

Kick Ass Wife 26

Chapter 26 Who Said You Could Leave?

Samantha was stunned when she saw the mocking smile on Isabella's face.

Her face immediately turned as white as a sheet. A voice kept echoing in her head. Isabella did not die. She was well and alive!

"How could the woman still be alive?"

"Why didn't she die in the plane crash 5 years ago?"

Over the past 5 years, Samantha enjoyed her life as the little princess of the Thompson and Lang families. Besides, she was a top female celebrity in the industry.

She even had a very indulgent fiancé.

Everything had gone exceptionally well in her life, and she got everything she wanted.

Isabella's existence was nothing less than a wisp of smoke. After appearing briefly in her life, she disappeared for good without leaving any traces.

However, Isabella had shown up in front of her alive and well.

Samantha wanted to lunge at her and ask why she was still alive.

However, the last bits of her rationality kept telling her not to do it.

Regina was right beside her. She could not let Regina find out that Isabella was still alive and that she was the biological daughter of the Lang family.

Even though the Lang family refused to acknowledge Isabella, Samantha did not want her to show her face in front of the Rivera family. After all, the blood of the Lang family ran through Isabella's veins.

The engagement between the Lang and Rivera families was arranged before the children were even born. In reality, this meant Samantha's fiancé belonged to Isabella.

Samantha did not like to admit it, but she knew it inside. Everything she possessed now belonged to Isabella.

Samantha could feel her body turning very cold. Despite the thick foundation she was wearing, it could do nothing to conceal her pale face.

"Sam, what's wrong? Are you not feeling well?"
