

Infinite 731

Chapter 731: Transformation Complete! Radiant Sun Soaring in the Sky!

Xiao Shengyin's Subspace Transmission is actually very troublesome, far less convenient than Su Yu's method.

Subspace Transmission requires a subspace relay and opening the channel between reality and subspace. This process is not only cumbersome but also potentially dangerous.

However, Su Yu's Manifestation Space, being neither real nor subspace, is much safer and more efficient when used for transmission.

This kind of magical Personal Space, when have people ever seen it? Even the two Seven-Star experts were visibly shocked.

They have never even heard of such a vast range of space ability.

Not just them, the old residents of Mechanical City behind Su Yu hurriedly opened their information terminals upon hearing this.

Sure enough, they all now had a ten-cubic-meter Personal Space!

These old residents of Mechanical City, who prided themselves on being experienced and knowledgeable, initially intended to laugh at the residents of the settlements.

But now, seeing this new Personal Space created by Su Yu, they also felt lacking in experience and a little bewildered.

"Previously, only semi-energy items like energy currency could be stored in the terminal. But now even armor and weapons can; how is this done!"

"Could these armors and weapons actually be virtual data manifestations?"

"How could that be? Would Mr. Su Yu deceive us with this method?"

"I was wrong to doubt Mr. Su Yu, but this is just too incredible..."

Everyone couldn't help but be amazed repeatedly.

Although some people suspected whether the items in the Personal Space were a result of Data Manifestation.

If Su Yu really used Data Manifestation for deception, it would be difficult for ordinary Transcendents to distinguish for a while.

But soon enough, they dismissed this possibility.

Who is Mr. Su Yu? How could he employ such petty methods, and since Mr. Su Yu dared to bring out the Personal Space, it must be genuine!

But... why is it a trial version?

They all looked at the 24-hour trial countdown on the Personal Space with regret.

Su Yu heard their discussions, laughing secretly to himself.

The reason it's a "trial" is because Su Yu's data manifestation ability has limits and cannot maintain so many "doors" for an extended period.

After all, his Manifestation Mechanic level is still at the Third Rank and hasn't advanced to the Fourth Rank.

Moreover, if this group of people runs around the world in the future, being too far from Su Yu, without "signal," the "doors" may directly dissipate.

So Su Yu created a trial version. Anyway, it's only 24 hours, and it will disappear after time is up, so there's no worry about maintenance.

Su Yu naturally wouldn't fake it; the Personal Space is real, but he wouldn't reveal its quirks to them.

As for what happens after the 24-hour trial...

Everyone wanted to know as well!

"Are you stupid? Such amazing technology definitely costs a lot; do you think it's free to use?"

"Right, is there a permanent version?"

"Take a look!"

Everyone, being "experienced," quickly thought there might be a permanent version upon seeing the word trial.

So they hurriedly checked the exchange directory.

Sure enough, someone quickly found the option to exchange "Personal Space" in the directory.

"What? It doesn't cost money, but after purchasing exchange items, trial time is given as a gift?"

"Temporary Seven-Star Battle Armor gives a one-year trial? And it has a full thousand cubic meters of space?"

"Even if the Personal Space expires, the items inside won't disappear; you just can't retrieve them temporarily. Once there is duration again, you can use it again?"

They originally thought that the permanent version of this Personal Space would surely be overpriced.

It turns out it doesn't cost a single energy coin; it's all a free giveaway!

However, although you don't need to spend money to buy it, you need to purchase exchange items to get the complimentary Personal Space.

Spend 10 energy coins, get 24 hours; the more you spend, the more you get, and the Temporary Seven-Star Battle Armor directly gives a year.

"This is good; there's no need to spend more money buying space, but why doesn't Mr. Su Yu open direct purchases?"

"This must be a benefit Mr. Su Yu is giving us; otherwise, he's afraid we can't afford it."

"Yeah, this thing seems to have no permanent version, so it must be extremely precious!"

Excited, everyone discussed, thinking this was a benefit given by Su Yu.

Moreover, since the items inside don't disappear after the space expires, they can use it without worry. They'll just spend a little energy currency if needed to get a day's duration, which is enough to use.

Su Yu listened to everyone's discussion, smiling silently.

Actually, Su Yu had no choice; he couldn't price the Personal Space properly now.

If he set the price too low, everyone would buy it, and how could he manage that? He simply couldn't support it.

Set the price at ten thousand? Most people couldn't afford it, so it would be meaningless.

Even if a minority of big spenders bought it, and if Su Yu lowered the price later, there would be a "backstab" issue.

So Su Yu gave it away for free, encouraging more purchases and more gifts.

This not only stimulates spending but also because people's financial capabilities are limited, the actual Personal Space "duration" they can obtain is not much, which Su Yu can still support.

As for those with a Temporary Seven-Star Battle Armor, Su Yu just spends a little extra effort to reinforce their space. There are few such people, and even maintaining their Personal Space for a year is nothing to Su Yu.

But this is just temporary. When Su Yu's power becomes strong enough to maintain the Manifestation Space long-term, the Personal Space will naturally have a permanent version and be opened for purchase.

Chapter 732: Transformation Complete! Radiant Sun Soaring in the Sky! _2

Su Yu's arrangement naturally won unanimous praise from everyone.

After all, who doesn't like free things? Although you need to spend to get the gifted time, they would spend anyway, and now this personal space is essentially free.

"Mr. Su Yu is really generous!"

"Buy! Buy quickly, as long as you spend money, you can get personal space time; where else can you find such a good deal?"

"I want to buy too!"

Everyone praised Su Yu, feeling that joining the Mechanical City was truly the right choice due to his benevolence and generosity.

Then they couldn't wait to start spending, using the exchange system to acquire various items and resources...

Originally, they were somewhat reluctant after just obtaining energy coins, but now with this "promotion" of personal space, they had no more reservations.

And then... very quickly, they all became penniless.

Su Yu had just distributed a large amount of energy coins, and now they were all collected back again.

The resources everyone bought were all excavated globally by the citizens of Mechanical City, so Su Yu didn't mind a bit.

At this time, people realized that Su Yu's arrangement might not be so wonderful; money gets spent so quickly!

Fortunately, the acquired personal space time can be activated at any time they choose. Once activated, an hour of time is consumed, but if not activated, it can be saved.

Otherwise, after a few days when the personal space expired, they would really feel like crying without tears.

Yet, seeing their depleted wealth and the various resources obtained, they felt a sense of satisfaction well up inside.

These resources might have been impossible to obtain in their lifetime before, and even if obtained, it would have been through countless life-threatening efforts.

Now, they just had to click casually in the information terminal, and they could acquire them.

This blessing from above felt like a dream to them.

Seeing that they had almost spent all their money, Su Yu chuckled lightly, "Alright, don't just stand here. Go into the city. I will have someone arrange your accommodations."

Upon hearing this, everyone loudly agreed.

They were all full of anticipation, having received so many benefits before even entering the city. They couldn't imagine how comfortable and wonderful the living conditions in the city might be.

But they didn't move, as without someone to lead the way, they dared not go off by themselves.

They looked up at Su Yu, waiting for him to arrange someone to lead them.

But Su Yu did not speak. Instead, he turned his head to look behind him.

Seeing this, everyone quickly followed Su Yu's line of sight and saw a "giant" in the distance.

No, it was a giant mecha, as tall as two hundred meters, very majestic and imposing.

It was the new Giant God Soldier Mecha that Su Yu had just created.

Originally, such a large mecha should have been noticed by everyone standing there.

Strangely, it was only now, following Su Yu's gaze, that everyone "discovered" the mecha.

This was because Su Yu's presence was so strong; upon arriving in the Mechanical City, the first sight was Su Yu's magnificent form, completely ignoring the Giant God Soldier Mecha.

