Chapter 591 The Day the Earth Stood Still

"What should we do next?"

Everyone stood on the devastated battlefield, their hearts filled with worry.

Although they successfully defeated the enemy in front of them, the crisis was not resolved.

The two Saiyans, Raditz and Napa, are still at large and could attack again at any time.

What's more worrying is that they don't know if more Saiyans will come to invade.

How many such warriors are there on the Saiyan home planet? How strong are they? These are the unknowns and their biggest concerns.

Tony thought for a moment, and then slowly said: "I am more inclined to think that there may continue to be a Saiyan invasion."

Although his voice was calm, there was a firmness and determination between the lines.

"The coordinates of our earth have been exposed. In this case, it is impossible for the Saiyans to give up without completely solving us." He continued.

"It's like discovering a gold mine or an oil field. Americans and fungi are unlikely to give up unless they can't defeat it."

His words made everyone fall into deep thought. Indeed, the purpose of the Saiyans is obvious, they are here to invade and conquer.

As long as the coordinates of the earth are still in their control, they may launch another attack at any time.

Thor held the Thunder God's Ax tightly in his hand, with an angry light flashing in his eyes: "It is impossible for the Saiyans to give up. Several of them have died here. We must fight back and cannot continue to passively wait for the Saiyans." People invade!"

His voice was full of strength and determination, clearly ready to fight again.

Captain Marvel also nodded. She agreed with Thor: "We can't just sit back and wait, we must take the initiative."

However, she also raised a key question: "But how are we going to find the Saiyans' home planet? I have been in the universe for so many years and I have never heard of the existence of the Saiyans."

Thor thought for a moment, and then said: "I'm looking for Heimdall. He may be able to find the existence of the Saiyans." Heimdall is the guardian of Asgard. He has the ability to see through the nine realms. He may be able to Find traces of Saiyans through his power.

At this time, Tony spoke solemnly.

His voice echoed in the silent conference room, and every word seemed so heavy: "I have studied the Saiyan spacecraft in depth. Their spacecraft has detailed coordinate information inside."

As soon as this statement came out, it immediately caused an uproar among everyone.

"Where?"

Captain Marvel Carol and Thor stood up almost at the same time, their eyes shining with determination, as if they saw the dawn of hope.

As long as they have the coordinates, they may be able to find the Saiyans' home planet and eradicate this hidden danger that threatens the earth in one fell swoop.

However, Tony's next words were like a basin of cold water, mercilessly extinguishing the fire of hope in their hearts.

He shook his head slightly, frowning, and the expression on his face was extremely solemn: "But unfortunately, I have not found a galaxy that matches the coordinates on the Saiyan spacecraft among the galaxies we know. Change. In other words, the Saiyans come from a galaxy beyond the scope of our human observation, and their home star may be farther away than we can imagine."

Tony's words instantly made the atmosphere in the conference room become heavy.

Everyone looked at each other with disappointment and worry in their eyes. If the Saiyans' home planet is really in such a distant galaxy, then they will face unprecedented difficulties and challenges if they want to find and eliminate this threat.

"Perhaps, we can continue to study the Saiyan spacecraft in depth." Tony made a new suggestion, his eyes flashing with determination, "See if we can find some useful information from it, such as their technological level, combat capabilities, etc. In this way, we can better formulate response strategies."

This suggestion was approved by everyone. They knew that in order to defeat the Saiyans, they had to understand their strength and technological level. And studying their spacecraft is undoubtedly a good way.

As a result, everyone once again devoted themselves to intense research work. They used advanced technological equipment to conduct a comprehensive scan and analysis of the Saiyan spacecraft. Every detail is ignored, hoping to find some useful clues.

Banner finally regained his freedom, and Green Hulk knew that he had nothing to do next.

They need to quickly restore the earth's environment.

Tony stood on the top floor of Avengers Tower, looking at the distant skyline.

There, the once prosperous city is now devastated and in ruins. His heart was filled with endless grief and anxiety, as if there was an invisible force pressing on his chest, making him almost breathless.

"Jarvis, count the number of casualties on earth this time." Tony's voice was low and firm. He must know how much damage this disaster caused.

Jarvis did not answer immediately, but remained silent for a while, as if collecting and analyzing data.

Tony knew that this was a huge task, because the Saiyans' ravages had affected almost every corner of the earth.

Jarvis started running quickly, and a stream of data and images appeared on its virtual interface. Tony stared at the data, knowing it was going to be a brutal read.

"According to my calculations, the Earth suffered extremely heavy casualties in this disaster. The invasion of the Saiyans and the subsequent rampage of hundreds of Saiyan gorillas led to the direct extinction of more than 50% of the Earth's species. Among them, the number of human deaths is in the hundreds of millions. From cities to villages, from plains to mountains, almost every corner is left with the shadow of death."

Jarvis's voice was calm and objective, but Tony could hear endless sadness from it.

He closed his eyes, as if he could see those innocent lives falling one by one under the attack of the Saiyans, their blood dyed the earth red, and their shouts echoed in the sky.

Tony's heart sank to the bottom of the valley. He originally still had a glimmer of fantasy, hoping that Luther could revive those who died. Although he knew that this sounded a bit absurd and even unrealistic, he couldn't help thinking so at this desperate moment.

However, reality is cruel. Luther did not revive those who died. Tony's fantasy was shattered, and he could only face this cruel reality.

He took a deep breath, trying to calm the grief and anger in his heart. He knew that now was not the time to dwell in grief, they needed to act quickly to restore the Earth's environment and rebuild their homes.

Chapter 592 A completely changed world

"Jarvis, we need to make a detailed plan." Tony Stark stood in his high-tech laboratory, facing the wall of display screens, frowning.

Jarvis, his intelligent assistant, immediately began to analyze various data, from global satellite images to environmental reports from various places, and then extracted information from various scientific literature. Jarvis's algorithm ran at a rapid speed, constantly proposing various possible solutions.

"First, we need to make a comprehensive assessment of the extent of damage to the earth." Jarvis' voice echoed in the laboratory, "including urban damage, vegetation coverage, water pollution and other aspects."

