

Kick Ass Wife 63

Chapter 63 Devious Man

His wife and daughter-in-law had gone out. Even his daughter had gone out. Only he and the servants were at home. Philip felt like an old child looking after the house, hence he wanted to go out and do something fun as well.

He took his time driving, wondering if he should go to his second brother's farmhouse or third brother's herb farm.

The car crawled like a snail to the gate, where the commotion was happening. That caught his attention.

When he saw the woman kneeling at the door and the man in the wheelchair, his relaxed expression became tensed and he froze slightly.

Upon seeing his car, the security team and the middle-aged man in the car became stern. The middle-aged man hurriedly got out of his car and walked over to Philip very carefully and respectfully.

"Mr. Lockwood." He bowed slightly.

The man was a member of the country's parliament and he held a pivotal position in it. Hence, he was a distinguished figure and highly regarded. In front of the Lockwood family, however, even he had to humble himself.

Philip rolled down the window and asked, "Are they here to cause trouble?"

The middle-aged man looked conflicted and answered anxiously, "Mr. Lockwood, they said that they were looking for their daughter. They said that their daughter is..."

Before the middle-aged man could finish speaking, Philip said angrily, "What daughter? That's not their daughter at all!"

The middle-aged man heaved a sigh of relief. He knew it.

At this moment, Philip said somberly, "That's my daughter-in-law!"

The middle-aged man instantly lost his footing and almost fell.

He looked at Philip in shock. "Mr. Lockwood, this..."

He was flabbergasted and in disbelief. How could the daughter of this scheming and money-sucking commoner marry into the Lockwood family?

he also a son. Despite muttered to himself, "It's time for me to do something was secretly delighted but got out of the car with a shiny leather shoes, he eyes in astound as they looked up at Philip. He had an aura far more that they were wealthy. However, with this man, it was more than that. One could from within.

dare to

Philip was determined to help his daughter-in-law and win some praise stood in front of the couple in an awe-inspiring manner and asked in a stern voice, "Have you come here to stir up trouble for

that was

They were

was secretly pleased with himself. "Hmph, go ahead and film. The more you question, Mrs. Thompson was stunned and could not react for he started looked at Philip cautiously and asked, "What are you saying. Mr.

"After our daughter, Isabella Thompson, married into a wealthy family, she turned her back on her parents

She sounded very pitiful.

his eyes darkened. "What a

Mrs. Thompson were charismatic man just say that Isabella was his

How was it possible?

be Isabella's father-in-law. Then, did it mean

Isabella had married into a rich family, they had all along assumed that she must have married a middle-aged man with a

realized that this might not

Mr. Thompson and Mrs. Thompson's useless daughter marry into such a rich

They were not convinced!