

Kryptonian 411

Chapter 411: Tactical Change

"Is there anything you can't tell your sister, little Clark?"

Diana squatted down and asked Clark with a smile.

"I, I, I'm fine."

Clark turned around and ran away.

"I thought you would stop me?"

Diana looked at Luther strangely.

"He knew it too early, which is not a good thing for him. He needs time to grow up."

Luther said calmly.

"Really? I think he should know the situation earlier so that he won't have any wild thoughts."

Diana said.

"The situation is different now, Diana. The world is ruled by humans. He has to get used to it."

Luther continued.

"Okay."

Diana didn't say anything else. This was someone else's family problem, and she couldn't intervene.

"I haven't found Ares for so many years. I also participated in the human war, but I didn't meet Ares."

Then Diana told Luther about her troubles.

Although she was very happy living with Luther, Diana didn't forget the reason and mission for leaving Paradise Island.

Before, she could say that she wanted to find Luther before looking for Ares, but now that Luther has been found, Diana will focus on looking for Ares.

But after finding out that Clark has grown up, she still hasn't found Ares. Diana even doubts whether Ares no longer exists, like Zeus, dead?

And there are fewer wars among humans, at best they are small-scale conflicts.

"Ares."

Luther can't say that Ares has been killed by him and has become one of his nutrients.

But it's okay this way. Before she completely killed Ares, Diana was innocent after all. After killing Ares, she began to think about the meaning of life, and then she went astray inexplicably.

Now she is still Princess Diana, and later she will become Wonder Woman Diana.

Compared with Wonder Woman Diana, the guardian of the fortress who wears the Stars and Stripes and fights for America, Luther still appreciates the current Princess Diana more.

It was like if Luther had traveled here decades earlier, he would go to the beach of Amnesty Bay to find a lighthouse, drive away the man guarding the lighthouse, and then wait, and soon a beautiful woman would come out of the sea to have sex with him.

Who wouldn't want to be the father of the future Sea King?

"I don't think Ares should be blamed. These are all caused by human greed."

Luther said a fair word for Ares.

"No, humans were created by Zeus. Ares bewitched them. If Ares is defeated, humans can unite."

Diana said firmly.

This is the truth in her eyes.

"Then how do you explain the Chinese?"

Luther gave a simple example to make Diana speechless. After all, Luther is a Chinese, and he himself is a god of the "Xian" race. Anyway, it seems incredible to Diana.

There are actually humans in this world who were not created by Zeus, and there are actually other gods besides Zeus and other Olympian gods.

Especially the "immortals" mentioned by Luther are all humans who become gods through "cultivation" (which Diana understands as training their martial arts).

This made Diana's worldview collapse, and she seemed incomprehensible, because according to her cognition, gods are born, how can someone become a god through training?

So Diana wanted to try this method.

"Luther, teach me the training method called "cultivation", I also want to try to become a god."

Diana said to Luther.

"Impossible."

Luther shook his head.

"Why, do you think I can't bear the pain?"

Diana thought that "cultivation" was a very difficult training and a trial, and Luther thought she couldn't persist and couldn't complete such a trial.

Diana, who felt that she was looked down upon, expressed her dissatisfaction.

"Only my family can do this kind of cultivation, do you understand?"

Luther said.

Diana was stunned.

"You mean, bloodline?"

Diana's way of understanding was very Western, and she felt that this kind of "cultivation" depended on bloodline?

"No, you have to become my family to practice."

Luther shook his head.

"Become a family..."

Diana understood, and she looked at little Luther.

"Not impossible."

Diana said.

Luther looked at Diana, Diana looked at Luther, and then she took the initiative to hug Luther.

"I'm not talking about this kind of relationship, but a deeper one, Diana."

Luther easily broke free from Diana's hands. Without outsiders, he had to maintain his dignity. The most important thing was that things that were too easy to get would not be cherished, whether they were men or women.

Diana didn't understand, not this kind of relationship?

What other deeper relationship could replace such a relationship?

"We exist as a family, so if you want to get the way to become a god, you can only become a member of the Luther family, and you can never betray, even if you face Paradise Island, you have to fight for me."

Luther said.

Diana understood immediately.

"This is impossible, I won't betray Paradise Island."

Diana said immediately.

"That's why I said you can't get it."

Luther nodded.

"Is there no way, for example, you become my person."

Diana said, her speech was very royal.

"Wait until you are stronger than me before you say such things."

Luther smiled contemptuously, and then said.

"I am just a mortal, and you are a god. How can I be stronger than you?"

Diana was helpless.

If you don't want to give, just say so. Don't make these excuses!

Diana left very disappointed.

And Luther was not idle either.

The document "Project Watt" appeared within the Luther Group. Old Luther stated that he would create superhuman beings through technology to open an era of superhuman evolution. By then, relying on this pioneering plan, they would definitely be able to Become the giant of the future earth!

In fact, it's just that Luther wants to set up a Vought company in DC. The earth in the Marvel universe has been ruined by Luther. Super-powerful terrorist attacks appeared many years in advance. However, this also tempered the Marvel people's understanding of the earth. Adaptability and resistance to various super-powerful terrorist attacks.

Just like the various immune mechanisms of the human body, they evolved after being attacked by viruses.

Luther feels that DC's Earth also needs to be rehearsed in advance, so that it will not be helpless when faced with the invasion of Kryptonians, Saiyans, and Apokolips in the future.

That's right!

Luther also plans to launch a Saiyan invasion in DC. The difference is that he plans to bring Vegeta and the others over. At that time, he can consider changing tactics and bring the Kryptonians over to Marvel to invade.

Chapter 412 Superman Company, fooling all mankind

Vought Corporation...no, Superman Corporation!

Originally, Luther planned to return to his old business and call it the Imperial Company, but after thinking about it carefully, he had to adapt to the situation.

So it was called Superman Company.

Anyway, before Superman came out, the word Superman was not that special in a certain sense, and there was a company called Super Nasha.

Luther divided his evil plan into several steps that would take several years to implement.

However, Superman Company's advertising campaign can begin.

"Gather the superhuman beings among humans to create a special company."

When this advertisement began to appear overwhelmingly, Diana, Bruce and Clark all approached Luther.

Luther was not surprised that the three of them would come to find him, because this advertisement was the most exciting to the three of them.

"Luther, are you planning to expose yourself?"

Diana felt confused and asked, gathering super humans. Diana felt that super humans were existences like her and Luther. Even Luther couldn't be said to be human, he was a god.

"Relax, Diana, I don't intend to expose myself, I just want humans to accept powerful beings like us, worship us, and shape their thoughts and acceptance in this regard."

Luther said to Diana.

"What's the meaning?"

Diana is very smart, but now she also feels confused.

"The meaning is very simple. We go to great lengths to hide ourselves, just because we are worried that humans will not be able to accept it. And if we tell them subtly, this is a God-given ability, an innate power, and it will shape their world. There are super humans. If it's a concept, then it won't be anything worthy of our attention."

Luther said calmly.

Diana understood what Luther was thinking. He wanted to rationalize the integration and appearance of super humans into human society, but was this possible?

