating room.

Eventually, William was wheeled out of the operating room, following more than an hour of operation.

Lily said calmly as she removed her surgical gown, "He's out of danger."

She thought it was odd. Why was the doctor so terrified? She only found it perplexing as a miracle-making doctor.

April added, "It appeared he had an even worse accident than the previous one. The fracture came perilously close to piercing his heart. Therefore, it's understandable if doctors are hesitant to intervene."

What he meant was any slight trembling during surgery might have resulted in William losing his life.

Her Seven Little Bodyguards - Chapter 1130

Apparently, the driver who hit William was determined to take his life.

Bryan was so furious that his body trembled. He turned to Vania and asked, "Why won't you let me handle it since we now know it was Benjamin Kepler's doing?"

"But Thomas still isn't aware of this."

"What difference does that make? The truth is right in front of us." Bryan didn't realize that the matter was more complicated than he thought.

"That's precisely why you have to consider his position if you're gonna take the matter into your hands. Personally, I think it might be better if we let him handle it himself. I trust that he'll make the right call," Vania explained patiently.

Bryan fell silent as he was somewhat convinced that it was a better solution.

However, it only lasted a few seconds before he added, "I'll take action if Thomas can't resolve this adequately."

"I'm sure the entire Jones Family would intervene as well," Vania said as if she was the mastermind of the plot as she reassured him with a pat on the shoulder. "Don't worry, he'll handle it well."

"Why do you have such confidence in him?" Suddenly, Hanson, who had been quiet at the side, asked.

Vania could discern the jealousy hidden in his words.

Great... He is being jealous again.

She only patiently explained, "I was merely talking based on facts, and I believe in myself."

Apparently, the driver who hit William was determined to take his life.

She demonstrated how a confident person would act, and she rarely got it wrong

Hanson nodded. "Just like how I trust my wife."

However, it wasn't time for showing off affection. They still had much to do.

Vania continued, "I'll put the film shooting on hold until you've regained your composure and ready to return."

Bryan only nodded. He found himself increasingly admiring Vania's composure at that instant.

Vania turned to Jennifer Watson following that. "We're too far behind the schedule for the female lead's scenes. So, I'll only grant you a single day off."

Jennifer agreed since she couldn't help much regarding the Jones Family's matters, even though she was concerned for Bryan.

William had been wheeled into the ward and hadn't regained consciousness when they were talking.

Thankfully, he had passed the most critical phase.

Then, Liam said to the group, "You can all go back now. We'll talk again should anything come up."

He walked up to Hanson and suggested in an earnest tone after that, "We still need to keep investigating."

"I will." Hanson nodded in agreement. He wouldn't just stand and watch something involving his wife unfold after all.

He grabbed Vania's hand and left after that.

He asked when they reached the entrance of the hospital, "Do you have something else in mind, darling?"

Vania nodded.

"Yes, I need to visit the police station. I want to meet Yvonne personally to see if she is truly so cruel."

She intended to disclose to Yvonne the plot masterminded by Benjamin against the Jones Family.

That way, Yvonne might share Eddie Luke's whereabouts for the sake of her parents.

Hanson warned, "You should know that human nature is the most unpredictable."

"You're right. But, there are people who don't see it that way."

Vania was implying to Thomas at that instant.

Thomas had high expectations for Yvonne. So, he had people protecting her at the police station.

Yvonne refused to disclose Eddie's location even after they had approached her countless times.

Hanson said with a cold smirk, "Looks like you have something prepared for her today, darling."

"But, the gift from me may be too heavy for her." Vania also smirked maliciously. The curve of her lips almost mirrored Hanson's. "I'll make sure she receives it well regardless."

"How can I stand by and watch you do all the work, darling? Let us hit her with a double whammy."

They shared a smile as they looked at each other before heading to the police station.

.