

Kryptonian 30

Chapter 30: Crossing again

Michelle was busy after the incident, especially since the Imperial Company suddenly had so many visiting appointments, and behind them were all big shots who couldn't afford to offend. Luther refused them all willfully, but she definitely couldn't speak out. That's inappropriate and will offend people.

After finishing the work, Michelle had time to find Luther.

"BOSS, are you injured?"

Michelle's first concern was Luther's body. Even though the outside world had turned Luther into a body of steel and invulnerable, those were bullets and thermal weapons that allowed humans to dominate the earth's food chain for so many years. The most powerful weapon.

The concept of thermal weapons is not so easy to break.

"Of course it's okay."

Luther said with a smile.

"Has our company's technology developed to this level?"

Michelle, as an ordinary person, naturally does not know that there are mutants in the world. SHIELD has good control over mutants, and they have all been contained by Hydra. To the outside world, mutants threaten social security. Nick Fury then killed all these mutants.

So in Michelle or in the public eye, Luther is the first true "Superman"!

Even Michelle felt as if she was facing some dangerous creature when facing him.

This is her psychological effect. Luther has no aura or aura.

Unexpectedly, after recovering his feelings, today's murder did not leave Luther with any special feeling.

"Cutting-edge technology often exceeds your imagination, especially the cutting-edge technology in the national laboratories of big countries like America. But if the problem of mass production is not solved, it will just stay at the concept of cutting-edge technology."

Luther nodded and then said.

Understood, Michelle extracted the keywords, that is, this technology cannot be mass-produced for the time being, and there is only Luther.

"Moreover, this is not just a transformation technology. It is the combination of many human body enhancement technologies to achieve the current effect."

Luther continued.

Michelle understood. In other words, Luther's strength could not be achieved by just human enhancement technology. He had to go through many human enhancement transformations to reach his current level. However, I'm afraid this can't stop those big shots.

Even if it takes tens of billions of dollars to transform technology and consumption, there are still more people who can afford it. Michelle is worried that Luther will not be able to withstand the pressure.

Only Luther didn't take it seriously. He made whoever oppressed him disappear. It was such a simple thing. This was the benefit of having power.

Therefore, in the eyes of the outside world, Emperor Company will definitely recruit someone ruthless no matter what, even if he has a great background.

Otherwise, Hydra would not think they had a chance to let Luther join Hydra and become one of the snakeheads.

They felt that they would wait until Luther could no longer bear the pressure before contacting him.

"How is the company doing now?"

Luther asked Michelle that he already knew these things from Megatron, but he still wanted Michelle to report it again to see if Michelle had missed anything.

"Natalie has completed the recruitment for most positions. The positions that are still lacking are senior positions, which need to be decided by BOSS. She has already sent the information to BOSS's computer."

Michelle answered.

Luther turned on the computer, and there was information sent by Black Widow in the mailbox. It could be seen that Black Widow really worked hard and completed so much work in just one day, which was very efficient.

Others may need several days to analyze and study, but Luther didn't need it. He finished browsing it in one minute, and then Megatron opened a more detailed page.

In less than ten minutes, Luther already knew everyone in the information. The feeling of a super brain strategizing fascinated Luther.

"Shawn, Red, Termeer... let these people stay, they are suitable..."

Seeing Luther selecting candidates and arranging positions in less than a moment, Michelle was a little doubtful. The positions of these senior executives are very important. They are not middle- and low-level positions. Even if something happens, they will be able to do it. Deal with it promptly.

"BOSS, do you want to continue researching?"

Michelle said tactfully.

"No, Emperor Company doesn't raise waste. If it doesn't work, just replace it."

Luther said calmly that now they are the ones begging to come to the Imperial Company, not that the Imperial Company cannot run without these people, so Luther can fire whoever he wants.

"By the way, Emperor Company wants to expand its asset scale and acquire some suitable companies in the fields of entertainment, computers, and games. Companies in the military industry can also be acquired, provided that their industries are large enough."

Luther continued.

"Yes, BOSS."

Michelle didn't find it strange. This was something any company would do.

Expanding its scale and influence, providing a large number of jobs, is also tantamount to kidnapping the people who hold these jobs. Neither the country nor the town government will and dare not easily let such a large enterprise have problems. That would be equivalent to facing a series of problems. A massive wave of unemployment.

Even America, a notoriously heartless capital country, cannot withstand such an impact because it will affect their support rate.

This is what the chaebols of the small country do, and the consortiums of the small life also follow suit. Of course, it is mainly because America took the lead and did a good job that they learned this model.

At the same time, the acquisition of industries can also accelerate the Emperor Company. Now the Emperor Company is mainly that the head has flown hundreds of kilometers away, and the legs have just started, and are still running at a snail's pace.

If the industry is not acquired, it will take at least ten years to catch up with the current position of the head, and by then the head is probably out of the earth.

Of course, the acquisition of industries also has to face a problem, that is, the problem of mismatch between the head, body and feet.

If handled well, this problem can be solved in a few years at most. If not handled well, no matter how much acceleration is now, it will take several times longer to catch up in the future.

But Luther will naturally not let this happen, otherwise his super brain will not be wasted?

After temporarily handling things and deciding the next step of the Emperor Company, Luther finally has time to busy himself with the matter of crossing again.

"Cross!"

Luther crosses again.

Then he found that the passage was about the same size as when he returned to the Marvel world from Dragon Ball, and there was no change.

This confirmed his previous conjecture, that is, the size of the passage was related to his strength, and had nothing to do with the level of the world.