"Of course it is possible, Diana. Human life is short, and human thoughts can be shaped. Only through learning can one become a sound person. If there is no learning, what will human beings naturally grow into?"

Luther said with a smile.

Diana thought of herself. She had also learned to be where she is today. If she hadn't studied...

"In two generations at most, humans will be able to accept the existence of super humans. At that time, we will no longer need to hide, we can appear openly and accept the worship of humans. The worship of strength and the strong is the natural instinct of humans."

Luther's words were very deceptive and unreasonable. If it were someone else who said that, Diana would definitely not be fooled.

But Luther meant too much to Diana, so she trusted what he said.

"Then do you need my help next?"

Diana hinted at Luther.

"No need for the moment."

Luther shook his head.

He plans to shape a native of his country with his own hands.

Of course, instead of treating his brother Clark as a native of the motherland, he could just find anyone to be a fellow countryman.

At the same time, it is naturally not so simple for humans to accept super humans, unless they get used to it and the super humans are bad.

There would have to be a lot of bad super humans to make humans dependent on the good super humans and then worship them and support them.

Superhero worship and ideas can still appear in places like the Black Robe Pickets where there are not many supervillains causing chaos. It can only be said that the government has made concessions to maintain balance and stability.

Otherwise, there would be no situation where Vought Corporation wanted to join the Ministry of National Defense, but was unable to get the approval. This is because they probably intend to put an end to this situation, lest the power of a country be controlled by others.

Luther has found the homologue of the motherland in this world, that is, the person who looks very much like the motherland.

The other party is still a child.

All you need to do is arrange a car accident or an incident in an alley, and then reasonably let the other party awaken their superpowers, you can obtain the other party's custody rights and become the face of Superman Company.

"It seems like the car accident wasn't profound enough. It was probably a small alley."

Luther found the alleyway more educational and profound.

Bruce came to Luther because the advertisement for Luther's Superman company made Bruce doubt whether Luther knew anything.

Of course, not Luther, but old Luther, because Luther has not yet reached that age.

Bruce made some insinuations and didn't get any information about super humans from Luther. Obviously, the old Luther didn't tell Luther these things.

Clark, on the other hand, was very worried and scared, but after finding Luther, he told him what was special about him.

After all, being exposed to the sun for four hours a day by Luther, Clark's growth rate was much faster than in the original plot, which was accelerated by several years.

Originally, Clark thought he might be some kind of freak, so even Old Luther didn't dare to tell him.

Now after seeing the Superman Company's advertisement, Clark feels that he is very likely to be the super human that Old Luther said.

"Relax, Clark, super humans are just a branch of human evolution and represent a new hope for the future of human evolution."

Luther opened his mouth and fooled Clark with his serious nonsense.

"Then why am I the only one special?"

Clark's educational level is not very good. Although he has begun to learn about elite education and junior high school, Clark naturally does not know about the big pit of evolution.

"Clark, you are not the only one who is special in our family."

Luther said to Clark.

"Luther, is it you too?"

When Clark heard Luther say that, his eyes lit up.

Luther floated up directly while sitting.

"Fly?"

Clark's eyes widened. He could not fly. He was just a little stronger and a little stronger.

"Father said that our Luther family is a family with superhuman genes. Every generation has the possibility of awakening to become a superhuman."

Luther continued to fool.

"What about father?"

Clark said excitedly. He felt that he had found a companion and was no longer so lonely.

"No, father is not. No one in his generation became a superhuman. I didn't expect Clark to awaken superpowers."

Luther shook his head.

"Luther, so you awakened superpowers a long time ago?"

Clark asked hurriedly.

"I awakened when you were born."

Luther said with a smile.

"What is your superpower?"

Clark asked excitedly, and the child's strong desire for knowledge and curiosity were stimulated.

"Absorbing energy and idealistic power."

Luther said.

"What is that?"

Clark was puzzled, it sounded very complicated.

Chapter 413 Planning

"The ability to absorb energy is divided into active and passive. Active means that I can absorb kinetic energy, radiation, fire, etc. to strengthen myself. Passive is the same. After awakening this super power, I have not been injured."

Luther has told this set of lies countless times, and he is very skillful.

Clark opened his mouth wide, wouldn't Luther be invincible?

"However, there is an upper limit to energy absorption. Now I can only absorb one shell from the tank's main gun at most, and then it will be saturated. If I continue to be attacked, I will be injured. I must release the energy or temporarily strengthen my muscles. Bones and other physical strength."

Luther continued.

Clark: (ΩДΩ)

"That's pretty awesome. Tank shells, I probably won't be able to catch them now."

Clark was stunned, and then said excitedly.

This is simply cheating. How old is Luther? He is not yet eight years old and he can block the shells of a tank's main gun!

Clark couldn't even imagine that scene.

In comparison, I am just a little stronger and stronger, and I am embarrassed to say that I am a super human called an "evolver".

"My ability was very weak at the beginning. Don't be depressed, Clark. The reason why evolved people are evolved is because their superpowers are not static. For example, the strength of ordinary people will also grow with them. Big and increased, the same goes for evolvers. Superpowers are just our innate talents."

Luther said to Clark.

"You're right, Luther, but I still can't imagine what I will become after I become more powerful. Even more powerful?"

Clark told a joke to laugh at himself.

It's not that you have greater strength... you have super strength!

Luther complained silently.

"Then why can you fly?"

Clark then thought about this problem. If he only absorbed and released energy, the movement would not be as small as before.

"The power of idealism is my most powerful super power. As long as I firmly believe that I am indestructible and powerful, I can be indestructible and powerful. The only weakness of this super power is that I am not confident enough. In short, what is flying? It's all a piece of cake."

Luther simply said something, which made Clark's eyes turn red with jealousy. He originally thought that the energy absorption was already outrageous, but he never expected that the power of idealism is even more outrageous. As long as he believes that he is indestructible, can he be indestructible? ? ?

He actually has such outrageous superpowers?

Clark was suddenly crestfallen. The special surprise of learning that he had the same kind and that he was not the only one was suddenly gone.

Facts have proved that there are ordinary evolvers and super evolvers among evolvers. In Clark's view, Luther is that kind of super evolver, and he is an ordinary person among evolvers.

Even if the strength will become greater in the future, what's the point?

Clark: $\epsilon=(o \text{ ` } *)$))Alas

On the other side, Bruce, who didn't get the answer he wanted from Luther, returned home and started watching the advertisement that dominated prime time on major TV stations again.

"Among human beings, there are unique and special groups of people. They are the evolution of human beings, super humans. I call them [evolvers]. Such a group of gifted people should not go astray, so Superman Corporation was born..."

"Gather super humans and create a new future of human evolution!"

Bruce looked at the advertisement and fell into thought.

Super human, evolver.

This incident undoubtedly subverted his world view, especially since the promotional advertisement of Superman Company was a video of an evolution. This is not just a claim. In this country, even 10% of the population does not have computers, and naturally they do not even have PS. In this era, this video is really irrefutable proof!

