Chapter 52 Why Does The House Stink?

Isabella did not know how she should react to that “Fuck Sister in law, can that medicine really detoxify the body” Roger Lockwood looked at Isabella expectantly Then he exchanged glances with his brothers, and they ran downstairs, shoving one another. After that, they huddled together again.

“Don’t take mine. That’s mine!”

“You took the wrong one It’s mine! Bernard Lockwood, have some shame!”

In the end, they each took a medicine bottle and squeezed their way upstairs.

The elders who were clueless about things like that were confused.

“Bella, you mean those pills that detoxify the body like in martial arts dramas? Is it the kind of divine medicine that can restructure the body?” Mia Lockwood leaned over and asked, her bright eyes full of anticipation.

Jeanne and Philip Lockwood also looked over at Isabella.

Their intent gazes made Isabella feel nervous. She said solemnly, “It’s not as exaggerated as in television dramas. That pill has beautification effects and can strengthen the body...”

The elders looked at each other. Then they rushed downstairs, all the while trying to maintain their dignity as

Macpherson trembled with excitement. He struggled to shove Wilson aside and hurried downstairs in huge strides. “I have something to do downstairs. Second Brother, don’t block me.”

“I also have something to do downstairs. The two of you are too disrespectful to your big brother.” Philip jostled his two younger brothers.

Wilson and Macpherson were bumped aside.

Philip then strode downstairs in a flurry.

“Philip Lockwood!”

Jeanne called out to Philip in a sophisticated voice. Her tone was gentle, but it made people feel an inexplicable sense of danger.

Philip stopped in his tracks and turned to look at Jeanne with a stiff smile. He extended his hand and said, “Honey, please. I know you have something to do downstairs, too.”

Jeanne glanced at him. Then she held Mia’s hand and left in satisfaction.

The three men looked at them eagerly, not daring to take a step forward. They were afraid that the two women would be unhappy.

In this family, their status would never be comparable to these queens!

They didn't dare provoke them at all!

Isabella blinked and silently watched the scene. The three tall men could only stand by a corner pitifully while the three women had the entire pathway to themselves.

Draxton held Isabella's hand and squeezed it. He tilted his head and whispered to her, "Bella, you're amazing. You conquered them all!"

Isabella pursed her lips and smiled faintly. She tilted her head and looked at him with her dazzling eyes. She met his midnight blue eyes and asked, "Then did I conquer you?"

Draxton's eyes darkened, his grip on her hand tightening. His voice had become hoarse. "I just can't get enough of you. Every. Night."

Despite his serious expression, his words were ambiguous.

Isabella's ears instantly turned red, and her eyes glistened in the light. She glared at him and pursed her lips. Then she asked, smiling, "Aren't you going downstairs?"

She turned and saw that Philip and his two brothers had followed the three women downstairs.

"I'm not in a hurry." Draxton's eyes flashed.

"Why not? Although those pills aren't as exaggerated as what's described in television dramas and novels, it still benefits the body."

"There's no rush," Draxton said earnestly.
