

Her Seven LBG 531

Chapter 531

"Bye, Daddy. Bye, Mommy."

Oh, that sounds familiar. The look on Lilith's face changed. "Good morning, Lily!" Lilith called out in surprise and quickly went over to her, worried that Vania and Hanson might leave. She ran over and stopped Hanson and Vania from leaving. She pretended she didn't know that and said happily, "I've been waiting for you. It's great to see you, Lily." Before Lily could answer, she turned her gaze to Vania. "I've missed you, Ms. Greyson. Do you miss me?" She blinked innocently, but the slyness in her eyes betrayed her real intention.

"I appreciate that, Lilith." Vania smiled and avoided answering that question. Telling a kid who misses me that I don't miss her is all kinds of messed up.

Lilith didn't know Vania didn't miss her, and she kept smiling, but now she turned her gaze to Hanson. "Hi, Mr. Luke. You got even more handsome now."

She was generous with her praises, and her eyes were filled with worship. Hanson would be over the moon if the kids praised him like this, but he didn't feel a thing when it was Lilith.

The boys rolled their eyes. Great. I'm gonna throw up, and I just had breakfast. She just won't give up.

"Can I leave with you guys after school is out? I like staying with you guys," Lilith asked.

Hanson squinted. He looked at her and asked, "Do you know where we're going?"

"Um..." Lilith panicked for a second. She didn't think this through. Darn. I was too aggressive. "Sorry, Mr. Luke. I-I don't know. I just like you guys too much, so I want to stay with you."

"Where's your family? Aren't they picking you up?" Hanson asked again without giving her any respite.

Lilith might be well trained, but she was just a five-year-old in the end. She couldn't hold back his barrage and panicked. She didn't think about why Hanson was asking her that all of a sudden, but there was no time for that. She quickly said, "I don't have a family." She couldn't think fast enough, but she could still act well. She put on a forlorn look and teared up.

Oh my gods, the boys thought. She acts well. Somebody give her an Oscar.

Chapter 532

She said sadly, "I want to have a happy family like you guys too."

Vania would have felt moved if this was any other child, but coming from Lilith, it could mean nothing but danger. The fact that she was around meant Eddie could show up any time. She said coldly, "Every child is different. Just live your own life to the best."

She was warning Lilith to stay away from her children. Lilith was surprised that Vania would change her attitude so quickly. Did I say something wrong? Why are they so suspicious of me? No. I might not be the real kid, but the story is true. She nodded nicely. "Of course, Ms. Greyson." She then said hesitantly, "I miss my daddy and mommy. Can you help me find them?"

"No," Hanson refused before she could finish.

Lilith froze. She never thought Hanson would refuse her request so swiftly. The conversation came too suddenly, and it was the wrong time too. She wasn't prepared, and her panic finally broke her down. Nothing went according to plan. Since she had no idea how to keep talking to them, she went for her go-to plan—cry. "You'll regret this someday, Mr. Luke." Maybe he might regret not helping her, or maybe he might regret her vengeance. Lilith cried for a while before running back to class.

The kids were speechless. She can't even take such a small amount of pressure, yet she has the guts to scheme against us. She overestimated herself.

"We'll be going now, Mommy and Daddy."

"Okay. Bye-bye."

James led his siblings into class. They expected Lilith to be speaking ill of them, and they were spot on. Lilith was still bawling, oblivious of the fact that the Luke siblings had come in right after her.

"The Lukes called me a b*stard orphan! T-They're so cruel..." She was crying loudly, though for some reason, she could tell lies as easily as she was breathing.

"I don't remember saying that," James said coldly.

Lilith stopped talking and turned around in surprise. What? They're already here? There were only a few drops of tears in her eyes, probably from a natural reaction too. It wasn't because she was really crying.

Chapter 533

She's still denying it?

"Heh." The kids sneered. Wow, she's just like Melanie. It's the same thing every time. At least be original, you know? We're sick of hearing the same lines.

James said languidly, "Gee, if you really think we're lying, you can always tell the teacher. Or better yet, the cops."

Lilith panicked and was in shock. She didn't want to cause trouble just yet.

"This school doesn't take lying kids. Get a teacher here. Once we find out who the liar is, we'll get them expelled." Jack didn't want to waste any time with her and used a more direct approach.

Lilith was starting to get spooked. I can't get expelled. The young master can't find out about this, or he'll no longer have any use of me.

"Why are you looking so scared?" Jude shot her a look of disdain.

