

Humanity 1831

Chapter 1831 Blood Termination Blocks the Way

Within the Southern Region of Mount Fangcun, sudden changes arose, with the Sun Blaze cultivators investigating one after another, and Lu Ye being the first to perceive something.

What puzzled him was that he clearly sensed that now the Southern Region of Mount Fangcun seemed to encounter some formidable resistance, as the speed at which it traversed the stellar space due to the core's pull was rapidly decreasing under the influence of that resistance. But where did this resistance come from?

His Mental Consciousness drifted out, peering toward the domain's exterior with a grand view, a convenience only the World Lord could possess. Otherwise, even for Sun Blaze cultivators like Chen Xuanhai, probing the outside of the domain would require them to leap out.

Quickly, Lu Ye's Mental Consciousness was drawn to a scene ahead.

Directly in front of the advancing Mount Fangcun, there stood a massive and peculiar high mountain, comprising six spirit mountaintops of varying heights, with the middle one being the tallest and decreasing in height alternately on each side. Over the six grand spirit mountaintops, a faint blood-colored glow lingered, emerging with a crimson hue.

Looking more closely, the high mountain with the six spirit mountaintops resembled a gigantic hand raised toward Mount Fangcun, with the towering six spirit mountaintops appearing as the six fingers of that giant hand!

Behind the towering hand-shaped mountain was a somewhat curved, roughly crescent-shaped massive terrestrial land, with a strong domain aura overwhelming the senses.

Lu Ye instantly understood what this was.

One of the Blood Race's foundational domains—Blood Termination World!

This domain was formed from a part of the Blood Ancestor's corpse after its death; the Blood Refinement World contained the torso without limbs and a head, while the Blood Termination World was a single arm, hence its peculiar shape.

But... something seemed amiss.

Lu Ye transmitted audio: "Senior Brother, can you confirm that the Blood Termination World is not on the route of Mount Fangcun?"

During the meeting a few days ago, Chen Xuanhai mentioned this matter, and at that time, Yuk Qinglou affirmed that according to their calculations, Mount Fangcun's route would be more than ten days away from the Blood Termination World.

This was clearly inconsistent with what Lu Ye presently saw.

Yuk Qinglou quickly replied, confirming their previous calculations were correct.

Lu Ye steadied himself and spoke: "Senior Brother, the Blood Termination World is now directly in front of Mount Fangcun, blocking its path forward, and the anomaly with Mount Fangcun is related to this domain."

"How can that be?" Yuk Qinglou was shocked and immediately said, "I'll go have a look."

With these words, he swiftly ascended.

Lu Ye cautioned him: "Senior Brother, be careful."

Although he didn't sense a significant threat from the Blood Termination World at the moment, nor did he see any Blood Race cultivators, the situation was strange, and caution was necessary.

Yuk Qinglou quickly scouted beyond the domain to investigate. Upon observing the situation ahead, he was utterly stunned.

Returning moments later, he informed the Sun Blaze cultivators of what he saw, leaving them all astonished.

Their Insights rapidly exchanged among the Sun Blaze cultivators.

Yuk Qinglou said: "Our calculations couldn't be wrong, yet now the Blood Termination World blocks the way ahead, and a peculiar repelling force pervades the whole Blood Termination World, obstructing Mount Fangcun's advancement."

Chen Xuanhai said: "The impossible occurrence happening means only one explanation..."

Weng Xiong interjected: "The Blood Termination World has been teleported from its original position to here!"

This was indeed what the other Sun Blaze cultivators thought too; otherwise, there was no way to explain the current situation, but teleporting a domain is tremendously difficult, even if the Blood Termination World had a World Lord, accomplishing such a feat wouldn't be easy, let alone in such a short time.

The Blood Termination World likely didn't have a World Lord, for a domain to spawn a World Lord, it must first have an Origin Consciousness. The Blood Termination World was part of the Blood Ancestor's body, and if it truly had an Origin Consciousness, it would just be a remnant of the Blood Ancestor's consciousness.

Just like how the Core World at the time produced consciousness from a single drop of treasure blood, which actually was an extension of the Blood Ancestor's consciousness.

With no World Lord, yet the domain underwent extensive teleportation, inevitably astonishing the Sun Blaze cultivators with a recent rumor.

"The power of the ancestral artifact?" someone speculated.

Other than the miraculous ancestral artifact, no one could fathom how the Blood Race accomplished such a feat.

Lu Ye also thought of this and promptly transmitted audio asking Dhing Beifeng: "Has the Blood Termination World ever been teleported before? Does the ancestral artifact have the power to teleport the Blood Termination World?"

Dhing Beifeng replied bewilderedly: "Little person does not know..."

Lu Ye realized he couldn't count on him, as this fellow didn't even know what the ancestral artifact looked like, let alone anything else. According to him, only the Sun Blaze Saintly Venerables have the privilege of handling the ancestral artifact, and Lu Ye even suspected that not every Blood Race Sun Blaze could come in contact with it; the ancestral artifact was very likely controlled by the strongest Blood Race within the Blood Termination World.

"Junior Brother Lu, what is your strategy for the obstruction blocking the advance of Mount Fangcun?" Xia Yingyue transmitted audio for inquiry, as even someone as powerful as Sun Blaze couldn't intervene in such matters, and perhaps only Lu Ye, the World Lord, could exert some influence.

Lu Ye pondered slightly before speaking, "I can harness the power of our domain to counter it. If we can dismantle that resistance, the road ahead may become smooth!"

The might of the ancestral artifact is unknown. Neither Lu Ye nor the Sun Blaze of the Dwarf Race want our territory to be hindered in this stellar space. So far, the Blood Race hasn't made any other moves, but it's uncertain what might happen if our faction were really left behind.

Thus, this is a treacherous place, better to leave quickly.

"Then let's try!" replied Yuk Qinglou solemnly.

Lu Ye nodded, immediately immersing himself in his mental focus, mobilizing the heritage of our domain to resist the strange power emanating from the Blood Termination World.

The effect was remarkable. The speed of our domain, which had been gradually slowing, picked up again.

But the good times didn't last long. It seemed that the Blood Termination World perceived the changes from our side, as the strange power surged in magnitude, causing the speed of our domain to decrease once more, almost showing signs of halting. Lu Ye had to increase the engagement of domain power.

Such a tug-of-war lasted for a while, and as the two domains drew closer, Lu Ye suddenly discovered that the entire Blood Termination World was retreating, seemingly maintaining a distance from Mount Fangcun, while simultaneously hindering our advancements.

Lu Ye couldn't help but frown, "Senior Brothers, the situation is dire. This kind of confrontation severely depletes the foundation of our domain, and the other side can also mobilize domain power." During the confrontation with the Blood Termination World, Lu Ye had already gained Insight into the essence of that strange power, surprisingly revealing it to be the heritage of the Blood Termination World's domain.

This has become a clash of the domain heritage between two great worlds, essentially an injury to the enemy that costs oneself greatly too...

If unable to completely shake off the Blood Termination World, this clash would continue indefinitely, eventually exhausting the heritage of Mount Fangcun entirely. Of course, the Blood Termination side wouldn't meet a favorable fate either.

Yet such a result is absolutely unacceptable to the Dwarf Race.

Yuk Qinglou's voice rang out, "If they want to blockade us, let them blockade us, Junior Brother, make our domain halt."

Following his advice, Lu Ye ceased the mobilization of domain power, and the next moment, Mount Fangcun in the southern region jolted vigorously, defiantly halting in the stellar space.

The Blood Termination World, which had been constantly retreating, noticed this, and gradually came to a halt as well.

"Junior Brother Lu, you will sit in command of our domain, act according to the situation. The other junior brothers and sisters, follow me outside to confront the enemy!" With a commanding voice, Yuk Qinglou led the charge outside the domain.

Since it's unsuitable to compete with domain heritage, the victory will be decided directly on the cultivator's level. The Dwarf Race has eight Sun Blaze cultivators, while the Blood Race only has six remaining, numerically favoring our side. Furthermore, regardless of what the ancestral artifact truly is, there must be Blood Race Sun Blaze cultivators activating it now. In other words, our breakout will definitely hold an advantage.

If they can pin down the Blood Race Sun Blaze cultivators, preventing them from activating the might of the ancestral artifact, Lu Ye's side can find an opportunity to break through the blockade of the Blood Termination World and leave directly. This is Yuk Qinglou's plan.

In the blink of an eye, the eight Sun Blaze cultivators exited the domain, transforming into eight streams of light, rapidly approaching the Blood Termination World.

Yuk Qinglou transmitted audio everywhere, "Do not enter the domain, only act outside the domain!"

No matter whether there's a World Lord on the opposite side, they can ultimately mobilize domain power, so rashly entering the domain would be seeking defeat, just like the previous Blood Race invasion of Mount Fangcun, once the domain is sealed, it would be like trapping and beating a dog behind closed doors.

Only acting outside the domain, creating chaos, can provide Lu Ye's side with an opportunity.

All Sun Blaze cultivators received the order, everyone began to activate their mana, preparing for an attack.

But at that moment, the blood light surrounding that colossal sky-reaching hand suddenly became incredibly bright, causing the eight Sun Blaze cultivators of the Dwarf Race to simultaneously feel an icy chill throughout their bodies, an extreme sense of danger lingering in their hearts.

"Be careful!" Chen Xuanhai shouted, without hesitation, immediately sacrificing a protective red talisman.

Not only did he do it, Yuk Qinglou also simultaneously sacrificed a protective red talisman, while others each activated their methods to protect themselves.

The next instant, a loud noise erupted from deep within the soul. Before everyone's eyes, the sky-reaching hand trembled abruptly, followed by radiant blood light emanating from it, transforming into an incomparably large bloody palm seal capable of shrouding a piece of the sky, horizontally thrusting towards the eight Sun Blaze cultivators of the Dwarf Race.

This scene looked extremely shocking, as if a giant was delivering a palm strike to the eight Sun Blaze cultivators of the Dwarf Race. Under this palm strike, the figures of the eight Sun Blaze cultivators seemed insignificant, like ants.

Roars erupted, the Sun Blaze cultivators fiercely resisted.

The light from the two protective red talismans shattered first, followed closely by eight figures darting into the sky like eight kite papers upon being struck by the bloody palm seal, bleeding profusely!

"Retreat!" Yuk Qinglou's face turned pale, shouting sharply.

As fast as the eight figures had advanced, they returned at an equally rapid pace.

Inside the territory of Mount Fangcun, Lu Ye watched this scene from afar, feeling an internal shock. He finally understood why, years ago, several major worlds had teamed up, deploying over twenty Sun Blaze cultivators yet couldn't capture the Blood Termination World.

For such a terrifying offensive, even twenty Sun Blaze cultivators would be insufficient, let alone fifty.

The Blood Race can rely on the power of the ancestral artifact to teleport the Blood Termination World, and even draw from its domain heritage as a power source, to inspire such terrifying offensives. As long as the ancestral artifact remains intact, then the Blood Termination World cannot ever be captured.

In contrast, Lu Ye, as the World Lord, has very limited capabilities. His powers are confined within the domain and cannot extend the heritage of his domain beyond its boundaries.

Chapter 1832 - Entering the Realm

The people of Yuk Qinglou returned, each injured, though fortunately not too seriously. This was thanks to their quick thinking in deploying two defensive red talismans; otherwise, even with their combined efforts, they would have been severely wounded by that terrifying attack.

This confrontation made the Dwarf Race fully realize the power of the Blood Termination World. In the previous battle, the Blood Termination World suffered heavy losses, even losing three Sun Blazes. This inevitably led to the notion that Blood Termination was not a big deal. But now it was clear that any domain that could survive amidst the many racial hatreds was not as simple as it seemed on the surface.

To capture Mount Fangcun, the Blood Termination World had poured in all its strength.

For the Dwarf Race, the current situation was somewhat awkward. With their main base, Mount Fangcun, forced to stay here, and no matter how many Sun Blazes were gathered, they couldn't break into the Blood Termination World, not even close, as danger loomed. How could they escape this predicament?

Moreover, Lu Ye vaguely felt that the Blood Termination World's methods didn't stop there. Their aim was to seize the Southern Region's Mount Fangcun, so merely forcing Mount Fangcun to a halt was meaningless. There must be other tricks up their sleeve.

The Blood Race's backup plan soon arrived.

Within an hour of the Yuk Qinglou's Sun Blazes returning to Mount Fangcun, Lu Ye, who had been observing the situation outside, noticed changes from the Blood Termination World.

On that towering giant hand, a rich blood-red hue blossomed. Immediately following, a large, illusory hand gradually took shape, lifelike and resembling the six spirit mountaintops, with six fingers. At the fingertips, the nails were sharp and elongated, like six blades.

