Chapter 26: Coming to the Door

The news that Emperor Company had begun recruiting spread quickly, and all the major headhunting companies immediately started sending people to contact Black Widow and Michelle.

Although the world is not without phones or computers, compared to phone calls and emails, it is definitely more sincere to come to your door in person.

If it were other companies, even Morgan and the like, they wouldn't have to do this, but Emperor Company was different.

Everyone can see its unstoppable development. Both blind people and fools know that it will definitely become the new Big Mac. So if we don't establish a good relationship now, when will we wait?

What a headhunting company can do is its relationships and contact channels with major Fortune 500 companies. If it can tie up with the King Company, the headhunting company will definitely get more resources and talents.

Different from talent exchange centers, headhunting companies adopt active competition methods of covert hunting and quick attacks to hunt for high-level talents that are not available in the company's talent market for customers who need high-level talents.

The prey of headhunting companies are senior management talents.

Generally speaking, it is mainly recommended to recommend the president, vice president, general manager, deputy general manager, personnel director, personnel manager, financial manager, marketing director, marketing manager, marketing manager, product manager, technical director, technical manager, factory director, production manager Department managers, senior project managers, senior engineers, postdoctoral fellows, Ph.D.s, senior business management talents, other senior consultants and other talents above the manager level, etc.;

The services of the Talent Exchange Center are "blue-collar" talents, basic affairs talents, and micro-regional talents; the former is to pick whatever customers want, and the latter is to sit back and wait for whatever comes.

The most well-known headhunting firm even offered commissions to give discounts... They just wanted Luther's chance to have dinner together.

Luther was a little confused. If it was other capitalists or Buffett who wanted to meet him for dinner, it would be normal. Why would a headhunting company do this?

It wasn't until he saw the other party that he realized that this headhunting company was just trying to make connections.

Yes, Luther will definitely agree. He is experiencing life now.

So he wouldn't refuse, and it was strange that the headhunting company wanted to have dinner with him, otherwise Luther wouldn't come.

"This restaurant is only open to private members. Many people want to come in, but they can only be invited. We do not accept orders from people who are not qualified, no matter how rich they are."

The man opposite looked like a handsome gentleman. Luther thought he looked familiar and must be the same character.

I just don't know what the character is, and Super Brain can't cope with it for the time being. Who told him to mainly read comics and movies, and he only knows about TV series from Marvel.

"It sounds interesting, but I'm not very interested."

Luther sat down bored and said.

"First meeting, young imperial ruler."

He has white hair, wears glasses, and looks to be in his forties or fifties.

"Who is sir?"

Luther planned to start with the name first, if the other party did not disguise his name.

"Daniel Whitehall."

He smiled slightly and then said.

Oh, got it.

Luther immediately searched the name from the super brain.

Hydra!

It's not surprising that Hydra would come to your door. Luther's superhuman medicine and human enhancement technology are epoch-making anyway. Luther is even called the "Father of New Humanity", although only a few newspapers and magazines have said so. , but the momentum has become stronger and stronger.

No matter what the thoughts of the several heads of Hydra are, the goal of world domination will not change, and Captain America is the best living advertisement for the influence of super soldiers.

Before Iron Man appeared, Captain America was known as a super soldier and super human.

Not counting the big pie face, few people know about the big pie face.

After seeing the performance of Captain America, Hydra, major organizations and countries have conducted endless research on super soldiers. Super villains and superheroes of all kinds also appeared because of super soldier experiments.

But now, with the emergence of Luther, a mature super soldier human body enhancement technology, Hydra has been able to endure it so far. It is already very good.

His original name was Werner Reinhardt, the leader of Hydra, a great scientist and obelisk researcher who was obsessed with the study of ability enhancers.

After being arrested by Agent Carter in 1945, he has been imprisoned in the secret SHIELD base "Rathole/Rathole".

In 1989, at the behest of Alexander Pierce, director of S.H.I.E.L.D. (actually a Hydra undercover agent), the elderly Reinhardt was released on "medical parole."

Reinhardt returned to the Hydra base in Austria, where he was surprised to find that Jiaying, who was imprisoned here, had not aged in decades.

In order to explore Jiaying's secret, he began to conduct experiments on her.

During the operation, he disassembled Jiaying's body and organs, and finally used Jiaying's DNA to return his body to its middle-aged state.

Jiaying died during the operation, and her body was discarded by Reinhardt's men. The following year, he returned to Hydra under the new identity of Dr. Daniel Whitehall and became one of Hydra's important leaders in the new era.

"Oh, first meeting."

Luther looked at Daniel Whitehall with interest. He was also a master of hypnosis and brainwashing. Agent No. 33 of S.H.I.E.L.D. was hypnotized and brainwashed by him.

Daniel then said that he was the top leader of a large scientific research institution and wanted to reach some cooperation with Luther.

This surprised Luther. He originally thought that Daniel was going to do something to him, such as controlling him and brainwashing him to get human enhancement technology or something.

But looking at Daniel's appearance, it seems that he is testing his character?

Luther has seen similar questions and guidance in hypnosis and psychology. Professional agents may not be able to react, but they are powerless in front of Luther.

Luther even had the leisure time to analyze why Daniel did this while dealing with it.

Want to win him over to join Hydra?

Hydra has enough snake heads. America alone has two snake heads. It should be impossible.

So, is he going to take him in as a subordinate?

I can only say that this is too daring. Even if Luther wants to play, he will be the snake head of Hydra.

Whitehall, who was politely declined by Luther, did not look very good.

"Sir, do you want to do it?"

The right-hand man next to him asked.

"Yeah."

Whitehall said calmly.
