

Infinite Job Transfers Starting from Mechanic

#Chapter 1: Ruins Star, Radiation Sickness - Read Infinite Job Transfers Starting from Mechanic Chapter 1: Ruins Star, Radiation Sickness

Chapter 1: Chapter 1: Ruins Star, Radiation Sickness

"These are your medications for today, these are the firearms you need to repair and reclaim this week, and also..."

On the Ruins Star, at Shelter No. 73, the clerk from the administration put a pile of worn-out firearms onto the trolley, then took out a test tube filled with amber liquid and handed it to Su Yu, hesitated a moment, and added a word of caution.

"Due to the recent expansion activities of the Night Slayer Team, the sanctuary's stock of Antiradiation Potions has become insufficient. This is your third potion, and also your last one. Good luck."

Su Yu rubbed his face vigorously, took the potion from the clerk's hand, squeezed out a smile, and said: "Thank you, bless your words."

With that, he took the trolley and potion back to his repair shop.

"Compared to other transmigrators, my transmigrator life is really a bit of a disaster..."

After tidying up the repair room, Su Yu looked at the Antiradiation Potion in his hand and chuckled bitterly to himself.

Strictly speaking, he wasn't originally from this world, but a transmigrator from Blue Star.

What he faced after crossing over was a post-apocalyptic wasteland that was countless times harsher than his home planet, Blue Star.

[Ruins Star].

This star was established as a border post star at the edge of the Galaxy during the era of the Great Expedition of the Human Empire, mainly providing navigation guides and some logistical supply to the human fleets in the Star Sea during the Great Expedition.

But this was the forty-thousandth year of the Empire reigning over the Galaxy.

The splendor of the Great Expedition had long been buried by the dust of history, torn apart by civil strife and alien races, the glory of reigning over the Galaxy ceased to exist, and the border post star, once beautifully named [Azure], has now become just one of the many ruins stars in space.

The people on this Ruins Star are the descendants of the survivors from the end of the Great Expedition. Due to technological loss and the scarcity of resources on the Ruins Star, they have no hope of leaving this planet.

What awaits them is a short life of struggling to survive amidst radiation and dust.

Luckily, with a little bit of luck and the advantage of a physically transmigrated body, even though it seemed that when he crossed through time, his physical age decreased significantly, returning to eleven or twelve years old.

However, with a body not heavily affected by radiation and a learning ability considered excellent on this star, Su Yu became a resident of Shelter No. 73 and an apprentice mechanic.

It was just a year ago that the only old man in the Shelter willing to guide Su Yu in mechanical repair skills passed away from radiation sickness.

And soon after, the unfortunate Su Yu also contracted radiation sickness.

Su Yu looked at his right arm, where a large swath of muscle tissue had turned dark purple due to radiation erosion, accompanied by bouts of weakness.

As time passes, this necrosis will spread to the entire right arm, and by then he will have to have it amputated.

However, compared to many radiation sicknesses which are lethal upon infection, Su Yu's symptoms were considered relatively mild.

But the problem is, for Su Yu, an apprentice mechanic with little more than two and a half years of experience, losing an arm obviously made it impossible for him to undertake mechanical repair jobs.

And in the Shelter, they never keep idle people.

Without being a mechanic and with no other work experience, any job Su Yu could take would be exponentially more dangerous. Considering Su Yu's future health condition, it's possible that in one or two years, he would become a skeleton in the wasteland.

The only hope is the Antiradiation Potion in front of him.

This is one of the few benefits residents of the Shelter can receive.

When infected with radiation sickness, one can receive a portion every week, up to three weeks. After using three portions, depending on the type of radiation sickness, there's about a ten percent chance of recovery.

There's also a twenty to thirty percent chance to slow the progression of radiation sickness.

Considering the relatively mild symptoms of Su Yu's radiation sickness, his chance of recovery might be higher than ten percent.

"Even if worst comes to worst, it should at least delay the radiation illness, right?"

Su Yu gritted his teeth.

Though the expansion activities of the Night Slayer Team recently made the contributions of various materials in the Shelter become more expensive.

Antiradiation Potions also became twenty percent more expensive than before.