This illusory blood-red hand reached out from the Blood Termination World, grasping toward the Southern Region's Mount Fangcun, and soon held the entire Mount Fangcun in its palm.

Lu Ye immediately noticed the strange power eroding from outside the domain, and he promptly mobilized the foundation of their home world to resist.

By then, he understood the intention of the Blood Termination World; they intended to use this method to deplete Mount Fangcun's foundation. Once it was sufficiently depleted, the Blood Race's forces could infiltrate the domain, affecting all the Dwarf Race living here.

Without Mount Fangcun's foundation, his role as the World Lord would be severely limited. At that point, the Blood Termination World could easily overpower the Southern Region with the might of their ancestral artifact.

Realizing this, Lu Ye quickly conveyed the intelligence to the Sun Blazes, pondering a countermeasure.

The current situation rendered the Southern Region's Mount Fangcun unable to break free, as the Blood Termination World could also move, incessantly maintaining a certain distance, like a persistent plague.

Unable to escape, incapable of a direct assault, the outcome of the previous eight Sun Blazes' attempt laid bare the terrifying power of the Blood Race's ancestral artifact.

Lu Ye could only continue to mobilize the home world's foundation, resisting the Blood Race's force from eroding the domain. In the short term, it was manageable, but this superficial solution was unsustainable in the long run.

Days passed, and the Sun Blazes were still at a loss. No matter how tricky the situation had been before, they always found a way. But this time, no strategies came to mind.

They couldn't hide; they couldn't fight. It was truly vexing.

Lu Ye went to Su Yuqing's resting palace, sharing some of his thoughts.

Upon hearing, Su Yuqing shook her head immediately, "No, it's too dangerous."

Lu Ye had audaciously suggested to her that he infiltrate the Blood Refinement World; how could she agree to such a thing? Prior Eight Sun Blazes joined forces to save their lives from that terrifying assault, yet even so, they were all injured. If Lu Ye, a Moon Jade, were struck by such an attack, he would undoubtedly die.

"Hear me out!" Lu Ye caught her hand, gently kneading as he spoke, "Back in Nine Provinces, I infiltrated the Blood Refinement World. I found that I seemed able to mobilize the entire Blood Refinement World, though it was too strenuous to explore further. Later, I pondered, the Blood Refinement World is the Blood Ancestor's remnant body, and having refined the Blood Ancestor's treasure blood, I possess part of her power. Hence, I could mobilize her remnant, and by that rationale, I should be able to mobilize the Blood Termination World as well. If so, I just need to stir up chaos within the Blood Refinement World, regardless of the Blood Race's arrangements, they'd be disrupted. Then, our side could seize the opportunity, breaking the stalemate."

These past days, he had been considering this, constantly observing the Blood Refinement World's situation. Vaguely, he sensed a peculiar connection with the Blood Termination World, though it was weak due to the distance.

Such was the origin of this idea.

The Blood Race now hid within the Blood Termination World, undoubtedly activating the power of the ancestral artifact, which should not be disturbed lightly. If Lu Ye went to stir up stormy waves, it would certainly deal a fatal blow to the Blood Race!

"What if you're wrong?" Su Yuqing still shook her head.

Lu Ye replied, "Whether right or wrong, I only need to get closer to the Blood Termination World to know. The closer the distance, the stronger the sense. If I'm wrong, I'll return immediately."

Su Yuqing remained silent.

Lu Ye continued, "I know you're worried, but besides tackling this from within the Blood Race, there's no way to break the current impasse. The Blood Race's force is eroding our domain, posing no immediate concern, but consuming our domain's foundation. Once it reaches an unrecoverable point, unless we abandon the Southern Region's Mount Fangcun, there's no other way. The Dwarf Race has waited so many years for this chance to unite, and I believe no one is willing to give that up."

"But... it's too dangerous," Su Yuqing seemed weighed down with worry, "Back then, when you went to venture into the Illusory Blood Devil's Eye, I was already uneasy. Now, you want to go to the Blood Termination World again. It doesn't make sense for you to bear all the risks for our race..."

Lu Ye chuckled, "Though I'm a human, I am now also the master of Mount Fangcun. In such matters, shouldn't I step up?" He gently patted the back of her hand, "Rest assured, I'm adept at pretending to be a Blood Race, and... I'm not going alone."

Su Yuqing asked puzzled, "Who are you taking with you?"

"Dhing Beifeng!" Lu Ye increasingly felt that it had been a wise move when Xiang Yin and her sister captured Dhing Beifeng alive, otherwise he would face more trouble infiltrating the Blood Termination World now.

"Furthermore, I will leave a doppelganger here; if anything happens to my main body, the doppelganger will sense it," Lu Ye added.

"A Treasure Blood Avatar?" Su Yuqing inquired.

Lu Ye shook his head. In front of her, he condensed a Talent Tree Avatar. The reason for choosing the Talent Tree Avatar was naturally due to its closer connection. Moreover, after his main body departed, the Talent Tree Avatar was needed to preside over the home world, mobilizing its foundation to resist the invasion of the Blood Race powers.

"Your Clone Technique... truly mysterious." Su Yuqing looked at the main body, then at the doppelganger. At first glance, it was indeed difficult to distinguish between them.

The main body took out a set of clothes and was about to throw it to the doppelganger, but Su Yuqing took it over and personally dressed the doppelganger.

"Behave yourself!" Su Yuqing lowered her head, slapped the doppelganger's large hand, and instructed, "Remember what you said. If things aren't as you mentioned, return immediately; the race's eight Sun Blaze cultivators are here, there's always a way."

"Got it." The main body nodded, "After I leave, inform the other senior brothers of the situation. When it's time to act, the doppelganger here will inform you."

Moments later, the main body took Dhing Beifeng and left Mount Fangcun quietly, heading into the depths of the stellar space. To avoid exposure, the direction the master and servant took was not towards the Blood Termination World but away from this domain.

Only days later did the master and servant circle around and head towards the direction of the Blood Termination World.

Dhing Beifeng controlled the blood light, enveloping both himself and Lu Ye.

Initially, Lu Ye contemplated whether he should use the Thousand Faces Spirit Runes to change his appearance a bit and disguise himself as the Blood Race, thereby avoiding exposure risks.

But after a discussion with Dhing Beifeng, Lu Ye realized it wasn't necessary.

Because within the Blood Termination World, there are humans!

The entire Blood Termination Galaxy doesn't just consist of the Blood Termination World domain but also over a dozen other domains of varying sizes, each inhabited by different species, all dependent on the Blood Race, and could become Blood Food at any moment.

In such a large environment, various races also lived within the Blood Termination World, naturally including humans.

However, cultivation was a problem, as the Blood Race had strict control over Blood Food, essentially preventing their cultivation from growing too high, with Constellation being the limit, never reaching the level of Moon Jade.

Thus, Lu Ye just slightly altered his appearance using the Thousand Faces Spirit Runes and used the Pseudo-Might Spirit Runes to disguise his power as the level of Constellation.

This way, even if other Blood Race members saw him beside Dhing Beifeng, they'd merely consider him a Blood Food brought along.

Due to the large detour, the master and servant approached the Blood Termination World from another direction.

Lu Ye sensed carefully; as the distance closed, he became more confident that his idea was correct; he had a connection with the Blood Termination World similar to that with the Blood Refinement World.

In other words, he should be able to activate the Blood Termination World!

This activation wasn't the World Lord's activation but because he refined the power belonging to the Blood Ancestor, allowing him to mobilize the remains of the Blood Ancestor!

It was akin to the activation of the home world's foundation using the power of the ancestral artifact in the Blood Termination World.

Moreover, as Lu Ye saw it, the Blood Termination World's size was much smaller than the Blood Refinement World, after all, one was merely an arm, the other an entire torso, their sizes were naturally very different.

Activating the Blood Refinement World was difficult for him, but he might not be unable to activate the Blood Termination World!

Things got easier.

Entering the Blood Termination World went smoothly because Dhim Beifeng's Blood Race traits were too obvious, so even being noticed by Blood Race cultivators while approaching, there was no obstruction.

Following Dhim Beifeng, Lu Ye sensed that the foundation of the Blood Termination World was indeed robust, far superior to the Blood Refinement World.

Yet, the Blood Refinement World's impoverished state should be related to that ancient imprisonment; otherwise, as the Blood Race's foundational domain now, there should have been one more.

Chapter 1833 - Ancestral Artifact

Outside the Blood Termination World, not much could be discerned, but once inside, Lu Ye immediately noticed many anomalies.

Looking around, he saw that within the Blood Termination World, columns of blood light soared into the sky from all directions, like blood pillars connecting heaven and earth.

The entire Blood Termination World had over a thousand such blood pillars, forming a magnificent sight from afar.

Master and servant entered the Blood Termination World from a central position, and the nearest blood pillar was no more than a few dozen miles away. Lu Ye focused his senses, eager to glimpse the source of this blood pillar.

If he wasn't mistaken, these unusual phenomena must be related to the Blood Race's use of an ancestral artifact. However, at this moment, Lu Ye was puzzled about what this ancestral artifact was and why it would cause such visions in the Blood Termination World when activated.

Before long, Lu Ye saw the source of the blood pillar, and to his surprise, it was a Blood Pool!

Blood Pools existed in the Blood Refinement World as well, and there were quite a few of them. Ambitious members of the Blood Race could choose the nearest Blood Pool to dive into for cultivation. Of course, those who did so typically ended up dead inside them.

The Blood Termination World naturally also had Blood Pools, but right now, the pool seemed to be boiling, with dense blood light surging out from it, soaring into the sky to form the blood pillar Lu Ye had seen.

Lu Ye understood now; it seemed that the sources of all these other blood pillars must be Blood Pools as well.

What enraged him was that, at this moment, numerous living beings were being brought by the Blood Race from all directions to the Blood Pool's side. The Blood Race ignored their cries and pleas, mercilessly tossing them into the pool.

The Blood Pool was like a man-eating beast; any creature thrown into it only floated and sank a few times before disappearing without a trace.

"Has anything like this happened before?" Lu Ye asked via audio transmission.

"Never seen it, nor has it ever happened." Dhing Beifeng shook his head. It was the first time he had witnessed such a scene. Within the Blood Termination World, an unknown number of Blood Food had been corralled. Yet under Mental Consciousness perception, it seemed the Blood Food within the domain had almost all but vanished, and their fate was easy to imagine.

At that moment, the aura of Moon Jade approached swiftly. Master and servant turned their heads and saw a Blood Race member approach, casting a surprised glance at Dhing Beifeng: "You're still alive?"

Dhing Beifeng snorted coldly: "You're not dead either?"

Seeing their manner of speaking, Lu Ye guessed that Dhing Beifeng did not have a good relationship with this Blood Race Moon Jade. During the previous invasion of the Southern Region Mount Fangcun by the Blood Race army, they suffered heavy losses. Those quick to react fled quickly, while the slower ones were left inside Mount Fangcun.

A few Blood Race Sun Blaze returned quickly to the Blood Termination World, but many from the Blood Race had yet to return to their home domain.

This was why Dhing Beifeng and Lu Ye's intrusion into the Blood Termination World did not raise any suspicion among the Blood Race, as those scattered outside were returning one by one.

"If you're not dead, get moving, stop spacing out!" the Blood Race Moon Jade snapped impatiently.

Dhing Beifeng frowned and asked, "What is going on?"

The Blood Race Moon Jade flashed away, showing no interest in dealing with Dhing Beifeng. In the past, Dhing Beifeng surely would have ignored it, as they had disliked each other not just for a day or two, but for many years.

But now, as Lu Ye's Blood Servant, Dhing Beifeng knew Lu Ye was eager to understand certain information about the Blood Termination World and couldn't let the other party just leave.

He immediately activated his saintliness and stared coldly at the other.

The Blood Race Moon Jade was initially stunned, then shock and fear swept over him as he looked at Dhing Beifeng: "When... did you refine the Sacred Blood?"

"Insolent!" Dhing Beifeng snorted.

The Blood Race Moon Jade's face turned blue and red. Though unwilling, he respectfully saluted, "Greetings, Saintly Venerable!"

Those who refine Sacred Blood are known as Saintly Venerables. The Blood Race Moon Jade couldn't fathom where Dhing Beifeng had obtained Sacred Blood, and more shockingly, how he successfully refined it. Suddenly, their standings were drastically different, and unless he also refined a drop of Sacred Blood, he would forever be beneath Dhing Beifeng.

Filled with envy, jealousy, and unwillingness.

"Explain," Dhing Beifeng said indifferently.