Tony nodded in agreement: "Yes, we need a comprehensive understanding. Only when we know the problem can we solve it in a targeted manner."

Jarvis continued: "At the same time, we also need to mobilize global resources, including human, material and financial resources. The scale of this mission is huge and cannot be completed by one person."

"You are right." Tony took a deep breath, "I need to contact scientists and engineers around the world to get them to participate in this project. We need to brainstorm and work together to study how to repair the earth's ecological environment."

So Tony started to get busy. He used his influence to contact top scientists and engineers from all over the world through various channels. He explained to them the current situation of the earth and the arduous tasks they faced.

Although these scientists came from different fields, they all knew the importance of the earth. They all expressed their willingness to join the project and contribute to the restoration of the earth.

Under Tony's call, a large scientific research team was quickly formed. They began to work together, some were responsible for studying how to rebuild the city, some were responsible for restoring vegetation, and some were responsible for purifying water sources. Everyone is working hard for the future of the earth.

In this process, Tony also deeply reflected on human behavior.

He realized that the destruction of the earth this time was not achieved overnight, but the result of human beings' long-term lack of ambition, addiction to infighting, and even harming others and destroying themselves.

Although this incident brought a huge disaster, it also taught mankind a profound lesson.

Tony intends to let the Illuminati come to the front, and he wants to take over the management of the earth!

Aims to coordinate global resources and ensure the sustainability of human behavior.

Those studies that repeatedly waste resources must be stopped. Human beings are now at the point of life and death. They must use limited resources in unlimited exploration and research.

Any unnecessary waste must be eliminated!

He hopes that through his own efforts, more people will contribute to the sustainable development of the earth.

As time goes by, the ecological environment of the earth has gradually recovered.

Cities began to rebuild, vegetation re-covered the earth, and water sources became clear. People's lives are gradually back on track.

And the starting point of all this stems from the catastrophic Saiyan invasion.

Although it brought great pain and loss, it also made humans realize their shortcomings and areas that need improvement.

However, now is not the time to relax, because the Saiyan invasion may come at any time.

Under such influence, many people choose to become "runaways", that is, to leave the earth before the Saiyans come here and find a habitable environment again.

They believe that instead of waiting for unknown disasters to come on Earth, it is better to leave in advance and find a safer and more stable place.

But Tony knew that this plan was impossible to accomplish, even if they had Captain Marvel, who could fly faster than light, and could find a planet with a life environment suitable for them to live in.

But this does not mean that humans can migrate easily.

First of all, interstellar travel itself is a huge challenge.

Long-term space travel will have an impact on human physical and mental health.

In a microgravity environment, the human body will gradually lose bone density and muscle mass, and cosmic rays may increase the risk of cancer.

The time span of interstellar travel may be decades or even hundreds of years.

This means that we need to establish a self-sufficient ecosystem in space, which is a huge challenge in terms of technology and resources.

Secondly, even if a suitable planet is found, the ecological environment there may be very different from that of the earth.

Life on Earth is the result of billions of years of evolution, and the microorganisms, plants and animals on the new planet may be completely different.

These organisms may have unknown effects on humans, such as allergic reactions, disease transmission, etc.

In addition, the atmospheric composition and air pressure of different planets may be very different.

After a long period of evolution, the atmosphere of the earth has formed an atmosphere dominated by oxygen and nitrogen that is suitable for the existence of life.

On other planets, there may be gases that are harmful to humans, or the air pressure may be too high or too low, which will threaten human survival.

In addition, the water source and soil conditions on the planet are also key factors affecting the ecological environment.

The water source on the earth has been naturally circulated and purified to form fresh water suitable for human drinking.

The water source on other planets may contain high concentrations of salt or other harmful substances and cannot be used directly. At the same time, the composition and fertility of the soil will directly affect the growth of plants and the yield of crops.

Tony also pointed out that even at the microscopic level, the environment of the new planet may have a serious impact on humans.

For example, if the magnetic field strength of the new planet is different from that of the Earth, it may affect the human nervous system and brain function.

In addition, the day and night cycle, seasonal changes, etc. of the new planet may also be different from those of the Earth. These differences may interfere with the human biological clock and affect sleep and mood.

The biodiversity and ecological balance on the planet are also factors that need to be considered.

The species of organisms on Earth are rich and diverse, and they are interdependent and mutually restricted, forming a stable ecosystem.

On other planets, there may be a lack of certain key species or too many invasive species, resulting in an imbalance in the ecological balance, posing a threat to the survival of humans and other organisms.

Therefore, Tony advocates that humans should pay more attention to the protection and sustainable development of the earth, rather than pinning their hopes on interstellar migration.

He advocates the use of scientific and technological power to strengthen the defense capabilities against the Saiyan threat, while continuing to improve the ecological environment of the earth, so that humans and the earth can enter a new era of harmonious coexistence.

Tony's view has been recognized by more and more people.

Chapter 593 Strange

People are beginning to pay more attention to environmental protection and reduce the overexploitation and waste of natural resources.

Scientists are also studying how to use scientific and technological means, such as carbon capture and storage technology, desalination technology, etc., to solve environmental problems on Earth.

At the same time, humans are also actively developing space exploration technology, not to escape from the Earth, but to better understand the universe and provide more knowledge and resources for the sustainable development of the Earth.

"Earth Defense Force, how could I see such a ridiculous thing?"

Luther said.

The Illuminati has the most powerful military force on Earth today, so when they decided to rule the Earth, almost no one could raise objections, which seemed to be a matter of course.

With the establishment of the Illuminati's rule, the technology and culture on Earth have also ushered in unprecedented changes.

In addition, because of the influence of the Saiyans, humans began the immigration plan to the moon and Mars.

The original intention of these plans was, on the one hand, to explore the universe and find new living space; on the other hand, it was also to preserve the fire and have enough time to retreat and rebuild when the Earth was facing a crisis.

After all, with such a powerful existence as the Saiyans, the future of the Earth is full of uncertainty.

And against this background, the research on super soldier serum was once again put on the agenda. This serum, which can give humans extraordinary powers, once played a huge role in the war.