However, as long as he can gain more time, he can accumulate contributions by repairing firearms for the Shelter's hunting team to exchange for new Antiradiation Potions.

But,

after finishing a day's work,

Su Yu took out the Antiradiation Potion he received, removed the stopper, and directly aimed the test tube at the necrotic part on his right arm, pouring it forcefully!

Shelter No. 73 is just a small shelter with no high-grade Antiradiation Potions and a great deal of harm to the human body. Oral intake or soaking the infected area is not applicable. This crude method of use is the best way.

"Ssss——!"

It was like pouring ice water onto burning coals, a white mist rose rapidly from the necrotic tissue on Su Yu's arm, accompanied by intense pain, causing Su Yu to clench his teeth tightly, veins bulging on his forehead, as he plopped down on the ground!

Although it wasn't the first time using such a potion, the pain was still something Su Yu found hard to endure.

It wasn't until half an hour later that the intense pain slightly eased.

Su Yu dressed, took out a simple Nutrition Meal from the old cabinet, and ate the plant mush with no taste or flavor that only provided basic calories, after which he impatiently turned off the lights, went to bed, and slept.

The Antiradiation Potion needed a whole night to take effect, and to know his fate would wait until the next morning to reveal.

With expectations for tomorrow, Su Yu drifted into dreamland.

However, in the early morning of the next day, when Su Yu came eagerly to the mirror, already shattered in half, and rolled up his sleeves, the sight before his eyes left even the inherently optimistic Su Yu speechless!

The worst outcome.

The necrotic muscle tissue on Su Yu's right arm showed no sign of improvement, not even a delay.

The necrosis that originally occupied one-fifth of his arm had progressed slightly toward his wrist overnight.

At this rate, in at most three months, the muscle on Su Yu's right arm would completely necrotize.

And judging by the weakness in his right arm, it might only be one or two months before Su Yu can no longer work as a mechanic.

"Could it be because I repair too many firearms, my luck in this life turned sharpshooter unlucky? But guns aren't alive!"

Su Yu almost wanted to cry out of frustration.

But at this moment,

Su Yu suddenly noticed something new in the mirror in front of him.

No.

That's not right.

It wasn't that something appeared on the mirror, but in his field of vision, with Su Yu focusing his attention, gradually, a faint blue virtual display screen emerged!

Chapter 2: Chapter 2 Profession Panel, Transfer to Mechanic

"This is..."

Su Yu held his breath, his eyes revealing an uncontainable shock!

[The Profession System has been bound]

[The Profession Panel has been unlocked]

[Reading current host ability values for assessment, assessment complete...]

As the final message appeared.

The virtual screen in front of Su Yu flickered as if refreshing, then three new entries emerged.

[The skills the host currently possesses are]

[Level 1 Basic Martial Arts: Eligible for Foundation Profession - Fighter]

[Level 3 Basic Gun Mastery: Eligible for Foundation Profession - Gunsmith]

[Level 4 Basic Mechanical Repair: Eligible for Foundation Profession - Mechanic]

[Please choose the profession you are prepared to take]

"Is this... my golden finger?"

Su Yu took a deep breath, staring intently at the profession panel in front of him, his mind racing.

"What is the main function of this system, and what impact does it have after taking a profession?"

"Ding! The function of this system is designed to assist the host in improving skills related to the chosen profession and ultimately achieve the highest professional accomplishments. After taking a profession, the host can gain corresponding professional experience points from daily work and life, enhancing profession level and skill level."

"Enhancing skill level allows the host to achieve greater work efficiency; enhancing profession level unlocks the core skills corresponding to the profession and higher-tier profession transfer permissions. Additionally..."

"Furthermore, after reaching the max level of a foundation profession and meeting certain conditions, one can transfer to a first-tier profession."

"For example: Mechanic (primary) + Gunsmith + unknown condition = first-tier profession Battlefield Mechanic."

...

Su Yu's pupils contracted instantly.

On the virtual screen, a line of small characters continued to appear.

"With each profession level upgrade, the host's physical qualities will be enhanced to different degrees, depending on the type of profession upgrade!"

Physical qualities enhancement!

For this alone, Su Yu had no more hesitations.

His gaze instantly fell on the three profession options currently available to him.