This time, the Blood Race Moon Jade dared not show any attitude and immediately explained that after several Blood Race Sun Blaze escaped and returned, they began jointly activating the ancestral artifact's power. Within the Blood Termination World, all Blood Food was to be thrown into Blood Pools for a Blood Sacrifice, which was part of a ritual.

Currently, the entire Blood Race of the Blood Termination World was busy with this. In just a few days, an unknown number of Blood Food had been sacrificed.

After the Blood Race Moon Jade finished speaking, he cautiously watched Dhing Beifeng. Although he knew that even if relations with Dhing Beifeng were bad, his life wouldn't be in danger, yet if Dhing Beifeng decided to humiliate him, there was nothing he could do to resist.

Fortunately, Dhing Beifeng had no such intentions, merely waving a hand: "Get lost!"

Like receiving a pardon, the Blood Race Moon Jade cupped his fists and saluted, then turned and fled away as a streak of blood light.

Dhing Beifeng looked at Lu Ye, who was staring in a particular direction. If the entire Blood Termination World were considered an arm, that direction would be the wrist.

Lu Ye could sense that the Blood Race Sun Blaze were gathering there, and it was also the place with the most chaotic energy fluctuations in the entire Blood Termination World.

If nothing went wrong, that place must be where the ancestral artifact is located.

Lu Ye was eager to know what the ancestral artifact was exactly, but he also knew it wasn't the time to investigate. His purpose here was to stir up chaos and disrupt the Blood Race's plans. The basic goal was to free Mount Fangcun in the Southern Region from the constraints of the Blood Termination World and get out of this Star System.

If possible, on this basis, he could make further moves, but of course, he'd have to play it by ear.

Withdrawing his gaze, Lu Ye instructed, "Throw me into the Blood Pool."

"Yes!" Dhing Beifeng replied, stepping forward and grabbing Lu Ye by the collar. Lu Ye instantly put on an angry and struggling posture.

According to his previous attempts in the Blood Refinement World, to mobilize the entire domain, he had to delve deep into the Blood Pool. Originally, he had been thinking about how to achieve it secretly, but he hadn't expected the entire Blood Termination World to be conducting a Blood Sacrifice at this moment.

This made things very convenient for him.

With a cold face, Dhing Beifeng ignored Lu Ye's struggles, bringing him to the nearest Blood Pool under the watchful eyes of many Blood Race members, and threw him directly in.

Lu Ye's figure floated and sank in the Blood Pool twice before disappearing.

Under the Blood Pool, Lu Ye plunged deeper. The internal passages were intricate and winding.

The underground passages were undoubtedly the blood vessels of the Blood Ancestor. Having entered smoothly, Lu Ye faced a dilemma because previously in the Blood Refinement World, he had entered the heart of the Blood Ancestor. For any living being, that place was a vital area. Mobilizing energy there yielded twice the result with half the effort.

The Blood Termination World, transformed from an arm of the Blood Ancestor, did not have such vital points.

Thinking it through, Lu Ye suddenly had a flash of insight. While there weren't vital points on an arm, there were spiritual orifices. These spiritual orifices were undoubtedly the points where energy converged.

However, the Blood Ancestor was ultimately not of the human race, so it was unknown how her spiritual orifices compared to humans'. He would have to search and compare carefully.

The location of the Blood Pool Lu Ye entered was close to the elbow. For humans, this was a critical spiritual orifice and also a place where blood Qi converged.

After some searching, he indeed found a location that fit the description. This area was different from others he had encountered; if other passages were straight roads, this area was a crossroads, or more precisely, a complex intersection of many passages.

If he wasn't mistaken, this should be one of the Blood Ancestor's spiritual orifices, suggesting some similarity between the Blood Ancestor's orifices and those of humans.

Lu Ye then stabilized his body and concentrated his mind.

The connection with the Blood Termination World grew increasingly close. Lu Ye once again felt as if he were donning a heavy coat of armor.

He had experienced this in the Blood Refinement World, but the sheer scale of that world made the armor feel so heavy he could barely move, preventing him from mobilizing the Blood Refinement World.

Now, in comparison, although it was still heavy, it was much more manageable than in the Blood Refinement World.

This confirmed his previous guess that the Blood Termination World's scale was much smaller than the Blood Refinement World's, making it easier to mobilize.

As time passed, the connection grew tighter, and Lu Ye's entire being sublimated until at one point, when the miraculous connection reached its limit, Lu Ye suddenly felt as though the entire domain was under his control.

Whatever came to his mind was vividly imprinted in his heart.

He saw countless Blood Race members flying back and forth within the domain, busy with their tasks. He heard the cries and curses of many Blood Food, and he sensed the tremors of the entire Blood Termination World. This long-dead arm seemed as if it wanted to come back to life, but at this moment, the foundation of the Blood Termination World was rapidly dwindling, being drawn out and pouring away by some force.

Following the source of that force, Lu Ye observed.

He finally saw the ancestral artifact!

It was right at the wrist; there lay a valley with a hundred-meter-high altar in its center, and atop the altar was placed a copper green scepter, several meters long.

At first glance, there was nothing too unusual about the scepter, except for its profoundly ancient feel, indicating its long history. The copper had turned green, and many complex patterns were missing.

Around the altar, many powerful Blood Race members gathered, each channeling force into the copper green scepter, causing the altar to shake ceaselessly.

Lu Ye's Mental Consciousness drifted over without alerting any Blood Race members. This mode of observation offered an absolutely grand perspective, so even those as powerful as Sun Blaze couldn't detect anything amiss.

Chapter 1834 - Ancestral Power Awakens

Without any surprises, that copper-green long staff should be the ancestral artifact of the Blood Race, and it should be a relic left by the Blood Ancestor. Therefore, the Blood Race Sun Blaze individuals could use this object to manipulate the foundation of the Blood Termination World, thereby restraining the Southern Region's Mount Fangcun.

But no matter how Lu Ye looked, he couldn't discern anything special about this long staff. It was only a few meters long, while the Blood Ancestor, being such a gigantic figure, would have a single strand of hair that was millions of times longer than this object. Did she really need something like this?

He couldn't help but speculate that this object might not be as simple as it appeared on the surface. Many treasures in this world have the ability to change size, perhaps this long staff could transform to match her colossal form.

Lu Ye finally understood why the Blood Race was throwing large quantities of Blood Food into the Blood Pool, because the blood Qi from the dead Blood Food could greatly reduce the resource consumption of the domain.

If the situation permitted, Lu Ye suspected that the Blood Termination World would certainly pull in large amounts of Blood Food from other domains. However, under current circumstances, blood Termination World certainly couldn't do such a thing.

Having understood everything, Lu Ye immediately prepared to take action.

Every delay increases the consumption of Mount Fangcun's foundation in the Southern Region, so ending this early is naturally preferable.

However, whether things would progress as he anticipated was still uncertain for Lu Ye; he could only take the plunge!

With a fleeting mental recapture, Lu Ye attempted to manipulate the Blood Termination World.

In an instant, just as what happened in the Blood Refinement World, the entire domain began to tremble. Mountains crumbled, rivers reversed their flow, and the weather changed color.

Within the domain, some people lost their footing and fell to the ground; even some flying Blood Race individuals couldn't control themselves, tumbling down.

The hundred-meter altar in the valley undulated violently, and the six Blood Race Sun Blaze gathered around had their faces changed simultaneously. One of them exclaimed, "What's going on?"

No one could provide an answer, as all other Sun Blaze had stern expressions, their Mental Consciousness surging, continuously reinforcing their connection with the ancestral artifact using their Blood Race bloodline and formidable strength.

Each Sun Blaze clearly felt that a formidable and intense force of resistance arose inexplicably within the domain. This resisting force seemed to hinder their manipulation of the domain's foundation, nearly nullifying their previous efforts.

Fortunately, this resisting force was gradually countered as their own power surged, and their link with the ancestral artifact deepened.

Lu Ye was feeling the pressure...

Manipulating an entire domain alone was extremely challenging. If there were no other factors, he could possibly activate the Blood Termination World. However, it was hard to say how long he could sustain it—maybe a few breaths, perhaps a dozen. It wouldn't be long, as the "weighty armor" of the Blood Termination World placed tremendous pressure on him.

However, the situation in the Blood Termination World was completely different from the Blood Refinement World. Here, there were six Sun Blaze activating the power of the ancestral artifact. This scenario equated to both sides treating the entire domain as a battlefield for grappling; whichever side exerted force fiercest would slightly gain control over the domain.

From Lu Ye's continuous exertion, the domain's turmoil became increasingly fierce, and the six Blood Race Sun Blaze dared not be careless, similarly maintaining their actions.

Suddenly, a Blood Race Sun Blaze exclaimed joyfully, "The power of the Ancestor is reviving!"

He evidently believed the opposing force came from the Blood Ancestor...

It's not his fault for misunderstanding; under such circumstances, anyone would likely make a similar inference.

And fundamentally, his inference wasn't wrong, because the force that Lu Ye manipulated in the domain indeed originated from the Blood Ancestor, brought about after refining the Blood Race Treasure Blood.

Usually, this would certainly make the entire Blood Race rejoice, as the revival of ancestral power could undoubtedly bring greater benefits to the whole race. But now wasn't the time; they were currently manipulating the domain's foundation, intending to seize Mount Fangcun. At such a time, the sudden revival of ancestral power competing for control over the Blood Termination World brought a strange feeling, as if their ancestor jumped out of the coffin and stabbed them in the back.

So after their initial joy, the Sun Blaze felt frustrated; they now had only two choices: giving up the control over the domain and allowing the ancestral power to continue reviving, potentially bringing mysterious changes to the entire domain. However, in so doing, Mount Fangcun would certainly escape.

The other option was to oppose the revival of ancestral power and secure Mount Fangcun first.

After a brief hesitation, the Sun Blaze reached a consensus—capture Mount Fangcun first!

This opportunity, missed, wouldn't come again; in comparison, the ancestral power, since it showed signs of revival, wouldn't be a one-time occurrence as there would be other opportunities later.

Consequently, Lu Ye's perceived pressure increased, the most evident sign being the domain's turmoil gradually settling down.

Realizing this, Lu Ye decisively abandoned the manipulation of the domain.

This method wouldn't work; he was alone and only had the Moon Jade Mid-Stage cultivation. On the opposite side were six Sun Blaze, alongside the borrowed power of the ancestral artifact, it wasn't a fair fight.

But he couldn't find help for such a matter; he had to solve it himself.

Lu Ye felt a bit troubled.

Suddenly, a spirit light flashed in his mind...

Previously, when in the Blood Refinement World, he wondered if he had enough Treasure Blood Avatars, would he be able to manipulate the Blood Refinement World. Because exerting force from one point differed greatly in difficulty compared to exerting force simultaneously from multiple points. He had this thought but didn't proceed because even if he achieved it, it wouldn't have practical significance at that time.

Perhaps... it's time to test if my idea is correct.

With this thought, Lu Ye immediately conjured his own Treasure Blood Avatars.

In the blink of an eye, seven Treasure Blood Avatars swirled around him, quickly dispersing, heading towards potential nodes along the underground Blood River.

Before refining the Blood Ancestor's treasure blood, Lu Ye's limit for reserve treasure blood was five drops. Beyond five drops, no matter how he concentrated, he couldn't produce more treasure blood.

But after refining the Blood Ancestor's treasure blood, this limit increased to nine drops. Lu Ye was unsure why this change occurred, only feeling it might be related to the changes in his saintliness.

Having used two drops of treasure blood before, only seven remained.

However, simultaneously managing seven avatars, along with his main body and the Talent Tree Avatar, put a great strain on Lu Ye's mind. Unlike before, when he could perfectly coordinate with his Five Dao Treasure Blood Avatars, coordinating with nine avatars now was less harmonious, as each one required split attention to control.

This situation was temporarily unchangeable for Lu Ye, likely only improving once he advanced to Sun Blaze.

Though unable to achieve perfect control while maneuvering so many Treasure Blood Avatars, it wasn't a significant issue now since he was merely securing suitable positions, not out to confront anyone.

With the passage of time, one by one, the Treasure Blood Avatars gradually found suitable locations and settled down.

After several days, all seven Treasure Blood Avatars were properly positioned.

In the Southern Region, at Mount Fangcun, in the council hall, eight Sun Blaze gathered, and Lu Ye's Talent Tree Avatar sat beside Su Yuqing.

The hall was silent, all the Sun Blaze waiting.

After Lu Ye's main body left earlier, Su Yuqing gathered many Sun Blaze with his Talent Tree Avatar and informed them of Lu Ye's plan. The Sun Blaze all knew that the fate of Mount Fangcun's break through the siege rested on the success of Lu Ye's progress.