However, the only sample was contaminated for some reason, causing Steve to become the Blue Hulk, which was obviously not suitable as a new research sample.

So, scientists had to start from scratch and redevelop the super soldier serum. Fortunately, Nick Fury kept Steve's original blood sample.

The arrival of the Saiyan Raditz brought new possibilities to this research.

The Saiyan samples provided by Raditz enabled scientists to combine the Saiyan genes with human genes to create Saiyans belonging to humans.

Tony proposed a bold and crazy idea.

He wanted to combine the super soldier serum with the Saiyan genes to create a new creature - the human Saiyan.

This creature will have strength and speed beyond ordinary people, and may even master some special abilities of the Saiyans.

Although this idea is crazy, it has a certain scientific basis.

The super soldier serum can enhance human physical fitness and immunity, while the Saiyan genes give them strong combat effectiveness and recovery ability. If the two are combined, perhaps a powerful new creature can really be created.

However, this research is also full of unknowns and risks.

First of all, genetic modification itself is an extremely complex and dangerous task, and the slightest carelessness may lead to unpredictable consequences.

Secondly, whether the genes of Saiyans can be completely integrated with human genes is also an unknown. If the fusion fails, it may cause serious physical abnormalities or even death in the experimental subject.

Despite this, Tony decided to take a risk. He led a group of top scientists and researchers to start this unprecedented research.

It can only be said that this ability to stir up trouble is Tony Stark, second only to Mr. Fantastic.

However, in this catastrophe, there is also a person who lost everything. He, a former neurosurgeon, is now experiencing unprecedented despair. His name is Stephen Strange.

Dr. Strange enjoys a high reputation in the field of neurosurgery. His surgical skills are superb and his success rate is astonishingly high.

Every operation he performs is an art. The scalpel in his hand seems to be given life, and can accurately remove lesions and save lives. He is hailed as God's gift to the surgical world, and countless honors and awards are piled up in his office, witnessing his brilliance.

However, in the disaster of the Saiyan invasion, Dr. Strange suffered a heavy blow. A huge falling rock hit his hands, causing serious damage to the nerves in his hands and ruptured ligaments.

He tried to restore the function of his hands through surgery and treatment, but the results were disappointing. His hands could no longer be as flexible as before, he could no longer pick up a scalpel, and could no longer continue his career as a doctor.

For a doctor who lives by surgery, such a blow is undoubtedly fatal. Dr. Strange could not accept this cruel reality, and he felt that his life had lost its meaning and value.

He tried to raise funds by borrowing money and selling property, hoping to find a way to heal his hands. However, the reality was cruel. He spent all his savings but still could not find an effective treatment.

In despair, Stephen Strange fell into deep confusion and pain. He didn't know how to face this cruel reality, nor did he know how to continue to live.

He spent every day in pain and struggle, as if he was trapped in endless darkness.

Luther was watching him from the side.

"Don't be nervous, Master Ancient One, I have no ill intentions."

Luther said to the air.

"...Emperor Luther."

Master Ancient One appeared and nodded to Luther.

Luther is the mysterious leader of Hydra, a figure who manipulates countless conspiracies in the dark.

However, Master Ancient One did not show any hostility, which was surprising.

Luther was a little surprised, he thought Master Ancient One would immediately reveal his true identity.

But the Ancient One didn't seem to know that he was the boss of Hydra.

This possibility is not impossible.

After all, the Ancient One stopped using the Eye of Agamotto a long time ago. She placed this powerful artifact casually in the library and traveled around outside.

I don't know whether it was because she had fleeced Dormammu to the point where she could protect herself, because she was strong enough and didn't need to rely on the power of the Eye of Agamotto, or because she had foreseen all the future and was sure that there would be no danger?

As Luther guessed, the Supreme Sorcerer Ancient One didn't know that Luther was the "Black Caesar".

Because Luther was a person who couldn't predict the future.

Luther, who had the "power of transcendence", could not predict his future with a single time gem.

It was possible for a while, but now it is impossible.

During that time, the Supreme Sorcerer Ancient One did not use the Eye of Agamotto.

This is the benefit of fleecing Dormammu. The power brought by the dark universe dimension is enough for her to solve 99% of the troubles.

"I'm just here to make sure Strange's growth doesn't deviate."

The Ancient One said.

Chapter 594: The Galactic Empire of Reciprocity

She almost said that she was worried about Luther messing around.

Luther was also very tactful.

"It's okay, I'm not interested in your affairs, whether it's the Sorcerer Supreme or Doctor Strange."

Luther said with a smile.

The Ancient One remained calm and smiled and nodded, without any change because Luther said the word Doctor Strange.

She was obviously not surprised that Luther knew about this.

"In the future, there will be another Doctor Strange on Earth, which is not bad."

Luther disappeared after saying that.

The Ancient One breathed a sigh of relief. If Luther really wanted to mess around, she didn't know if she could stop Luther.

Then she looked at Strange.

"In this situation, we can't delay any longer."

The Ancient One planned to make Strange the Sorcerer Supreme as soon as possible, otherwise the current situation might change and cause problems.

She should also face her destined death.

Thor left the Earth soon. Now he can summon the Rainbow Bridge by himself, so he will naturally not stick to the Earth.

However, Odin was naturally very happy when he knew that he had awakened the true power of God.

He could finally rest assured now, and he didn't have to worry about his death.

After all, Odin knew very well that Thor's potential was above his own, and his power would be stronger than his own!

Luther sat quietly on his throne, as if isolated from the world.

He was in a magnificent palace, surrounded by dazzling stars, like countless shining pearls, embellishing the vast universe. The light of the stars was projected on Luther, covering him with a mysterious and solemn halo.

His eyes were as deep as the night sky, like a black hole that could swallow all the light, and like an abyss containing endless darkness. His eyes seemed to be able to penetrate the stars and see through the mysteries of the universe.

His face was resolute and firm, as if it was engraved with traces of time, witnessing the vicissitudes and glory of his endless years.

The throne was surrounded by an indescribable majesty and mystery, which made anyone who approached feel an invisible sense of oppression.

