

KRYPTONIAN: MAN OF STEEL

Chapter 3: Action Begins

Luther naturally wouldn't care about this. In fact, he had already started his own layout.

Enter the field of "human body enhancement"!

In this field, there are many competitors, such as the well-known Osborn Enterprises, General Ross, the military representative who hunts the Hulk, Industrial Killian, the pioneer in the research and improvement of the Extremis virus, and others!

It's just that Osborn Enterprises has been researching this aspect for many years without any results. The Parkers destroyed all the information on the Spider Serum and escaped. The danger of the Green Goblin Serum has not yet been resolved.

Not to mention General Ross, who firmly believes that catching the Hulk will solve the problem, research more Hulks, and the military's research on super soldier serum, etc.

As for Extremis Virus's Killian, he is probably still working on the flaws of Extremis Virus.

It can be said that this is a huge market. He only needs to solve the problem of people possibly occupying his company and products, and there will be no problem.

For Luther, this happened to be no problem at all.

Whoever attacks you can just kill the other party. This is a real-life business war!

More importantly, he is a foreigner, and he has something that can be said to have an infinite market share. At worst, if America can't stay, she can go elsewhere.

You said that America is the most free and fair country with existing private ownership and constitutional protection, so this situation is impossible?

Even if Luther was not a foreigner, in the face of huge interests, these private ownership and constitutions are just toys of capitalists and plutocrats.

If the above problems are solved, countless orders from America's Department of Defense will come one after another. Many big shots in the military are very interested in biotechnology such as human enhancement technology.

"I really have a headache, but I feel okay..."

Luther was reading a book at this time. The cover of the book was called "Introduction to Hypnosis Techniques".

Then ten minutes later, he had put down the book and started studying online.

Half an hour later, Luther was contacting the top brass of America's military.

It was said to be a connection, but in fact it was just a matter of obtaining the information of these high-level military officials through hacker technology, and then Luther selected a general with the same rank as Thunderbolt General Ross.

An hour later, Luther successfully sneaked into the other party's home and came face to face with him.

"Who are you?"

General Kelson D. Shiweite looked at the man sitting on his sofa in front of him, wearing a long black trench coat, sunglasses, and a slicked back hair. He did not rashly alert the guards outside, because a pistol was naturally released. On the sofa next to the other person's legs.

"Please take a seat, General Shiweite."

Luther smiled, and Shiweite frowned. Luther exuded a confident temperament. He had never seen this kind of confidence in many people. If he were not arrogant, then it means he is confident.

And a person who can sneak into his room without alerting his guards is obviously not the first type.

He sat down, looking directly at Luther, with his back straight. His face had the kind of expression that was not angry but full of vicissitudes and toughness of a soldier.

This is a solid veteran, and it is not surprising to Luther that he has such a temperament.

"I'm here to bring you some benefits, General. Don't be nervous."

That's what Luther said, but he had already begun to put Shiweite into a hypnotic state through suggestions and inducements through words and actions.

In fact, in the Marvel universe, there are very powerful hypnotists, such as Hydra, who can make a SHIELD agent who has received various trainings walk back and forth on the road just by turning the ring on his hand.

Wandering around and then crashed into a big truck.

It can only be said to be a bit mysterious.

And the hypnosis exerted by Luther, a Kryptonian, is even more mysterious.

"General Shiweite, I need to contact several other powerful generals..."

If you have the ability, you don't have to be a fool, and Luther certainly can't use it.

This kind of suggestion based on hypnosis is just Luther's method of brainwashing, but it is enough to turn several military generals into his own. This is a good way to solve it once and for all.

Therefore, Luther successfully persuaded several generals of the Ministry of National Defense to sell the flagship product that his Imperial Company was about to launch - [Super Soldier No. 1] drug as an arms sale!

Super Soldier I is a derivative of Luther's research on his own cells, not Kryptonian cells, just like Super Soldier was able to develop a superhuman drug that allows humans to take superhuman abilities.

The difference is that this Super Soldier No. 1 can only double the physical strength, which can enhance the user's metabolic function and all body functions. However, although it seems small, in fact, even if it only doubles the physical strength of ordinary people, it will be very exaggerated. .

Basically, it's similar to Captain America and Bucky the Winter Soldier.

So the military is very happy, but this kind of Super Soldier No. 1 is very expensive to build, as Luther said, so the price is naturally not cheap.