However, what worried the Sun Blaze was that since a few days ago, the avatar left by Lu Ye suddenly appeared somewhat dull, lacking its previous liveliness.

At this moment, it seemed even more absent-minded.

Su Yuqing couldn't help feeling worried and asked softly, "Is everything alright?"

After a full three breaths, the Talent Tree Avatar responded, "I'm fine, too many avatars causing too much mental strain, making it hard to manage."

Su Yuqing couldn't understand how many avatars Lu Ye had split out for such a strange situation to occur.

Regaining its previous vivacity, the avatar looked at the Sun Blaze and said, "Senior Brothers, I'm ready here, about to take action. The exact outcome is unpredictable, but whether we break through the siege depends on this attempt, so I ask the Senior Brothers to prepare!"

Yuk Qinglou nodded, "Junior Brother, proceed boldly. We will fully cooperate!"

As he finished speaking, eight figures dashed out of the hall, rushing beyond the domain. The so-called cooperation was that when Lu Ye acted, the eight Sun Blaze would storm into the Blood Termination World.

In this way, whether Lu Ye could seize control of the Blood Termination World or not, the eight Sun Blaze would create an upheaval. Even at a cost, they had to ensure Mount Fangcun escaped the siege.

Inside the hall, the Talent Tree Avatar closed its eyes.

In the Blood Termination World, within the underground Blood River, Lu Ye, along with his seven Treasure Blood Avatars, struck simultaneously. In an instant, the heavens upheaved!

At the altar, the faces of the six Blood Race Sun Blaze changed again. Someone exclaimed, "The Ancestor's power is reviving again; quickly suppress it!"

There had been a similar occurrence days before. They had been caught off guard back then but managed to suppress the resurrecting power with joint efforts.

They didn't expect that in just a few days, the Ancestor's power would show signs of revival again.

The six Blood Race Sun Blaze, while startled, remained composed, having the experience from before. This time, they handled it much more skillfully.

However, what they could never have anticipated was the degree of the Ancestor's power revival this time, which was several times more intense than the last!

In just a few short breaths of struggle, the Sun Blaze realized one thing—they couldn't suppress that formidable resurrecting power, not even with the might of the ancestral artifact.

"How could this be?" The Sun Blaze who spoke earlier had a look of disbelief.

As his words fell, the turbulence within the Blood Termination World intensified.

Beside him, one of the Sun Blaze exclaimed, "Six Finger Mountain is collapsing!"

The other Sun Blaze turned to the source of the voice, witnessing an unforgettable sight. The Six Finger Summit, which had stood in the domain for countless millennia, was rapidly collapsing, massive rocks tumbling down.

Chapter 1835 - A Glimpse Into the Realm

Throughout the entire Blood Termination World, Six Finger Mountain is the most distinctive landmark.

No matter where they return from in the stellar space, as long as the Blood Race can see Six Finger Mountain from afar, they know they're almost home.

It is also a natural barrier for the domain.

Many years ago, a natural disaster swept through the domain. A vast meteor shower, from an unknown origin, swept through the stellar space, and the Blood Termination World lay right under its path. Six Finger Mountain, this natural barrier, intercepted all the meteorites heading for the domain. In a catastrophe that should have ravaged any domain severely, the Blood Termination World miraculously suffered no damage.

To the Blood Race of the Blood Termination World, Six Finger Mountain is not just an oddly shaped landmark, but more like a totem.

Yet now, this totem shows signs of collapsing. The already unstable domain has become more tumultuous with the collapse of Six Finger Mountain.

Deep chasms appear throughout the Blood Termination World, and many unsuspecting Blood Race members scream as they tumble into them. In a matter of mere breaths, countless forms of life wither within the domain.

The entire world is a scene of impending doom.

The Blood Race under the Constellation is gripped by utter panic; they do not know exactly what has happened, only that death is constantly appearing around them.

At this moment, six Blood Race Sun Blaze are in a scramble. In the valley where they are positioned, at the junction of the hand and the arm, countless large and small rocks are crashing down as Six Finger Mountain crumbles. They do not dare to dodge because they are exerting the full might of the ancestral artifact, and any movement might render their prior efforts futile.

Forced by circumstances, they can only keep striking to fling away the falling debris, but such actions only address the symptoms, not the root cause.

"Six Finger Mountain has fallen!" One of the Sun Blaze, sneaking a glance at Six Finger Mountain amidst the chaos, couldn't help but cry out.

The other Sun Blaze quickly looked up upon hearing this, witnessing the astounding scene of the six finger-shaped peaks visibly tilting forward. By visual speed alone, the collapse does not seem fast, but one must understand that the collapse of such a colossal entity brings with it an extremely terrifying momentum.

The Sun Blaze cannot comprehend why this is happening.

They live in the Blood Termination World and are descendants of the Blood Ancestor. Naturally, they know that the Blood Termination World was formed from the remains of the Blood Ancestor. It can be said that the entire world is layers of dense stones surrounding the Blood Ancestor's severed arm.

The Six Finger Mountain is the Blood Ancestor's hand.

In theory, even if Six Finger Mountain truly collapses, it should only be the outer stones falling apart, and the inner core should remain unaffected, as it is the remains of the Blood Ancestor, incredibly solid. Yet this time, not only the outer stones but the core is also collapsing!

Accompanying the collapse of Six Finger Mountain, the entire domain undergoes another transformation. Now it's truly heaven and earth turning upside down. In an instant, the landscape within the domain changes drastically, as the front half of the domain suddenly lifts!

The change's shock is so immense that the Sun Blaze can no longer maintain their stances, leaping up swiftly. Their Mental Consciousness senses, as their eyes are filled with distress, for at this moment the Blood Termination World seems like a purgatory; death and blood are everywhere. Countless of their race are already dead, especially those under the Constellations, with nearly half perished, and the remaining fleeing in panic, not knowing where to run.

Rumbling noises sound in every corner, striking the hearts of the Blood Race cultivators like muffled thunder.

This tremor lasts for dozens of breaths before it gradually stops, calming the domain's anomalies at this moment.

The few Blood Race Sun Blaze are deeply shocked because, at this moment, the domain they've lived in for countless years has undergone a significant change in form.

The original Blood Termination World, when viewed from the stellar space, resembled a slightly bent arm, with the palm facing forward, the hand extended flat.

But now it's different; the arm forms a right-angle bend. The once flat hand has become a clenched fist, raised high, pointing towards the stellar space, as if ready to strike the immense danger within the Mingming.

The scene they previously watched of Six Finger Mountain collapsing was undoubtedly the process of the hand turning into a fist...

The entire domain seems to come alive. Such a radical change has an enormous impact on the creatures within the domain, as one can imagine.

"The power of the Ancestor... has truly resurrected!" A Sun Blaze murmurs, even though it is within the Blood Race philosophy that the Ancestor will one day be reborn. Watching this happen right before their eyes is still somewhat unbelievable.

"It is not the right time for resurrection!" Another Sun Blaze clenches their heart in pain, unable to comprehend why the Ancestor's power resurrects now and not sooner or later. At any other time, such a resurrection would have the entire Blood Race in celebration, except not now.

"Where is Mount Fangcun?" The third Blood Race Sun Blaze snaps awake.

They had been working together to activate the ancestral artifact's power to restrict Mount Fangcun's movement. Now, with the upheaval in the domain, the power of the ancestral artifact was interrupted, and the force limiting Mount Fangcun's movement naturally ceased to exist.

When the Sun Blaze finished speaking, the eyes of the Blood Race were drawn to an object—it was a meteorite, not large, resembling a fake mountain, breaking through the domain's blockade and heading straight towards a location in the Blood Termination World.

"Not good!" Several Sun Blazes turned pale simultaneously. They initially thought that after Mount Fangcun shook off the restraints of the ancestral artifact's power, it would quickly escape, as the opportunity was rare. Missing it would result in them having to activate the ancestral artifact's power again, leading to a stalemate situation.

No one expected Mount Fangcun had no intention of leaving but instead directly collided.

If it were just this small fake mountain meteorite colliding with the domain, it wouldn't be a big deal—it wouldn't have a significant impact on the Blood Termination World. But this is not merely a fake mountain meteorite; it's Mount Fangcun, it's an entire domain!

With a loud boom, the sound was so fierce that even the Sun Blazes had never heard anything like it. In the next instant, a commotion more terrifying than when the ancestral power was first resurrected erupted from the collision point.

At the collision point, within tens of thousands of miles, not a blade of grass grew, and all living beings perished. The terrifying impact spread, causing more casualties; many Blood Race members who had survived the upheaval earlier didn't escape this disaster, turning to dust without even having time to react.

From stellar space, one could see the entire Blood Termination World being knocked off its original position at that moment.

A Sun Blaze couldn't help but cry out in sorrow, "Ancestor, why abandon your children!"

The upheaval in the domain today was all caused by the resurrection of the ancestor's power, which should have been a joyous event for the Blood Race, but due to the wrong timing, it turned into a disaster.

"Enemy attack!" A furious shout rang out as the Sun Blaze's aura suddenly descended—led by Yuk Qinglou, eight Sun Blazes of the Dwarf Race stormed into the Blood Termination World.

They had received instructions from Lu Ye's Talent Tree Avatar earlier and had made preparations before leaving Mount Fangcun. The changes in the Blood Termination World were clearly visible to them from afar.

Originally, their most basic goal was to harass the Blood Race Sun Blazes while Lu Ye exerted his strength, thereby allowing Mount Fangcun to escape the clutches of the Blood Termination World and flee.

Things went too smoothly, so the Dwarf Race wasn't in a hurry to leave... Since the Blood Race was so hospitable, they entered the domain for a look!

The Talent Tree Avatar of Lu Ye even slightly controlled Mount Fangcun's movements, altering some of its trajectory; otherwise, it wouldn't have been so easy for Mount Fangcun to directly collide with the Blood Termination World.

Taking advantage of the chaos in the Blood Termination World, the eight Sun Blazes of the Dwarf Race descended with murderous intent!

And it wasn't just that—the upheaval in the domain continued—within Mount Fangcun, which collided with the Blood Termination World, silhouettes charged out.

It was the cultivator army of the Dwarf Race!

War broke out completely, but unlike the situation when the Blood Race invaded Mount Fangcun, the roles of attack and defense were reversed—the Blood Race became the passive side.

At this moment, within the Blood Termination World, in the underground Blood River, Lu Ye sat steadily, his Mind Consciousness radiating throughout the domain, eyes closed, yet a look of joy on his face.

He was like a child who had received a new toy, feeling extremely novel at this moment.

The true self, along with the seven Treasure Blood Avatars, indeed dissolved the restraints brought by the Blood Race Sun Blazes with the ancestral artifact, successfully maneuvering the Blood Termination World, which became much easier once the Blood Race Sun Blazes stopped activating the ancestral artifact's power.

Put simply, maneuvering the Blood Termination World was like piloting a special magic treasure, and this magic treasure was an arm of the Blood Ancestor. He could control the arm to clench into a fist or control it to bend and stretch, although there was some sense of separation, not so smooth as to do it with ease.

But even such simple piloting and controls brought about a catastrophic disaster to all living beings within the domain.

Lu Ye even had a feeling that he could really wield the entire domain as if it were an arm, and if some colossal beast in stellar space were to attack, he could definitely use this to fight against it.

There's too much to attempt and understand, but presently, there's no time for that.

The great war has erupted; the Dwarf Race has an absolute advantage. Below the Sun Blaze level, due to the previous upheaval, numerous Blood Race members have perished, even some Constellations were injured. The Dwarf Race has released its elites, and the Blood Race is utterly confused, most lacking the power to resist, and the few who can resist are rapidly being surrounded and annihilated.

At the Sun Blaze battlefield, eight against six, the advantage lay with the Dwarf Race. Still, killing the Blood Race Sun Blazes wasn't easy; amidst the Blood Sea, the Blood Race Sun Blazes' figures appeared and disappeared, making it difficult for the Dwarf Race Sun Blazes to accurately target them. Recklessly charging in was unwise, so they could only engage in skirmishes, patiently seeking opportunities.

Chapter 1836 - The Strongest Support

As the battle of Sun Blaze raged on, Lu Ye silently locked his mind onto a Blood Race Sun Blaze, attempting to use the Blood Termination World's reserves to suppress it, just as he had once suppressed an Insect Race Sun Blaze within the Core World. If he could achieve this, all six Blood Race Sun Blazes would meet their end here.

But he quickly realized he was overthinking it...

He was able to draw upon the reserves of the Core World to suppress the Insect Race Sun Blaze because he had refined the core origin at that time.