The throne is made of an unknown material, exuding a faint golden luster, as if it contains infinite power. Below the throne, clouds and mist are lingering, as if it is a mysterious fairyland.

The one-eyed stars knelt in front of Luther, with sad expressions on their faces. Their bodies trembled slightly, as if they could not bear the pressure brought by this heavy news.

Their voices trembled, conveying the news that shocked the entire empire-Boros died on the battlefield.

Luther nodded slightly, and there was no trace of sadness or anger on his face.

He had long expected Boros' death.

For Luther, Boros' death was not something to be sad about.

He died in his favorite war, which may be a relief and a destination for Boros.

Boros' death is not the focus of Luther's attention at the moment.

What really makes him unhappy is Thanos' arrogance.

Although the Galactic Empire is not well-known in the universe, Luther is an existence that cannot be ignored.

He is not a person who likes to haggle, but he pays attention to reciprocity.

Thanos' disrespect is undoubtedly a challenge to his authority.

"Let's just make Thanos a lonely man and shave his head."

Luther's voice was low and firm, as if carrying an unquestionable power.

With a wave of his hand, the entire universe seemed to be under his control.

He could easily capture Thanos' current position, as if he was playing a simple game.

The three major races under his command, the golden humans, the one-eyed stars, and the weirdos, were ready for battle.

Although they are still in the growth stage, there is no problem in sweeping Thanos's dark cult.

Thanos's dark cult is a terrifying organization.

They are composed of a group of brutal and powerful warriors, and they act according to Thanos' will. They are cruel and do all kinds of evil, and they are a dark force in the universe that cannot be ignored.

However, the dark cult also has a fatal weakness, that is, they have no fixed home planet and base.

This is because what they did was too horrible. If their base and home planet were discovered, I believe that what awaited them would be the avengers of the entire universe attacking them.

Or simply the people of the three empires and the justice camp would come to their door.

Therefore, their whereabouts were very secretive, like a group of ghosts wandering in the dark.

The universe is vast and the stars are bright. In this vast sea of stars, there is a dark area surrounded by countless asteroids, called the Temple.

The Temple, a world shrouded in darkness, seems to have no sunshine forever, no breath of life, only endless darkness and coldness.

Here is the territory of Thanos and the nest of the Dark Cult.

In this darkness, a black throne is suspended in the air, as if it is the only master in the darkness. On the throne, sits a majestic and cold overlord-Thanos.

Thanos has an extremely strong physique, with clear muscle lines, as if it contains infinite power. His body was like a towering mountain, standing tall and unshakable, emitting a suffocating force.

Even if he was motionless, the powerful aura was enough to inspire awe.

His whole body is wrapped in golden armor, which is engraved with complex patterns and emits a faint light, as if illuminating his figure in the dark.

These patterns are not just decorations, but also contain powerful power, making him more invincible in battle.

Thanos's eyes are deep and cold, as if he can see through all illusions.

His eyes reveal an invincible domineering aura that makes people dare not look directly at him.

His face is resolute and cold, without any expression, and all his emotions have been buried deep in his heart.

He is like an insurmountable mountain, which makes people daunted. His existence is the symbol of the dark realm and the belief of the dark cult.

Under the throne, there are several figures standing, they also exude a powerful aura, and each of them is an elite in the dark cult.

They silently watch Thanos, waiting for his orders.

These are the five obsidian generals under Thanos - Ebony Maw, Proxima Midnight, General Corvus Glaive, Supergiant and Black Dwarf.

They each possess unique abilities and powerful strengths, and are Thanos's right-hand men in conquering the universe.

"Report, intruders spotted!"

A scout from the Dark Order hurried over, his voice particularly abrupt in this silent dark realm.

General Grim Reaper immediately became alert, his eyes as sharp as a beast: "Has anyone spotted us?"

Chapter 595: The Galactic Empire vs. the Dark Cult

"How many invaders are there?"

Ebony Maw's voice echoed in the empty command room, and his eyes were fixed on the holographic projection in front of him. It was a real-time picture sent back by the scouts of the Dark Order. On the screen, in the distant starry sky, a group of warships were approaching rapidly. Their appearances were different, but without exception, they all exuded a cold and dangerous atmosphere.

"There are more than a hundred of them, all warships, not predator ships!"

The scout's voice was tense and fast, as if he was afraid of delaying a second. He knew that such intelligence was crucial to the Dark Order, especially at this sensitive moment.

Thanos sat quietly in the center of the command room, his figure looked taller and more majestic in the dim light. There was no expression on his face, as if all this was expected by him. His eyes were deep and dark, as if they could swallow all the light.

"Master, it seems that it is not an accident."

Ebony Maw turned to Thanos, with a hint of caution in his tone. He knew that Thanos would not tolerate anything that disrupted his plan.

Thanos nodded slightly, his eyes were like a sword that traveled through time and space, staring straight at the void ahead.

His voice was calm and indifferent: "Prepare for battle, destroy them, and then, leave here."

His orders were concise and clear, without any extra nonsense.

For him, these invaders were just a small obstacle on his way forward, and he didn't need to spend too much time and energy to deal with them.

Although this was the Temple, Thanos' base, he didn't hesitate or hesitate at all.

Where he was was the dark realm, the Temple.

So he wouldn't stick to just one base.

His orders were absolute laws,

The five black generals and the warriors of the Dark Order acted quickly and orderly like awakened beasts. Their steps were firm and their goals were clear, as if they had foreseen the upcoming battle. There was a firm light in their eyes, which was a desire for victory and a fearlessness of challenge.

Inside the battleship, technicians were operating various complex equipment nervously and orderly. Their fingers jumped quickly on the control panel, as if playing an exciting battle movement.

The warship's weapon system began to charge, and the powerful energy gathered at the muzzle, forming a series of cold lights. These lights were particularly dazzling in the dark universe, like sharp swords, ready to tear apart all enemies that blocked them.

The warriors of the Dark Cult boarded the warships one after another, and their figures appeared unusually tall under the lights of the warships. Their faces were full of determination and determination, as if they were ready to meet all challenges.