Looking at the evolutionaries on the screen flying into the sky and escaping to the earth, with lightning and thunder, and spitting out thunder and fire, Bruce fell into confusion.

Then he quickly regained consciousness.

No, what if there are evolvers and super humans in this world? His original intention will not change. Moreover, what if these evolvers and super humans get out of control?

He must obtain information about these evolved people and super humans so that he can target them, study their weaknesses, subdue them when they lose control and want to do whatever they want, and prevent them from causing greater damage to the world!

Bruce's eyes became firm. The first step was the best way to obtain information, which was Superman Company.

The problem is that even Luther doesn't know the details of super humans and evolved beings, and it's obvious that old Luther keeps the secrets very closely.

He didn't know that Luther had no intention of hiding anything, and that he would be able to show off the first generation of superheroes, and his abilities would all be clear to him by then.

Of course, the first generation of superheroes had to be behind the first generation of super villains.

Super villains are looking for gangsters on the roadside. Such people are uneducated. After gaining power, they will not hide their abilities and bide their time. The easiest way to get rich is through robbery, or they just feel that they are invincible and do whatever they want.

Originally, the DC Universe had no shortage of talents in this area, but it was too early now. We couldn't ask the Master Assassin to make a guest appearance, right?

Troubled New York City!

Bank robberies happen every day here, so there is no shortage of police positions in America, because there are too many police officers who have died in the line of duty, been retaliated against, or injured and retired. Even so, there are still many people who are retired because of the welfare benefits of the police. Choose to become a police officer.

The New York City Police Department received a report that a bank robbery occurred on Queens Boulevard.

When they rushed to the scene, they found that there was only one criminal.

"Get out of my way, you stinky cops!"

The criminal was a classic Mexican, and he was so arrogant that he didn't even wear a hood to cover his identity.

The New York police surrounded him, and they didn't feel surprised. What monsters have they not seen?

They were not as experienced as the police in Florida, but there were many similar incidents in New York.

But soon, they found that this time they had never seen it before!

The other party could actually shoot fireballs with their mouths, and the fireballs would explode, and the power of the explosion was no less than that of a high-explosive grenade!

Three policemen who were unaware of it in advance were killed on the spot, and two were seriously injured.

After calling for support, a sniper at the scene hit the other party's forehead and successfully solved the criminal.

Luther also admired the courage of this guy. He was just given a superpower like Pyroblast, and his body was not yet able to block bullets. He dared to be so arrogant. What was his brain circuit like?

This is the inferior human being who has not learned.

Chapter 414: Training Clark

"It was so dark."

Luther said looking at Gotham City.

Fortunately, I turned Clark into a man born in Gotham City. This son of Krypton will definitely use his fists... No, his sunshine will tear apart the dark clouds over Gotham City!

Stable structures always require external pressure to disrupt them.

"Gotham's Superman."

Luther looked in the direction of Little Bat.

Relying on his identity and relationship with the Luther family, Little Bat actually dared to put a bug on Old Luther while hugging him.

"Isn't this little kid's mobility and execution ability too strong? He hasn't gone to study all over the world yet."

Luther was very surprised to see the little bat's method of collecting information about super humans. He even tried every means to get the condition and autopsy report of the dead super human's body.

It can be said that the superhuman has completely trapped Little Bat, and he probably has no idea of traveling around the world to make himself stronger.

But it doesn't matter, what little bat lacks will definitely be repaid twice in the future.

The most important thing now is to train Superboy.

"Clark, people are afraid of things they don't understand, so we need to make them understand what we are capable of and show what we are capable of."

Luther said to Clark.

"I understand, Luther!"

Clark said firmly.

"bump!"

A fist knocked Clark to the ground.

"Louder, Clark, what's the matter with that cowardly voice of yours? There are more and more super-terrorist attacks in the world. You have to fight them in the future. Do you expect your weak fist to defeat them?"

Luther scolded Clark righteously, full of righteousness, and completely without the feeling of a villain behind the scenes.

Clark didn't look at his eldest brother with any resentment in his eyes, but instead was full of yearning.

Children are good at learning, especially when Luther and Old Luther cooperated to PUA Clark, Clark's thoughts, outlook on life and values have been distorted. Old Luther told him that like your brother, he is the pride of the family. Be your role model.

Luther told him what was allowed and what was not allowed.

This kind of soldier-like training will subtly become Clark's ideological stamp and invisible shackles in daily life.

"Yes, Luther!"

Clark gritted his teeth and stood up. Although his body hurt, doing so could get his father's approval and words of appreciation. Old Luther was not stingy with his words of praise and encouragement. His father, who was usually as serious as an iceberg, also had such a side to his children. It's simply the biggest encouragement.

So Clark also showed his resilience and perseverance.

"Boom! Boom! Boom!"

The sky in Gotham City is always rainy or covered with dark clouds all year round, so it is naturally difficult to get sunlight, but Luther brought out a yellow sun lamp to help Clark get enough sun and absorb the sun.

These explosion-like noises and thunder-like muffled noises all came from Clark's body.

Without any armor, their power is too strong, and no armor can block their power.

There is simply no need for any armor.

Clark tried to fight back, but in front of Luther, he was like a human sandbag. He could only hold his head and squat in defense, and was completely unable to fight back.

But he will not give up easily, no matter how painful it is, as long as Old Luther and Luther give a smile of recognition, a satisfied nod, and an expression of approval, then Clark's body will seem to have new power invisibly. Make him stronger!

In fact, this was not Clark's illusion. Luther had already discovered that as he beat...no, hammered Clark, Clark's cells actually became active, as if they were stimulated, actively absorbing sunlight and strengthening themselves.

This caused Clark's abilities to improve by leaps and bounds, and he even gained many more superpowers.

I don't know if it's the advantage of being a naturally born Kryptonian, or if it's just Clark's own talent.

When you are strong, you become strong; when you are beaten, you become stronger.

Now Clark has awakened a lot of superpowers, and he also feels that he is no longer an ordinary person among evolvers. Even Luther said that with so many superpowers, they are very rare. He has never been like this in the history of the Luther family. situation.

"Super strength, super speed, body of steel, biological force field, super breathing, super senses, Clark, you are simply an all-powerful super soldier. How about you be called - Almighty Man from now on?"

Luther said so at the time.

But Clark refused. He felt that the nickname Almighty Man was too outrageous, and he felt that Luther was more suitable.

Luther's energy absorption and spiritual power can do many things, such as converting energy forms and releasing them, and converting cold wind energy into heat energy to warm others.

"Luther, I can finally fly!"

After being beaten this time, Clark finally couldn't bear it anymore. He exploded, and accidentally his heart beat too high, crashing through the ceiling, and then miraculously stagnating in the air.

At this time, Clark realized what happened, and he flew up!

Although Luther had already told him that after awakening the ability of the biological force field, he would be able to fly, and he also specially trained in the biological force field so that he would never kill the opponent without killing him. The other party, if you want not to break the other party, it is absolutely impossible to break the other party.

Flying is just one of the additional abilities of the biological force field, but it is undoubtedly the superpower Clark wants most.

After all, who doesn't want to fly?