But now it's different; even though he could mobilize the entire domain through the power of the Blood Ancestor's treasure blood, it was impossible to precisely control the reserves of the Blood Termination World to suppress the Blood Race Sun Blaze. Unless he also refined the origin of the Blood Termination World.

The Blood Termination World certainly has an origin, but not all domain origins can be refined. Some domain origins are scattered throughout every corner of the domain, becoming one with it and cannot be refined.

Only something like the previous core origin has the potential to be refined.

From this perspective, the origin of the Nine Provinces could also be refined, though Lu Ye never considered this because refining the origin of Nine Provinces would be akin to refining Number Nine...

Unable to leverage the reserves of the Blood Termination World to suppress the formidable enemy, Lu Ye had to take action himself.

Having halted at the South Mount Fangcun point within the Blood Termination World from the collision, the Talent Tree Avatar suddenly flashed, and with a surge of mana, the patterns underfoot were traced and fitted together. In the blink of an eye, a Void Spirit Rune was formed.

In those runes, ripples surged as Lu Ye took a step forward.

Retrieving the Talent Tree Avatar with a raise of his hand, Lu Ye lifted his gaze towards the nearest Sun Blaze battlefield. On that side, a turbulent Blood Sea roared, concealing a Blood Race Sun Blaze.

Contesting it was none other than Chen Xuanhai from the Eastern Region. At this very moment, he wielded a talisman sword, flitting and leaping, launching waves of Sword Qi at the enormous Blood Sea.

The Blood Sea relentlessly pursued, attempting to engulf Chen Xuanhai, but he evaded it time and again. Of course, he understood that battling the Blood Race required caution, and recklessly entering the opponent's Blood Sea was perilous.

Currently, with the advantage on their side, Chen Xuanhai was in no hurry. He only needed to prolong the fight until the opponent grew anxious for an opportunity, at which point they would inevitably expose a flaw.

Just at that moment, Chen Xuanhai's expression shifted. Dodging another attack, he turned toward a specific direction, where an inconspicuous weapon control suddenly flew towards him.

Chen Xuanhai snatched the weapon control into his grasp!

"Got you!" the Blood Race Sun Blaze shouted fiercely, as the Blood Sea suddenly swelled, and in an instant, the unprepared Chen Xuanhai was enveloped within it.

Ecstatic with having seized the opportunity, the Blood Race Sun Blaze had never anticipated such a swift turn of events. Just as he was about to launch an attack on Chen Xuanhai, he suddenly sensed a surge of Mana from a Moon Jade Mid-Stage within the Blood Sea.

This left him puzzled, unsure of the situation. Extending his mind, he quickly located the source of the mana surge.

Surprisingly, it was the dirk weapon control grasped in Chen Xuanhai's hand...

Despite recognizing the trap, the Blood Race Sun Blaze didn't take it too seriously. After all, even with a trap, the Mana surge of a Moon Jade Mid-Stage couldn't pose much of a threat to him.

Utilizing the concealment of the Blood Sea, the Sun Blaze effortlessly closed in behind Chen Xuanhai, his long, blood-red nails glinting coldly. He raised them high, poised to unleash a lethal strike.

Just then, he abruptly noticed a flash on the weapon control in Chen Xuanhai's hand, revealing a mysterious spirit rune. Soon after, a figure appeared out of nowhere.

It was a young human, whose mana fluctuations matched precisely with those on the weapon control, confirming that he was its owner.

The Blood Race Sun Blaze was baffled by how the opponent managed to get there, as he didn't detect any sign of the Blood Sea being breached, and yet this Moon Jade Mid-Stage had appeared so bizarrely.

Quietly speculating that the opponent might have mastered some exquisite transposition technique... but what of it? Daring to trespass into his Blood Sea was a sure path to death.

With this thought, he struck without mercy.

Lu Ye suddenly lifted his head, gazing intently at the position of the Blood Race Sun Blaze.

Their eyes met, and Lu Ye's pupils abruptly turned blood-red, with countless intricate and exquisite lines merging and interlinking, forming an exceedingly complex and mysterious pattern upon his irises.

"Ah!" the Blood Race Sun Blaze cried out in shock. In an instant, the Moon Jade Mid-Stage figure nearby soared, transforming into a towering giant overlooking him. He could even feel an inherent oppression from those blood-red pupils, filling him with terror and unease. In that instant, all the blood within him seemed to halt its flow.

His attacking momentum abruptly faltered.

The next moment brought an even more inscrutable occurrence to the Blood Race Sun Blaze. The Moon Jade Mid-Stage suddenly erupted with terrifying and intense saintliness. Under such natural suppression, his mana became significantly sluggish, his aura diminished, and his attack, already weakened by the Blood Eye's impact, suddenly became feeble and powerless.

Chen Xuanhai also turned at that moment, his talisman sword seeming to fall lightly yet unleashing the full force of his strength.

He couldn't help but frown, for with this strike, it felt as though he wasn't slashing at a Sun Blaze, with the opponent's defenses proving weak and brittle aside from their physical resilience, effortlessly broken through by him.

This sword directly sliced the opponent's body into two halves.

The Blood Race Sun Blaze stared wide-eyed, not knowing how he died until the end, merely gazing at Lu Ye in horror, opening his mouth as if wanting to say something, but Chen Xuanhai would not give him the chance; with a rise of his talisman sword, he dismembered him as effortlessly as cutting through tofu.

The aura of Sun Blaze was obliterated, and the vast Blood Sea crumbled, turning into a bloody rain falling down.

"Well done!" praised Chen Xuanhai, grabbing Lu Ye's arm and dashing towards the next battlefield.

He knew clearly that the ease of slaying an enemy Sun Blaze wasn't because he had gotten stronger, but because the enemy had weakened, all due to Lu Ye's methods.

For the Blood Race, their bloodline is truly both their blessing and curse. Chen Xuanhai could almost foresee the miserable future the Blood Race would endure in the stellar space with an anomaly like Lu Ye around. Any Blood Race unfortunate enough to encounter him was doomed to a grim fate.

At this moment, Lu Ye was reflecting on the moments just passed.

Utilizing the Blood Eye Spirit Runes on the Blood Race Sun Blaze was a spur-of-the-moment decision, as he wanted to see if these runes had any special effects against the Blood Race, given their origin from the Blood Ancestor.

To his surprise, it turned out to be unexpectedly effective.

Based on his prior understanding, the function of the Blood Eye Spirit Runes was a sort of intangible psyche attack, which strictly speaking, was a kind of divine runes.

Its purpose was to cause illusions when striking an enemy's psyche, thereby affecting the enemy's decisions during combat – a means of auxiliary engagement in struggle.

Logically speaking, using Blood Eye Spirit Runes on a Sun Blaze should yield no effect because the opponent's Divine Soul Power far exceeded his, and their sheer spiritual defenses should be enough to negate the effects of Blood Eye Spirit Runes.

Yet the aforementioned Blood Race Sun Blaze was visibly affected, although not drastically, still enough to be fatal.

This likely stems from the fact that the Blood Eye Spirit Runes originate from the Blood Ancestor, and since the Blood Race are descendants of the Blood Ancestor, the powers from the Blood Ancestor exhibited on them have a certain degree of extraordinary effectiveness.

Maybe he could find Xiang Yin and her sister to experiment later; being original Blood Race and his Blood Servants, the feedback from them would no doubt be more specific.

As these thoughts flashed across his mind, Chen Xuanhai had already led him to the second Sun Blaze battlefield, where Weng Xiong from the Western Region was battling a Blood Race Sun Blaze.

When Chen Xuanhai and Lu Ye arrived, Weng Xiong was already engaged in direct combat within the Blood Sea, embroiled in a fierce battle with the Blood Race, clearly at a disadvantage but with surging momentum.

Sensing Chen Xuanhai's arrival, the Blood Race Sun Blaze panicked. In a one-on-one, with the power of the Blood Sea, he could gain the upper hand, but in a two-on-one, his confidence waned. He hoped to shake off Weng Xiong, but the latter refused to let him go, entangling him tenaciously.

Once Chen Xuanhai joined in, the Blood Race Sun Blaze immediately fell into a disadvantage; the dense Blood Sea churned, blood Qi evaporating.

Lu Ye seized an opportunity, invoking his saintliness, causing the Blood Race Sun Blaze to cry out in shock, finally understanding how his companion had perished.

He also realized why their side sustained such heavy casualties during the previous invasion of Mount Fangcun.

An enemy harboring such a terrifying saintliness had remained hidden right amidst them, unbeknownst to the Blood Race – how utterly ironic!

The second Blood Race Sun Blaze soon met his demise...

The Blood Sea collapsed, revealing the figures of Chen Xuanhai, Weng Xiong, and Lu Ye.

Lu Ye turned to look around but could no longer see any trace of Blood Race Sun Blaze, nor even of the Dwarf Race's Sun Blaze.

He understood that the Blood Race Sun Blaze must have fled and that the Dwarf Race was likely in pursuit.

It was only reasonable, with two of the six Blood Race Sun Blaze already dead, and with the remaining alive ones seeing their companions die so inexplicably and suddenly.

They could easily infer that the Dwarf Race possessed a method capable of quickly eliminating their Sun Blaze.

The dread of unknown dangers and a survival instinct dictated that the four remaining Sun Blaze couldn't possibly wait around to die. They hadn't fled earlier because this domain was where they had been nurtured. As long as there was a sliver of hope, they wouldn't flee.

But now, they had no choice but to run. Staying meant they'd follow their companions' tragic fate, and only a fool would stay put to await death.

"Run? Not a single one should think of escaping!" Weng Xiong said indignantly, rushing off in one direction to ensure he missed not one Blood Race member.

Chen Xuanhai swiftly scanned his Mental Consciousness and took off with Lu Ye in another direction to pursue.

Lu Ye did not try to stop him, though he felt the chances of catching them were slim, for the Blood Race were exceptionally skilled at escaping, especially the Sun Blaze Blood Race. With a single-minded focus on fleeing during an early stage, the Dwarf Race had very few methods to counter this.

Chapter 1837 - A Whimsical Idea

As expected, Chen Xuanhai's pursuit yielded no results. He also seemed aware that continuing the chase would be a waste of time, so he brought Lu Ye back to the Blood Termination World.

In the clash at the Sun Blaze level, the Blood Race suffered a great defeat. Out of six Sun Blaze, two were killed and four fled. Counting the three previously killed in the Southern Region at Mount Fangcun, six out of nine Sun Blaze in the Blood Termination World perished in just a few days.

This is an unimaginable achievement, rarely seen before. Clashes among Sun Blaze rarely result in casualties, let alone such significant losses.

Within the Blood Termination World, the fires of war were raging.

The Blood Race Sun Blaze were either dead or fled. The remaining Blood Race no longer had any morale or fighting spirit. Those quick to react had already escaped the domain, while the slower ones were left to be killed.

As the Dwarf Race Sun Blaze gradually returned, the cleansing operations against the Blood Race in the Blood Termination World became even more thorough. A large number of Blood Race were killed, and in just a few days, hardly any Blood Race could be seen surviving in the entire domain. Moreover, the flames of war started to spread throughout the entire Blood Termination Galaxy.

The Blood Termination Galaxy is a rich star system with numerous large and small domains, which have been under the bloody rule of the Blood Termination World, suffering the oppression and bullying of the Blood Race. The creatures in these domains could be regarded as Blood Food reared by the Blood Race, living a miserable existence.

Now that the Blood Termination World has been broken, although the Dwarf Race cannot achieve total annihilation, they will not spare any Blood Race living in other domains.

The Sun Blaze moved in pairs, swiftly traversing the stellar space. Whenever they encountered the Blood Race in any domain, they killed them.

The Dwarf Race has a generational vendetta against the Blood Race. The division of Mount Fangcun was orchestrated by the Blood Ancestor, a fact recorded in the Xiyuan Pavilion and remembered by the Dwarf Race for generations.

Unfortunately, with the division of Mount Fangcun, the Dwarf Race also fragmented. Coupled with the unique drifting way of each Mount Fangcun, there had been no opportunity for revenge all these years.

This annihilation of the Blood Termination World can be said to be a thrilling slaughter, venting long-held resentment.

Throughout the Southern Region's Mount Fangcun, many Dwarf Race cheered and rejoiced, feeling that their Sun Blaze were unmatched in grandeur, and that the Blood Race Sun Blaze were nothing compared.

Only a few knew that the fundamental reason for their decisive victory wasn't the Dwarf Race itself, but was due to Lu Ye, the human cultivator.

At this moment, at the original site of the altar beneath Six Finger Mountain, Lu Ye was seated cross-legged at a high point, a copper-green long rafter several meters long across his lap, his eyes closed in concentration.

