

HEROIC KING

Chapter 4: Advanced Forms of Arms

The primary death summoning proficiency did not disappoint Lin Han. This time, he actually directly summoned the third-order unit, the ghost. This is also a kind of character outbreak. This is estimated to be the best weapon that the death summoning mastery can summon. .

"Ghost: The cemetery family's third-level and second-level arms, the wandering spirit upgrade form, has strong attack power and self-healing ability, and its evasion ability is the nightmare of all physical attacks on the enemy. Damage: 7-10, defense: 3, HP : 120, movement speed: 2 meters per second, attack speed: once every 1.5 seconds. Special abilities: 1. Illusory spirit body [Ghosts have a body of nothingness, and will have a 33% chance to evade when they receive any physical attack.] 2. Rapid healing [The ghost itself has an extremely fast recovery ability, which can restore 3 points of health per second.]."

The higher the class of the arms, the stronger the attributes they have. The gap between the third-order arms and the first-order arms is so large that there is no comparison at all, especially the ghost is still an advanced form after the upgrade of the wandering soul, and its combat effectiveness is strong, it goes without saying.

Generally speaking, the loss of this battle is still within Lin Han's acceptable range, because the area where the skeleton archers appeared is far behind when they appeared. In this case, Lin Han sent all the ghosts out to absorb the damage. The main reason for the loss of more than 50 units of skeletons is that the enemies that appeared this time are no longer the previous piles, but a large number of mixed ones.

Zombies, this second-tier arm of the cemetery family was very unpopular in the previous life. As an arm with an ultra-slow movement speed, although its attack power and health value are extremely high, it has almost no chance to play, but This wave of zombies gave Lin Han a great headache, because their slow movement speed blocked all the skeleton archers behind him, and their extremely high health value became the best meat shield at this time. Ordinary skeletons are simply not enough to see in front of these guys.

"Zombies, the second-level and first-level troops of the cemetery family, the walking dead resurrected by the necromancer, only have a desire for the flesh and blood of living beings, and they will keep attacking their enemies until they are completely dead without knowing the pain. Damage: 5-8, Defense: 2, HP: 80, Movement Speed: 0.4 meters per second, Attack Speed: once every 3 seconds. Special Ability: 1. Rotten Flesh [The bodies of zombies are already rotten, and any non-cemetery unit that attacks them will be affected by 10 points of poison rebound damage, while reducing the damage received by zombies by 2 points, the minimum is 2 points.]."

From the zombie's data, we know that this is definitely a super disgusting meat shield. Its defense power is 2 points, and it also has the skill of rotten flesh, which can reduce the damage by 2 points. A pile of bones surrounds a zombie and knocks it for a long time. It can only be solved, and the zombie can solve a skeleton in four or five times. The whole battle process can be said to be watching Lin Hanxin dripping blood.

"Your troops cleaned the battlefield, you got you got 19 units of wood, you got 11 units of stone, you got 10 units of ore, you got 3257 gold coins, you got a class card - skeleton [50 units] x2, you got a class card - Skeleton Archer [20 units] x1."

"Damn, there is no zombie class card, it's too pitiful!"

Looking at the battlefield cleaning information, Lin Han was still a little depressed. In the later stage, the zombies belonged to fathers who didn't care for their mothers and didn't love them. They didn't need speed or speed, and they couldn't compare to high-level troops in terms of damage, but In the early stage, especially this kind of defensive battle, it will be very easy to have a bunch of zombies.

"Ding! Your skeleton archer experience has reached the limit. If you have a skeleton training ground, you can upgrade it to a skeleton heavy crossbowman."

The first batch of skeleton archers have all reached the limit of experience. If Lin Han can build the skeleton training ground, he can completely upgrade these skeleton archers into skeleton heavy crossbowmen. It can be greatly improved!

"Please note that the fourth wave of attacks will arrive in 10 minutes, and this wave of attacks will appear boss-level creatures, players please pay attention."

The sudden prompt made Lin Han stunned, and then he almost scolded. This is the fourth wave, and there are boss-level monsters. Do you still want to play? !

Others don't know, but Lin Han knows it. In this game, there are many types of arms. The first ordinary arms can be recruited directly from the recruiting office. The enhanced and elite arms are upgraded versions of ordinary arms, with more powerful attack, defense and health, which are upgraded through special buildings. In addition, on top of the enhanced and elite arms, there are also leader-level arms and legendary arms.

In fact, the leader-level arms have completely broken away from the definition of arms to some extent. They have extremely high health and attack power, as well as powerful skills. The most important thing is that, as leader-level arms, they have a wide range of wars. Aura ability.

War halo, this ability itself is a hero's ability, but it also appears on the leader-level arms. The more powerful the leader-level arms, the more powerful the war halo, plus their own attack ability, these guys appear On any battlefield, it will be an almost bug-like existence.