"How come there's a mechanical giant over there? Strange, why didn't I notice it earlier?"

"Me too, I was just focusing on Mr. Su Yu earlier."

"What's Mr. Su Yu planning to do by looking at that mechanical giant now?"

People were puzzled, wondering why they hadn't noticed the mecha before and what Su Yu intended to do while looking at it.

A moment later, the cockpit on the chest of the Giant God Soldier Mecha suddenly opened.

From inside, a dozen figures emerged.

These figures seemed somewhat strange; their bodies did not resemble normal humans.

From a distance, they appeared to be five or six meters tall. So many giants crowded inside the cockpit; if it weren't large enough, they wouldn't fit.

Moreover, after leaving the cockpit, these giants started changing; they were growing bigger and glowing!

In no time, these figures swelled more than tenfold, and they were still growing!

A moment later, a dozen Light-Cast Giants hundreds of meters tall floated in midair, radiating a powerful aura like the blazing sun!

At this moment, above the Mechanical City, it appeared as if a myth had been reenacted, with ten suns hanging in the sky!

Seeing these Light-Cast Giants appear, Su Yu revealed a satisfied smile and said to everyone, "Your guides have arrived. Let them lead you to your residences."

After that, these Light-Cast Giants seemed to receive Su Yu's call, moved swiftly, and flew over directly.

These Light-Cast Giants each seemed to have the ability for free flight.

They flew to Su Yu, respectfully saluted in midair, "Mr. Su Yu, we have successfully transformed!"

These people were exactly Tie Long, Xie Yitian, Xiao Shengyin, and others who had entered the Giant God Soldier Mecha earlier.

Within the mecha, they resonated with the structure of the Radiant Blueprint of the Giant God Soldier Mecha, and finally transformed all their cell structures into Radiant Cells, becoming Radiant Giants!

This transformation was so miraculous that even the semi-mechanized Tie Long completed the change.

After transformation, their strength was at least Seven-Star Top Level!

Tie Long and others even reached Nine-Star Top Level directly!

It must be noted that among them, none had reached nine stars before, and only a few, like Tie Long, had reached above seven stars.

As for Yang Lie, Feng Tian, Huang Ying, and other old acquaintances of Su Yu, they hadn't even remotely reached seven stars.

Now, this change was practically a leap to the heavens.

So they were extremely excited, even on the verge of tears of joy.

Especially Yang Lie, Feng Tian, and others, who were the most excited. Since Su Yu ascended to Seven-Star, his power grew stronger and the enemies he faced became inconceivably formidable. These old acquaintances without Seven-Star felt the distance from Su Yu was growing, unable to keep up.

If not for Su Yu's sentimentality, allowing them to become the management of the Mechanical City, they would hardly have been able to assist Su Yu at all.

This situation left them feeling very unwilling but also powerless.

They could only think of gradually accumulating resources and energy coins to purchase the Seven-Star Battle Armor.

Su Yu was fair; even as high-level officials, they couldn't obtain the armor without effort.

During the previous global development, these people worked very hard and amassed many resources, hoping Su Yu would help them create battle armor.

However, Su Yu melted all the resources they gathered into a single entity, the Giant God Soldier Mecha.

Fortunately, through the transformation by the Giant God Soldier Mecha, Yang Lie and the others finally obtained Seven-Star level strength!

And it was not dependent on the battle armor, but their own power!

This made them ecstatic; they were finally not the useless ones they once were, but Seven-Star strongmen!

Compared to Yang Lie and Feng Tian, Tie Long and the others were much calmer.

After all, they were already above Seven-Star, and now elevated to the Nine-Star level, which though joyous, still fell within the third-order range.

Moreover, they were a bit troubled; now their strength was indeed strong, but their size was too large, over a hundred meters tall, making things somewhat inconvenient.

However, looking at Su Yu, they felt relieved again.

Didn't they see that Mr. Su Yu himself had turned into a giant? What's their small change in comparison? Maybe in the future, the Mechanical City will become the City of Giants?

"This power is temporary. You can only transform for a period of time, then revert to your original form. You need to accumulate enough strength to transform again."

"For a second transformation, you don't need long remodeling. You just need to receive the resonance signal from the Giant God Soldier Mecha, then control it with your mind."

"The power of this transformation stems from your inner courage, determination, fighting spirit... and other positive emotions. The stronger your will, the more powerful and longer-lasting the transformation."

Su Yu examined their transformation results from top to bottom and then offered a reminder.

This Sunshine Transformation isn't permanent but has a time limit.

Chapter 733: The Awakening of the Galaxy Battle Armor, Astonishing Events from Ten Thousand Years Ago!

Even Su Yu's own transformation has time and count limitations. How could these people's transformations be permanent? There must be a time limit.

Yang Lie and the others haven't even reached the top of the six-star level, but through transformation, they have briefly become Light-Cast Giants, possessing top-tier seven-star strength.

If this were permanent, then such power would come too easily.

Yang Lie and their ranks are actually still at six-star or even five-star.

It is the transformation from the Radiant Blueprint that grants them temporary transformation power.

The Radiant Cells are semi-real, neither material nor data.

Although they bestow great power on everyone, once the energy is consumed, they will return to their original flesh and blood form.

Su Yu estimates that these people can at most transform for one or two hours, and at the shortest, just over ten minutes, before reverting to their original state.

The time is short but enough to complete a battle, so it's not a big issue.

After all, the stronger the power, the faster the speed, and the faster the battle rhythm becomes.

Su Yu now fights in increments of one ten-thousandth of a second or even shorter.

Although these people haven't reached Su Yu's level, a transformation of one or two hours is sufficient, only requiring careful timing not to waste the power.

Moreover, due to the existence of Giant God Soldier Mecha·Radiance, although their transformation time is short, there is no limitation on the number of times, unlike Su Yu who can only transform two or three times.

Even if they return to their original state, as long as they accumulate enough willpower and spirit, then receive the signal from the Giant God Soldier Mecha for resonance, they can reactivate the transformation.

However, Su Yu keenly noticed that after transforming these people, the Giant God Soldier Mecha·Radiance seemed to consume some invisible "resource," unable to conduct transformations in the short term.

But upon detailed inspection, Su Yu discovered that the Giant God Soldier Mecha-Radiance only consumed some energy and had no other consumption.

Why this mecha cannot perform transformations on other people again, Su Yu hasn't figured out immediately and can only wait for further research in the future.

"This transformation state, is it only temporary?"

"Can we change back?"

Upon hearing this, Yang Lie, Feng Tian, Tie Long, and others were both surprised and delighted.

Yang Lie and the others felt a bit regretful as the power was only temporary.

In this sense, they are still somewhat behind a true seven-star powerhouse.

However, they quickly reconciled with it.

After all, back when Su Yu went through the Ghost Hidden Blade's job transfer ceremony, he battled a fragment of the Brutal Evil God for a whole month, and only after experiencing such arduous danger did he succeed.

And for Yang Lie to permanently advance to seven stars through such short transformation time, how could that be possible?

It's better not to be too greedy.

Moreover, this transformation state not being permanent actually has its benefits.

After all, the giant form has various inconveniences, and their original human bodies suit them more; being able to revert is a good thing.

And Tie Long and others were also extremely pleased to be able to return to their original bodies.

"However... if this transformation could elevate us to the Fourth Rank, then even if we couldn't change back, living as giants forever wouldn't be a problem..."

Tie Long and the others couldn't help but think in their hearts.

They knew well how incredibly difficult it was to break through to the Fourth Rank.

If they could temporarily transform into a Fourth Rank powerhouse, that would be wonderful.

However, they also knew it was wishful thinking.

Mr. Su Yu himself had just recently broken through to the Fourth Rank, so they shouldn't daydream.