They wore black armor and held sharp weapons, as if they were an army from hell, ready to set off a bloody storm in the universe.

In the depths of the universe, the warships of the Dark Cult were arranged in formation, and their appearance was hideous and terrifying, as if they were giant beasts crawling out of the abyss.

Their hulls were covered with various weapons, and those weapons flashed cold light in the dark, as if they would spray deadly flames at any time. These warships floated quietly in the universe, as if they were a group of beasts waiting for prey.

Their weapon systems have been charged, waiting only for Thanos's order. Thanos, the leader of the Dark Order, stood tall in the battleship's command room.

His eyes were deep and cold, as if he could see through all the hypocrisy and lies. His fingers tapped the table gently, as if he was thinking about the next strategy.

At this moment, Luther's fleet was also shuttling through the universe. Their warships were like beasts, exuding a strong fighting atmosphere.

These warships sped through the universe, leaving behind bright rays of light. Their muzzles were charged, and the energy gathered into beams at the muzzles, ready to fire.

Warriors from the three major races of golden humans, one-eyed stars, and weirdos were also on their respective battleships, ready to fight. Their eyes were full of fighting spirit and determination, as if they couldn't wait to get involved in this battle.

Their armor flashed brightly in the sun, and the weapons in their hands also exuded a sharp atmosphere.

They knew that this battle would be a contest between universes, and they would fight for the glory of Luther. Their hearts were filled with faith and courage, as if they had foreseen the moment of victory.

"Fire!"

With Ebony Maw's order, the warships of the Dark Order opened fire one after another. The beams of light shot out from the muzzles, like giant dragons raging in the universe.

Those beams intertwined in the air, forming a brilliant curtain of light. When those beams hit the target, they burst out with strong energy, tearing the enemy into pieces.

"Fire!"

Luther also gave an order, and all the energy cannons of the Galactic Empire's warships fired in unison!

Those energy cannons whizzed out from the muzzles, like meteors streaking across the sky.

They were so fast that they seemed to be able to travel through time and space. Those energy cannons formed a dense firepower network in the air, covering the enemy.

The artillery fire intertwined, like violent thunder raging in the universe.

The stars in the universe seemed to be trembling, and their brilliance seemed so weak at this moment.

The sound of gunfire and explosions filled the entire universe. The stars lost their light at this moment, leaving only the flames of the warships flickering. The warriors of the Dark Cult and the warriors of the Galactic Empire fought a life-and-death battle in this starry sky.

Under the bombardment of gunfire, those warships exploded into fragments and turned into gorgeous fireworks.

And Luther's fleet also launched a charge under the cover of gunfire.

Their warships rushed forward like beasts, knocking the enemy to pieces. Those warriors also jumped out of the warships and fought close combat with the enemy.

The warriors of the three major races of golden humans, one-eyed stars, and weirdos also played their specialties in the battle.

The warriors of the golden humans are extremely powerful and invulnerable to swords and guns.

Every attack they make can smash the enemy to pieces.

The warriors of the one-eyed star are good at long-range attacks, and their small fish energy cannons can accurately hit the target.

The warriors of the weirdos have various strange abilities, and their existence makes the enemy feel extremely terrified.

Black sperm and vaccine man were the first to bear the brunt.

These two are both invincible, especially after the vaccine man obtained the will of Venus and became the representative of Venus, its strength soared.

Earth will + Venus will!

Chapter 596: Unstoppable, blood sacrifice to the emperor, skull offered to the golden throne!

Under the cover of artillery fire, the fleet led by Luther charged forward like an arrow from a bow. The artillery fire intertwined into one piece, and the flames and smoke intertwined together, like the roar of a beast, shaking the entire battlefield.

"Charge! For the emperor!"

"Sacrifice the blood to the emperor, and offer the skull to the golden throne!"

Each warship is like a steel behemoth, with an indestructible hull, and the roar of artillery fire echoes on the battlefield.

These warships are not only a symbol of Luther's power, but also a manifestation of their determination and faith to move forward. Under the cover of artillery fire, the warships are like a torrent of steel, surging forward, rushing towards the enemy without fear.

The enemy's defense line was broken again and again under the charge of the warships.

Every time a warship broke through the enemy's defense line, it would cause a thunderous roar, and the enemy was smashed to pieces and in a mess. The fleet led by Luther was like a tiger descending from the mountain, unstoppable.

As the warships charged, the warriors also jumped out of the warships and engaged in close combat with the enemy.

Their figures shuttled across the battlefield, as swift and flexible as cheetahs. Every swing of their swords and every punch was full of strength and determination.

The warriors of the golden humans were extremely powerful, with clear muscle lines, as if they had undergone special training. They wielded huge weapons, and every swing could smash the enemy to pieces.

Their bodies seemed to have been tempered and invulnerable, making the enemy feel extremely desperate when facing them.

After all, they were Saitama's super humans without the constraints of limiters. They only needed to exercise to grow steadily. Now they have grown to the combat power of dragon-level monsters per capita.

And dragon-level monsters, in a place like the Marvel Universe, are basically invincible unless they encounter those supermodel monsters and numerical monsters, such as guys above the god level.

They can completely sweep the universe!

The warriors of the one-eyed star are good at long-range attacks.

They stood on the warships, staring at every enemy with a sharp gaze.

The one-eyed star on their chest flashes with a faint light. This is a natural energy cannon.

The energy beams they emit, like lightning, cut through the sky, accurately hit the target, and instantly defeat the enemy.

This chest energy cannon is also called "trash cannon" by them. In their opinion, the attack of this energy cannon is enough to turn any trash into powder in an instant.

However, when the enemy thinks that they are just long-range attack units and try to rush to them under the attack of energy cannons, the one-eyed stars will tear off their disguise and show their true horror.

They will move at supersonic speed brought by energy eruption, appear behind the enemy in an instant, and their every move is a supersonic attack, which catches the enemy off guard and is defeated instantly.

The weird warriors are aliens on the battlefield.

Their appearance is strange, some look like giant spiders, some look like giant beasts with horns, and some look like demons with flames burning all over their bodies.

Not only are they horrible in appearance, but they also have various strange abilities.