The profession Fighter, needless to say, would provide significant improvements to physical qualities, particularly disease resistance, which would be the best defense against his current radiation disease.

As for Gunsmith, after taking the profession, it should offer certain damage bonuses in firearm use, similar to Fighter, both being combat professions.

Although the physical qualities enhancement might be slightly inferior to Fighter, it should not be too far behind.

But then there's Mechanic.

The corresponding skills are all related to mechanical repair, clearly an auxiliary profession.

The physical qualities enhancement from profession level upgrade might not be significant.

After a brief contemplation, Su Yu decisively chose Mechanic.

The reason was simple.

He cannot gain much experience from daily life by choosing Fighter or Gunsmith.

True.

He could choose to join an expedition team or a hunting squad.

But given his current weak and sickly physique, taking on highly dangerous tasks with every expedition or hunt possibly losing a few members.

Su Yu thought he would likely die in the hands of Radiation Beasts or rogue guild members before he could enhance his profession level and cure his radiation disease with a strong physique.

On the other hand, Mechanic, being an auxiliary profession, might offer lesser physical enhancement compared to the other two but was safer and more stable.

There are also more channels to acquire experience!

Moreover, compared to Gunsmith and Fighter, Su Yu preferred Mechanic as his first foundation profession!

However, Su Yu still kept a lookout.

"After taking a foundation profession, how can I take another foundation profession?"

"Once the current foundation profession reaches max level, you can transfer to the next foundation profession. The max level for foundation professions is level ten."

Upon confirming this.

Su Yu had no more hesitations and directly said, "I choose to take the profession, Mechanic!"

"Ding!"

"Congratulations to the host for successfully taking the profession, your current profession is: Mechanic (Level 1: 0/1000)."

"Congratulations to the host for successfully awakening the core ability: Mechanical Affinity (Level 1), which allows for clearer perception of mechanical creations and faster learning efficiency in mechanical knowledge..."

As the system prompt tone faded.

Su Yu felt as though some kind of restraint in his mind had quietly unlocked.

Although it hadn't been tested, he inexplicably felt that his memory and comprehension abilities had quietly increased.

Also, a surge of power appeared within him, making his energy more abundant!

However, compared to the improvement in memory and comprehension, there was only a slight increase in energy.

But even so.

As the profession took effect.

Su Yu still delightedly discovered that a large patch of necrotic tissue on his right arm, caused by radiation sickness, had receded a bit!

Accordingly.

The fatigue he felt upon waking had also eased considerably.

This back and forth.

At the least, it granted him another month!

"To reach the next level, requires one thousand experience points?"

Su Yu looked at the experience bar needed for the Mechanic profession upgrade, rubbing his hands together, excitement filled his eyes!

"Nuonuo, get ready to work!"

Upon Su Yu's call.

In the corner near the wall, a charging, robot that looked like Wall-E from an animated movie in Su Yu's previous life, had display screen representing its eyes suddenly light up.

"Roger, commencing work, commencing work!"

The monotonous electronic voice repeated, and the little robot named Nuonuo meekly followed Su Yu, helping to hand over parts, dismantle weapons, working efficiently as usual.

However, Su Yu's efficiency greatly improved!

And, with the completion of each firearm repair, Su Yu could hear the system's prompt tone.

[You have completed the repair of an improvised firearm (simple), repair difficulty rating: simple, you have gained five Mechanic profession experience points, and ten Basic Mechanical Repair skill points]

[You have completed the repair of a...]

Soon, half a day's time passed.

Su Yu delightedly found that he had completed the workload that originally took him a full day!

Moreover, with the successful repair of the last firearm, Su Yu's Basic Mechanical Repair skill also successfully leveled up.

Instantly, numerous mechanical repair knowledge emerged in Su Yu's mind.

Some were what he had learned from his mentor, and some were brand new knowledge he had never been exposed to, all quickly memorized under the core ability [Mechanical Affinity], meticulously recalling and quickly understanding this knowledge.

Moments later.

When Su Yu reopened his eyes, his gaze was no longer on the assembled or recovered firearms but on the bottom of the repair shop's counter.