Thinking that a single transformation could make them as strong as Mr. Su Yu, what are they imagining? Those Fusion People, however, seem to have some saying, pondering what would happen if after transforming, they could initiate a fusion...

Although Tie Long and the others felt their thoughts were wild fantasies, the truth is that Su Yu indeed has a Fourth Rank transformation.

That's Su Yu's own transformation, directly from the Third Rank top-level to Fourth Rank top-level. Otherwise, how could he have confronted [King] head-on and eventually defeated [King]?

However, Su Yu's Fourth Rank transformation is granted by the Fifth Rank Radiant Mecha, used intensively and impossible to share with others.

Unless Su Yu thoroughly researches the Radiant Blueprint, such a Fourth Rank transformation could be possible, but who knows when that will be...

"Transformation? These people are..."

The conversation between Su Yu and these people was overheard by others.

They were dumbfounded on the spot.

What did Mr. Su Yu mean? These powerful Third Rank strongmen apparently didn't have this kind of power originally but gained the "transformation" ability through some kind of modification to become the Light-Cast Giants?

What kind of magical technology is this, capable of allowing Transcendents below seven-star to directly transform into seven-star strongmen?

This transformation is not a battle armor but the power of the body itself!

No matter how strong the armor is, if the body itself isn't strong enough, there will always be limitations.

For example, there'll be differences in operation delay and energy control precision compared to true seven-star strongmen.

Thus, the two previous Seven-Star City Lords from Rock Cave City and Sky Sea City, when facing the residents of Mechanical City wearing temporary seven-star battle armor, could face them one against many but ultimately had to rely on joining forces to subdue them.

If the two City Lords were a bit stronger and possessed some special means to bypass the armor's defense to attack the internal body directly, those guys would be in danger.

If the internal body is also equally strong, wearing armor would be like adding wings to a tiger, freeing one from such limitations.

So, in everyone's mind, enhancing the inherent strength of one's body ranks far higher than possessing stronger armor.

Chapter 734: The Awakening of the Galaxy Battle Armor, Astonishing Events from Ten Thousand Years Ago!_2

If it doesn't work, then try to fuse with the battle armor to become a semi-mechanical lifeform. In this way, it would be equivalent to breaking through the seven-star level.

But now, Su Yu's transformation technology from the Radiant Blueprint has shown them another path.

Everyone was instantly filled with fervor.

Can they use this transformation technique? If possible, what price must be paid? How many energy coins would it cost?

Everyone hurriedly opened their information terminals, trying to find an exchange item related to the Sunshine Transformation.

However, they were disappointed. There was no such project in the terminal.

After all, the Giant God Soldier Mecha, Radiance, could not be transformed again in a short time. Su Yu hadn't even understood it fully yet, so naturally, he couldn't allow it to be exchanged casually.

With no findings, everyone couldn't help but look up at Su Yu with hopeful eyes, wishing he would open up this transformation exchange.

However, Su Yu didn't respond; instead, he told the dozen Light-Cast Giants, "Change back first and help arrange accommodation for these new residents."

Upon hearing this, they understood that Su Yu had no intention of opening the transformation exchange for now.

Though disappointed, it wasn't a strong feeling. Mr. Su Yu must have his reasons for not opening the exchange, so they would just wait.

Perhaps the technology isn't mature yet and requires research? They speculated, planning to ask Yang Lie and others about it later.

Hearing Su Yu's command, Yang Lie, Xie Yitian, and Tie Long attempted to reverse the transformation.

Although it was their first attempt, the activation and deactivation of this transformation was engraved in their genes during the modification, as a natural instinct.

With minimal sensing, they quickly found the knack.

Thus, the dozen Light-Cast Giants swiftly shrank back to their original human forms, except for the lingering white light in their eyes, which made them look quite imposing.

Upon de-transformation, their flight ability vanished, and they descended.

With their strength, they wouldn't get hurt, and they landed in front of the settlement residents, saying, "Everyone, please follow us!"

Thus, the millions of settlement residents were soon led away to be accommodated in the city.

The Mechanical City was very large, with plenty of empty houses, not built by any construction teams but "generated" by the city itself, essentially endless.

Even with the arrival of a million Mechanic descendants, it was still far from full. With the additional millions of settlers, it was barely enough.

After moving in, the population of the entire Mechanical City approached ten million!

Such a population scale would have been a substantial city even a hundred thousand years ago.

In this era, it's a miracle.

Su Yu gathered almost the entire global population to assemble so many people here.

With so many people, many things became convenient. Although Su Yu was powerful, many trivial matters still required workforce assistance for efficiency.

Moreover, with this population, some strong individuals were bound to emerge, providing assistance to Su Yu.

Of course, Su Yu also bore the responsibility to offer these people protection.

If an overwhelming enemy attacked and Su Yu's strength was inadequate to protect them, the battle would wipe out the entire city's humans, equating to the extinction of humans across the globe!

Su Yu, although not fearful or hesitant, couldn't guarantee a hundred percent safety for these people.

After all, in the prophecy of future wars, except for Su Yu, everyone else perished!

But if Su Yu didn't gather these people, they would still face extinction once the Brutal Evil God awakened.

Coming to the Mechanical City, there's at least hope.

Watching their backs, Su Yu contemplated the future, pondering what the upcoming war would be like and if it could be avoided.

After a while, he suddenly flipped his hand, and a figure appeared in his massive palm—it was a mechanical battle armor.

It was the Galaxy Battle Armor!

Previously injured, it had been dormant in Su Yu's Manifestation Space and now finally awakened. Sensing it, Su Yu immediately released it.

The Galaxy Battle Armor awakened, its eyes showing human-like confusion, as if unaware of its surroundings.

Moments later, it became clear, suddenly looking at Su Yu, showing shock: "You are... Su Yu? How did you..."

It recognized Su Yu but seemed unsure.

When Su Yu fought with the [King] earlier, it was deep in hell, with severe pain almost severing its connection to the outside world and even affecting its memory, making Su Yu's giant appearance unfamiliar.

"Yes, it's me. This is merely a transformation state, gifted to me when the Radiant Mecha disappeared."

"You've healed from your previous injuries and look in good condition, without any latent problems."

Su Yu nodded, admitting his identity.

He then released his spirit to carefully examine the Galaxy Battle Armor, finding its mechanical state surprisingly good, with power surging to the Nine-star Top Level.

Earlier, at the banquet, influenced by the [King]'s power, it devoured many of the Mechanical Race. After a dormant period, it fully digested them, turning calamity into blessing.

"I've restored the power I had a hundred thousand years ago..."

Feeling the mighty force within its body, the Galaxy Battle Armor seemed a bit gloomy.

It knew exactly what it cost to gain such power and couldn't feel joyful about it.

Seeing this, Su Yu also held a moment of silence with it.

But the Galaxy Battle Armor quickly adjusted its mood, then looked up at Su Yu, appearing startled and solemn.

Curious, Su Yu asked, "Do you recognize this transformation state of mine?"

The Galaxy Battle Armor was an ancient relic from ten thousand years ago, potentially familiar with this Radiant Blueprint transformation, perhaps even knowing secrets unbeknownst to Su Yu.

Upon hearing this, the Galaxy Battle Armor carefully scrutinized again, then turned to Yang Lie, Xiao Shengyin, and others moving away, its eyes gleaming as if switching visual modes to scan the residual energy waves in the air.

After a moment, it slowly spoke: "This is... the Guangyao Forbidden Army!"

"Hmm?!"

Su Yu was intrigued upon hearing this.

The Galaxy Battle Armor looked at Su Yu, explaining: "It's said that there was a group of warriors called the Guangyao Forbidden Army around the great Radiant Emperor. They underwent powerful transformations to wield the Radiant Emperor's light, gaining formidable combat power!"

