

Kick Ass Wife 85

Chapter 85 The Heartless Riker Family

Bridget's mind had collapsed. She couldn't even think of defending herself now. She lowered her head, feeling disheartened.

Lindon and the other members of the Riker family were stunned. They were all shocked by what they heard. Lindon smiled stiffly and said, "Draxton, Bridget is spouting nonsense. Ever since she was young, the Riker family has taught her to be virtuous, elegant, and magnanimous. She has the demeanor and bearing that a chieftain's wife should have. How can she not tolerate your son? There must be a misunderstanding!"

"There is indeed a misunderstanding," Draxton said.

Lindon heaved a sigh of relief and smiled.

However, Draxton said, "It's not up to outsiders to talk about whether to tolerate my son. Mr. Riker, please mind your words.

Lindon was stunned, and so were the other members of the Riker family.

Lindon's expression changed and he opened his mouth to retort. He felt that Draxton was too disrespectful to his elders. After all, he was Draxton's future father-in-law.

However, Shane interrupted Lindon and said to Draxton, "Chieftain Lockwood, it's indeed my uncle's fault for using inappropriate words. However, my uncle doesn't have any ill intentions. I hope you wouldn't hold it against him.

"Also, we all know of Bridget's personality since she was young. She's very kind, and she especially likes children. How could she hurt the boy? She's just talking nonsense, right?"

Draxton looked at the future heir of the Riker family without saying a word. There was not a trace of emotion on his face.

Silas thought to himself, "Fortunately, the Riker family finally has someone with a brain."

Draxton said coldly, "Just ask her if she's talking nonsense.

Bridget looked at Shane in horror. Her face was pale and she was covered in cold sweat. She shook her head repeatedly.