There, lay numerous parts, along with quite a few badly damaged mechanical creations from the era of civilization.

Some parts and creations were left by the mentor, others were what Su Yu retained after completing repair tasks and submitting them to the management.

He walked up, rummaging through the counter briefly, then stood up with two weapons in his arms.

One Chain Saw.

Another, a lead-gray dual-range shotgun.

This was among Su Yu's mentor's collection, but like other collections, the core mechanism of this dual-range shotgun had long since decayed.

It had gathered dust under the counter for many years, but now, Su Yu felt he could try restoring it.

Chapter 3: Chapter 3: Shadow Type 3 Electric Sniper Rifle

[You have completed a major repair of a Basic Mechanical Weapon. The repair difficulty is rated as: Difficult. You have gained 150 points of Mechanic Professional Experience and 300 points of Basic Mechanical Repair Skill Experience.]

[You have completed an initial repair of an Intermediate Mechanical Weapon. The repair difficulty is rated as: Difficult. You have gained 200 points of Mechanic Professional Experience and 500 points of Basic Mechanical Repair Skill Experience.]

Half a day later.

In the repair room, Su Yu let out a long breath, looking at the two weapons in front of him.

The Chain Saw had already been almost completely repaired by him.

Although there were some additional features, such as being able to activate at critical moments to unleash the saw's power and further increase the cutting speed at the risk of motor damage—these functions Su Yu couldn't reproduce.

All the conventional functions of this Chain Saw had been fully restored by Su Yu.

As for the Double-Range Shotgun, it still needed some work.

Although Su Yu successfully reproduced the core mechanism that switches the range of the Silver Deer Shotgun, he didn't know if it was because of the poor quality of the replacement parts or his skills not being up to par. Ultimately, the near-range of the reproduced Silver Deer Shotgun was only thirty meters, and the long-range just barely passed the fifty meters threshold.

Yet as a trade-off for sacrificing range,

the lethality of the shotgun was greatly enhanced.

Su Yu looked at the detailed repair rating feedback from the system.

[Repair Rating Overview]

[Overall Repair Evaluation: Moderate]

[Overall Repair Outcome: Functional]

[Post-repair...]

"At least it was successfully repaired, right?"

Su Yu scratched his head, mumbling confidently to himself.

After all, he repaired these two weapons to gain experience, and now that he had it, that was enough.

As both weapons were successfully repaired by Su Yu, the familiar feeling of upgrading came over him again.

However, this time, the feeling of amplification in learning abilities like memory and comprehension wasn't as strong, and the enhancement in physique wasn't as significant as when he first took the job.

But it still further reduced the necrotic tissue on Su Yu's right arm caused by radiation sickness.

From this efficiency, it seemed.

"At most by level seven, I can completely cure this radiation sickness through the physical improvements from leveling up!"

Su Yu clenched his fists slightly, his eyes filled with anticipation!

"Nuonuo, place the repaired firearms on the counter, and also send these two over there. By tomorrow, the hunting team might come to claim the repaired guns."

"Got it."

Obediently, Nuonuo came over, carefully placing each repaired firearm in its place.

Su Yu peeked outside at the sky, which had already turned a complete leaden gray. It was only seven o'clock, and back home, even in the village, people wouldn't sleep so early, but in the Sanctuary, it was completely dark.

Su Yu didn't do anything exceptional, just sighed lightly and returned to the bedroom to prepare for sleep.

Before going to bed, he glanced at the bedside table.

There, an Electric Sniper Rifle lay quietly.

The Electric Sniper Rifle looked exceptionally new.

But Su Yu knew that its newness was due to the careful maintenance he and his mentor had provided periodically over time.

In reality,

several core components inside the sniper rifle,
the Power Core, Capacitor Magazine, etc., were all in disrepair.

However, it was the most treasured possession of Su Yu's mentor in this world.

The kind-hearted old man spent his entire life without ever leaving the Sanctuary, solely relying on a few nearly crumbling propaganda magazines about the glorious days of the Human Empire during the Great Expedition ten thousand years ago, fostering his longing for space and the galaxy.

Even on his deathbed, the elderly gentleman never forgot to tell Su Yu to strive to leave this Ruins Star in the future, to witness for himself whether the universe and galaxies were as magnificent as the magazines described.