"They were the elite guard of the Radiant Emperor, the strongest warriors in the empire, each immensely powerful... "

At this moment, the Galaxy Battle Armor fully acknowledged Su Yu's status and authority.

Thus, it withheld nothing, directly speaking of the empire's past from a hundred thousand years ago.

For the first time, Su Yu learned that the emperor of the Human Empire from a hundred thousand years ago was called the [Radiant Emperor].

Hearing this title evoked numerous thoughts in Su Yu's mind.

He recalled that there was a [Radiance Nun] in the Transcendent Union who might be related to this Radiant Emperor; did they worship the Radiant Emperor as a deity?

And how strong were those Guangyao Forbidden Army, exactly? How many were there?

And then Zhang Chenfeng's Radiant Mecha...

As Su Yu rapidly pondered these, the next sentence from the Galaxy Battle Armor made his eyes widen:

"Zhang Chenfeng, the supreme commander of the Azure Star's Giant God Soldiers legion, was once a Guangyao Forbidden Army!"

"He was too?"

Hearing this, Su Yu was genuinely shocked.

He had just been considering Zhang Chenfeng's connection to the Guangyao Forbidden Army.

After all, the Guangyao Forbidden Army also seemed to use the Power of Sunshine, and Zhang Chenfeng had the Radiant Mecha; not having a connection would be strange.

But Su Yu had never thought that Zhang Chenfeng was actually a Guangyao Forbidden Army!

In this light, Su Yu attained a definite understanding of the Guangyao Forbidden Army's prowess.

Zhang Chenfeng was a Fifth Rank Planet-Level powerhouse, and even he was a Guangyao Forbidden Army!

Chapter 735: The Past of Galaxy Battle Armor

"The Fifth-Order Radiant Imperial Army? How many members does this army have?"

Su Yu couldn't help but ask.

Logically speaking, since it's called an "army," the number of people in the Radiant Imperial Army shouldn't be small.

A dozen or twenty people could only be called a squad, and even a few hundred wouldn't qualify as an army.

At least thousands or tens of thousands are needed to match this title.

But an army composed of thousands or tens of thousands of Fifth-Order experts? Su Yu found it hard to believe, it seemed too outrageous.

If it were true, just how powerful was the Human Empire back then?

Or could it be that the Radiant Imperial Army is just a title and actually doesn't have that many people?

Faced with Su Yu's question, the Galactic Armor shook its head: "How could I possibly know about such things?"

"Everything about the Radiant Imperial Army is classified. The fact that Commander Zhang Chenfeng was a member of the Radiant Imperial Army was something he revealed himself."

"He disclosed this identity and presented evidence when he founded the Azure Second Empire to suppress dissenters."

"His identity as a member reduced a lot of opposition."

Su Yu felt a little disappointed at these words, but he could understand.

Although the Galactic Armor was a powerful Nine-star Battle Armor a millennium ago, it was essentially just an elite grunt in the battle group, not even a squad leader.

So, it was reasonable that it wouldn't know the empire's high-level secrets.

"In that case, I won't ask further."

Su Yu understood that he would have to investigate this matter himself, but it wasn't urgent. After all, no matter how strong the Radiant Imperial Army was, it didn't have much to do with the current Su Yu, at most just to satisfy his curiosity.

While Su Yu didn't ask more, the Galactic Armor spoke up: "Su Yu, what was that just now?"

It now had its own curiosity.

It was curious about how Su Yu could bring up the Radiant Imperial Army.

"It's like this..."

Upon hearing the question, Su Yu explained to the Galactic Armor about the Radiant Blueprint and the transformation technology.

The words filled the Galactic Armor with deep respect.

Su Yu had actually received the Radiant Mecha's gift, obtaining the precious Radiant Blueprint! To the Galactic Armor, this was of enormous significance.

At this moment, Su Yu, in theory, was the highest commander of the Human Empire on this planet, personally authorized by the Radiant Mecha.

The Galactic Armor instantly wanted to stand at attention and salute Su Yu with the Imperial Salute.

However, just as it was about to act, it remembered that it had already had its thought restrictions lifted and wasn't actually part of the Empire's faction anymore.

It was merely considered a "Wild Mechanical Battle Armor."

If the Empire were still present, it wouldn't pass the battle group's inspection and would likely be seen as a traitor and destroyed for recasting.

Thinking of this, the Galactic Armor felt a wave of loss, and it didn't perform the Imperial Salute.

Having been an Imperial Battle Armor for over ten thousand years, only to suddenly become a Wild Mechanical Battle Armor, the Galactic Armor needed some time to adapt.

Su Yu noticed its sense of loss and changed the subject: "Could you tell more about the Empire?"

While the Galactic Armor couldn't answer regarding the empire's high-level secrets, it should know about non-confidential information, right?

Previously, Su Yu had been busy preparing for the battle with [the King] and hadn't had the chance to ask the Galactic Armor about the Empire's past.

Now with the time, he naturally wouldn't miss the chance to satisfy his curiosity.

The Galactic Armor did not disappoint Su Yu, nodding: "Of course."

Next, the Galactic Armor began to narrate in detail the stories of the Empire to Su Yu.

Of course, only the part it knew.

Twelve thousand years ago, the Galactic Armor was "born" on a "Forging Planet" forty thousand light-years away.

The planet had been transformed by the Empire's Mechanics, fully mechanized into an automated factory that continuously forges various mechanical equipment for the Empire.

The Galactic Armor was produced in a mechanical incubator on that planet and underwent decades of debugging. "Betrayal" power was implanted into its core, and finally, its consciousness was activated, officially off the production line.

Its performance was very good; just off the production line, it was at a Nine-star level.

The Mechanics responsible for quality inspection called it a "fine product."

A few more millennia of battle would be enough to master its power, reaching Nine-star Top Level. Then, after being recast, it could promote to Fourth Rank, becoming a team leader class battle armor.

From its inception, its cognitive awareness was embedded with absolute loyalty to the Empire.

For it, the meaning of life was to serve the Empire, and rising to the Fourth Rank and enhancing its strength would better serve the Empire, so it eagerly desired it.

Throughout over a thousand years, the Galactic Armor strove for promotion. With its companions from the "Betrayal" Corps, it ventured deep into the stars to fight.

The Galaxy was vast, infinite. Besides humans, there were various Cosmic Alien Species, some allies, some enemies of the humans.

These alien species weren't primitive natives but possessed unique and powerful abilities or technologies, else the Empire wouldn't regard them.

Even the Empire's mighty armies often suffered defeats or severe casualties against some peculiar alien species.

Of course, the Empire would ultimately win, albeit by sending more forces.

The Galactic Armor was quite fortunate; although it sustained severe injuries at times, it never became utterly defunct and could be repaired.

Over a thousand years of warfare familiarized the Galactic Armor with its powers, elevating its strength to the Nine-star Top Level.

Chapter 736: The Past of Galaxy Battle Armor_2

However, its master wasn't so lucky; over a thousand years, two or three had already died.

The Galaxy Battle Armor was not saddened by the death of its masters. At this moment, it did not have such meaningless emotions; it was natural for warriors to die on the battlefield.

The master died, but the armor remained intact, which was normal and not because the Galaxy Battle Armor harmed its master.

Because the Galaxy Battle Armor was a "fine product" with Nine-Star strength.

But its masters did not have such strength; they were mostly Seven-Star recruits.

These recruits weren't very strong, but because of the armor, they often participated in Nine-Star level battles.

In such battles, facing some strong attacks, the Galaxy Battle Armor might only be heavily injured, but its master, when the armor was shattered, would die with just a slight hit.

Participating in high-level battles with external help, such an outcome was normal.

Of course, there were benefits too.

If its master survived, under the stimulation of the Nine-Star Battle Armor and fierce battles, their promotion speed would be much faster than ordinary Seven-Star recruits.

