

Indulgence 139

Chapter 139: Admonition

Yun Jinnian was taken aback for a moment, then hurriedly said, "The poison has been resolved, and as long as everything is done according to my arrangement, he should be able to recover by autumn!"

Princess Jinfeng smiled, "That's truly wonderful. Your medical skills are becoming more and more superb. The entire Imperial Medical Bureau couldn't cure the dowager, but you succeeded with your intervention!"

"Princess, please don't say that. I was indeed reckless that day!"

If the dowager had been saved, all was well, but if she hadn't been, it would have meant offending someone.

Princess Jinfeng patted Yun Jinnian's hand, "Well, now that you know, you must never do such a thing again in the future!"

"Mm!" Yun Jinnian nodded.

"Have you met the Third Young Master of the Marquis Residence?" Princess Jinfeng asked tentatively, looking at Chu Yu, who showed no change in his expression.

A cold sneer in her heart.

Humph.

Acting, who else but him yelled for her to come along the moment he heard the Marchioness wanted to act as a matchmaker for a marriage proposal with the Han Family?

Desiring to understand the situation but expecting her to voice the questions.

"I have. He even lent me a few books today!"

The speaker was unintentional; the listener read between the lines.

Chu Yu's hands involuntarily clenched into fists.

Seeing Chu Yu's clenched fists, Princess Jinfeng found it amusing. "So, what do you think of the Third Young Master?"

"Ah?" Yun Jinnian didn't understand and thought carefully, "I don't have any specific impression, but I guess he's alright!"

To be honest, Yun Jinnian hadn't even got a clear look at what the Third Young Master, Dai Hanbo, looked like.

His voice was quite pleasant, though, and very gentle.

"Is that so?" Chu Yu spoke indifferently, his voice full of oppressive tension, now tinged with anger.

"?" Yun Jinnian looked at Chu Yu, puzzled.

What was he angry about?

"What do you think of Dai Hanbo?" Chu Yu asked, his voice deep.

He wished he could crack open Yun Jinnian's head to see what was inside. Was a prince not good enough? To actually be considered inferior to a commoner like Dai Hanbo?

To look down on him, Chu Yu, and instead take a fancy to Dai Hanbo?

Yun Jinnian was even more puzzled.

Looking at Chu Yu, "Your Highness, is there something you wish to ask?"

Just as Chu Yu was about to speak, Princess Jinfeng gave him a nudge, "Nothing much, there's a girl in my relatives' family interested in Dai Hanbo . They wanted me to inquire for them, and since you were visiting the Marquis Residence, I thought I'd come ask you!"

Yun Jinnian suddenly understood, "Oh, I see. I wasn't paying attention. Is there anything I can help with?"

"No, I was just asking," Princess Jinfeng replied hastily.

She truly feared Yun Jinnian's help might complicate matters.

"Oh!" Yun Jinnian responded simply.

Princess Jinfeng then said, "Actually, I came to find you today for another matter. I will be leaving after the fifteenth, and it might not be until mid-autumn when I return to the Capital City. I wanted to see you before I go, to say goodbye."

"After Lantern Festival?"

"Mm!"

Yun Jinnian held Princess Jinfeng's hand, "Then, Princess, have a safe journey. I..." Yun Jinnian pondered for a moment. "Let's meet again during the Lantern Festival at Huiquan Tower, alright? I'll prepare some golden sore medicine and Detoxification Pills for Lord Leng to bring along!"

Dangers abounded around Princess Jinfeng, and Leng Binghan would face various predicaments alongside her.

Yun Jinnian's thoughtfulness deeply moved Princess Jinfeng, "Alright!"

However, the Detoxification Pills could only be obtained from Han Xuzi's pharmacy.

She could grind out the golden sore medicine, but making the Detoxification Pills required a Pill Furnace and other items, which she dared not concoct at the Han Residence.

"Princess, I should be going now!"

Princess Jinfeng looked at Yun Jinnian, ruffling his hair, "Go on, and be more thoughtful in your actions from now on. There's no question about your medical skills, but be careful that people don't make an issue of your youth!"

Such a young age, with such exceptional medical skills - is he human or something otherworldly?