Especially Luther often shows off his ability to fly in front of him, often flying up to look up at him.

This makes Clark feel indescribable envy.

Now, he can fly too!

"It's just that I can offset the gravity just now. You still have a long way to go, Clark."

Luther folded his hands and flew up, saying to Clark.

"Of course I know, but I will catch up with you, Luther!"

Clark was full of energy. He originally thought that he would never be able to beat Luther in his life. Now he felt that he had the hope of catching up with Luther. Even if he only caught up with Luther in one aspect, for Clark, it was enough to satisfy him and make him proud.

"Clark, our coming to this world is meaningful. We want to become a symbol, a sign. There is no difference between evolvers and humans. We are all humans!"

Luther began to preach.

Clark has not yet reached the rebellious period. At this time, he naturally listened to the words of his respected elder brother who was a role model in his eyes.

Chapter 415 Little Bat Debuts

"But this is a difficult road. If we choose to be a flag and a beacon, we have to endure a lot of criticism. What America is like in this country and even this world. You will be able to understand through study in the future that human beings are complex. , which does not mean that all humans are good."

Luther went on to say that he had to patch up why the Luther family didn't step up and become icons... no, superheroes before.

For example, the Luther family has been waiting and watching humans. Finally, they decided to make changes, and the opportunity for making changes was the increasing number of super-powered terrorist attacks.

"Human beings are easily fearful and intimidated. Because we are different and special, they will misunderstand us, hurt us, and treat us as aliens and monsters, which will attract the vigilance of the government and the rejection of the masses."

Luther said that when Clark thought about that situation, he felt incomprehensible. Why was this happening?

"We help them because we are well-intentioned."

Clark said.

"As long as humans can't understand each other, then your good intentions will be purposeful in their eyes, although we really just want to stand up openly."

Luther said.

"So, our choice is to be heroes?"

Clark asked confused.

"No, it's not our choice, but the choice of this world. Some evolvers do whatever they want, destroying the happiness of others for their own selfish desires. This is why we exist."

Luther patted Clark on the shoulder and said.

The two returned to the ground, and Clark began to think about his suit and nickname. Luther just said that he wanted to make superheroes a popular culture, maybe leading the trend or something.

Just like in Invincible Young Man.

However, the normal earth naturally cannot accept such a group of freaks smashing it every day, but what if they can only count on such a group of freaks?

Then wouldn't this world become a superhero theme park?

Of course, training Clark is still the main purpose.

Clark thought hard about designing his own uniform and nickname. He is still very young, so he naturally yearns for this kind of thing.

Bruce is different. He studies methods against superhumans all day long, and even watches videos of superhumans repeatedly.

Fortunately, nowadays, with the increasing prevalence of super-powered terrorist attacks, the blockade of information in this area is no longer as strict as it was at the beginning, and has become much more relaxed.

In addition, today's first generation of superheroes has emerged. After they solved the "super criminals" that most people can't solve, through the Luther family's money and the power of the deep military-industrial complex and even the medical system, even if The bosses on Wall Street can only compromise.

This has led to the fact that in this country of freedom, there is only one-sided praise for Superman, Inc. and superheroes. All objections and questions on behalf of freedom are taken away by the FBI, CIA and local police for investigation, such as suspicion. It's easy to say that the other person is an antisocial personality.

The most you can do is to be imprisoned in a mental hospital. If you suspect that the other person is a terrorist and intends to destroy social peace, then it will be miserable. You will be sent to a prison for serious criminals, where fights and death are common things.

The worst thing is that they are suspected of being aliens. The aliens lurking on the earth intend to destroy the peace of the earth and provoke disputes between humans and evolved people.

This kind of person will be dissected on the spot. If it is found that they are not aliens, they will apologize and then everything will be fine.

With this bloody cooperation, superheroes soon swept across other popular cultures. Especially the terror caused by super criminals made the people panic. Coupled with the incompetence of the police, it is normal for superheroes to be supported. .

Even if there are some doubts, they only dare to speak out in their own corner, not on the Internet or in public.

Clark, who was still very naive, naturally didn't know the darkness behind it. Instead, he yearned to become a superhero!

In addition to Clark, there is also a boy chosen by Luther who also wants to become a superhero.

He is a peer of the people of the motherland. Because of the recurrence of the alley incident, he became an evolver and awakened his superpowers.

Then he agreed to be adopted by Superman Company, who came to him. After all, he knew that he had no choice but to go to an orphanage. He might as well join Superman Company, so that he might become a superhero in the future!

Seeing that the people of the motherland were on the right track, Luther was very pleased and began to look forward to the future collision between Clark and the people of the motherland.

The character of the people of the motherland will naturally be subtly influenced and induced by Luther's arrangements, making him become vain and more inclined to even completely copy the character of the real people of the motherland.

Of course, some unnecessary characters of Luther will also be cut.

As the days passed, Little Bat and Superboy grew up.

To Luther's surprise, Little Bat made his debut before going to the Ninja Master for further training.

A guy named "Batman" appeared in Gotham City. He was said to be a tall weirdo with cat ears on his head.

If the concept of super humans hadn't been deeply rooted in people's hearts, it would probably have become a terrifying legend in Gotham City just like the little bat that first appeared. A big bat turned into a spirit and captured Gotham City citizens at night.

Luther then squatted down, saw the little bat, and knew why he was tall.

"The first generation Batsuit is actually crooked like this?"

Luther was very surprised. The first generation Batsuit was originally only stab-proof and bullet-proof, but now, he actually saw a "biological muscle suit". The tall little bat was just an illusion. In fact, he was covered with a layer of artificial muscle.

I don't know where the little bat got the technology. It may be that he studied it by himself.

This layer of artificial muscle has both defense and strength. At least for ordinary people, Batman's hands are like iron clamps. Once caught, they can't break free or shake.

As for defense, it's enough to be bulletproof. The little bat intends to use the criminals in Gotham City to hone himself. Naturally, he won't rely on bulletproof to avoid.

"Hey, little bat."

Bruce was beating a gangster, and suddenly a voice sounded from behind him.

Bruce was startled and turned around quickly, and then found that the other party was a masked guy like himself.

In today's world where superhero culture is popular, not covering the head or wearing a mask is the mainstream. Bruce frowned at the other person's appearance.

Chapter 416 The naive little bat

He is the same person as himself!

The little bat looked at each other.

I saw that the other party was wearing a very conspicuous white suit, and he was not wearing tights, but light armor similar to armor, and tights were placed on the joints to avoid affecting flexibility.

The helmet is also white, just like a unicorn helmet. The single horn is very conspicuous, and behind it is a pure white cape.

"I am the Light Knight of Gotham City. Who are you and why do you come to Gotham?"

Luther struck first and said to the little bat with his hands on his hips.

Little Bat was shocked. He had always considered himself the Dark Knight of Gotham City, but he had just debuted.

"I should be the one to ask you this question!"

"Also, I'm not an outsider, I'm a native of Gotham."

Little Bat's voice is gloomy and hoarse, almost like that of Batman's official debut. It's the kind of voice where you don't know what the other person is saying without reading the subtitles. However, it is speculated that Little Bat made his own voice changer.