Some can manipulate fire and turn the battlefield into a sea of fire; some can control water flow and form huge water columns to wash away the enemy; others can transform into various forms, making the enemy defenseless.

The existence of the monsters makes the enemy feel extremely terrified, and they don't know how to deal with these strange and powerful opponents. Whenever the monster warriors launch an attack, they will cause a thunderous roar, which makes the enemy feel extremely shocked and desperate.

In this battle, Black Sperm and Vaccine Man became the two most dazzling stars in Luther's fleet.

With its unparalleled strength and speed, Black Sperm rampaged on the battlefield and was invincible.

He was like a prehistoric beast, shuttling among the enemies and instantly defeating all the enemies who blocked him.

With the protein supply from an empire, the number of Black Sperm's new clones has exceeded 1000 trillion.

I'm afraid that even Tornado in his prime would be killed by him in one punch, and even if Boros was resurrected, he would not be able to defeat him.

The Vaccine Man got the will of Venus and became the representative of Venus.

After being blessed by the will of Venus, his power soared to a whole new level.

Luther naturally attached great importance to this special representative of the planet's will, so he helped him connect with the will of Venus.

The current Vaccine Man has a part of the Earth's will in the One Punch Man world, plus the complete will of Venus. His power has surpassed the peak. Normally, he has the powerful power of the original third form, and can also transform into a more powerful "Venus form"!

He can control the power of Venus and transform it into a powerful means of attack, making the enemy feel extremely desperate.

The Vaccine Man stood on the top of the battleship, looking up at the deep starry sky. He exuded a golden light, as if he was integrated with Venus.

He closed his eyes and deeply felt the will of Venus, the power from the depths of the planet. When he opened his eyes, his eyes flashed with a firm light, as if he was ready to meet all challenges.

With his order, the Vaccine Man began to attack. He controlled the power of Venus and transformed it into powerful energy waves.

These energy waves cut through the night sky like golden lightning and smashed fiercely at the enemy. The enemy seemed so fragile and helpless in front of this powerful force, and could only watch himself being swallowed by the golden energy.

The situation on the battlefield was quickly reversed under the attack of the vaccine man.

The enemy, who was still resisting, had completely collapsed at this moment. They fled everywhere, trying to escape from this horrible battlefield. However, the vaccine man did not give them any chance to escape. He continued to control the power of Venus and annihilated the enemies one by one.

Luther stood in the command room of the flagship, watching every detail on the battlefield with a torch-like gaze.

His heart was full of excitement and expectation, and he knew that the victory of this battle would belong to them. He kept issuing orders and adjusting tactics to allow the fleet to exert its maximum combat effectiveness.

As time went on, the situation on the battlefield became more and more favorable to the fleet led by Luther.

The enemy's defense line was constantly broken, and morale was getting lower and lower. The fleet led by Luther became more and more courageous, and the fighting spirit of the soldiers was high, as if they could defeat all enemies.

Finally, at Luther's order, the fleet launched the final charge.

All the warships concentrated their firepower and launched a fierce attack on the enemy's last line of defense. The artillery fire intertwined into a sea of fire, completely destroying the enemy's defense line.

Chapter 597 Appearance

With the complete collapse of the last line of defense, the enemy finally couldn't withstand the fierce offensive of Luther's fleet and began to flee everywhere, trying to escape from the battlefield that had become purgatory.

However, Luther did not give them any breathing space. He led the fleet to pursue them relentlessly, determined to wipe out the enemy.

Just when Luther was about to annihilate all the enemies, a powerful energy wave suddenly came from a distance.

This energy wave was powerful and terrifying, making everyone feel an inexplicable sense of oppression. Then, a black shadow flashed, and Thanos and his dark cult appeared on the battlefield.

When Thanos descended on the battlefield, the battle situation, which was already tense to the extreme, instantly became more complicated and difficult, and every living being felt an unprecedented sense of oppression.

Thanos did not come alone, but brought his right-hand man, the Obsidian Five.

These five powerful warriors, each with unique abilities and characteristics, are the most powerful existences under Thanos. Their appearance made the already difficult battle situation even more difficult.

General Corvus Glaive, as the commander of the Black Order, he was dressed in black armor, holding a huge battle blade, and stood majestically on the battlefield.

Every time he swung his sword, it seemed to tear the space apart, making the enemy tremble.

His existence made the entire battlefield shrouded in a murderous atmosphere.

General Corvus Glaive's strength was unfathomable. He had super strength and healing ability, and he could recover quickly even if he was seriously injured.

Moreover, his battle blade also hosted his soul. As long as the battle blade was not destroyed, he could continue to resurrect.

At the same time, this Corvus Glaive was indestructible, even vibranium could be cut easily, and it also came with the power of death, which was specifically used to restrain immortal enemies.

Ebony Maw was an old man with yellow skin and white hair. He looked inconspicuous, but he had a strong super intelligence and mental power. He could use mental power to make verbal hints, thereby invading the target's mind and brainwashing the target.

His ability made countless strong men fall into his hands.

Moreover, he is also a genius scientist who can create all kinds of high-tech weapons and armor, providing strong support for the Dark Order. His existence has made the technological advantage of Luther's fleet disappear.

Proxima Midnight is a nimble female warrior. She holds a spear, is as swift as the wind, and has strong combat power.

Her spear is a divine weapon forged by Thanos himself. After being thrown, it can be transformed into three tracking energy beams, each of which has the power and super mass of the core of a star.

Such a weapon is enough to make any strong man feel terrified.

After all, no one can withstand millions of ultra-high temperature energies and the super mass of a star. Basically, as long as they touch these energy beams, they will die. Even Thor, who can withstand the impact of neutron star energy, will be imprisoned and unable to move!

On the battlefield, she is like a black lightning, shuttling among the enemy groups, posing a huge threat to the enemy.

Superstar is a blue-skinned female psychic wearing a white robe. Her mental power is so powerful that it is outrageous. She can perform mind control and teleportation, leaving the enemy powerless to fight back.

In battle, Supergiant always stands in a relatively safe position and controls the enemy through psychic powers. Her eyes flash with blue light, as if she can see through the enemy's heart.