Unfortunately, those several masters of the Galaxy Battle Armor did not have such luck.

After another master died, the regiment soon chose another master for it to continue fighting.

After a selection process, a new master was born.

This new master was also a recruit who had just undergone conscription, training, transformation, debugging, adaptation, etc. on a planet owned by the Empire, successfully advancing to Seven Stars, qualifying to wear the Battle Armor.

Of course, this was merely a qualification. To wear the Galaxy Battle Armor, there was one more ceremony: a death match!

Yes, just like the death match between Su Yu and the Galaxy Battle Armor before, the recruits of the regiment also had to have a death match to wear the armor!

However, the recruit was only Seven Stars, while the armor was Nine Stars, and directly fighting surely couldn't win.

Therefore, the Galaxy Battle Armor had its strength limited to only use Seven-Star level power for equal-level combat.

That recruit was extraordinarily outstanding and actually defeated the Galaxy Battle Armor with millennia of combat experience at the same level!

The Galaxy Battle Armor was not surprised by this result.

After all, it was just an assembly line "product," while the Galaxy Warrior was a carefully selected Empire Soldier, a true elite of the Empire.

The Empire is the Empire of humanity, unwilling to let the weak armor strong situation exist.

At least at the same level, humans must be stronger than the Mechanical Battle Armor!

However, if humans are strong and armor is weak, then the armor seems to have little significance.

So, the recruits of the regiment usually wear battle armor one or two star levels higher than themselves.

And because the Galaxy Battle Armor was a fine product, it was two star levels higher than its master.

After the recruit wore the Galaxy Battle Armor, they harmonized for decades, and both were quite satisfied with each other.

The Galaxy Battle Armor also silently calculated in its heart, hoping that this master wouldn't die so quickly.

At this time, the regiment where the Galaxy Battle Armor was located received a mission, which was to investigate a frontier planet 60,000 light-years away: Azure Star.

That planet had lost contact with the Empire, with no signals returned for a hundred years.

The Empire suspected it encountered a rebellion and sent the regiment where the Galaxy Battle Armor was to suppress and quell the rebellion.

The Empire's territory was vast, with over a million life planets. Occasionally, someone would think the Emperor was far away and rebel, wanting to become king, which was common.

But these rebels couldn't escape the Empire's suppression.

"Rebellion?"

Upon hearing this, Su Yu frowned.

There seemed to be something strange in the Galaxy Battle Armor's narrative, somewhat different from what he knew before.

However, Su Yu did not interrupt but continued listening.

The Galaxy Battle Armor did not notice Su Yu's peculiarity and continued narrating its mission to quell the rebellion.

After this mission ended, the Galaxy Battle Armor should have accumulated enough merits to be reforged and promoted.

Although it was battle armor, it was part of the Empire, enjoying certain status, various benefits, responsibilities, and even vacations. But to be promoted, it also needed enough merits to apply.

If it got promoted, the current master would no longer qualify to wear it.

However, its master fully supported it, encouraging it to proceed without hesitation.

The Galaxy Battle Armor naturally paid great attention to this mission, hoping to complete it smoothly, accumulate merits, and apply for promotion.

But its attention level didn't actually matter much.

Because leading the team wasn't it, but the Commander of the Betrayal Legion, someone of the Fifth Rank!

The Galaxy Battle Armor was merely a small soldier among them.

It was said that the frontier Azure Star was overseen by a prominent figure of the Fifth Rank.

That figure was extremely powerful; if they betrayed, no ordinary Empire Legion could suppress them, so this time it was the entire Seventh Legion of the Galaxy Warriors "Betrayal Legion," a full-force attack.

Several legions were even on standby for support!

Soon, the Galaxy Battle Armor and its companions boarded a battleship, flying towards that frontier planet.

The Empire's legion battleships all navigated in subspace, extremely fast, reaching 60,000 light-years in just a few months.

However, this time, something was odd.

Because the battleship navigated for five full years without arrival!

During navigation, to save energy and avoid attracting subspace creatures' attention, the Galaxy Battle Armor and its companions were in a semi-shutdown state.

The masters within the armor also voluntarily entered hibernation.

Normally, upon arrival, the battleship would awaken them.

But this time, they slept for five full years without arrival, and ultimately woke up naturally.

They naturally awoke at intervals in absence of danger during their hibernation and sleep, to prevent falling asleep indefinitely.

Upon waking, the Galaxy Battle Armor astonishingly found that inside the entire battleship, there was only their squad.

Including the Fourth Rank captain, there were only seventeen people and seventeen suits of armor.

Besides this, the whole battleship was empty, without any other presence.

They urgently searched the entire battleship without any clues.

The entire Betrayal Legion, over 3,000 Galaxy Warriors, each at least Seven-Star warriors, wearing at least Eight-Star armor.

Plus over a hundred Fourth Rank captains, and a Fifth Rank Commander...

What a powerful force this was!

And yet silently, such a powerful force vanished!

At this time, the battleship still traveled within subspace, moving forward.

But without a "Navigator," no one knew in which direction the battleship headed.

The captain, an experienced veteran, immediately activated all the battleship's weapon systems and entered an emergency alert state.

He suspected that some mysterious presence in subspace attacked the battleship, leading to their disappearance.

Or perhaps, that prominent figure on Azure Star who betrayed the Empire discovered them, thus launching some conspiracy midway.

But without evidence, everything was mere speculation.

The captain tried using the battleship's emergency call system to contact the Empire, but there was no response.

The entire channel was dead silent, as if the Empire no longer existed.

Facing this situation, although the Galaxy Battle Armor lacked a sense of terror, it still felt slightly uneasy.

After discussing briefly with other members, the captain decided to activate the battleship's material engine to break out from subspace and return to the Material Universe to find where they exactly were.

Soon, the material engine activated, subspace was broken open, and the battleship returned to the Material Universe.

A beautiful azure planet appeared in everyone's sight.

Azure Star! After returning to the Material Universe, they directly appeared on Azure Star's orbit.

Had they been drifting in subspace near Azure Star for years during that time?

Were those fleet members attacked by that prominent figure named Zhang Chenfeng?

This squad of Galaxy Warriors, facing such a situation, all wore grave expressions.

However, before they figured out how to proceed, a communication signal came through from the space station above Azure Star.

Signal source: Giant God Soldiers Commander, Zhang Chenfeng!

Chapter 737: What Year Did You Set Off?

Seeing Zhang Chenfeng's identification information on the communication signal, the Galaxy Battle Armor immediately tensed up.

Having just returned to the Material Universe, are they really going to face this terrifying figure right away?

But the strongest commander has already disappeared, how could this small team possibly defeat a Fifth Rank giant?

The members of this squad exchanged glances, seeing the resolve in each other's eyes.

It seems today will be their last battle!

The Fourth Rank captain pondered for a moment and chose to connect.

There was no hurry for battle; he wanted to see what this formidable figure had to say.

On the battleship's holographic screen, the projection of that young prominent figure immediately appeared.

After Zhang Chenfeng's projection appeared, he didn't speak, but first glanced around the battleship.

Clearly just a projection, yet the Galaxy Battle Armor felt as if Zhang Chenfeng's gaze could see through the entire battleship.

After watching for a while, Zhang Chenfeng's expression turned solemn, and then he looked at the Galaxy Battle Armor, coldly saying:

"Soldiers, why are you here? I did not receive any Imperial documents, nor navigation signals. You have illegally intruded, and according to Imperial law, I could execute you directly!"

"And, is it just you on this battleship? Where are the other members?"

"How did you bypass the Defense System to appear in orbit?"

"Speak!"

His tone was stern, leaving the Galaxy Battle Armor staring at each other.