I don't know if she has the charming Yujie voice and lolita tone...

"Boy, this is my territory. If you want to enforce justice here, you have to take off your hood and mask and let me see your face!"

Luther is very good at repaying the other person with the same method, and directly spoke to the little bat preemptively.

"You can try it!"

Little Bat naturally refused to take off the mask. To him, this was tantamount to a declaration of war.

"Just give it a try. Your words and actions make me very suspicious that you are a super criminal rather than a superhero!"

Luther slapped a hat on Little Bat so that he would not be able to find trouble later.

Hey hey hey hey.

Luther threw out the dart. The crescent-shaped dart gave Little Bat an inexplicable sense of déjà vu.

I always feel like I have seen such darts somewhere?

Little Bat has not yet gone to the Ninja Master for further training, so naturally he does not have the famous Batarang.

So he could only choose to dodge. Even if the suit on his body was bulletproof, he would not recklessly accept the enemy's attack, unlike a certain third princess.

Crescent darts are very easy to hide from. Although the little bat sees that they can fly in magical arcs, as long as they avoid it...

Crackling! ! !

Bat electric attack!

There was also a crescent dart that exploded directly and turned into a smoke bomb, covering the surrounding area.

The little bat was caught off guard. He was still a newbie and he didn't expect such fancy operations. He was electrocuted and fell to the ground convulsing.

"Hahahahaha!"

A burst of crazy laughter came, and the little bat's pupils shrank. With strong willpower, he broke away from the paralysis and stiffness of the strong electric current. Physicists saw it and shouted "Superman".

A pure iron boot trampled on the spot where he was just now, and the cement exploded. The little bat could not see at all in the smoke. The bat helmet did not have as many functions as the latter, including night vision, thermal imaging, sonar, etc. Gas masks and other equipment are not available.

The food was so delicious that Luther felt like he was picking his feet.

Just when he was trying to catch Luther's laughter, a force came from his abdomen that almost punched his body through!

The white arm armor almost penetrated his invulnerable artificial muscle suit, but in the end the little bat relied on strong willpower to hold on. He rolled on the spot, crawling around in embarrassment, and huddled in the corner.

What Batman is best at is escaping, and even The Flash can't compete with him. Often, villains are escaped by Batman without paying attention, and then are completely crushed by Batman the second time.

The little bat has not even developed combat intelligence.

"I'm using smoke bombs. Guess whether I can see your position?"

Luther couldn't stand it anymore and said with a smile.

Little Bat's expression changed, and the next moment, he was kicked and rolling on the ground.

"bump!"

The little bat hit the wall hard, the wall shook violently, and then cracks appeared.

Ignoring the pain of almost multiple fractures in his body, he relied on his strong willpower to quickly find a way to break the situation. He launched the cable to hook a roof, and then soared into the sky.

"It's outrageous. Even if your joints are broken, you can still persist with strong willpower."

Luther watched the little bat fly away without stopping him. Where did he go? The next time the bat cub came back, wouldn't he continue to torture him?

However, he complained that Little Bat has repeatedly performed various incredible operations with his "strong willpower". At this time, Little Bat already has such strong willpower, which is really amazing.

All I can say is that he is indeed DC's biological father.

Little Bat awkwardly sent a signal to Alfred, and then Alfred drove an ordinary, worthless car to take Little Bat home.

"Master Bruce, are you in danger?"

Now Alfred and Little Bat are not able to communicate at any time. Alfred felt very distressed when he saw Little Bat covered in scars and even the artificial muscle suit was badly damaged.

"I'm fine. I met a superhero, Ah Fu. Help me collect information about Gotham City's Bright Knight."

Little Bat calmly took off his artificial muscle suit, then treated the wound himself and said to Alfred.

"Master Bruce, this kind of thing is too dangerous. Now all kinds of super criminals have appeared. Just leave this kind of thing to those superheroes."

Alfred couldn't help but said.

"No, they are unreliable."

"Gotham has never changed, and it's time for some change."

Little Bat rejected Alfred without hesitation.

Batman is the most vigilant person in the world, even to the point of being callous and paranoid.

Alfred sighed. There was nothing he could do. Although he watched Bruce grow up, after all, there was still a master-servant relationship, and he could not forcefully stop Bruce from doing anything.

"By the way, order a batch of materials for me, and help me invite the best people in materials science and genetic engineering to give me lessons."

Bruce realized that his artificial muscle suit had too many shortcomings, especially in terms of shock absorption. He took a punch and almost vomited out his overnight meal.

The usual buffer layer is enough for bullets, but it is not enough when facing superheroes!

The Bright Knight woke up Little Bat with a punch. When facing the super criminal, his artificial muscle suit was no match at all!

He also had to quickly collect data on the punch of the Bright Knight, starting with force analysis, so that he could create a better suit.

At that time, it will be impossible for the Bright Knight to break his own defense.

Little Bat is worried about leaving Gotham City to anyone, so he must defeat the Light Knight and collect his true identity and information.

Chapter 417 Little Superman Debuts

Among the first generation of superheroes launched by Superman Company, Wonder Woman Diana was also included.

She actually supported Luther's ideas, so Luther incorporated her into the first generation of superheroes.

Don't underestimate the appearance of this first-generation superhero, it will become a memory for many people in their old age.

Maybe there will be an endless stream of superheroes in the future, and a new generation will replace the old one, but the first generation of superheroes will definitely become a memorial.

But considering Diana's lifespan, maybe she can continue to be active.

The first generation of superheroes were all guys with good character created by Luther himself.

There is a "Black Bat" in the shape of Batman who robbed Little Bat. His super power is a high-tech suit. This also shows that Superman Company welcomes everyone to become a superhero, regardless of whether they have super powers or high technology and money. All abilities are available.

Of course, Black Bat is still different from Batman, that is, he has some super powers, not much, but he is stronger than ordinary people and can "super jump".

It can't fly, but it can jump very high, almost hundreds of meters.

Coupled with his gliding bat wings, he can fly at low altitudes.

There is "Deep Sea King" who stole the appearance of Neptune, and his super power is set to be able to talk to fish.

There was a grab for Wonder Woman... no, Wonder Woman Diana.

There is "Iron Bone" who stole the shape of Cyborg, and the setting basically copied the setting of Cyborg. An experimental accident caused most of his body to be blown up, but he miraculously fused with a metal life form, and finally became A half-human, half-machine cyborg.

The metal life form in his body gives him invulnerability, and he can also copy all technological products through contact.

There is the "Thunder Man" who stole the look of the Flash. His abilities are electric discharge and super speed, but it is not as outrageous as the Flash. The discharge can only reach the level of thunder and lightning in nature, so he is called the Thunder Man.

These people are the first generation of superheroes!

You mean Superman, Green Lantern and Uncle Jon?

That was the second generation, and it was almost grown up, so of course it couldn't be copied.

Anyway, Luther just created it this way to have a better sense of déjà vu.

It is equivalent to preemptively registering the copyright of Little Bat. In the future, even if Little Bat claims to be Batman, everyone will only think that he is a fan of "Black Bat", or a fanatical fan.

