

Kick Ass Wife 43

Chapter 43 The Truth Of The Video

When Isabella arrived at the entrance of the kindergarten, the police were escorting Mrs. Thompson into the car. Mrs. Thompson's attempt of abducting Ricky was confirmed by the teacher, who witnessed the scene.

Upon seeing Isabella, Ricky immediately ran toward her.

"Mommy!" The baby dove into his mother's arms.

The teacher quickly walked over and told Isabella what had happened.

Isabella said gratefully, "Oh my, thank you so much. That woman is indeed not my mother. She's definitely up to no good, trying to approach Ricky."

The teacher hurriedly said, "It's my responsibility to do so. You need not be this polite, Ricky's mother."

Mrs. Thompson was about to be escorted into the car when she turned around and saw Isabella. Then she immediately shrieked, "Bella, it's me. I'm your mother!"

Isabella looked at her indifferently and said to the police, "She's not my mother.

"This woman had harmed me five years ago. Now, she's approaching my son without my knowledge. I suspect that she wants to harm my son. I hope that the police can start an investigation into this matter.

"Not only do you have to investigate the crime of her abducting my son today, but you also have to investigate the matter of her swapping the identities of two babies 25 years ago. I'll go back with the few of you to give you my statement."

The police officers' expressions immediately turned serious when they heard this.

Switching the identities of two babies? This was no small matter.

Mrs. Thompson's eyes widened. She could not help but feel a little panicky when she looked at Isabella's cold and impassive countenance.

Isabella looked at her and gave her a strange smile. That sent a chill down Mrs. Thompson's spine.

Her expression changed and she felt apprehensive. She cursed inwardly, "Charles Thompson, that useless bum! Didn't he say that he would drive over this wretched girl and kill her?

"Then why could this wretched girl still appear here unharmed?"

However, her questions would be left unanswered as she was escorted into the police car and brought back for investigation.

Isabella first sent Ricky back to Northernville Manor, then she set off for the police station.

Isabella explained how Mrs. Thompson swapped the two children at the police station. The evidence she presented was the hospital's surveillance records at that time.

As a matter of fact, surveillance camera records from 25 years ago did not exist. However, Isabella still had the support of the great Mr. Langley.

Mr. Langley was not only a skillful hacker but also a mechanical expert. Hence, it was not difficult for him to restore the surveillance footage from more than 20 years ago.

Isabella then handed the evidence to the police.

No matter how much Mrs. Thompson insisted on her innocence, she would not be able to clear her name given the evidence.

When Isabella left the police station, Mrs. Thompson was staring at her with fear and resentment. However, Isabella did not even spare her a look.

It was given that Mrs. Thompson wouldn't just sit still and wait for her demise. She quickly called Samantha to ask for help.

She knew that Samantha would definitely have a way to save her.

However, she could not get through to Samantha despite trying several times because Samantha was in a predicament herself.

Mr. Thompson's car was dented from the impact. He was also seriously injured and unconscious. When he was discovered, his head and face were covered in blood.

Fortunately, he was still alive, but Samantha felt that Mr. Thompson was better off dead.

He was asked to kill someone, but he ended up in this state. She would not have to deal with this trouble if he just died.