"Build a base camp!"

Lin Han looked at his resources, gritted his teeth and said viciously, since the leader-level creature has appeared, it is certain to upgrade the skeleton archer. The leader-level creature itself has a very high defense. If the skeleton archer is not upgraded, it is estimated At that time, only 1 point of forced deduction of damage can be played.

"The base camp is being upgraded, the remaining time: 5 minutes and 59 seconds."

The upgrade time of the base camp is 6 minutes, and during this time, Lin Han looked at his building and began to think about how to deal with the fifth wave of attacks.

It stands to reason that if there are boss-level creatures in the fourth wave, then in the fifth wave, the number of boss-level creatures will be between 2-3. This thing is a bit scary. The city wall is to defend against enemy attacks in the early stage. The best weapon, but it is not omnipotent. In front of the leader-level arms, the defensive ability of the city wall is really vulnerable.

"Upgrade the tomb of research."

After searching for a long time among the messy building trees, Lin Han finally found the building he wanted - the tomb of research.

"Research Tomb: The unique buildings of the cemetery clan, the site for the cemetery clan to study various special abilities, where they can study the buildings and arms of the cemetery clan to improve their strength."

Any cemetery player can build a research tomb at the beginning, but when it is actually built, few players will use it. For no other reason, these researches are really stupid.

After the order was given, a thick layer of fog quickly floated next to the huge necropolis. After a while, the thick fog disappeared, and a huge cemetery appeared in Lin Han's field of vision. Above the cemetery, several huge tombs continued to shine. With dim light.

Walking into the nearest mausoleum casually, a corpse witch who looked weak appeared in front of him. "Dear lord, this is the tomb of research, can I help you?"

"How much resources do you need to upgrade the city walls?"

Although this corpse witch looks weak, it is actually a sixth-order unit of the cemetery clan. Of course, this is an NPC belonging to the player and has no fighting ability, but only has the appearance of a corpse witch.

"Upgrading a primary city wall to a primary granite city wall requires 20 units of wood, ore and stone, and 5,000 gold coins. Do you need to upgrade, lord?"

After being inquired by Lin Han, the corpse witch quickly reported a number that made Lin Han's mouth twitch, 20 units of wood, ore and stone, which was the most resources Lin Han could take out now, and it required 5,000 gold coins! This is the most terrible thing. Now Lin Han has only saved more than 6,000 coins after several battles. After such an upgrade of the city wall, the city wall will become poor and white, and it would be a lie to say that he is not distressed.

"Upgrade."

Although he was prepared in the morning for the pitfall coefficient of the research tomb, Lin Han was still a little depressed when he was pitted, but when he saw all the city walls shining with black light, his mood is finally better.

"Primary Granite City Wall LV2: Defense: 20, Armor Type: Enhanced Armor [reduces 40% of all attack damage.] Durability: 15001500. Special ability: Resist magic [The city wall built with granite can reduce all magic by 30 %s damage.] "

The primary city wall has 15 points of defense and 800 points of durability in LV2, but after the upgrade to a granite city wall, it has 5 points of defense and 700 points of durability, but these are not the most important, Lin Han valued the most It is the extra magic resistance ability of this city wall, which is the ability to fight against the leader-level troops.

"Your base camp has been built, and the base output of all Tier 5 and lower arms in your town will increase by 5 units."

When the sound of the completion of construction came, Lin Han was overjoyed and hurriedly walked to the Land of Bones. Sure enough, among the options in the Land of Bones, there was an option to upgrade.

"Boneland upgrade option - to upgrade to a bone training ground, resources are required: 25 units of ore, 45 units of wood, 50 units of stone, and gold coins are required: 4000."

This is the price of upgrading the Land of Bones into a training ground for bones, but Lin Han doesn't need it. Don't forget, he has the blueprint for the building.

He took out the architectural blueprint of the Skeleton Training Ground. The blueprint shone with black light in Lin Han's hand and suddenly floated in the air.

"Ding! Do you want to upgrade the Land of Bone to a Bone Training Ground? Please note that once the upgrade is irreversible, players can choose to cancel the upgrade, but the consumed architectural blueprints will not be returned."

"upgrade!"

Having used so many resources to upgrade the base camp, Lin Han is just for this moment, this choice doesn't need to be thought about at all!

"Upgraded successfully! Your Bone Land has been upgraded to a Bone Training Ground, where you can upgrade your Bone-type troops with the limit of experience to a more advanced existence."

At the same time as the reminder came, the fog completely covered the land of bones. After the fog disappeared, the land of bones, which was originally covered with bones, suddenly appeared in a cave with a faint green light. Lin Han just got close to the cave. A reminder: "Bone training site, do you want to upgrade the troops in your hand to a higher form?"