It's interesting to think about it.

Diana still likes her current life, doing chivalrous and righteous deeds, especially after super criminals emerge one after another and cause a lot of casualties to ordinary humans. Humanity finally changes its view of superheroes.

They really can't afford the pensions and losses, so they might as well count on this group of superheroes to solve the problem.

Even if these pensions and losses are worthless to their assets, whoever has the money will give them away, and of course it is best to give them away.

For this reason, Superman Company has soared to a large company with a market value of 100 billion. Even though they have no assets of actual value, aren't those superheroes the most valuable assets of Superman Company?

Diana even said that someone approached her privately and wanted to sign her, and was willing to pay an annual salary of US$10 million a year to hire her.

You must know that the U.S. dollar is still very strong now. An annual salary of ten million U.S. dollars is already unexpectedly high for many people.

Diana naturally refused. She was not interested in money, she just needed enough money to spend, and it was not like Luther didn't give her a salary.

The superheroes in the original plot naturally had no money, but they couldn't resist Luther's rich experience in Black Robe Picket, One Punch Man and Invincible Young Man, and launched a fan economy, superhero peripherals, superhero movies, and superhero fights. A series of operations such as list.

The market for fans is very large and easy to harvest.

Crazy fans can give anything.

Therefore, although the market value is 100 billion, the actual speed of making money only depends on the current speed of money printing.

There is naturally a lot of money given to superheroes.

Other superheroes were also contacted, but they all said that they were noble and could not be impressed by a few bad guys!

Then seeing that they were unable to win over the first generation of superheroes, the capitalists tried their best to tap civilian super humans and learn from Superman Corporation.

Nowadays, super companies, ultimate companies, and super superhuman companies are all popping up.

It's just that they are naturally not as good as Superman Company. Superman Company has already occupied most of the market, and the remaining market can only barely maintain.

Luther is not surprised by the capitalists' operations, and he will probably throw dirty water on it next.

But it doesn't matter, his powerful legal department and team of lawyers are not in vain.

Luther Sr. is therefore called the "Father of Superheroes", which means that he created the concept of superheroes.

Although there is such a thing as Marvel Comics in the DC Universe, Luther changed it at a thought. Nowadays, superhero comics are produced and pioneered by Superman Company. Even if there is Marvel Comics later, they are just following the trend.

Diana began to look forward to Luther's debut. She really wanted to see Luther's debut, and then she would greet him as a senior.

...

Compared to the little bat.

Superboy Clark made his official debut.

His name is "Superboy", also known as "Superboy".

All of this is naturally because of Luther. Luther said that he was about to make his debut, and when he did, he would be called "Superman."

Then you can become a pair of "Superman Brothers"!

In fact, he was lying. How could Luther call Superman such a meaningless nickname?

Clark is naturally very willing. He has not met Lana, is not a small town super, and has been shaped by Luther in terms of values and thoughts. Now he is pursuing high-quality and elite people. Even the future Louise is probably now It's no longer his criteria for choosing a mate.

Out of spite for Bruce, Luther did not let Clark appear in his true form, but instead made him a tight-fitting blue suit and red cape, and a mask that covered his entire face and neck with only his hair exposed.

"Luther, can I really do this?"

Clark said nervously.

Before he officially debuts as a superhero, Superman Company has already produced a promotional video for him. As long as he appears to fight crime, others will be able to recognize who he is.

He doesn't need to be on the streets to gradually build a reputation.

That's the benefit of having someone behind you!

Other street vigilantes... have to work hard for a year or two to get a reputation.

Clark: Already famous even before debuting.

"Believe in yourself!"

Luther drank a bowl of steaming chicken soup.

Chapter 418: Clark the Ironforger

Clark was almost scalded, but he debuted with high morale.

The definition of super criminals is that their bodies undergo mutations and produce various strange abilities.

Luther had already marked Clark's target.

This Clark was trained by him, and he studied materials and energy since childhood, and then studied genetics and biology.

Clark read most of the four abyss pits.

This also made Clark's academic field surpass Little Bat.

Little Bat is currently studying robotics engineering.

Artificial muscle technology is one of the branches of the robotics field.

Little Bat's latest research, the second-generation bat suit "Hercules" uses high-strength polymer fibers made of polyethylene and nylon to make artificial muscles. This research was carried out by scientists from America, Canada, Australia, Little Baga, Turkey and the mainland.

This polymer muscle can lift 100 times the weight of natural muscles of the same size.

This material can expand and contract with changes in ambient temperature, so the shutters made of this "artificial muscle" can automatically open when the weather is hot and automatically close when the weather is cold. The fabric made of it can achieve automatic control of pores.

Some materials can present various complex states according to the change of electric current, such as bending, extension, twisting and contraction, and their behavior is very close to real muscle fibers.

Artificial muscle-like materials are composed of three amino acids (valine, proline and glycine) arranged in a certain order according to biological principles. They are similar to human muscle fibers, elastic, and can expand and contract with changes in ambient temperature and chemical composition (such as pH value).

The jaw muscles of a toad can generate a force greater than 700 times its own weight, and the force generated by the contraction of the tongue muscles when a chameleon hunts is also amazing.

The best mechanical equipment (power motor) currently made by humans can only generate one-third of the force of the jaw muscles of a toad.

With the unique high-end coordination auxiliary equipment, the mechanical tendons/artificial muscles and other equipment can be coordinated with the human brain signals, thereby improving the motor function of the artificial muscles. The most critical part of this artificial muscle made by imitating toads is still the high-end coordination auxiliary equipment. Only the function realized through the manipulation of the brain is the most critical part of the biological motor.

It can only be said that the little bat has embarked on a very promising path.

After all, Luther has always felt that artificial muscle armor actually has more development prospects and possibilities than exoskeleton armor.

Exoskeleton armor has too many problems to solve, while artificial muscles have been maturely used, and only other problems need to be solved.

Little Bat obviously has a lot of ideas in this regard.

He developed two types of bionic muscles to meet different needs.

One is to convert chemical energy into electrical energy. It uses carbon nanotubes containing catalysts to bend and build muscle blocks, "fuel cell" electrodes and supercapacitor electrodes, which will continuously generate power in an environment full of hydrogen.

The other is to convert chemical energy into thermal energy.

It uses hydrogen and ethanol to react to provide energy, combined with special memory metal wire.

For example, when the temperature drops, the metal wire will shrink, the catalyst will reduce its effect, and the artificial muscle will relax and shrink.

The artificial muscle created by this method has the greatest strength, and the lifting force is more than 100 times that of normal skeletal muscles.

The imaginary enemy Bright Knight is no longer a problem for Little Bat!

Let's get back to the point.

The first battle of Little Superman's debut was the daily bank robbery show in Metropolis.

The robber wearing the President Snail Fu mask robbed a bank. He was alone, holding two submachine guns, and behind him was a modified automatic rifle loaded with drum magazines. He was a tough guy.

Such fierce firepower made the people in the bank dare not resist.

"Stop!"

Clark appeared in a flash.

"Superhero?"