Her voice is gentle and full of magic, which can make the enemy fall into an illusion and lose themselves. Under her control, the enemy often becomes like a puppet, letting her manipulate.

As soon as she appeared, Supergiant controlled the warriors and warships of the Galactic Empire to kill each other, letting them fire at each other and fight together. The whole battlefield became a mess, the enemies killed each other, and Supergiant stood aside, smiling and admiring it all. Her existence made the whole battlefield shrouded in a mysterious and terrifying atmosphere.

As for Black Dwarf, although he is known as the weakest among the Five Obsidian Generals, it does not mean that he is not strong. He is a pure warrior with super defense, super strength and super recovery.

His skin is as hard as iron, able to withstand most attacks; his strength is so great that he can easily lift a mountain; and his recovery ability is amazing, even if he is severely injured, he can recover in a short time. In battle, he is like a mobile fortress, making it difficult for the enemy to break through.

Each of these five warriors is a capable general in Thanos' hands. When they join forces, they are enough to make the entire universe tremble.

Their appearance makes the already difficult battle situation even more difficult. No matter what kind of enemy they face, they can defeat the enemy one by one with their own abilities and wisdom.

Thanos led the five black generals, like an irresistible torrent, sweeping across the entire universe.

Wherever they went, they left ruins and wailing. Countless creatures trembled under their iron hooves and could not escape the fate of death.

Of course, this does not include Luther's Galactic Empire.

"Galactic Empire?" Thanos sneered at the corner of his mouth, he looked up and looked into the distance, the approaching huge battleship was like a towering mountain, standing in the dark universe. The symbol of the Galactic Empire flashes on its surface, and the unique pattern is particularly eye-catching under the starlight.

He recalled the battleship that he had let go before, and his heart was filled with a wave of emotion. At that time, he might have been too confident, or perhaps underestimated the enemy, but now it seems that it was indeed a stupid decision. The battleship was like a seed that fell on this dark soil, and now it has taken root and sprouted, growing into a powerful enemy.

However, Thanos is not a person who will be easily upset. He accepted his failure and also accepted this challenge. He knew that only by defeating the enemy in front of him could he prove his strength.

"It's the Galactic Empire." Ebony Maw's voice broke the silence, and a strange expression appeared on his face. Other members of the Dark Cult also recognized each other's identity, and they couldn't help but feel a complex emotion in their hearts.

Although they did not mean to blame Thanos, the current situation did make them feel a little embarrassed. The Dark Cult suffered heavy losses in this battle, with countless casualties.

At this time, Superstar was exerting his ability to the fullest, trying to control the approaching enemies. Her eyes were shining with a faint blue light, as if two stars were shining in the dark.

Chapter 598 Shave Thanos' head!

At this moment, an even more surging force suddenly appeared in the darkness, shaking the starry sky throughout the dark realm. This force is like the beating pulse of the heart of the universe, powerful and mysterious, like a giant beast that has been sleeping for a long time suddenly opening its eyes in the endless darkness, releasing endless majesty and power.

The emergence of this power made the entire starry sky tremble, as if even the stars were trembling. Thanos, the five Obsidian generals and others were among them, and they suddenly felt heart palpitations.

As elites of the Dark Order, they have extraordinary strength and have caused bloody turmoil among the stars countless times. But at this moment, they all feel an indescribable sense of oppression, as if they have become so small and powerless in front of this power. .

They knew that this must be the action of someone powerful in the Galactic Empire. Who is this strong man? Their hearts were full of doubts and curiosity.

Not long after, a small battleship separated from the main battleship of the Galactic Empire. Its speed was as fast as a bolt of lightning streaking across the starry sky, instantly closing the distance to the Dark Order. This battleship has a unique appearance, smooth lines, and is full of a sense of technology, as if it were a carefully carved work of art.

When the battleship stopped in front of the Dark Order, everyone couldn't help but be shocked. I saw the front end of the battleship separated to both sides, revealing the internal structure. It was a huge throne, and sitting on the throne was a majestic figure - Luther.

Luther sat on the throne, his aura as calm and majestic as a mountain, as if the entire universe was under his control. His eyes were cold and deep, as if he could see through all illusions and truths, making people dare not look into them.

He glanced at Thanos and the others, with a hint of disdain and ridicule in his eyes.

At this time, Thanos was wearing golden armor, holding a double-headed sword in his right hand, and exuding a powerful aura from all over his body.

Luther said in a calm and majestic tone: "I am the Emperor of the Galactic Empire, Luther."

Thanos looked at Luther, a trace of fear flashed in his eyes.

Although he does not have a throne, he still maintains his high posture, wearing the shining purple gem-the Power Gem on his left hand.

The powerful energy fluctuations emitted by this gem made the surrounding air tremble.

Luther's eyes fell on Thanos' left hand, and he could feel the powerful power.

"No wonder Boros died at your hands."

Luther said calmly. There was a hint of regret and helplessness in his tone.

Thanos did not answer. He just looked at Luther coldly, as if thinking about how to deal with this powerful opponent.

Luther's appearance disrupted his plans, and he needed to reassess the situation and formulate new strategies.

Luther was still wondering how Boros died. Even if he couldn't defeat the meteor burst, he could still run away, right?

Now he knows.

All I can say is that he died unjustly.

Others may not be able to exert the power of the Power Stone, but Boros still has the possibility of victory.

But with Thanos, that's absolutely impossible.

Moreover, Luther was not surprised that Thanos built the Infinity Gauntlet himself.

Thanos's character design is destined for him to be able to do it, and the original plot of asking for a dwarf to forge is simply eating away at the book.

The last time Thanos fought against Boros, the Infinity Gauntlet couldn't withstand the fierce and domineering power of the Power Stone, so he couldn't go all out unscrupulously.

That's different now. Thanos used a new material and technology to create the Infinity Gauntlet, which can withstand most of the power of the Power Stone.

This is enough for Thanos to destroy a planet with one punch and destroy an entire space fleet with one blow!