This object is an ancestral artifact of the Blood Race. According to Lu Ye's understanding, it should be something left by the Blood Ancestor, which is why the Blood Race can use it to manipulate the power of the domain.

Earlier, under his control, Six Finger Mountain transformed from a palm to a fist, causing rockslides that buried the altar, along with the ancestral artifact deep underground.

He painstakingly dug it out.

He wanted to investigate what mysteries this object held, capable of allowing several Blood Race Sun Blaze, who were not World Lords, to collectively manipulate domain power.

Strangely, no matter how he examined it, he couldn't discern anything special about this rafter—it seemed like an ordinary item passed down from ancient times, without any sign of power.

Yet, Lu Ye was somehow able to use this rafter to strengthen his connection with the entire Blood Termination World. In other words, he could use it to manipulate the domain as the Blood Race Sun Blaze did.

Perhaps because he refined the Blood Ancestor's treasure blood, he could do it even better and more easily than the Blood Race Sun Blaze.

Previously, he had to penetrate certain specific locations in the underground Blood River of the Blood Termination World, with his true self accompanied by the 7th Dao Treasure Blood Avatar, to manipulate the domain. Now, with the rafter in hand, he could achieve the same results.

If the previous method was like draping the entire Blood Termination World over himself like a suit of cover armor, then using the ancestral artifact to manipulate the domain was like turning the Blood Termination World into a puppet controlled by strings.

The method of manipulation was different, but the result was the same.

Presumably, those Blood Race Sun Blaze acted similarly, using the power of the ancestral artifact to turn the Blood Termination World into their puppet. Lu Ye vividly recalled how, under the impulsion of these Sun Blaze, Six Finger Mountain trembled slightly and launched a giant Blood Handprint toward the stellar space. That single attack left the Dwarf Race's eight Sun Blaze wounded and retreating in disarray.

The power of that strike was terrifying to the extreme.

He could now achieve the same feat. Lu Ye's heart burned with excitement. Though the Blood Termination World was a domain, with his current means, he could use it as a massive killing weapon.

If he could shrink the Blood Termination World and carry it with him, why would he fear any Sun Blaze?

He vividly remembered facing the terrible pressure of Yuan Du at the All Phenomena Ocean. The road of cultivation is long and arduous, and until he possesses strong enough power, many external forces are indispensable.

Unfortunately, he could only dream of this. The Blood Termination World is a domain, and not a small one. It is not a magic treasure, so Lu Ye cannot carry it with him at all times.

In his imagination, Lu Ye suddenly had a spirit light flash: if he could somehow bring the Blood Termination World back to the Nine Provinces... would that not be beneficial?

Though the Nine Provinces already have Mount Fangcun as a support and backing, providing basic security, who would mind having more means of self-preservation?

If the Blood Termination World could indeed be brought back to the Nine Provinces, it would undoubtedly add another powerful means of self-defense to its arsenal.

Additionally, the Blood Refinement World is over there; the Blood Termination World and Blood Refinement World are part of the same lineage, both being part of the Blood Ancestor's body... Lu Ye previously tried to mobilize the Blood Refinement World in vain. The reason he didn't continue to attempt further was firstly because he felt it was too much of a stretch with his current ability, and secondly, he thought even if he succeeded, it would be meaningless. The entire Blood Refinement World is just a torso without a head and limbs. Even if he could mobilize it, what could he do?

However, if he managed to bring the Blood Termination World back, then that enormous torso would at least have an arm it could swing. Imagine, the Blood Refinement World's torso swinging the arm of the Blood Termination World—what a grand scene that would be!

Who could resist such a terrifying offensive?

Of course, if he truly wished to accomplish this, his cultivation level must greatly improve, otherwise, it would be impossible. Yet, cultivation is something that can slowly be accumulated through practice; if he misses this opportunity, it will be difficult to encounter again.

Once this thought arises, it can no longer be suppressed.

He wants to bring the Blood Termination World back to the Nine Provinces!

Achieving this is very difficult; the migration of a domain is not just idle talk, but it's not without hope.

In the coming period, Lu Ye has been constantly busy with this matter.

A month after Mount Fangcun from the Southern Region hit the Blood Termination World, the Sun Blaze cultivators returning from exterminating the Blood Race gradually came back. In these recent times, they traveled across various star systems and traversed countless domains, exterminating all Blood Race they could find completely.

In those many domains, the beings of various races who had been oppressed by the Blood Race for countless years, without exception, worshipped them with utmost reverence, overwhelmed with gratitude.

Inside the Blood Termination World, in a short-stay palace originally belonging to some Blood Race Sun Blaze, eight Sun Blaze of the Dwarf Race gathered.

Due to a great war, the palace was affected, but fortunately, it wasn't completely collapsed, just barely usable.

They each recounted the results of their month's campaign, and after a while, Yuk Qinglou sighed, "Cutting the weed without removing the root, what we do today cannot resolve the problem fundamentally."

Though the Blood Race suffered heavy casualties during this time, four Blood Race Sun Blazes still escaped alive, along with some Moon Jade and Constellations.

They must be hiding now or have fled this star system, which is why the Sun Blaze of the Dwarf Race haven't found any traces of them.

In the short term, they surely wouldn't dare return, but the Dwarf Race can't stay here forever; they must eventually continue their journey, which the Blood Race also knows.

Once the Dwarf Race departs, the Blood Race Sun Blazes and other Moon Jade and Constellations would return, and many domains saved by them today would inevitably fall back into the Blood Race's clutches.

"There's no helping it," Zhang Kun sighed, "We can't take all the beings across so many domains with us, nor can we stay. Reaching this level, our race has already been as benevolent as possible."

Everyone remained silent, although they knew the future would inevitably be as they feared, it was still difficult to accept. During their extermination of the Blood Race, they personally witnessed the tragic lives of many beings, some races oppressed so severely they were practically treated like livestock.

"There is a way!" A voice suddenly sounded from outside the hall, and everyone knew without looking who had arrived.

Lu Ye stepped inside, and Weng Xiong immediately greeted him warmly, "Junior Brother Lu!"

"Junior Brother."

"Junior Brother Lu."

Greeting voices rose one after another; looking across the whole stellar space, there's likely only Lu Ye who can make so many Sun Blaze welcome him with such enthusiasm.

"Greetings to all Senior Brothers and Sisters." Lu Ye bowed towards all sides.

Upon raising his eyes, he saw Su Yuqing beckoning him, indicating to sit over there, so Lu Ye walked over and sat down beside Su Yuqing.

"What have you been busy with lately? Xiang Yin said even your shadow couldn't be seen," Su Yuqing asked. She had sought him a little upon returning, but couldn't find him. When she asked Xiang Yin and her sister, they too said they didn't know.

If Lu Ye hadn't voluntarily shown up at this moment, Su Yuqing honestly wouldn't know where to find him.

"Busy with a big matter!" Lu Ye replied mysteriously.

All the Sun Blaze became interested, and Yuk Qinglou asked, "Does what you mentioned relate to what you just discussed?"

"Exactly!" Lu Ye nodded.

Chen Xuanhai raised a brow, "Does Junior Brother have a way to fundamentally resolve the issues this star system will face in the future?"

It's undeniable that Lu Ye has unique advantages in dealing with the Blood Race, but eliminating enemies is one thing, handling the aftermath is another. Even a gathering of Sun Blaze here has no solution, yet Lu Ye seems quite confident?

Chapter 1838 - 1836: Sweep Them All Up

In the great hall of the short-stay palace, the Sun Blazes looked at Lu Ye with great interest.

Since Lu Ye dared to say this, he must be confident, which made the Sun Blazes full of anticipation. If there really was a way to fundamentally solve the problem, it would relieve a burden from their minds.

As for whether it can be done... the core of Mount Fangcun has been retrieved; he has long proven his extraordinary ability.

Lu Ye didn't beat around the bush and said directly, "It's simple, we can't take the beings of so many domains with us, but we only need to take the entire Blood Termination World."

With one word, the great hall fell silent.

One must admit that Lu Ye's idea is very bold, something that their group of Sun Blazes never even considered.

But upon careful thought, it is indeed a method.

The Blood Termination World is the foundation for the Blood Race's survival in this star system. Over countless years, why hasn't anyone come to eradicate the Blood Race? Simply because of the existence of the Blood Termination World, where the Sun Blazes of the Blood Race can mobilize the power of the domain to resist external enemies. Previously, the Sun Blazes of the Dwarf Race suffered losses.

If this foundation is uprooted, the Blood Race would become like a tree without roots, water without a source. Even if they could survive in other domains, they would lose their best means of resisting external enemies.

By then, the Dwarf Race doesn't even need to do anything but simply leak some critical information, and naturally, forces with grudges against the Blood Race would come to trouble them.

The Blood Race would have no place to stand in this star system!

After a long pause, Yuk Qinglou spoke, "I know Junior Brother has the precedent of bringing back the core, but the Core World and the Blood Termination World are completely different. Are you confident in controlling the Blood Termination World, Junior Brother?"

Although the Core World is also a domain, it appears from the outside to be just a small artificial mountain. Lu Ye has refined the Origin of the core, so he can naturally control it like a starboat.

The Blood Termination World is different. It's such a large domain, and Lu Ye hasn't refined the Origin of this world, so he can't use the same trick.

Lu Ye replied, "I don't need to control this domain."

Not to mention that he couldn't do it, even if he could, bringing the Blood Termination World back to the Nine Provinces from this location would take many years, and he doesn't have time to do that.

Chen Xuanhai became curious, "If you don't control this domain, how will you take it away?"

Lu Ye immediately explained his plan, and the group of Sun Blazes listened, stunned.

One has to admit that this plan is somewhat whimsical, yet one cannot deny that the plan indeed has the feasibility for successful implementation.

Lu Ye came here mainly to expound on his plan to the Sun Blazes, as the implementation of this plan critically involves the Southern Region's Mount Fangcun, and the Sun Blazes have the right to know.

After listening to Lu Ye's explanation, Yuk Qinglou only pondered briefly before nodding, "Since Junior Brother has an idea, then go ahead and do it. If we can indeed save the living beings of this star system from the abyss of suffering, it is also our Dwarf Race's desire."

"Thank you, Senior Brother. I will go now," Lu Ye said, then flashed out of the great hall.

Simultaneously, the Treasure Blood Avatars, searching deep underground, also began to return.

During this time, the Treasure Blood Avatars of the 7th Dao have been searching underground, as Lu Ye was primarily trying to see if there was any remnant treasure blood of the Blood Ancestor in this domain.

In the Core World, there was a drop of the Blood Ancestor's treasure blood, which even developed a nascent spiritual intelligence. In the Blood Refinement World, there was also a drop, but it was suppressed by ancient imprisonment, and to this day, that drop of treasure blood is already very incomplete. Both drops of treasure blood have been refined by Lu Ye, enhancing his saintliness.

Thus, Lu Ye wanted to know if there was any in the Blood Termination World.

Unfortunately, after searching for a while, nothing was found. It seemed there was none.

Lu Ye wasn't disappointed; the greatest benefit of refining the Blood Ancestor's treasure blood was the enhancement of saintliness. Currently, his saintliness is already strong enough to overwhelm any Blood Race, so finding it would be great, but not finding it doesn't matter.

Once the Treasure Blood Avatars returned, Lu Ye condensed his Talent Tree Avatar, letting the Talent Tree Avatar enter the Southern Region's Mount Fangcun, replacing the main body to control the Southern Region.

Everything was ready, and only then did he truly begin to implement his plan.

He took out the long baton ancestral weapon, and his saintliness surged and boiled. Very soon, the domain hummed and shook.

Viewed from the stellar space, the Blood Termination World's form at this moment was still a raised forearm with a clenched fist, but as Lu Ye maneuvered it, the clenched fist slowly opened, and the raised arm straightened.

Simultaneously, the Southern Region's Mount Fangcun, which had collided and stayed within the Blood Termination World, also began to move under the control of the Talent Tree Avatar.

Because after colliding with the Blood Termination World, the Talent Tree Avatar immediately used the power of the World Lord to imprison the entire Southern Region's Mount Fangcun. So for a month, the Southern Region was unaffected by the core's pull, allowing it to stay in the Blood Termination World. Otherwise, under the core's pull, the Southern Region would have long since left.

Under the control of the main body and the Talent Tree Avatar, the two major domains each moved. Slowly, the Southern Region's Mount Fangcun moved to the open palm of the Blood Termination World and, after a fierce collision, embedded itself in the mid-mountain waist of Six Finger Mountain, which was the position of the palm's heart.

The open palm closed again, the gesture resembling a giant hand grasping a grain of sand.