The President Snail Fu robber fired his submachine gun directly at Clark.

Clark's head buzzed. If Luther had not attacked him with various guns and cannons at home to hone his habits, Clark would probably feel scared now, but he has been trained.

Rely on his super speed to dodge bullets!

Superman actually dodges attacks. This must be a wrong parallel universe!

Luther taught Clark that any attack must be avoided, and he can't think that he is not afraid and don't dodge.

Caution is the kingly way.

He was very curious about what it would be like to train a Superman with Batman's personality. Then there would probably be no need for the Justice League, right?

Clark obviously still listens to his eldest brother.

He tried his best to dodge even the painless attacks from the submachine gun, then approached the gangster and punched him.

Boom!

It was like the collision of metal and iron, making a clanging sound.

President Luosifu was hit and flew out, hitting the wall.

Clark stared at his fist with his eyes wide open, looking at his fist in disbelief.

The feeling was like an ordinary person hitting a thinner iron sheet.

"Puff!"

President Luosifu vomited blood. At this time, Clark had appeared in front of him. With the bio-force field and super speed, Clark was no different from a ghost, appearing and disappearing.

"Asshole!"

President Luosifu tore off his clothes, and Clark was surprised to see the exposed skin of the other party, showing a metallic luster.

It was even shiny and bright, as if it was cast from polished steel, full of a strong sense of power.

"Steel Body???"

Clark couldn't help but blurt out this word.

Because he himself has a steel body, but it's not the metalized appearance of the other party, but his elder brother said that his body is as hard as steel, so he got this title.

Now Clark feels that the other party is more suitable for the title of steel body than himself.

This is a solid piece of steel!

"Go to hell!"

President Snail Fu punched out, and the heavy steel body drove amazing mass energy. Clark avoided this punch, and he even avoided the opponent's ordinary attack, and then Clark backhanded to punch the opponent!

Bang!

It was like a heavy hammer, blasting "President Snail Fu" away and knocking him out.

If President Snail Fu is made of iron, then Clark is a forger.

"Sorry, even if it is an alloy, it is just mud in front of my fist."

Clark raised his head and chest, looking at President Snail Fu who fell to the ground and said.

President Luosifu wanted to stand up, but his chest was sunken by Clark's punch and he couldn't stand up at all.

He was unwilling to accept that he had such power but fell here.

Chapter 419: Teasing the Little Bat

"Superboy, Superboy, they only pay attention to Superboy?"

A newspaper was firmly inserted into the bulletproof glass.

A young man with a big blond hair was very unhappy.

"I worked so hard to save people and solved so many gangsters, but no one paid attention to the powerful people of the motherland!"

The young man cursed and was extremely dissatisfied.

He is a native of the motherland chosen by Luther, and like Clark, is destined to be a second-generation superhero.

However, it is naturally difficult for the vain people of the motherland to accept the popular Little Superman.

In his opinion, he is the one who really deserves attention, not a guy who hides his face.

The people of the motherland are a staunch "truth party", and what they value is truth. Superheroes should not hide their identities.

These were naturally instilled in him by Luther.

The people of the motherland who have lost their parents naturally long for family affection. The people of the motherland in the original plot long for family affection because they thought they were born in a laboratory.

It is not easy to mold this kind of character and thought.

In this way, without the knowledge of his motherland, he became the godson of old Luther and became good friends with Luther and Clark.

There is no rejection or alienation from Luther and Clark, and the people of the motherland will naturally exchange their sincerity for their sincerity.

I just don't know what Clark will think when he takes off his mask.

"Azu, don't be like this. Superboy just happened to run into the company's plan, and you will also be the beneficiary."

Luther said to his fatherland.

"Godfather, I don't understand."

The people of the motherland said to Luther respectfully.

"The second-generation superhero plan and the fan economy of the first-generation superhero have almost been harvested, and the popularity has reached its peak. The next thing we need to consider is to maintain this popularity and let Superman Company continue to burn!"

There is no problem at all with Luther playing the second role. On the contrary, he is very skillful in deceiving the people of his motherland.

"Second generation superhero?"

The people of the motherland suddenly became excited. The first generation of superheroes were all his idols. Although they learned about the superhero plan after joining Superman Company, the people of the motherland did not change their character. Instead, they supported the concept of superheroes even more.

The superhero plan is naturally not that simple, it is about creating gods!

Just like so many professional players, Pig Factory Dafei is famous because of the god-making project.

There are a lot of superheroes, and the God-creation plan launched is to create godhood.

The first generation of superheroes are now known as the "Original Five", "Super Five" and "Fantastic Five".

The latter one comes from the nickname of the popular Wonder Woman Diana, because she is the only female superhero who is both beautiful and capable of fighting. The other four combined cannot beat Wonder Woman alone.

Therefore this combination is also called Wonder Woman and her thigh pendant.

"Godfather, can I join this plan too?"

The native asked very excitedly. What he likes most is others cheering and applauding him and fans.

There is no doubt that if you join this plan, your number of fans will continue to increase!

"This new project is called Teen Titans!"

Luther said.

"Teen Titans?"

The people of the motherland pondered the name of this group.

It is the first team composed of teenage superheroes. It was originally established by the teenage assistants of DC Comics superheroes. Its history is almost as long as the Justice League, and there have been many spin-off organizations.

Luther felt that the Teen Titans were the best fit for Homelander and Clark since they were still teenagers.

As for himself, although he is also a teenager, he has to play with the little bat and has no time to join in for the time being.

Members of the original Teen Titans:

Robin - Batman's sidekick

Kid Flash - The Flash's sidekick

Hai Shaoxia - Neptune's apprentice

Wonder Girl - Wonder Woman's sister

Kuaishou - Green Arrow's assistant

Now, Luther plans to follow the example of the previous copycat Justice League and create a copycat Teen Titans.

But the quality of this Teen Titans is a bit high.

Although the Homelander is a weakened version of Superman, he is still more powerful than the members of the Teen Titans. Perhaps only Wonder Girl can compete with the Homelander, and with the addition of Clark, the little superman, the strength is off the charts.

The people of the motherland think that the name Teen Titans is very good, indicating that they are the Titans who are about to grow up.

Of course, the key is that he doesn't have a choice.

"Godfather, if you say that, I will team up with Superman in the future?"

The people of the motherland suddenly thought of this problem.

"Both of you have a lot of fans. If you can make use of each other, it will be more stable."

Luther said calmly.

"I understand, Godfather."

The people of the motherland nodded.

He will never struggle with his own interests. As long as it is beneficial, the people of the motherland will be able to get along with Little Superman with a smile.

But only in front of the camera.

After Luther finished fooling the people of his motherland, he ran back to Gotham City to find Little Bat.

The little bat has put on a new bat suit. He is doing chivalry in Gotham City, executing justice and spreading fear.

This was a provocative act, and Little Bat knew that the Bright Knight would not be able to resist it.

Sure enough, the Bright Knight appeared.

"Knight of Light!"

The little bat looked at each other.

"You have admitted the wrong person. My name is not the Knight of Light, my name is the White Emperor!"

Luther, wearing the same white uniform, said to Little Bat.

