I stare at this man who has done nothing but evil to all those around him and I feel no sympathy for the fear I see in his eyes. I step toward him and he takes a step back. He turns looking at the men standing behind him. "What the fk are you waiting for? Attack them as you have been ordered to do by your leader." The vampires turn to Adrian and bow before they step back, leaving Joseph alone to face his fate. "You traitors, you betray Drayce and your own coven." One of the vampires steps forward. "Drayce is no longer our leader and as for you, you betrayed your family and pack. You deserve everything your about to receive." The man turns and they all take off through the trees. Joseph turns back to me with pleading in his eyes. "Don't beg for mercy because you'll find none here. I begged you over and over again to stop hurting me and you laughed. You took pleasure in the pain you caused me. You took my pup from me and threw me away. Don't expect me to feel bad for you now." I walk until we are a few feet apart. Despite his size, I feel no fear. I start to circle him and he does the same. Esme growls but I have no intention of shifting. He grabs for me and I land a punch to his face, breaking his nose. The blood that pours from his nose assures me of that. "You fking bch" he yells. "There is the Joseph I know." I extend the nails on my right hand and drag it across his chest. Without his wolf, the injuries won't heal. His shirt soaks with blood. He lunges for me this time and grabs my arm. "Mother" I hear Jayden's voice distracting me long enough for Joseph to land a punch. It stuns me but doesn't take me off my feet. "Jayden, stay back", I yell and thankfully, he steps back. Brooke grasps his arm. "Face it omega, you will always be worthless and so will your pup." I'm sure my eyes turn red with the rage that I feel. Joseph must realize it because he turns to run. I take off running with my vampire speed and reach him in seconds. I jump kicking him in the back, knocking him to the ground. He tries to crawl away from me but I am far from done. I kick him in the stomach and he rolls on to his back. I pull him by the hair so he is kneeling. ; visit us for more free novels.

I grip his hair tightly as I bend so only he can hear me. "Do you remember all the times you made me kneel before you after you took from me what I did not offer?" He looks up and I back-hand him like the bch he is. The blood flies from his mouth. "Please, just kill me and get it over with" he pleads. I look around at my children, mate, and pack members. I will not become the monster that he is. I bend down once again so mine is the last face he will see before he is taken by the goddess. "I don't do this for you. I do this for myself and my pups. You have no power over anyone anymore. The goddess will deal with you soon enough and her punishment will be far worse than mine." I take my claw, running it across his neck. After a few seconds, his body falls forward and I turn walking back toward the people that matter to me. Porter pulls me into his arms and I let go of all the anger I have been holding onto. I didn't realize how much hate for him I still held my heart. The tears flow freely and I cry for the girl he hurt so many years ago. I cry so that I can be the woman that he can't hurt anymore. Jayden POV

As we run, I think about that baard near my pack. I think about my mother. As we break through the trees, I feel sick to my stomach. I know he has no wolf but I hate the thought of him even being near her. I shift screaming her name as he grips her arm. Even without his wolf he towers over her. I start toward them and my mother yells for me to stay back. Every part of me wants to disobey her, but how can I when I just watched what my own mate did to that baard that hurt her. Brooke comes to stand next to me and I respect my mother's wishes. As I watch her, I think about all she endured at this monster's hand. He would never show mercy to her or any other person who stood in his way, but my mother is not him. She looks into my eyes before she turns back and puts the pathetic baard out of his misery. She runs to Porter and I'm so glad that she found a mate that was worthy of her love. I approach and she must scent how close I am. She turns and wraps me in a hug. Adrian joins us and I hug my mother and sister. A family I never even knew I was missing and now I can't imagine my life without them.

I order my men to come and take Joseph's body away. He will not be buried in this pack. He does not deserve to have even that in death, after all he took from all of us. "Take his body to the clearing and burn him", I link them. "Yes, Alpha" they say. Adrian pulls back and she is smiling. "Porter will you and mother accompany me back to the coven." He looks at my mother and she nods. I look at Brooke and she smiles. I walk over to Serina, Nicholas, James, and John. "I can't thank you enough for all you did for my mate and my pack." "Our packs will forever be linked by blood and family. We will always be here when you need us", Serina says. She looks at Jocelyn and I smile. "As will the Onyx Moon be there for Scarlett Rose." Once they head for the SUV, I rejoin my family. We shift and head for the coven once again. I'm not sure what Adrian has planned for the coven but I'm glad she is the one making the decisions now. Adrian POV

I'm not sure how my mother and Porter are going to feel about my decision but I feel in my heart it's the right thing to do. When we reach the coven, most of its members are waiting in the yard. Waylen and the others that were at Scarlett Rose have already been released and are here waiting. I'm just about to address the coven when I hear growls and two different female voices say "mate." I turn to see my sister's eyes are dark and they are walking toward two different coven members. Oh, my goddess, they have found their mates in the coven. Rebecca is in Waylen's arms and Gia is in Bernard's. He is the vampire that was with Joseph. "Well I guess congratulations are in order." My sisters and their mates turn to me and bow. "I know you all are wondering what happens now." I see nods and the members looking around. Gale steps forward and smiles at me before her eyes land on Porter. "Porter, my goddess is that really you." He smiles and she rushes over, wrapping him in a hug. A growl rips through the air and I look at my mother, whose eyes are black.

Gale pulls back and walks over, wrapping my mother in a hug. Now I'm really confused. "Adria, this is my sister, Gale", Porter says. "Thank you" are the only words I hear my mother say. Gale pulls back and looks between them. "Please tell me your home for good so I'll get to know my nieces and your mate." I can see Porter doesn't know what to say. My mother takes his hand and I interrupt before he can respond. "I know that you all expect me to take over the coven as my family has been its leader for many generations but I believe it's time for a change." Andrew slips his hand in mine as he knows what I'm about to say. "I will not be taking over as leader of the coven. My place is as Beta female of the Onyx Moon." I see concern on the coven members' faces. "Porter and Adria, I would like you to become the leaders of the coven" I say to my parents. "Adrian your mom" Porter starts to say but my mother interrupts. "Your mom would love to lead the coven by Porter's side." The coven members turn to face my mother and Porter bowing to show respect.