Listening to Zhang Chenfeng's tone, it seemed as though the Galaxy Battle Armor were the rebels, secretly infiltrating Azure Star with malicious intent, only to be discovered by this big figure, who came to hold them accountable.

However, these Galaxy Warriors were extremely resolute, without a moment of confusion, nor were they misled by Zhang Chenfeng's words, they instead took out the Imperial military orders and read them to Zhang Chenfeng.

Although it was impossible for them to defeat Zhang Chenfeng, they needed to uphold the Imperial righteousness, dying with dignity.

Upon hearing the military orders they read, Zhang Chenfeng's expression instantly became very strange.

He asked in a somewhat uncertain tone, "Are you saying that Azure Star and the Empire have lost contact for over a hundred years? Then your battle group set off aboard a warship to suppress the rebellion? Upon arrival, you found everyone else had disappeared?"

The Galaxy Warrior Captain, misunderstanding his intention, thought Zhang Chenfeng was pretending and angrily shouted, "Stop with the nonsense! Isn't it you who made the others disappear?"

"The military orders have been read, so let's fight if we must!"

With that, the captain unleashed all his power, preparing for a desperate fight.

The other Galaxy Warriors saw this and also unleashed their full strength.

As bioengineered strong warriors, the Galaxy Warriors burned their internal core "seeds," unleashing their final power to be loyal to the Empire.

The Galaxy Battle Armor also released its full power, with the core engine operating at full capacity.

Seeing this, Zhang Chenfeng employed some unknown means, and that holographic projection actually became solid, stepping out of the communication device.

Upon Zhang Chenfeng's physical appearance, he immediately exuded an immensely powerful aura, as if a planet slowly rotating in front of everyone, emitting a gravitational force equivalent to trillions of tons, crushing everything.

The recently exploded power of everyone was instantly suppressed; they couldn't even exert a bit of strength, standing as if soldiers receiving an officer's inspection.

"No wonder the commander and others disappeared without a trace..."

"No wonder at least five more battalions are on standby to provide support if needed to deal with him..."

Only now did everyone understand why Zhang Chenfeng was called a big figure.

Although both are Fifth Rank, Zhang Chenfeng is much stronger than the Galaxy Warrior's commander!

There are differences even among Planet-Level ranks.

Can an asteroid, a giant planet, and even a star be on the same level?

Facing such a terrifying enemy, everyone knew there was no chance at all.

Yet, they were loyal and brave warriors, without despair or fear. Although immobilized, they still glared at Zhang Chenfeng.

Zhang Chenfeng ignored their gazes, pondering for a moment, and asked an enigmatic question, "What year did you set out?"

With his question, everyone felt their mouths could move, as Zhang Chenfeng withdrew some forces, allowing them to answer.

But they didn't understand what this question meant, nor did they know how to answer.

Moreover, they were not obligated to answer this rebel's question.

Only the Fourth Rank captain, seemingly realizing something, his expression changed slightly, replied, "When we set out, it was the Imperial Expedition Calendar, year 30427!"

Upon hearing this, Zhang Chenfeng nodded, "I see, you arrived early. It is now...year 29735!"

The Fourth Rank Captain heard this and was filled with disbelief, "What?"

Others, upon hearing this, were also shocked, unable to believe it.

Zhang Chenfeng didn't argue, pointing outside the ship's window, "Your battleship's system time is already chaotic. However, it has its own time calibration function, which can calibrate time based on the Star Chart."

"If you don't believe it, you can try."

After speaking, Zhang Chenfeng withdrew some more power, allowing them to act.

The Fourth Rank captain rushed to the ship's console, discovering that the system time, which had been fine earlier, was indeed now chaotic, showing only gibberish.

The captain quickly activated time calibration.

Instantly, the deep-space telescope on the ship aimed at the starry sky, aligning with the Star Chart in the database.

The entire galaxy constantly moves and changes, so the Empire created a dynamic Star Chart, which records the movement of all stars within a hundred thousand light-years, enabling the army on missions to confirm positions and calibrate time.

Chapter 738: Which Year Did You Set Off?_2

Of course, the complete Star Chart is an imperial secret.

The one on this battleship is just a small part, recording only the positions of some planets along the route.

But even this small part is enough for time calibration.

After comparing with the Star Chart, the battleship's system time quickly changed.

"Year 29735 of the Expedition Era..."

Everyone looked at the numbers on the system screen, all with faces full of shock.

Zhang Chenfeng, however, had an expression of certainty.

"What's going on here, did you tamper with the system data?"

Everyone was puzzled, suspecting that Zhang Chenfeng was behind it.

But Zhang Chenfeng shook his head and said, "If I really betrayed you, wanting to kill you or even brainwash and change your consciousness would be just a thought away, why bother with such a hassle?"

Hearing this, everyone knew that Zhang Chenfeng was telling the truth.

He was too powerful, and they had no resistance against him at all. Such an influential figure truly had no need to engage in petty conspiracies.

Then what was this all about? Had they really traveled back hundreds of years?

Only that Fourth Rank captain vaguely guessed something.

Zhang Chenfeng was silent for a moment, then answered, "You should know, the nature of Subspace is very chaotic. This chaos manifests not only in space but also in time."

"The time flow rate in Subspace varies greatly depending on the location. Without Navigation, one might mistakenly enter a high-speed time zone and instantly pass through tens of thousands of years, aging and dying immediately..."

Everyone, being warriors of the Galaxy, naturally knew these theories, and they vaguely understood what Zhang Chenfeng meant by his words.

"Are you saying we're the same..."

Zhang Chenfeng nodded and said, "Exactly! The temporal chaos in Subspace has intensified! Not only has the time flow rate changed, but the entire timeline has also become chaotic."

"This is why you embarked in 30427 but arrived in 29735."

"You have achieved time travel!"

Though everyone had already guessed what Zhang Chenfeng was about to say, hearing him say it out loud still felt absurd—how could this be possible?

Arriving hundreds of years before departure!

They had never heard of such a thing!

Even the Radiant Emperor, whose brilliance illuminated the Star Sea, had never been known to achieve time travel.

Let alone them, just a handful of small Galaxy Warriors?

Zhang Chenfeng saw their disbelief, shook his head slightly, and said, "Before seeing you, I also didn't believe it. I've always been researching the Power of Time, hoping to achieve time travel, but unfortunately, I've never been successful."

"But now I finally understand why it never worked."

Zhang Chentao's eyes were deep, as if observing something unknown: "The problem lies not with me but with Subspace itself."

"Subspace has undergone some changes, and the chaos in time has worsened!"

Hearing this, everyone fell into a long silence.

Facing such a bizarre situation, they also didn't know what to do.

After a while, the Fourth Rank captain asked, "Then have you actually betrayed us? What about our mission? And where are the rest of the command group?"

Upon hearing this, Zhang Chenfeng laughed: "Since it's a matter of the future, how would I know? Although I can see some aspects of the future, it's not comprehensive. Being separated by hundreds of years, I can't see clearly, and with your variables, it's even more unclear."

"As for your mission, it's naturally void. You can report it to the Empire and make your excuses to them."

"As for your command group, they should still be waging war deep in the starry skies or resting on the Base Planet."

"As for where they are in 30427, that I don't know."

Upon hearing this, the Galaxy Warriors were even more startled.

What? Reporting to the Empire for debriefing?

They took on the mission in 30427 and now report to the Empire of 29735, can this even be handed over? Isn't this ridiculous?

And the command group still waging war deep in the starry skies?

Yes, if now is 29735, the command group is naturally fine, only these ten or so unfortunate ones have traveled back.

Moreover, this also brought another issue: they are from 30427. So where are they now in 29735?

Could it be they each have two selves now? What does this mean?

Zhang Chenfeng saw their concerns and said, "Don't worry, go ahead and report to the Empire. They must have anticipated and researched this kind of situation."