After a brief inspection to ensure everything was correct, the Talent Tree Avatar stationed at Mount Fangcun in the Southern Region released the domain's imprisonment. Instantly, the core pulling force from the distant stellar space arrived, showing signs of the Southern Region's Mount Fangcun drifting towards the core's location.

However, because the entire Southern Region's Mount Fangcun was now embedded in the palm, its movement immediately prompted the movement of the Blood Termination World.

The speed was slow, but indeed, it was moving.

Feeling this change, Lu Ye raised his eyebrows. Although the situation was developing as he had deduced, he did not expect it to go so smoothly.

In his plan, relying solely on maneuvering the Blood Termination World to bring an entire domain back to the Nine Provinces was unrealistic; it was too time-consuming and labor-intensive.

The endpoint for the Southern Region's Mount Fangcun was the Nine Provinces, which was a great object to leverage, so it only needed the Blood Termination World to maintain the same movement direction as the Southern Region's Mount Fangcun.

Embedding the entire Southern Region's Mount Fangcun in the Blood Termination World ensures that the movement of Mount Fangcun drives the Blood Termination World.

It was equivalent to letting Mount Fangcun in the Southern Region take the Blood Termination World back, and when the Southern Region reached the Nine Provinces, the Blood Termination World would also arrive.

As time passed, the huge extended arm was moving faster and faster in the stellar space. During this period, there was also active assistance from Lu Ye; on the side of his true self, he could slightly mobilize the Blood Termination World using the ancestral artifact to increase its speed, while on the side of the Talent Tree Avatar, the Southern Region's Mount Fangcun could be freely maneuvered, making speeding up very simple.

When the speed reached an extremity, Lu Ye stopped.

The Sun Blazes watched the changes in the entire domain intently. Although they had already gleaned the full picture when Lu Ye explained the plan, seeing the plan actually executed still left them astonished.

Never had such a bizarre thing happened in the stellar space before.

Still in that short-stay palace hall, the Sun Blazes gathered together, differently from last time's helplessness, each person was beaming with joy; Lu Ye had removed the Blood Termination World, effectively destroying the foundation domain of the Blood Race, which only had a total of five foundation domains in the entire stellar space, and losing one was an unbearable pain for the entire Blood Race.

Ordinary warfare is just about killing, but Lu Ye's side had completely uprooted the enemy's domain.

This truly was a joyous turn of events, far more exciting than killing some Blood Race individuals before.

As a result, those escaping Blood Race cultivators would never again have the opportunity to occupy this Star System, and many domains in this Star System would be rescued.

As for the future whereabouts of those escaping Blood Race individuals, no need to think, the only places they could go were the other four locations where their foundation domains existed; this could be a long trek, fraught with obstacles, how many Blood Race individuals would safely arrive was uncertain.

"What a pity, there's no Blood Race foundation domain near my Western Region's route, otherwise it would have been delightful to vent our grievances." Zhang Kun lamented with a look of disappointment.

With the Dwarf Race's unique support model, and supplemented by Lu Ye's mysterious methods, if any Blood Race foundation domain was blocking the way of the Western Region's Mount Fangcun, it surely wouldn't meet a good end.

Hearing this, Lu Ye immediately showed a disappointed expression; he had initially wanted to inquire about this matter, now he wouldn't.

Yuk Qinglou said, "This matter is not urgent; after Mount Fangcun achieves unity, we can thoroughly discuss dealing with the Blood Race. This race should be removed from the stellar space!"

Although he spoke calmly, there was a chilling murderous intent, making all the Sun Blazes expectant. By then, Lu Ye could even maneuver the complete Mount Fangcun to visit Blood Race foundation domains one by one, thoroughly eradicating them.

Thus, not only would it avenge the racial vendetta, but it would also be clearing harm from stellar space. Surely by then, countless Star Systems' domains would be grateful to the Dwarf Race.

Lu Ye naturally did not reject this matter; the Nine Provinces already had a piece of the Blood Ancestor's remains, and when the Southern Region's Mount Fangcun arrived, there would be a second piece.

He also wanted to assemble all these remains together; if this could be accomplished, then he could maneuver the Blood Ancestor's body!

This thing, what cover armor could compare to it?

However, before that, there is one more matter to handle.

"Esteemed Senior Brothers of the Southern Region, as Mount Fangcun, carrying the Blood Termination World, advances towards the Nine Provinces, it might pose threats to a certain domain ahead, so I must ask the Senior Brothers of the Southern Region to carefully survey the route ahead. If there's any domain blocking the path, you need to inform me immediately."

Originally, Mount Fangcun moving through stellar space would hardly encounter such things, because the body of Mount Fangcun was very small, some larger meteors were bigger than Mount Fangcun, so generally speaking, there wouldn't be incidents of suddenly colliding with any domain.

But now it's different; moving along with Mount Fangcun is the Blood Termination World, this thing is a giant clenched arm, if it collides with any domain, it would inevitably cause a huge disaster.

Lu Ye doesn't want such tragic events to occur; if really happens, then his culpability would be enormous, so there's a need to prevent problems before they arise.

Chapter 1839 Number Nine's Plan

It's not difficult to prevent this matter. Just let the Dwarf Race Sun Blaze scout ahead first. If there's really a domain blocking the way ahead, notify Lu Ye in advance, and Lu Ye can then come over and slightly adjust to change the moving direction of Mount Fangcun and Blood Termination World, thus avoiding the collision with any domain.

This is entirely feasible, because Sun Blaze's speed is much faster than the movement of Mount Fangcun. So as long as Sun Blaze's scouting distance is far enough, it can leave ample handling time for Lu Ye over here.

The Sun Blazes in the Southern Region naturally agreed without hesitation.

Lu Ye stayed in the Southern Region for a while longer, ensuring the movement of the Southern Region and Blood Termination World was on the right track before bidding farewell to the Sun Blaze brothers there, led by Su Yuqing and Chen Xuanhai.

A few days later, all the cultivators who went to support from the Eastern Region returned.

Woo Qimo, who stayed behind in the Eastern Region, glanced over and was utterly astonished: "Why is there one more?"

Although the cultivators who went to support from the Eastern Region were all above Moon Jade, in a contest of that degree, casualties were quite normal. Woo Qimo had thought there would surely be some personnel losses this trip, but found that not only were there no losses, but there was actually one more person, which was quite absurd.

The extra person was naturally Dhim Beifeng. Since this guy is now Lu Ye's Blood Servant, he naturally returned with Lu Ye.

As for the battle situation in the Southern Region, Woo Qimo was still very concerned and immediately discussed it with Chen Xuanhai through Mental Consciousness transmission. Upon learning about the various aspects of the battle over there and the final result, Woo Qimo was extremely shocked. Though he knew that with Lu Ye's contribution, winning against the Blood Termination World shouldn't be a problem, he never expected that the Blood Termination World suffered not only severe casualties, but five Sun Blazes were killed in succession, and finally, even the Blood Termination World was taken by Lu Ye.

This was really beyond imagination.

"Next time something like this happens, you stay behind to hold the fort, and I'll go kill the enemy!" Woo Qimo said to Chen Xuanhai. Slaying Blood Race Sun Blazes is much more interesting than guarding a domain.

"We'll see." Chen Xuanhai replied casually and immediately slipped away, not giving Woo Qimo a chance to entangle.

Woo Qimo immediately turned his gaze to Su Yuqing, but the latter had already dragged Lu Ye away, leaving only a stunning back to Woo Qimo.

"Bullying an honest person, huh!" Woo Qimo looked helpless, while a group of Dwarf Race Moon Jades secretly giggled on the side. Being glared at by Woo Qimo, they hurriedly dispersed.

On Immortal Spirit Peak, Lu Ye stayed for several days before returning to the Nine Provinces.

Just after appearing on the Emerald Bamboo Peak of the Righteous Blood Sect, Number Nine came looking for him, still in the form of a rabbit, abruptly appearing in front of Lu Ye.

"Isn't this the busy Lord Nine? What a rare guest!" Lu Ye looked at it, full of teasing.

With the rabbit fur hiding its face, it was unclear if it was blushing, but Number Nine's expression was slightly awkward: "What are you talking about?"

Lu Ye snorted, carefully examining him for a moment, raising his eyebrows: "Have you gained weight?"

Compared to the first time Number Nine appeared in this form before him, he was obviously plumper, and even its fur seemed glossier than before.

Number Nine acted like a cat with its tail stepped on: "Nonsense, it's just sturdy!"

From within the fluffy fur, a small head emerged from behind Number Nine's neck, with a tiny flower adorning its head like a hat, wearing a little green dress, and its big eyes were watery.

"Little Flower Girl." Lu Ye smiled and greeted her.

"Eeya..." Little Flower Girl responded crisply.

Little Flower Girl was particularly shy, even members of the Flower Race found it hard to see her. Only with Number Nine did she have a natural closeness, perhaps due to the process of the Flower World relying on the Nine Provinces that led to Little Flower Girl's birth. Fundamentally, Number Nine played a role in her coming about.

Having met Lu Ye several times with Number Nine, Little Flower Girl and Lu Ye had become familiar.

While speaking, Lu Ye bent down, placed Little Flower Girl in the palm of his hand, then lifted his finger to tap her head, asking: "What brings you to me?"

"Nothing, I felt you returned, so I came to see you." Number Nine replied.

Lu Ye didn't lift his head: "Do you know that when you're lying, your eyes like to dart around?"

"Ah?" Number Nine was startled, hurriedly stopping his wandering eyeballs: "I'm not, I'm not..."

Lu Ye put Little Flower Girl down, placing her near Number Nine's neck, and casually knocked on Number Nine's head: "Speak straight, don't beat around the bush."

Number Nine raised his paw intending to cover his head, but the paw was too short to reach...

After steadying himself, Number Nine finally spoke: "Lu Ye, if you have the chance, bring back more of those things that can enhance the foundation of the domain. It's beneficial for both me and the Flower Girl. Nowadays, the foundations of the Blood Refinement World and the Unparalleled Continent have been devoured completely. If the Nine Provinces want to grow quickly, we can only rely on external force, otherwise growth is too slow with only the nurturing force of the stellar space."

From the current perspective of the Nine Provinces, its growth speed is faster than most domains in the stellar space due to the symbiotic relationship with the Flower World. If the natural growth of the Nine Provinces increases its foundation by a hundred each year, then with the Flower World attached, this increase could become about a hundred and fifty.

How many domains in this world have the Flower World attached?

Yet compared to the initial growth of the Nine Provinces, even with the Flower World attached now, the growth speed is not fast. Initially, the Nine Provinces could devour the foundation of the Blood Refinement World, and later, the Unparalleled Continent.

After so many years, regardless of the Blood Refinement World or Unparalleled Island, their foundations are nearly exhausted. Without external help, domain growth naturally slowed down.

Compared to the time of just upgrading to a large domain, the cultivation environment of the Nine Provinces is much better now. Cultivators from the Spirit Stream Realm to the Divine Sea Realm grow at speeds and efficiency far beyond the old batch of cultivators in those times. Even ordinary people who cannot cultivate can have substantially extended lifespans, thanks to the improved overall environment of the domain.

But this still cannot satisfy Number Nine.

"The demonic pill of the World Devouring Beast?" Lu Ye asked.

Number Nine shook his head: "No, it's that pink tentacle artifact."

Lu Ye immediately understood what Number Nine was talking about and couldn't help but say: "That thing is rare and difficult to find. The last time we got it was sheer luck."

What Number Nine mentioned was something Lu Ye had brought back from the Thousand Mounds Cemetery years ago. On his way back from the All Phenomena Ocean to the Nine Provinces, he passed through the Thousand Mounds Cemetery and encountered a gigantic azure bird. The bird had been digging up a mound star cluster, seemingly searching for food. By a stroke of fortune, Lu Ye found a tentacle-like artifact, tens of yards long, in the mound that had been dug up.

Back then, he used the Talent Tree's power to refine it and discovered that the artifact contained immense energy. That tentacle, tens of yards long, was as valuable as millions of spirit jades.

Later, he brought it back to the Nine Provinces, and Number Nine took it because it could enhance the domain's foundation, aiding the growth of Nine Provinces.

Lu Ye still remembers the awe-inspiring scene when the azure bird was digging, and the mound seemed alive, with pink tentacles fighting the azure bird...

The azure bird, being an ancient giant breed, easily rebuffed the pink tentacle's attacks, but Lu Ye couldn't withstand it.

Upon hearing this, Number Nine couldn't help but show a look of disappointment.

Lu Ye consoled, "I'll go to the All Phenomena Ocean later and see if there's any treasure suitable for enhancing the domain's foundation. I'll buy some for you."

"That will do."