However, though Su Yu was grateful for the old man's teachings and guidance, he felt powerless to achieve this goal.

Due to the wars of the past and on the Ruins Star, the descendants of these survivors had long lost the technologies of the glorious era.

Moreover, in Su Yu's memory, Ruins Star had a very peculiar history. Whenever a dominant force developed to its peak, it would vanish in a very short time.

Even though Su Yu did not know the complete history of Ruins Star, he understood that it had long forgotten its past as a member of the Human Empire and lost its former technology.

To step into space would only be a dreamer's folly.

But now, Su Yu felt that it was no longer just a dream.

His gaze fell on the Electric Sniper Rifle left by the old man.

With Su Yu's focus, a line of information appeared.

[Shadow Type-3 Energy Sniper Rifle]

[Current Status: Severely Damaged]

[Repair Possibility: Possible (current repair possibility less than 0.1%)]

[Level: Exceptional (Mechanical Creations ranked from low to high: Simple, Basic, Intermediate, Advanced, Special, Exceptional...)]

[Note: In the process of repairing or recovering Exceptional Mechanical Creations, a Mechanic may trigger inspiration with a chance to receive a random reward, including but not limited to a large amount of professional experience, random skills, random Exceptional Mechanical Blueprints...]

"A random Exceptional Mechanical Blueprint!"

Though unsure whether the Exceptional Mechanical Blueprint could randomly yield a design related to a Spacecraft, at least having this note gave Su Yu a glimmer of hope!

Furthermore, not just for his mentor's last wish,

but also for himself,

Su Yu wanted to leave here.

Living on this radiation- and dust-buried Ruins Star, apart from those who have awakened Extraordinary Ability, ordinary people generally consider living to thirty as long-lived.

Even in the Sanctuary, reaching fifty is already considered old age.

The old man Su Yu spoke of was only fifty-one or fifty-two years old at his time of death, yet already had aged as if he were a seventy to eighty-year-old back in Su Yu's village home.

Gently stroking the Shadow Sniper Rifle in his hand,

Su Yu took a deep breath, pulled up the covers, and drifted into sleep until morning.

Upon waking from his slumber, Su Yu immediately headed to the dressing mirror.

As he anticipated, after two enhancements, the eroded areas had regressed, and the symptoms returned once more.

However, this progression was much, much slower than before.

"At this rate, even if I don't level up any further, my right arm's complete erosion could be staved off for at least five months!"

Finally, escaping the worst fate,

Su Yu let out a relieved breath and opened the repair room's door, only to hear a rather gruff voice coming towards him.

"Su boy, I came as soon as I heard you were infected with radiation sickness. How are you feeling now? Any better?"

The voice spoke, and immediately, a burly, bear-like middle-aged man, nearly two meters tall, squeezed through the repair shop door, looking at Su Yu with eyes full of concern!

Chapter 4: Chapter 4 Hunting Team, Trade

Feeling the concerned gaze of the middle-aged man, Su Yu's heart warmed slightly. He hurriedly stood up to welcome the man in, pulled out a chair for him, and said with a smile, "Thank you, Uncle Yang, for your concern. I just finished the third round of treatment yesterday. The medicine is taking effect. Although it only slows down the erosion rate, it's better than being ineffective!"

It's impossible to reveal his profession panel to outsiders, and it happens that the antiradiation potion also has the effect of delaying erosion, which perfectly explains the impact brought by his upgrade.

The middle-aged man before him is named Yang Lie. He is one of the thirteen Hunting Captains of Shelter No. 73, and a veteran hunter who has been in the Sanctuary hunting team for five years.

Although due to the recent expansion of the Night Slayer Team, the original thirteen hunting teams have been merged by two with the Night Slayer Team, leaving only eleven now.

But Yang Lie is still considered an outstanding hunter in the Sanctuary.

It's said that he has already awakened the extraordinary power of the Physical Body system and is a one-star Extraordinary of Physical Body, but Su Yu is not sure about the specifics.

However, Uncle Yang's physique is imposing and powerful, full of explosive muscles that seem to be brimming with strength.

The feeling Su Yu got was that he could be shattered with a single punch.

