

Kick Ass Wife 91

Chapter 91 Powerful Unfinished Work

After coldly warning the Riker family, Carlos returned to his residence. He had to prepare the data. The election was imminent, and he had to work hard to make sure nothing would go wrong.

The members of the Riker family stood where they were, not daring to disturb him. However, they were overjoyed.

That was a private island. On that deserted island, there was an underground laboratory.

There were steel walls, glass doors, and bulletproof windows, as well as various precise instruments, and busy researchers in white coats all over the laboratory.

Bridget came out of a pod. She was in an unprecedentedly good state. The only difference was that there was a red cinnabar mole on her wrist. That was the mark of having the Evolution Poison implanted in her. "It's just perfect!" The stunning man sighed, the smile on his face mesmerizing.

Of course, the person who fascinated him was not Bridget herself, but Bridget's current physical data.

"It's just a semi-finished product," Celia, who was still wearing a long white dress, said calmly. Her expression was that of indifference. She was not satisfied with the data.

The man in black who had saved Bridget earlier had changed into a white coat that day. He was actually a handsome man wearing silver wire-framed glasses. He looked to be in his late twenties.

He had a PhD in biology and was ranked third in the field in the Empire. His results were very outstanding. and he won several international awards. He was a genius in biology in Lucsia.

He was only 28 years old. Young and quite a potential for growth in the future.

However, very few people knew that this young biological genius had another shady identity, which was called Ghost.

Ghost was the codename of a person and also that of an organization. That was an organization that few were capable of tracking down. Many secret experiments of the empire were open facts to that organization, causing huge losses to Lucsia.

Ghost was a very important mission words of the stunning man and Celia, Ghost shook her head and said, "This is just an experiment. Bridget still has the potential bug poison. The poison bugs are also a kind of life form, being actual living creatures themselves. Now, Bridget has successfully fused with the Evolution Poison.

data is enough to shock was taken away by Jocelyn. If that Evolution Poison and grievance. The stunning man could not help but sigh. "Celia, at Bridget. Isn't she

Ghost and the stunning man reveal an extremely happy smile on her face. She said gratefully, "I did not disappoint the three of you and was very happy. The corners of his lips curled up slightly, and the light in his gate made of steel over. Excitement suddenly appeared in her eyes. She nodded slightly walked over

Bang!

the steel door, which was about five centimeters thick, a fist-sized hole appeared. That Ghost's eyes lit up.

the stunning man were also shocked, but soon after, Celia's expression became even more disappointed, "If only that Evolution Poison was still the healthiest body, the highest strength, and the net on both sides now, experimenting while. thinking of a

"Yeah."

just afraid that Jocelyn will use that poison used it, it would have been used long ago. Her physique can't

"That's true."