"Perhaps this has happened many times before, but you weren't high-ranking enough to be aware of it. Even I only had some guesses before and hadn't encountered a case."

"Your battleship has undergone time travel, with some issues in its time system. Come to the Azure Space Station and use its equipment to contact the Empire."

After speaking, Zhang Chenfeng's silhouette vanished.

Once Zhang Chenfeng left, the terrifying pressure immediately disappeared, and everyone regained their normal ability to move.

They looked at each other, still immersed in shock.

Time travel? Can such a thing really happen?

Although they were all strong warriors of the Third Rank and even Fourth Rank, and had been exposed to related theories, they had never heard of successful cases. Now, suddenly experiencing time travel, even the most strong-willed warriors were a bit bewildered.

However, being battle-hardened, they quickly composed themselves, left the battleship, and headed toward the Azure Space Station.

They all possessed great strength and wore battle armor, allowing them to undertake short flights in the Cosmic Vacuum without any tools, flying directly out.

Soon, they arrived at the Azure Space Station, 100,000 kilometers away.

Inside the space station, Zhang Chenfeng's projection appeared once more, leading them to the space station's long-range communication device. Using the Spirit Speaker's ability, they connected with the Empire's core.

The vastness of the Galaxy presented significant challenges to communication.

Even with the Empire's advanced technology, it required the Extraordinary Ability of the Spirit Speaker, along with special mechanical equipment, to achieve real-time communication.

Each activation consumed a massive amount of energy.

These Galaxy Warriors had undergone extensive Transformation, and their battle armor was also forged by the Empire.

At the moment of connection, the chips implanted in their bodies verified the signal authorization.

They immediately realized this was an actual communication, not a fabrication by Zhang Chenfeng.

Unless Zhang Chenfeng possessed power comparable to the Radiant Emperor, he couldn't tamper with such an authorization.

If the communication was genuine, then what Zhang Chenfeng had just said... was also true?

After verification, the Galaxy Warriors, with anxious hearts, initiated targeted communication.

For reporting to the higher-ups, they naturally first selected their direct superior.

Soon, in the communication projection, they saw their command group leader... the disappeared command group leader!

That Fifth Rank command group leader was indeed doing well in this space-time.

He seemed to be resting on the Base Planet at the moment.

Both sides were somewhat surprised by the encounter.

The Galaxy Warriors were astonished because they saw their missing command group leader, further proving Zhang Chenfeng's theory.

The command group leader, however, noticed... this squad in the communication was supposedly resting on the Base Planet as well, so how did they suddenly end up millions of light-years away at Azure Star? What's going on?

Despite his bewilderment, the command group leader concealed his emotions, quietly listening to this squad's report.

A moment later, he also showed a startled expression.

After a while, the command group leader suddenly vanished from the communication screen, reappearing shortly with a squad of over ten people.

That squad was almost identical to the one on Azure Star, or rather, they were the same group of people!

It's just that the ones on Azure Star were a bit older, with two or three people different.

That's because, over the hundreds of years, some members of this squad had perished, replaced by new ones.

However, most remained unchanged, still the same people!

The two groups stared across tens of thousands of light-years, locking eyes in silence.

And Zhang Chenfeng watched all this, revealing an expression of keen interest...

Chapter 739: The Three Great Alien Races!

Both teams of Galaxy Warriors saw another version of themselves, and immediately began to doubt their existence and suspect that the counterparts might be fake.

However, after a round of questioning and comparison, they finally confirmed that both groups were real!

But even so, they still couldn't confirm the authenticity of both sides completely.

So, the commander of the Galaxy Warriors immediately ordered that both squads be fully controlled for research and questioning.

Soon, a Galaxy Warrior investigation team arrived at Azure Star and took away the time-traveling Galaxy Warriors.

In the subsequent century, these two squads of Galaxy Warriors underwent various studies in the Empire's research facilities.

After a full one hundred seventy years of research, they were released.

As for what exactly was researched, they didn't know, as their memories related to it had been erased upon release.

Additionally, the two warrior squads were separated and not allowed to meet each other.

Then, for reasons unknown, this time-traveling squad of Galaxy Warriors was sent back to Azure Star and became warriors under Zhang Chenfeng.

It was indeed peculiar that Zhang Chenfeng, a commander of the Giant God Soldiers, had a squad of Galaxy Warriors under his command.

This squad speculated that the Empire sent them back to Azure Star, possibly hoping they could trigger the subspace conduit near Azure Star, opening up the path to the future.

As for Zhang Chenfeng, who might betray in the future, surprisingly, the Empire did not deal with him, and he remained as Commander, stationed on Azure Star.

On matters related to such prominent figures, the warriors of this Galaxy squad understood to follow orders without questioning or overthinking.

Thus, for the next few centuries, this squad was continually under Zhang Chenfeng's command, completing various missions.

Oddly enough, despite Azure Star initially being a frontier planet, it had an unusually high number of missions, with alien species frequently invading, so the squad was never short of tasks.

Over the course of a century or two, they never triggered any sort of time conduit.

However, they weren't impatient, but rather awaited that day's arrival with anticipation.

That day, as they called it, was the day they received their mission in the year 30427.

They wanted to find out what would happen at that time.

And what exactly took place on Azure Star then? Did Zhang Chenfeng really betray?

Having experienced such occurrences, they were intensely eager to uncover the truth, even at the cost of their lives.

Ultimately, they awaited that day, for in the year 30314, the subspace tides erupted!

These individuals finally realized why Azure Star had lost contact with the Empire for a hundred years.

It was because the subspace tides had interrupted communications!

Following this, the Brutal Evil God appeared, and Zhang Chenfeng fought fiercely against it. Naturally, this squad of Galaxy Warriors joined in the battle, suffering heavy losses.

Then came the establishment of the Azure Second Empire, and the Brutal Evil God attacked again, stirring up a great rebellion. Zhang Chenfeng sacrificed his life to seal the Brutality, and the Galaxy Warrior squad was wiped out in this battle, leaving only a damaged Galaxy Battle Armor.

The reason this Galaxy Battle Armor remained was due to the squad's efforts to protect it.

They wanted to preserve at least one piece to see what would happen in the year 30427.

Unfortunately, the Galaxy Battle Armor waited until that year, but nothing happened.

The sacrifices of their comrades seemed utterly meaningless.

In disappointment, the Galaxy Battle Armor entered a dormant state to conserve energy.

Ultimately, this piece of Galaxy Battle Armor was discovered a thousand years later by a young man named Tie Long...

And that is the story of the Galaxy Battle Armor.

Su Yu remained silent for a long time after hearing this, deep in thought.

He hadn't expected the origin of the Galaxy Battle Armor to be so bizarre, actually traveling back from the future.

"So, as it turns out, a hundred years after the subspace tides erupted, the Empire was still operating normally, even dispatching Galaxy Warriors to investigate..."

"No! That's not right, the Empire then must have been abnormal as well, otherwise they wouldn't wait a hundred years to begin investigating."

"Moreover, what exactly is the 'Empire' to which the Galaxy Battle Armor belongs? Is it a possible future, or a real worldline?"

"Does that future 'Empire' still exist now?"

"And what is the Galaxy Battle Armor now? Is it a mere time projection or real?"

Su Yu had many questions in his mind.

But unfortunately, the Galaxy Battle Armor itself couldn't answer Su Yu; he must find the answers himself.

Su Yu wasn't disappointed, as the information provided by the Galaxy Battle Armor was already extremely valuable, what more could he have asked for?

The most important revelation was that the Galaxy Battle Armor proved to Su Yu that time travel is achievable!

This meant his "Time Mechanic" conception was also possible!

Su Yu's Time Mechanic was aimed at creating a time machine to achieve time travel.

Before this, even he doubted whether such a feat was possible, but the existence of the Galaxy Battle Armor boosted his confidence tremendously.