However, despite Yang Lie's rugged appearance, he is actually extremely bold and enthusiastic.

It was him who spoke up back then, which allowed the hunting team to agree to bring Su Yu back from the wilderness and entrust him to the old man's care and guidance.

With this kindness, Su Yu has always been immensely grateful to Yang Lie.

Every time before a mission, he puts his utmost effort into maintaining and repairing the equipment of Yang Lie's hunting squad.

"It's good that the medicine is working! You're right, any improvement is better than none, that's the optimistic outlook!"

Yang Lie breathed a sigh of relief upon hearing that the potion was working for Su Yu. After carefully examining Su Yu's complexion and confirming he wasn't deceiving him, Yang Lie nodded and handed a small package he held in his right hand to Su Yu.

"Take this. Your body must be weak now; this will help you recover!"

Su Yu took the package, opened it, and saw a piece of dark red Anger Scorpion Meat.

This Radiation Beast is extremely poisonous all over, but under the scale armor at the base of its scorpion tail, there is a small piece, about one or two pounds, of muscle.

This muscle not only has no radiation but is also incredibly delicious, capable of greatly restoring energy and even enhancing physical fitness.

It's considered a very precious delicacy on Ruins Star.

This half-pound piece of Anger Scorpion Meat could easily be traded for several rudimentary homemade firearms, with ammunition included, at other repair shops in the Sanctuary.

"This, this is too precious..."

Su Yu instinctively tried to refuse, but Yang Lie waved his hand directly: "Alright, don't play these tricks with me, kid. Just make sure to recover well. I'm still waiting for your craftsmanship to mature so you can custom-make a mechanical weapon for your Uncle Yang!"

Hearing Yang Lie's words,

Su Yu's heart moved, thinking of the two weapons he repaired yesterday, a gleam flashed in his eyes.

At this time, Yang Lie casually mentioned, "The hunting environment in the Sanctuary is becoming increasingly harsh. The Night Slayer Team, ranked third, is expanding too rapidly. If we can't complete the hunting tasks, our Ninth Squad might be forcibly merged by the Night Slayer."

"I don't know why the top two teams and the Manager have been so inactive, just watching the Night Slayer Team expand like this."

Su Yu also knew something about the Night Slayer Team.

This squad, although ranked third, is led by a rare Spirit-type Transcendent in the Sanctuary, whose power far surpasses ordinary Physical Body-type Transcendents. According to rumors, the Night Slayer Team's captain, Li He, has some background connections with other medium-sized settlements outside the Sanctuary.

And Shelter No. 73 is just a small Sanctuary; the Manager and the top two teams dare not obstruct the Night Slayer's expansion, which Su Yu can understand.

"After all, Li He has a background, and, come to think of it, the Manager hasn't taken action for many years. Isn't he quite old now..." Su Yu's tone carried some inexplicable meaning.

Indeed.

Has the manager not acted for so many years because he doesn't want to or because he can't?

Yang Lie suddenly thought of this, and his body trembled slightly. If the manager, a four-star top-level Transcendent pillar of the Sanctuary, cannot act, the consequences for the entire Sanctuary would be unimaginable.

"The affairs of those bigwigs are none of our business." Yang Lie shook his head, extinguishing the thought, and waved his hand directly: "Alright, I have to lead a team out today. The Management Office asked me to collect fifteen sets of firearms from you, each with a hundred rounds of ammunition. How's your preparation?"

Saying this, Yang Lie's tone was somewhat worried: "If you're not ready, Uncle Yang will have to take at least twelve sets, and we can have fewer bullets..."

Yang Lie hadn't finished his words.

It got stuck in his throat.

During the time he was speaking, Su Yu had already instructed Nuonuo to bring over the cart loaded with repaired firearms, with fifteen neatly arranged guns and a hundred rounds of matching caliber ammunition lying on the cart platform.

Every piece looked brand new and shiny, supposedly repaired firearms.

But when Yang Lie picked one up, loaded and chambered it, he felt an incredible smoothness, making his eyes light up!

"Kid, you're something! How did you do it?"

Yang Lie looked at Su Yu with delight.