Little Bat paused, White Emperor?

He didn't know why the Bright Knight was mad, but it didn't matter, as long as he knew that the Bright Knight had appeared.

"Whoever you are, take off your mask!"

The little bat was very brave. He threw out the dart.

Luther had long seen that the universal belt he was wearing was filled with a box of batarangs and various props.

It's outrageous. No wonder some people say that Batman's Diao Chan is on his waist. How many things can be packed into a belt? Batman is obviously overloading.

I don't know why these iron-like bat darts can hold smoke bombs and anesthetics.

Little Bat drew inferences from one example and used the Bright Knight's darts to create an enhanced version of the anesthetic. Mixing it with smoke bombs can make the enemy hard to defend against.

Luther saw the trick and threw out the Green Goblin's pumpkin bombs. Of course, his pumpkin bombs were all white.

The little bat's pupils shrank, and the flashing ball made it clear that it was not a good thing.

"boom!"

The next moment, the dart thrown by the little bat was blown into pieces, and he was also blown dozens of meters away by the explosion.

Luther, who followed closely, threw out his crescent dart, and two pieces hit the little bat's armpit, putting him on the wall.

Chapter 420: Making Big Things Happen in DC

Little Bat didn't expect that the Bright Knight would use a bomb, so wasn't he worried that it would blow him up?

He is not as measured as himself, and at most he can destroy the other party.

Sure enough, this person is still too dangerous and we must be vigilant!

The little bat used an impossible counter-joint force and jumped up directly with the help of the crescent moon dart under his arm.

Then his black cape danced and he threw out the Batarang!

Luther didn't need to cheat to know that there must be a scam, and Batman would not use useless tactics a second time.

What exactly is it?

Is it the condensing agent? Or an unscientific shock bomb that won't hurt anyone?

Luther sidled away from the batarangs and noticed their different details.

Then after these bat darts were avoided by Luther, they actually accelerated at a faster speed.

"As expected of you, Aerodynamics will cry to death when I see it."

Luther complained that these batarangs didn't even have a propeller, but they could spin and accelerate, and they didn't have the special shape and structure of a boomerang.

Moreover, these batarangs also have built-in navigation, attacking his vest and other vital points from different angles.

Boom! ! !

One of the batarangs exploded unscientifically again. Luther thought that it should be equipped with a micro bomb, but for such a powerful micro bomb, what kind of explosive did you use?

This amount of charge and energy efficiency can completely defeat all current explosives.

The explosion knocked Luther away. Batman's cape swung around and wrapped his body to resist the shock wave of the explosion.

A normal explosion naturally doesn't have any fireballs or thick smoke, it's just a fleeting explosion, with at most fragments.

The fireballs and thick smoke are the big scenes and special effects created by adding gasoline.

Batman pursues victory, and the explosion just now has proved that the power of the Bright Knight is nothing more than this.

Luther said, do you really want to learn about force before you say this?

He respects the rules of physics very much, but Batman is so cheating, Luther is a little itchy.

The artificial muscle suit swelled, and in the charging state, Batman's right arm to fist seemed to be inflated to twice the size of his left arm.

The punch roared past, and the sharp sound of breaking wind followed closely behind.

The air was almost sparking with friction, and red spots appeared on Batman's fists.

With this punch, Luther thought that it would be no problem to kill the Bright Knight. It was absolutely impossible for him to just be crippled and fall asleep.

But he is Batman after all, so he will definitely be disabled by then.

"Bang!"

Then, the inevitable punch was caught by the opponent.

The expression under Batman's mask suddenly changed.

This is impossible!

According to the data, it is absolutely impossible for the Bright Knight to catch this punch!

Either the data is wrong, or the opponent hid their strength last time.

"I'm trying to keep my hands off you, but you actually want to kill people. You are indeed not a good person. You are a super criminal. I, the White Emperor, will never allow super criminals like you to run wild in Gotham!"

Luther spoke righteously, and the evil ones were the first to complain.

Coupled with his pure white armor and suit, his majesty was at its peak at this moment, making Batman look ashamed in his black suit.

The little Bat is very confused. He has not yet grown up, and he still can't resist being kidnapped by morality and pointing fingers from the moral high ground. If it were Batman, he would probably be calm and unmoved.

"My punch can't kill you, it will only make you lose the power to fight back..."

He opened his mouth to defend himself.

"Your punch was almost supersonic, and you said it was impossible to kill me. If I hadn't kept my hand, that punch would have been equivalent to hitting a car traveling at 300 kilometers per hour. Do you think I would have died? "

Luther seized on this point and attacked the little bat's spirit fiercely.

Little Bat was silent. He believed that his calculations would never be wrong because he had rehearsed and calculated them hundreds of times.

But if the Bright Knight doesn't believe it, there's nothing he can do.

"But I, Lord Baidi, have a lot of them."

After Luther finished speaking, he punched Little Bat on the body. The punch was so fast that Little Bat could not avoid it, and then all the clothes on his body were shattered by this punch.

Batman: ? ? ?

The little bat's brain couldn't understand what was happening.

"It's you, the most talented Bruce Wayne!"

Luther's surprised words made Little Bat realize something and found that his helmet was gone.

So, the Bright Knight has the ability to shatter his own suit with one punch?

What ability is this?

It must be a superpower. It is absolutely impossible to have any skills. How can you do such a thing with skill and strength.

Little Bat silently recorded this matter, but now that his identity was exposed, he did not know the identity of the Bright Knight, which made Little Bat very anxious.

He made up his mind that he would never engage in close combat with the Bright Knight next time. This tactic of melee combat was useless against the Bright Knight. Since any suit could be destroyed, Little Bat gave up the melee combat.

Seeing his thoughts, Luther had no reason to think that he might have created a bat shooter, right?

Seems good?

"I didn't expect that you, a young master of a capitalist, would come out to enforce justice, but this does not mean that I approve of you. Your behavior of playing house is not suitable for becoming a superhero in Gotham City!"

The Bright Knight left after saying this.

The little bat was alone in the alley. He sighed helplessly. Everything on him was destroyed. He couldn't contact Alfred now. He could only walk home by himself.

The problem was that he was naked now. If he went back and was seen, it would be the headline of the news the next day.

"Shocked, the young master of the Wayne family was wandering on the street without any clothes. Was he a psychopathic exhibitionist or was he robbed?"

Luther felt that this was very interesting. He even had an interesting idea, which was to awaken the female in Clark and Bruce's heart and let them hold a grand wedding.

The Marvel Universe next door has a world line where the female Iron Man married Captain America. The DC Universe should also have one.

This must be very interesting.

So we have to find an opportunity to expose the identities of Clark and Bruce.

"Should we add a third person, Baldy Lai?"

Luther thought about this question carefully. If Bruce was transformed, he would be a dark and gloomy young lady, and Baldy Lai would be an arrogant and domineering young lady.

There is nothing interesting about transforming Clarke, she is just a silly and innocent heroine.

So Luther will not transform Clarke into a woman, it is too boring, it is more interesting to be a dark and gloomy lady or a domineering and arrogant lady.