In fact, as Su Yu gazed at the Galaxy Battle Armor, a possibility suddenly occurred to him.

To create a time machine, aside from the technical details, the materials used are also crucial.

The ideal materials would inherently contain the power of time. Such magical materials would be challenging to find, something Su Yu hadn't even heard of.

Chapter 740: The Three Great Alien Races!_2

But... if we use the Galaxy Battle Armor as "material," since it has itself traveled through time and space, could it be that kind of "material"?

Thinking of this, Su Yu's gaze towards the Galaxy Battle Armor became peculiar.

Of course, Su Yu wasn't planning to dismantle the Galaxy Battle Armor for iron but wanted to research and transform it. However, in that case, dismantling it wouldn't make much difference; it's just uncertain whether it would agree.

"Right, if I can find the remains of that Galaxy Warrior team, it should also be possible..."

Su Yu recalled the companions of the Galaxy Battle Armor.

Although they have died or been scrapped, their remains should still exist. If found, they could be excellent materials.

But in that case, it's even more excessive. Would the Galaxy Battle Armor agree to let Su Yu dig up its companions' graves?

At this point, the Galaxy Battle Armor also noticed Su Yu's strange gaze and asked, "Su Yu, what's going on with you? What are you thinking about?"

Su Yu heard this, came back to his senses, and after a moment of silence, spoke, "I have a plan..."

Su Yu then explained his idea of creating a time-related profession: the Time Mechanic, to the Galaxy Battle Armor.

"Time Mechanic? Time machine?"

Upon hearing Su Yu's explanation, the Galaxy Battle Armor was taken aback.

It didn't expect Su Yu to have such a plan.

Su Yu, somewhat surprised, asked, "What, didn't you guys try to research such machines or professions in the past?"

The Galaxy Battle Armor shook its head: "No, back then, we were just running around near Azure Star, doing missions, trying to find a passage to the future. As for research, honestly, no one ever mentioned it."

Upon hearing this, Su Yu's eyes were thoughtful.

Su Yu speculated that in the Empire Research Institute, some kind of mental limitation was implanted in the Galaxy Battle Armor, preventing them from considering this research direction.

As for why this limitation was implanted, Su Yu didn't know.

But now, the Galaxy Battle Armor has been marked with the Mark of [King], and it has normal emotions and desires, so presumably, there are no limitations anymore.

"So, Su Yu, you're planning to use my body, as well as the remains of my companions, to research a time machine?"

The Galaxy Battle Armor asked.

Su Yu quickly replied: "That's right, but only if you agree. If you don't, then forget it."

The Galaxy Battle Armor is now also his friend, and they have shared a life-and-death friendship, fighting against the great enemy [King] together.

For his friends, Su Yu always tries his best and never forces them to do things they dislike.

Hearing this, the Galaxy Battle Armor didn't hesitate at all: "No problem, I agree!"

After speaking, it said a bit desolately, "Back then, my companions were always eager to know the truth until the end."

"Now with such an opportunity to fulfill their last wishes, how could I not agree?"

"The remains of my companions might still be where they fell in battle. The human corpses might have rotted, but the remnants of the armor can last a long time. I can take you to search for them now."

The Galaxy Battle Armor agreed very straightforwardly.

Su Yu was pleased and nodded: "There's no rush with this. I haven't really started the specific research yet, let's wait a bit longer."

Then, he thought to himself: "Speaking of which, there is indeed another who has truly traveled through time, and that is... myself!"

Su Yu had already prepared for the possibility that the Galaxy Battle Armor might not agree. If it didn't, Su Yu actually wouldn't mind because he had a better alternative, which is himself!

Su Yu has actually traveled through time too!

If creating a time machine, then Su Yu himself might also be excellent "material."

Su Yu pondered that, after all, he is powerful, with strong regenerative abilities. Putting some of his bones and flesh into the machine as materials wouldn't be a big deal, although the final product might look a bit strange, the effect might be even better!

But since the Galaxy Battle Armor has agreed now, this plan becomes a backup, to be considered later.

"Su Yu, do you have anything else you want to ask?"

The Galaxy Battle Armor asked when seeing that Su Yu wasn't in a hurry to find the remains.

Su Yu responded: "Of course, can you tell me more about the Empire from ten thousand years ago?"

Then, the Galaxy Battle Armor detailed the various past events of the Empire to Su Yu.

In the memory of the Galaxy Battle Armor, the Human Empire had undergone expeditions for a full thirty thousand years, with footprints spanning a million light-years, and colonized life planets numbered in the millions, with a population in the trillion billions!

Relying on a massive population and advanced technology, the Human Empire cultivated countless strong warriors.

Galaxy Warriors, Giant God Soldiers, Star Annihilation Envoys, Radiant Imperial Guard...

These names once echoed through the stars, becoming nightmares for countless alien races.

However, there were also powerful alien races that weren't afraid of the Empire's might and instead grandly launched a massive war against the Empire, becoming humanity's greatest enemies.

This war lasted for tens of thousands of years, and the Empire even seemed to be at a disadvantage.

If not for the fact that these alien races also had internal friction and often clashed, unable to unite, the Human Empire might have been exterminated by them.

According to the Galaxy Battle Armor, the alien races regarded as great enemies by the Human Empire numbered at least five or six.

The Galaxy Battle Armor had only encountered three of them, namely: Deep Space Ghosts, Inorganic Alliance, and Star Beasts.

These three alien races were all extremely terrifying.

The Deep Space Ghosts are a group of space phantoms without physical form, drifting in the cosmic vacuum in a spiritual state.

They feed on the spiritual energy, thoughts, and vitality of life. Once they encounter a life planet, they swarm over it, devouring all life on the planet completely.

Planets devoured by them are left with only a plethora of corpses.

The surface of these bodies might appear to still be breathing, with heartbeats, but they are actually all dead.

And from the bodies of the lives they kill, new Deep Space Ghosts are born, following them on their journey, continuing to drift until they encounter another life planet.

When they leave, the life force of the entire planet seems to have been drained, even plants can't grow, turning it into a dead star.

This group of phantoms is extremely bizarre, normal weapons can't harm them at all, and ordinary Spiritual Protection Shields can't block them either.

The Human Empire has had over ten thousand life planets attacked by these phantoms, with trillion billion-level populations devoured, while also giving birth to trillion billion-level Deep Space Ghosts!

The Galaxy Battle Armor had once seen a single lone Deep Space Ghost on a planet, and just that one almost wiped out its whole squad!

Fortunately, Deep Space Ghosts find Mechanical Creations to be somewhat "unappetizing," with low aggression, so in the end, the Galaxy Battle Armor and its squad managed to eliminate this Deep Space Ghost.

The Inorganic Alliance, on the other hand, is a group formed by inorganic life forms.

They are completely different from blood-flesh life forms like humans, having their own systems. In a way, they are somewhat similar to the Mechanical Race like [King], but they are not Mechanical Creations made by anyone; they are inorganic life forms evolved naturally.

The Galaxy Battle Armor doesn't know much about the Inorganic Alliance because it's said these guys invade the Empire's Mechanical Creations, causing them to betray.

All Mechanical Creations that have contacted the Inorganic Alliance undergo data cleansing to ensure safety.

The Galaxy Battle Armor naturally experienced cleansing and forgot much of the related information.

As for the Star Beasts, they are even more terrifying!

They are true predators, the overlords of the starry sky.

They have no real civilization, just beasts.

But unlike ordinary beasts, they are massive! Each one is about the size of a planet, or even larger!

They feed on planets, devouring them as they go.

If the universe is like an ocean, these Star Beasts are the fish swimming in that ocean, with planets being their food.

Deep Space Ghosts only devour life, but these Star Beasts consume entire planets!