Lilith didn't want to give up, but she had to. "I'm sorry. I shouldn't have said that." I shouldn't have underestimated them. I lost once. I should have learned my lesson. She blamed herself for her careless action.

James saw through her. He whispered, "We know you want to be a part of the family, but don't forget, we're here too."

"That's some sloppy job you did. You can't even spook us, and you think Daddy and Mommy will fall for your tricks? We're not stupid, you know?" Jack said.

"Tell us what you know, and we might help you," Jude said coldly.

The kids were staring at her, and she started fidgeting while averting her gaze. "What are you talking about? I don't get it," she denied, though she was secretly in shock. How did they know so much? Did Hanson and Vania find out what I'm after? So what happened earlier wasn't a coincidence? What should I do?

"We gave you a chance, and you busted it. Fine." Morales disliked this girl.

Morgan added, "That was your last chance."

The kids went to their seats and ignored Lilith.

Lilith froze up and went back to her seat stiffly. She looked enviously at the crystal pencil Lily was holding. I'm not giving up just like that.

...

Eddie's villa.

Chapter 534

"Yes. Right away." Bailey tucked the file away and left the room.

"A minute," Eddie stopped him. "I have a plan. Do as I say."

Oh, that is a good plan. "Nice plan, sir. That'll work this time." They had been lying low for years just to take Hanson down. They managed to make it this far thanks to the resources left behind by Eddie's father. They spent a lot of time and effort, but they still couldn't grow powerful enough to go against Hanson. They had to do it the roundabout way, but just because of a slip-up from Melanie and Lilith, most of their efforts had gone to waste. They had no other way to bring Hanson down now.

...

Vania waited for her kids outside the school gates after the final school bell rang. Suddenly, a young child ran into her. "Ow!" Vania looked down. Oh, it's a little girl. She said, "Are you alright, girl?"

"I'm alright," the girl said softly and looked up at Vania.

Vania froze up and almost tripped on herself.

Hanson held her and looked at the girl, then he frowned. She looks like Vania. Her eyes, lips, nose, and face all resemble Vania, but it's odd for a girl to look so... grown up. And she has a stiff look too. Almost like she can't make any other expression.

"Don't go so fast, honey." A gentle voice rang out, breaking Vania's train of thoughts.

She looked back and saw a slender woman in a light-blue dress coming over. Her hair tumbled over her shoulders, and her features were well-defined. She was as gentle as her voice.

"Mommy," the girl called out to the woman.

The woman held her hand and looked at Vania. "I'm sorry she ran around so recklessly. Are you alright?"

Vania nodded. "I'm fine." She looked at the girl with concern. "What about you? Are you alright?"

"I'm alright, lady. Thanks for asking." The girl had a really cute voice. Vania couldn't possibly dislike her.

Vania looked at her and smiled. "That's good to hear."

The woman smiled as well. "Sorry if we disturbed you."

"It's alright." Vania didn't mind.

"Say bye-bye to the mister and lady, Tilly." She held the girl in her arms. Vania thought they didn't look alike at all.

"Bye, mister. Bye, lady." Tilly waved her hand.

Chapter 535

Hanson patted her head, and they exchanged a look before smiling at each other

"Hi, Daddy. Hi, Mommy." The kids came over to them happily.

"Did you have fun at school today?" Hanson and Vania held the kids in their arms.

"Yes," the kids answered happily. They managed to pull off something big.

"That's good to hear." She looked around, but there were only her kids here. Lilith was nowhere to be seen. She cocked her eyebrow and asked, "Where's Lilith?"

The mention of Lilith made the kids pucker their lips. They did not like her.

James asked, "Do you want to see her, Mommy?" I don't think Mommy's tastes are that bad. She won't find that little liar likable.

Vania quickly said, "No, no. I'm just curious." She wanted her kids to know she was only loyal to them.

Jack crossed his arms and snorted. "She's not gonna annoy us anymore."

Jacob explained, "She spoke ill of us behind our backs, but we caught her in the act and warned her. She'll never try anything stupid if she's smart."

Jude snorted. "Intelligence isn't her forte, Jacob. I bet she's cooking up another scheme as we speak."

Morales and Morgan looked at the boys, and they said, "Can we not talk about her? It's so annoying." We shouldn't be annoyed over some girl who's not even our friend.

"Morales and Morgan are right." The boys nodded. "Let's go home, Mommy."

"Sure." Vania and Hanson took the kids home.

...