He still remembered that just last month, the firearms he received from this kid still had some minor issues.

There were no major problems like breech explosions or misfires, but there were quite a few minor issues like jammed chambers, short range, and insufficient lethality.

But this was a common problem in all repair shops within the Sanctuary.

Even Su Yu's master couldn't avoid it, only reducing the defective rate to an extent.

But now, the quality of the firearms Su Yu presented was at least twenty percent higher than before!

Don't underestimate this twenty percent improvement. This means that Yang Lie's hunting team could increase their hunt by at least twenty percent, and personnel losses could be reduced significantly.

"I can't really say; maybe this illness gave me a lot of time to rest, allowing me to organize the knowledge taught by the old man."

Su Yu scratched his head and smiled, brushing it off.

Yang Lie naturally didn't suspect anything, looking at Su Yu with appreciation: "Great! It seems you've indeed found fortune in misfortune! Good! I'll take these firearms with me, and you just keep busy with your work!"

Yang Lie said this and was about to bid farewell with a salute, but at this moment, Su Yu took out two big items from behind the counter, instantly attracting Yang Lie's attention!

"Uncle Yang, didn't you always want me to craft a mechanical weapon for you? Check this out and see if you can make do with it for now?"

Su Yu pushed the completed Chain Saw towards Yang Lie, along with a shotgun.

The moment Yang Lie's gaze landed on the Chain Saw and shotgun, it was directly glued to these two weapons.

For the members of the hunting team, a good weapon could be life-saving at critical moments!

Moreover, for Yang Lie, who awakened a Physical Body system skill, not to mention the shotgun, just this Chain Saw could at least increase his hunting efficiency in the wilderness by thirty percent!

"You repaired all these?"

Yang Lie looked at Su Yu with shock.

Seeing Su Yu smile and nod in acknowledgment, Yang Lie couldn't help but swallow a mouthful of saliva.

"Su, can I try them out first?"

"Of course!"

Su Yu took out these items precisely to sell them to Uncle Yang.

These two weapons would be hard to sell to anyone else in the Sanctuary. Those who could afford them would either be from the hunting or exploration team's middle management.

And among those people, Yang Lie, who is closest to him, is naturally the preferred buyer.

Hearing Su Yu's permission, Yang Lie eagerly picked up the Chain Saw, swung it around, and a smile blossomed on his face.

This Chain Saw perfectly matched his desires!

As for the shotgun, Yang Lie was equally enthusiastic.

Although the shotgun's range was significantly reduced after Su Yu's repair, Yang Lie didn't care about that.

What does it matter if the range is short?

He's already imagining himself charging forward with the shotgun in hand when facing Radiation Beasts, blasting one at close range, then grabbing the Chain Saw to dismantle the Radiation Beast into eight pieces.

Imagining this scene, Yang Lie's blood boiled, and he couldn't wait to grab the gear and charge into the wilderness for a good fight with those Radiation Beasts!

Chapter 5: Chapter 5: Mechanical Parts, Mysterious Disc

Shelter No. 73 does not have currency, primarily because there is no market circulation, and as for contributions to the Sanctuary, they can only be used personally and cannot be transferred.

Therefore, the trade between the residents of the Sanctuary is mostly bartering.

The two weapons Su Yu traded to Yang Lie were a Chain Saw and a double-range shotgun, which, after repairs, was considered top-tier among Basic Firearms.

What he ultimately received in the trade was a third of the mechanical creations and parts from the next three hunts of Yang Lie's hunting team.

For Su Yu, this price was already quite a substantial return.

In addition, Yang Lie generously gave Su Yu ten boxes of Nutrition Meals as a sweetener, hoping Su Yu would notify him first when similar good items were repaired in the future.

Su Yu naturally did not refuse this.

There was actually a small incident; Yang Lie originally wanted to help his nephew by giving Su Yu five boxes of canned meat he traded from other collection points on the ruins, but Su Yu firmly refused.

The canned meat not produced by the Sanctuary had ingredients of overly complex origin.

It could either be untreated Radiation Beast Meat or even parts of other races or deceased Scavengers.

Yang Lie understood Su Yu's refusal, patted his shoulder, left ten boxes of Nutrition Meals, and then departed with the two weapons. It wasn't long before he returned with a cart.

