

I'm Richer Than My Billionaire Ex-husband Chapter 49

Emma's face was not good either, she thought Caleb was accompanying her to Oklens, but he was waiting for Alina.

She suppressed her emotions, "Caleb, we should go."

"Wait longer." Only to hear the man say, pulling out his cell phone, which was calling Alina.

Emma watches him call Alina and looks down to hide the hate in her eyes.

"Sorry, the number you have dialed is switched off." A mechanical, cold voice came from the other side of the phone.

Caleb's face instantly sank.

"Tomas." Hanging up the phone, the man spoke coldly.

Tomas was just a short distance away, and at the sound of his voice, he respectfully stepped forward, "Sir."

"Find out where she is."

It is understood by Tomas without explicitly saying so.

Emma looked at Caleb accusingly, "Caleb." Her tone was full of aggression.

However, at this moment Caleb is very annoyed, he usually does not say much to Emma, but now he utters, "Emma, do not be too greedy."

Emma's heart panicked at his words. She looked at Caleb more aggressively.

The man looked at Emma, who was sobbing, and said gently, "Let's talk about this when we get back."

Over the years he has always kept a distance with Emma, yet Emma doesn't see their relationship that way.

And when Emma heard Caleb say this so seriously, her heart was even more panicked.

The rumor mill has been buzzing for years that she will be the future Master Cale's wife, no matter how she got that.

But she and Caleb are always tied together, even if the public opinion makes her look bad, it doesn't matter.

But only she knows how Caleb treats her.

But if Caleb knew the truth, he will certainly make her suffer a lot.

Just as she was about to say something, Tomas came over, "Sir."

"Where is she?"

"Already on a special flight to Oklens."

"A special flight?" Caleb's face sank, and an aura of danger radiated throughout his body.

She, surprisingly, left on a special plane.

"Yes." Tomas' spine had broken into layers of cold sweat.

He waited here for an hour, at this moment it was boarding, she had long flown away.

After boarding the plane, Caleb pulled off the tie around his neck and tossed it aside in annoyance, and Emma didn't dare to say anything even if she was aggrieved.

"Andre's special plane?" Caleb asked icily.

Tomas, "It's the Lawson family."

Everyone didn't react how can it be related to the Lawson family again?

Tomas knows best, before Caleb asked him to check Alina.

Even if he checked carefully, he either didn't read it or was so busy that he forgot about it, so it's obvious to Alina that she doesn't care from these details.

Tomas gently reminded, "Zane Lawson of VIG in Shirling, is Lady Alina's grandfather, the husband of Ms. Erica's previous divorce."

Caleb's eyes were indifferent, "Heh." No wonder that woman dared to challenge with him so arrogantly, it was not because of Andre, but because of such a big consortium behind.

It turns out that the old Lawson of the Lawson family in Shirling is her grandfather.

Emma knows it's a big conglomerate and she's even more jealous.

She didn't expect that Alina, who she thought had nothing, had so many connections behind her, and when she thought about it, Emma looked at Caleb and she panicked.

Why does God love Alina so much?

“Tomas.”

“Yes.”

“Get her information for the last few years.” “Forget it.” The words were on the edge of his mouth, but Caleb turned them back.

Tomas, in fact, had looked up a lot of things about Alina before, but even the information was handed to him, but he didn’t read it carefully.

Emma was relieved to hear that Tomas would not be checking on Alina.

The Lawson family of Shirling is involved. Who knows what other powers are behind this woman?

Caleb said in a deep voice, “Prepare a generous gift and I’ll fly straight to Shirling after Oklens.”

“Yes.”

Emma’s face was white. She was even more frightened when she heard Caleb’s words.

He is so unforgettable to Alina.

“Caleb.” Emma’s voice pulled Caleb’s thoughts back to see Emma, who is aggravated and pained.

Caleb was silent.

Emma was also silent, but her expression was more than worthy of any sharp questioning.

Caleb said, “Emma, there are many ways to be responsible for someone, and I hope you understand.”

“Yes, I understand, you have given a lot to me over the years, even used the pregnant Alina for my illness, I understand all this.” The words, spoken with anger, is a kind of reminder to Caleb that, between him and Alina, it is no longer the same.

What kind of person Alina really is, Caleb here should also know.

When the man thought of her reaction as he helped her with food yesterday, he knew that the matter of Werland Villa was a thorn in Alina’s heart.

Three years ago in this matter, he did not do it right.

But he had hesitated, as he watched her motherly love for the child who had come to her in that terrible and painful situation.

Thinking that he would not break her heart by aborting this child unknowingly, he did not expect her to be so sad and painful.

“But Caleb, what is it that you are supposedly responsible for me? Keeping me alive and giving me a career at the top, but is that really all I have in my life?”

At this moment, Emma choked out a sob, yet her tone became a bit more aggressive the more she got to the end.

“That night, I felt like I was completely ruined.”

“That’s enough.” Emma didn’t finish her sentence before Caleb interrupted in a stern voice.

That night was a painful memory for him, too.

And all these years Emma never mentioned the details of the encounter between her and him that night.
