Chapter 18 Thanks Dad

Ricky's mouth pressed into a hard line. Then, looking at Draxton, Ricky remained silent.

And then, Draxton took Ricky's small hand and led him to another room. "Let's see your room."

Following Draxton, Ricky made for his room.

Isabella gazed at the father and the son, a big guy and a little man, with a dreamy look in her eyes.

From behind, they looked so alike. The only difference was their height.

When Draxton and Ricky approached the door, they suddenly stopped at the same time. Turning around, they looked at Isabella.

Isabella was dumbstruck.

Draxton and Ricky looked at her silently. They had gotten the same look in their eyes.

"Aren't you coming with us?"

"Mom, come!"

Those words were what Isabella found in their eyes. She could not believe that she could read their thoughts in their eyes. Nevertheless, she could not help but smile and walk toward them.

Draxton cast one more glance at Isabella because of the smile on Isabella's face. The corners of his mouth curled slightly.

The three of them entered Ricky's room. The room was spacious, and the decoration was very suitable for kids. Various toys were on the floor, one of them a little car.

Ricky's eyes fell on that little red car.

Anyone could tell that Ricky liked that car from his eyes. But Ricky did not run toward it. On the contrary, his mouth set in a grim line.

Isabella read the thought on Ricky's face and stroked Ricky's hair. "Ricky," she said, "do you like that little car?"

Ricky nodded sheepishly. He looked at Draxton with embarrassment.

His eyes softened. "Ricky, if you like it, go play with it. Mom and Dad will stand here looking after
