Chapter 71 Who Does Betty Look Like?

Looking at the little girl's round eyes and adorable expression, Draxton suddenly felt that the medicine he drank was not that bitter.

Draxton said to himself, "This is my daughter who has the same blood as mine running inside. I have missed her for five years. I have no reason not to love her, spoil her.

At the thought of this, Draxton softened his cold expression.

Betty was like an angry kitten with her round eyes slightly narrowing. She did not expect the man to react like this!

Betty was at a loss, thinking, "I planned to prank him, but it turned out that he was not angry and looked at me like that.

"Humph, I'm not that easy to be tricked by him!"

At the thought of this, Betty glared at Draxton. Then she turned around and ran outside.

Draxton cried, "Slow down!" Then Draxton had a strong cough after shouting, but soon he got up and chased after Betty.

Draxton ran outside and realized that he was in a beautiful village. Quaint houses lined up one after another. The courtyard had a fence wrapped in flowers, making it look like an elf's residence. Looking around, Draxton found the village was quiet and elegant, like a paradise.

Draxton chased after Betty all the way. Draxton noticed a swing was in the middle of the courtyard, and a black panther with glossy fur was lazily lying in the corner. The black panther heard some sounds and opened one of its amber eyes, staring at Draxton coldly.

Luckily, the black panther was not going to launch an attack. Draxton sighed in relief, murmuring. "Well, looks like this is a strange village. Draxton pulled himself back from his thoughts and focused on chasing Betty.

Betty fell right in Jocelyn's arms and pouted her pink lips.

Jocelyn carried Betty in her arms and asked, "Why is my Betty sad?" Jocelyn grinned and looked at the man who was running toward them.

Betty wrapped her arms around Jocelyn's neck and buried her face in Jocelyn's neck. Betty cried, "Humph, he's trying to trick me. I won't fall for it!"

Jocelyn said with a smile, "Of course. My Betty is a smart girl. How can she fall for it so easily?"

Draxton had already walked over. He felt strange when he realized the woman in front of him looked coquettish with her dress and was not so harmonious with the quiet village.

Draxton slowly greeted, "Hello, Madam. You look familiar."

Jocelyn smiled and said, "Well, you look familiar to me too."