Mechanical parts and damaged creations — this type of item is collected by every hunting team member to maintain their personal weapons and equipment.

As for a Hunting Team Leader like Yang Lie, his inventory was naturally larger.

He directly delivered three half-person-high large boxes to Su Yu, counting towards the first hunt's share.

Su Yu certainly welcomed it without hesitation.

He moved the three large boxes into his repair shop and, after waving goodbye to Yang Lie and closing the shop door, Su Yu's eyes gleamed as he looked at the three large boxes in front of him!

During the trade, he specifically reminded Yang Lie.

To bring as many damaged weapons as possible, with fewer parts, since his repair shop already had a significant inventory of parts.

The rationale for this is the source of the Mechanic's experience, which Su Yu discovered mainly comes from three activities.

Repairing, recycling, and self-assembling.

Among them, self-assembling weapons yield the most experience, followed by repairing, and finally recycling.

Unfortunately, Su Yu currently did not have many blueprints, and they were mostly basic mechanical weapons.

Assembling one could take half a day, yielding only around a hundred experience points.

In the same amount of time, repairing weapons yields more Professional Experience than assembling weapons, let alone recycling them.

Therefore, without mastering high-level blueprints, focusing on repairing weapons is essential for quick upgrades.

And indeed, Yang Lie responded appropriately.

Two out of the three large boxes were filled with various damaged mechanical creations.

"First, let's start sorting these out!"

The damaged mechanicals retrieved from the ruins mainly fall into five categories.

Close combat weapons like the Chain Saw Su Yu repaired yesterday.

Long-range combat weapons like shotguns.

Then, there are shield-type auxiliary defense weapons, wearable armor-type mechanical protectors, and vehicles.

However, mechanical protectors and damaged vehicles are too rare.

In his three years in the Sanctuary, Su Yu only encountered them once, and only the core mechanics of the Sanctuary were qualified to participate in their repair and recycling.

Obviously, the damaged mechanicals brought by Yang Lie did not include the last two types.

But to Su Yu's surprise, he found two Mechanical Energy Shields in those two large boxes.

However, just as Su Yu was delighted,

With his Mechanical Affinity already enhanced to Lv2, Su Yu keenly detected that the core units of these two Mechanical Energy Shields had been completely blown apart.

There was absolutely no possibility for repair.

The shield panel data given by the system subsequently confirmed this.

Seeing the big "Unrepairable" notice, Su Yu sighed.

While knowing that if these Mechanical Energy Shields could be fixed, they wouldn't have been left to gather dust at Yang Lie's home until now before being brought over.

He couldn't help but feel a bit disappointed.

Next, Su Yu discovered a peculiar item he suspected was overlooked.

It was a Metal Disc of unknown construction, looking fairly exquisite overall, which, after wiping, revealed a dark golden sheen.

The disc had unique embossed golden patterns, seemingly imbued with some magic. When one's attention was focused on it, Su Yu found his Spirit involuntarily drawn in, nearly putting him to sleep.

No matter how Su Yu examined it, he couldn't discern the mysteries within the disc.

If it were the past, Su Yu might have assumed it was a part from some special weapon and left it at that.

After all, in this world, Transcendents among humans do exist.

A Physical Body Transcendent like Yang Lie is just one kind; there's another type, with more special, eerie, and mysterious capabilities—the Spirit-based Transcendents.

Their weapons also often have similar mind-bewitching effects; hence, Su Yu wasn't too surprised.

However, this time,

Under the influence of the Mechanic's unique Mechanical Affinity, Su Yu did not discard the small disc.

He somehow felt that inside it, there was something important, but he lacked the technology to unravel it!

"But that's okay."

Su Yu exhaled, his eyes focusing on the two categories of weapons neatly arranged in front of him.

Melee mechanical implements and long-range firearms.

His eyes shone with determination!

"Once I'm done repairing and recycling this batch of weapons, the experience gained should be enough to further upgrade my Mechanic level and core ability, Mechanical Affinity."

"By then, maybe I can unlock the secret of this disc!"

Su Yu sprang into action, raising his hand.

"Nuonuo, let's get to work!"