The main creators for 'Are You Coming Back' had been decided. After a day's worth of preparations, they were ready for the early shootings. The first part of the novel with the same name had been updated as well. There were ten chapters in total.

Vania based this novel on The Great Chemist and some other characters. The setting was in Gondalwelt, but with some changes, of course. She talked about the life of the locals in great detail, and it was a popular novel too.

'It's just the opening, but I feel like crying already.'

'Is this gonna be a tragic tale? It reads like one. It's like every word sounds like they're crying.'

Chapter 536

"A stream right now?" Vania muttered to herself, staring at the comments. She then replied, 'Sure. I'll set up a stream now.'

That sent everyone into overdrive.

'Are you good friends with AllDayPatatay, Vania? How did you get him to co-star at this hour?'

'Wow, how many famous guys do you know?'

Hanson was about to come in when he heard that Vania was going to start a stream. He stopped in his tracks and looked at his robe. The guy unbuttoned two buttons, revealing his chiseled chest.

Vania straightened herself up and picked a place with a simple background. She then started her stream at eight, and the comments exploded.

'The stream's starting. You're with AllDayPatatay now, huh?'

'Are you at home? Whoa. This is gonna be an exciting stream.'

'Just don't say AllDayPatatay is Mr. Luke. That'd be really anticlimactic.'

'Mr. Luke! Mr. Luke!'

For some reason, everyone was saying that Hanson was AllDayPatatay. Oh ho. Things are getting interesting. She smiled as she read the comments. Time for a surprise. She cleared her throat and smiled sweetly. "Hi, everyone. It's a me, Vania. Let's cut to the chase. Let's welcome AllDayPatatay!" She led off with an applause to hype things up.

'Well, that's fast. Faster than I thought.'

'AllDayPatatay! AllDayPatatay!'

The audience clapped as well.

Vania put on some SFX herself. "Deng deng deng deng, deng deng deng deng deng..."

And then Hanson barged in without warning, almost half-naked. He was gorgeous, and the ladies started drooling. The stream almost crashed. Oh my gosh, he's so hot... Hey, wait. I thought she's introducing AllDayPatatay. What's Mr. Luke doing here?

'Omigosh!'

'It is Mr. Luke!'

The comments exploded even more. We were right! Mr. Luke is AllDayPatatay. Omigosh, that's great news!

'You're awesome, Mr. Luke. Words can't describe how excited I am now! I'm your biggest fan!'

Chapter 537

Darn it. I wanted to give them a surprise, but this is too much.

"You've got to be kidding me, darling," Hanson answered calmly, as if he had no idea she was streaming. He looked like he didn't believe she was streaming either.

Hanson was drawing near, and Vania scrambled to change her phone. If this gets out, I can forget about having any social life. However, she fumbled it up, and her phone fell. The screen turned around, and since Hanson was there, everyone was getting funny ideas.

'Hey, get out of the way. We wanna watch.'

'What's with all this chaos? Did something 18SX happen?'

Everyone loved thrills, and they started teasing Vania in the comments.

Hanson picked Vania up and put her behind him before picking her phone up. "Hey, guys. It's Hanson here."

Seeing Hanson at a close range sent everyone into a frenzy, especially when they saw his abs.

'Wow, this is a surprise, Mr. Luke. I feel like my heart is stopping.'

'W-Wow. I don't think you should seduce us, but I don't mind it.'

'I feel a nosebleed coming.'

'Hey, tell us more about your writing life, AllDayPatatay.'

'AllDayPatatay, AllDayPatatay.'

The comment section was exploding, but Hanson still noticed the word 'AllDayPatatay'. "AllDayPatatay? Why are you calling me that?" I don't think I have that nickname.

'Huh?'

Everyone started commenting, 'Huh?', as if they couldn't believe what he just said.

'Wait, you aren't AllDayPatatay?'

'So this is a mistake?'

Oh, so that's what this stream is about. He answered quickly, "I'm not AllDayPatatay, of course."

'Oh, of course you aren't.'

The audience seemed to be sad.

He looked at the screen and said proudly, "That's my wife's pseudonym."

'What?'

'Plot twist again! Vania's the writer we've been looking for all along?'

'Man, she's more than brilliant at this point.'

Hanson was still 'posing' in front of the camera. "My wife is awesome, isn't she?" He kept calling her his wife, as if he wanted everyone to know.

Vania was looking sheepish.

Chapter 538

Hanson happily accepted his role as a little leech.

'Oh god. You can't do that, Mr. Luke.'