After thinking it over, Lu Ye asked, "Why are you so anxious to enhance the foundation of Nine Provinces? Actually, if you are in harmony with the Little Flower Girl, the growth speed wouldn't be too slow. Moreover, as a large domain, it already has the capacity to nurture Constellation cultivators. Given time, when the sect's cultivators grow, we'll be eligible to establish ourselves in the stellar space."

Number Nine replied, "Of course I know that, but I plan to establish a True Lake battlefield."

"Hm?" Lu Ye was startled, "True Lake battlefield?"

The Nine Provinces have the Spirit Stream battlefield and Cloud River battlefield. Lu Ye had progressed through them step by step in the past. But once cultivators reach the True Lake Realm, there's no specific battlefield to engage in. Previously, cultivators could choose to participate in factional conflicts upon reaching the True Lake Realm to earn the resources necessary for their cultivation. However, the situation has changed now, and many things are different.

"I originally intended to discuss this with you in a few days," Number Nine said, and proceeded to share his thoughts.

Since the successful joint expedition by the two factions of the Nine Provinces to conquer the Blood Refinement World, and after the Nine Provinces' rise to a large domain, the dynamics have changed significantly. The relationship between the two factions has unprecedentedly eased.

Taking the current Constellation cultivators as an example, who have understood the vastness and profundity of the stellar space, they have long discarded factional biases and sect-oriented views because their cultivation has grown, and their horizons have expanded. The domain's conflicts are no longer their pursuit.

Reflecting on the past, domain conflicts resemble children's quarrels...

The current aim of cultivators above Constellation is the cosmic aspirations of the universe.

However, any domain's cultivation growth must be accompanied by combat and bloodshed. Even those top-tier domains experience this. Although the Nine Provinces' cultivation environment is excellent, without conflict, flowers grown in greenhouses may be vibrant but are unable to withstand the trials of the stellar space.

Hence, the Spirit Stream battlefield and Cloud River battlefield in the Nine Provinces continue as before. Regardless of how harmoniously the high-level management of big sects interact, their disciples at the lower levels must engage in confrontations and competitions to obtain the cultivation resources they need.

Undeniably, any kind of competition can foster hatred, but this is inevitable in any domain.

Other domains may not have tiered battlefields, but they aren't harmonious either. Cultivators attack each other using sects and clans, also competing for cultivation resources.

No matter the competition method, it's about nurturing the cultivators' fighting spirit, because having only cultivation without combat skills is death in the stellar space. The higher the domain's strength, the more it values the development of lower-level cultivators, as no matter the domain, the strong are the backbone, but the lower-level cultivators are the domain's foundation.

Chapter 1840 Asura Field

On the side of the Nine Provinces, after the expedition to the Blood Refinement World, cultivators above the True Lake Realm can choose to enter the Unparalleled Continent to battle with the Corpse Race and gain merit through killing the Corpse Race.

However, the Corpse Race is a species that does not have reproductive abilities. Over the years, the number of the Corpse Race on the Unparalleled Continent has dwindled, leading to a direct problem—the cultivators above the True Lake Realm find it increasingly difficult to earn merit.

Unlike in the beginning, when the entire Unparalleled Continent was swarming with the Corpse Race, a casual hunt would reward with plenty of merit.

According to Number Nine's estimation, in no more than ten years, the Unparalleled Continent will lose its qualification as a training ground because, by then, the Nine Provinces cultivators will have no more of the Corpse Race to hunt.

By then, how will the cultivators above the True Lake Realm cultivate? Without a channel to gain merit, they will be unable to exchange for cultivation resources, which is bound to trigger a series of problems.

Therefore, Number Nine is making preparations in advance, wanting to create a new battlefield for the True Lake Realm cultivators. However, doing so would consume the foundation of the Nine Provinces significantly.

This is why it came to find Lu Ye—it wants to secure more foundational resources.

Hearing this, Lu Ye also realized it was a problem.

Actually, Lu Ye had thought of this matter many years ago. If one day, the Corpse Race on the Unparalleled Continent were completely eradicated, what should be done? Without this training ground, the cultivators above the True Lake Realm in the Nine Provinces would be in an awkward situation.

Creating a True Lake battlefield is one solution, but in doing so, should a Divine Sea battlefield be created as well?

To be honest, allowing the True Lake Realm cultivators to fight in a battlefield was not too concerning for Lu Ye, but allowing the Divine Sea Realm to do so would be somewhat inappropriate.

Even in the current environment of the Nine Provinces, it is not easy for cultivators to reach the Divine Sea Realm. This kind of battle would definitely lead to the demise of many in the Divine Sea Realm, which would be a drain on the future of the Nine Provinces.

After thinking for a while, Lu Ye spoke: "How long can the situation on the Unparalleled Continent be maintained?"

Number Nine replied: "Judging by the rate at which Nine Provinces cultivators have been exchanging merit in recent years, the Unparalleled Continent can probably sustain for about ten years, not exceeding fifteen."

"There's no rush to develop the True Lake battlefield." Lu Ye said, "I'll inquire with cultivators from other domains and see what their domain development model is like. If useful, we can borrow a thing or two."

"Okay." Number Nine answered.

Lu Ye thought of another matter and spoke: "I remember entering some secret realms before. Those secret realms were created by you, weren't they? If so, can you create some secret realms suitable for cultivators above the True Lake Realm to train in?"

Number Nine said: "Of course it's possible. In fact, this type of secret realm has always existed, but the number is not significant. Developing and maintaining such secret realms also consumes the foundation of this domain. If there are too many, it would be better to directly create a True Lake battlefield."

Lu Ye understood.

Indeed, Number Nine has the ability to create such secret realms, but not without cost. Ultimately, it still depends on the depletion of the domain's foundation.

As for the creation of a Divine Sea battlefield, it would deplete the foundation even more severely.

Trying to completely solve this problem is not easy.

"Someone is coming, I must go." Number Nine suddenly said, and then quickly disappeared with Little Flower Girl.

Lu Ye looked up towards the sky, vaguely sensing a familiar aura approaching rapidly. Moments later, as he watched the woman land in front of him, he stepped forward to greet her: "Why are you here?"

The visitor was none other than Su Yuqing.

Su Yuqing turned her head to gaze around: "Came to have a look." She then asked: "Is this where you grew up?"

"My sect, the Righteous Blood Sect."

"It is indeed a place of rare beauty." Su Yuqing nodded slightly. For a Sun Blaze to praise it so was a testament to the scenic beauty of Mount Ao, though it could also be because of Lu Ye's presence here.

Accompanying Su Yuqing, they strolled around Mount Ao for a while. Later that afternoon, by Moon Lake, Lu Ye caught a few fat fish and set up a fire to roast them.

Lu Ye busily went about his task, while Su Yuqing sat serenely to the side. As the sun set, the golden light filtering through the mountain peaks outlined the woman as if she had walked out of a painting. She suddenly asked: "Do you have something on your mind?"

"Hmm?" Lu Ye looked up at her.

"The fish is burnt," Su Yuqing indicated.

Lu Ye then noticed a charred smell, hastily flipping the grilled fish over.

"If there's anything you want to talk about, feel free to tell me. I'm much older than you, perhaps I can offer some help."

Lu Ye thought that was reasonable, so he moved closer and began discussing the current predicament facing the Nine Provinces.

Su Yuqing listened quietly, only then realizing what Lu Ye was contemplating, and said, "So you're looking for a way to know how the Nine Provinces should develop in the future?"

"Yes, the cultivators of the lower four realms have always been the foundation of the cultivation world. For the Nine Provinces, with the two battlefields of Spirit Stream and Cloud River, they serve as the best places for cultivators to train at corresponding levels. In the past, the two camps were long opposing, and True Lake-Divine Sea also had destinations. Since Nine Provinces ascended to a large domain, many things have changed. We are considered the first generation of Constellation in Nine Provinces and bear the responsibility for revitalizing the domain's future. The Unparalleled Continent over there won't be able to maintain for long; once the Corpse Race is gone, where should the cultivators above True Lake go? Yuqing, how do you Dwarf Race handle this issue?"

Su Yuqing shook her head and said, "The situation of my race is not suitable for yours. Our cultivators do not have fierce competition, more like exchanges and discussions. As a result, our cultivators, at any level, lack some bloodlust and appear inexperienced in combat, especially in life-and-death battles. This was especially evident in previous confrontations with the Blood Race from Blood Termination World. Fortunately, our race is proficient in the way of talismans, which compensates somewhat. To put it bluntly, without talismans, our race's cultivators facing the Foreign Clan, with the same cultivation level, would likely lose eight or nine out of ten times. So, I believe your considerations are correct; only by experiencing more life-and-death磨砺 can cultivators have stronger self-preservation power upon entering the stellar space."

The situation in the Nine Provinces is drastically different from that of the Dwarf Race. It can even be said that the situation faced by cultivators in most domains is unlike that of the Dwarf Race.

Since the beginning of cultivation, the Dwarf Race has always stayed within Mount Fangcun. As long as they don't leave, they rarely encounter times when foreign clans need to be battled, and they have talismans at their side, so even though they lack bloodlust and experience in fighting between life and death, they can still stand in stellar space.

The frequent contention within domains, where life and death are common, will indeed breed some hatred and death, but it is beneficial to the future of the entire domain.

"So do you support opening the True Lake battlefield and Divine Sea battlefield?" Lu Ye asked.

Su Yuqing shook her head and said, "Whether I support it or not doesn't matter. This is ultimately your own domain's issue. It still depends on your choices."

Lu Ye said firmly, "Maybe I can go ask cultivators from other domains, and see their situations as a reference."

"It's an approach, but every domain's situation is different, and it may not suit the Nine Provinces," Su Yuqing said while taking a grilled fish handed by Lu Ye, gently biting into it. Then, as if recalling something, she said, "Have you heard of the Asura Field?"

Lu Ye was stunned: "What's that?"

"A stellar space supreme treasure!" Su Yuqing explained.

Lu Ye's eyes lit up: "A stellar space supreme treasure?"

"Yes. This stellar space supreme treasure once belonged to a race called Sky Asura. They were extremely belligerent, and each member was exceptionally gifted and powerful. At their peak, this race conquered hundreds of star systems, enslaving all creatures within them. The Asura Field is the supreme treasure of the Sky Asura race."

"Once? Has this race become extinct?" Lu Ye sensed something.

"They've been extinct for many years now," Su Yuqing nodded.

Lu Ye was a bit surprised: "How could such a powerful race become extinct?"

"When things reach their extreme, they tend to reverse; prosperity inevitably leads to decline. This is a common occurrence. No race in this world can remain prosperous forever. The Sky Asura race was indeed powerful, but they had a major flaw: difficulty in reproduction. Their members were scarce, combined with their belligerent nature. At their peak, who knows how many races they offended? In such a situation, if they manage to maintain their prosperity, that's one thing. But once they show any sign of decline, it leads to inevitable destruction."

"When the wall collapses, everyone pushes!" Lu Ye came to understand.

A belligerent race, with scarce members, yet enslaved hundreds of star systems, once they sparked a backlash, they were bound to be attacked by all.

"After the extinction of the Sky Asura, the stellar space supreme treasure, Asura Field, still remains in the main star system of the Sky Asura."

Lu Ye was surprised and asked, "No one covets the stellar space supreme treasure?"

Su Yuqing pursed her lips and smiled: "Of course not, it's just that no one can refine this stellar space supreme treasure. Many Sun Blaze have tried throughout history, but all returned without success. In fact, it's said that no one has even found where the body of this stellar space supreme treasure resides. Over countless years, a legend has emerged that only those with Sky Asura bloodline can find this supreme treasure and thus make it acknowledge its master because it originally belongs to the Sky Asura race."

"Is your telling me this meant to..." Lu Ye looked at her, puzzled. The stellar space supreme treasure is indeed good, but clearly, the two were discussing the future development of the Nine Provinces. Lu Ye couldn't understand what the Asura Field had to do with the future of the Nine Provinces.

"The Asura Field is very peculiar. It was originally a treasure for the Sky Asura race to 磨砺 their members. It's said that it contains endless secret realms inside, and cultivators can enter it to 磨砺 themselves. Moreover, it seems the Sky Asura race stored a large amount of treasures within the Asura Field. Cultivators who go through 磨砺 in the secret realms can obtain some benefits. This was initially prepared for the members of the Sky Asura race. Before the Sky Asura race faced extinction, they even threw all their clan's resources into the Asura Field!"

Lu Ye listened, his eyes brightened.

He couldn't personally experience how powerful the Sky Asura race was, but with the ability to enslave hundreds of star systems, how terrifying must their accumulated wealth have been? Before the Sky Asura race faced extinction, all these wealth accumulated over countless years were thrown into the Asura Field...