'You're a man of great status, sir. You can't do this.' Hanson ignored them. He looked at the screen proudly and unabashedly. "I like being a leech."

The audience thought that the display of affection was too much for them and grumbled in the comment section.

'Can we talk about something else, Mr. Luke?'

Hanson nodded. "Sure. So what kinda stories do you wanna hear?" He was willing to share his love life with them.

'None of it.'

The audience refused. They were here for a nice show, not a love story.

'We wanna talk with AllDayPatatay.'

Hanson refused to leave. 'I'm her spokesperson. Talk to me if you need anything.'

The audience slapped their foreheads.

'Forget it. You can stop the stream now.'

They refused to talk to Hanson, not when he kept bragging about his love life.

Hanson looked at the comments. The audience were all trying to leave. He frowned. "You guys don't like me?" His voice was alluring.

'No, we do. We love you, but this is a bit too much.'

'I'd do anything my husband tells me to if his voice was as sexy as yours.'

'Man, I'd love to have a nice boyfriend like Mr. Luke.'

Everyone was praising him, and he loved it, but he said, "I'm married, so give up. I don't want to see these comments again, got it?"

'Haha.'

The audience laughed happily. They were amused by how serious he was.

'We wouldn't even do anything even if you aren't married.'

'That's funny, Mr. Luke. You didn't have to take that seriously.'

Chapter 539

"You can try, but don't give me that look. I'm almost at my limit now." His breathing was starting to sound ragged.

Yep. I can't weasel my way out, unless... No, that'll only make things worse. She closed in on purpose, and while he was spacing out, she switched spots with him and pinned him against the wall. Vania mimicked him by raising his chin with her finger and purred, "What if I don't want to weasel my way out then, handsome?" There was a look of challenge in her eyes. She was drawing him in with her voice.

"Heh." He chuckled. He liked that she called him 'handsome'. Looks like I underestimated her. He wasn't going to change the positions back. Instead, he held her finger. "Call me darling'." He preferred it when she called him 'darling' like a sweet, young lady. His heart would melt every time she said that.

"I've never taken orders from anyone. Not once in my whole life," she said proudly. Apparently she refused his request. I'm the queen now. I call the shots. "Well, if you don't like it, how about I call you... young man?"

Everything is negotiable here. I can give him the right to choose. She brushed his cheek with her other hand, as if he was a delectable prey to her. There was excitement in her eyes, as if she was staring at a plate of great food.

Hanson was amused by how much she was faking it, and he held her other hand. "So you like roleplay?" He teased, the smile in his eyes impossible to hide. Didn't know she liked this.

She tried to pull her hand out of his, but he clamped down on it strongly.

"This is no roleplay." She cocked her eyebrow and put one leg on his shoulder.

Whoa. Katedon, leg version. He was surprised by how flexible she was. Didn't know you could use your leg like this.

She said imperiously, "If I can't weasel my way out, then I'll conquer you."

Chapter 540

Hanson cocked his eyebrow because he didn't know Vania had this side to her.

Vania waited for a moment before she looked at him fiercely. "So? Are you scared now?"

"Is that all?" he mocked, switching places with her again. This time, he was pinning her against the wall.

"No!" She switched places with him again out of spite. I must be the one who pins him down. This went on a few more times, and in the end, he pinned her down. She was forced to call him 'handsome' quite a lot of times too.

When morning came, Vania woke up holding her sore lower back. She cursed Hanson and swore she would train herself. I'll never let him pin me down again. She dragged herself to the gym, but she didn't have the strength to do any exercise. Forget it. I'll go back to sleep.

And thus, it was Hanson's job to take the kids to school. He took them to school and left right away.

However, the moment he turned around, the woman they saw the day before went by him. It was perfect timing, like they waited until he turned around to show up.

"Oh, sorry," she apologized and left in a hurry before Hanson could say anything, as if that was just a little coincidence.

The smell of her pungent perfume made Hanson frown, though. He had always preferred the scent of roses coming from Vania, not an overpowering perfume like this.

...

The kids were already in their seats, and their teacher happily went up to the lectern, announcing, "Dear children, we're going to have another little friend joining us today. Are you excited?"

"Yes, we are!" the children answered happily.

"Good. Then, let's give it up for our new friend!"

"Yay!" The kids clapped loudly and looked at the entrance.

Tilly calmly walked up the lectern. "Hi, everyone. You can call me Tilly."

The Luke siblings were shocked. Whoa, she looks like Mommy. Their shock was only for a moment though. They exchanged looks and watched the new girl as she introduced herself.