The Power Stone has very powerful energy. The user can use it to master and control all power and energy, and can also copy all physical abilities to enhance the user's own attack and defense capabilities.

This gem allows the user to master and control all the power and energy they seek to master. It supports other gems and can enhance their effects.

Using this gem, the user can even copy all physical superpowers, and make his or her physical attack and defense abilities invincible.

It can be said that 99% of the strong men will be restrained by Thanos, and their proud superpowers will be copied by Thanos.

Of course, it is a superpower based on strength and physics, but it is enough, because the superpowers or combat types of most of Marvel's strong men are physical and strength types.

The five Obsidian generals and Thanos were surprised.

Emperor?

Emperor of the Galactic Empire?

Actually going out in person?

Thanos was surprised, but it also seemed reasonable.

After all, judging from the space vibrations and starry sky trembling caused by Luther's terrifying appearance, his power is far superior to that of Boros. Such a strong man must be extremely confident in himself, and it is normal for him to go out in person.

"Are you here to avenge your Warmaster?"

Thanos asked.

"Exactly."

Luther nodded.

Thanos didn't waste any more words, he just punched him.

Wherever the fist passed, the space showed an unstable state, as if it was torn apart by an invisible force.

Around Thanos' fist, the space presents a shattered mirror effect, and the black Arrancar at the crack generates infinite gravity, wildly engulfing matter in reality.

The five Black Orders retreated quickly upon seeing this. They knew how terrible the power of Thanos' punch was. If they were affected, they would probably be wiped out in an instant.

"Do you think you can deal with me just because you have the power gem?"

However, facing Thanos's terrifying punch, Luther just stretched out his hand lightly. His palm seemed to contain a mysterious power that could easily resist Thanos' attack.

And at this moment, Luther's palm suddenly collided with Thanos' fist.

"Bang!!!"

A deafening roar exploded in the starry sky, as if the entire universe was shaking at this moment. The powerful energy fluctuations spread rapidly with the two as the center, causing chaos in the surrounding starry sky.

The five Black Orders and others watched this scene in horror. They could not imagine how terrible the power of this energy was. If they were caught in it, they would probably be torn to pieces in an instant.

Thanos was also shocked. He could feel the strong resistance coming from his fist, as if an invisible big hand was blocking his attack. Moreover, he could feel the terrifying power contained in Luther's palm, which seemed to be able to easily destroy everything.

However, Thanos did not feel fear or retreat.

Chapter 599: Breaking the invincible energy absorption.

Thanos's eyes shone with an even crazier light, like two stars about to explode, full of endless violence and madness.

His power continues to expand, seemingly endless and unimaginable.

He clenched his fists, as if he wanted to hold the power of the entire world in his hands.

He increased his strength and tried to defeat Luther in one fell swoop.

The dazzling bright purple energy burned, like a blazing flame, quickly eroding most of his body.

His figure, illuminated by the purple flames, looked even more ferocious and terrifying.

This force is powerful enough to distort space and make the surrounding stars tremble.

However, Luther was like a towering mountain, standing firmly in the starry sky. No matter how violent Thanos' power was, he could not shake him in the slightest.

Thanos' pupils shrank.

Since he obtained the Power Stone, this is the first time he has seen someone so easily resist the powerful and violent energy erosion of the Power Stone.

He couldn't help but feel an unprecedented sense of crisis in his heart, but he didn't flinch. Instead, he activated the power gem even more crazily, trying to overwhelm Luther with more powerful power.

However, Luther's counterattack also came. His right hand was clenched into a fist, containing endless power, as if it could destroy all obstacles in front of him, and he punched Thanos in the chest with a fierce punch.

Thanos reacted extremely quickly. With a wave of his left hand, the Power Stone emitted a dazzling light, forming a solid energy barrier.

This barrier shines with purple light in the starry sky, trying to block Luther's attack.

However, Luther's power was too strong;

The moment his fist touched the energy barrier, tiny cracks appeared in the originally seemingly indestructible barrier. These cracks spread rapidly like spider webs, indicating that the energy barrier is about to collapse.

When Thanos saw this, a trace of panic flashed in his eyes. He knew very well how powerful his energy barrier was, but at this moment, it seemed so vulnerable in front of Luther.

He immediately activated the power of the Power Stone, trying to stabilize the barrier that was about to collapse. He poured all his energy into it, trying to withstand Luther's storm-like attack.

However, Luther did not give him this opportunity.

His fist had reached the crack in the energy barrier, and struck the barrier with thunderous force. This blow was as powerful as a landslide and tsunami, instantly tearing the energy barrier into pieces.

Without the barrier to block him, Luther's fist directly hit Thanos' golden armor. Although the armor was strong, it was as fragile as paper in the face of Luther's power. The armor instantly shattered under the impact of the fist, revealing Thanos' solid chest.

Luther didn't pause at all, and his fist continued to move forward, hitting Thanos hard in the center of the chest. The force of this blow was as violent as a violent storm, causing Thanos to fly backwards in an instant and hit the mountain peak in the distance heavily.

The mountain collapsed instantly under Thanos' impact, with debris flying and smoke filling the air. The entire mountain seemed to have experienced an earthquake-like turbulence, and the surrounding trees and rocks were trembling.

Thanos was lying in the ruins, and the golden armor on his chest was shattered, exposing the wounds inside. Blood oozed from the wound, staining his chest red. His face was pale, his breath was weak, and he was obviously severely injured.

"This is impossible!"

Thanos couldn't believe that the Power Stone gave him unparalleled abilities, allowing him to transform his body and absorb kinetic energy and energy.

He firmly believes that this ability is enough to make him immune to all physical attacks. No matter how powerful the energy impact is, it cannot cause harm to him.

But Luther was actually able to absorb the power stone and his own kinetic energy and severely injure him?

"Nothing surprising, Thanos."

Luther said calmly.

"The ability to absorb kinetic energy and absorb energy is indeed powerful, but it is not invulnerable."

Luther's words reveal a profound understanding of energy and matter.

"You seem to be overconfident in your abilities."

Luther continued,

"The ability to absorb kinetic energy and energy can indeed convert external energy into other forms at the macro level, or directly absorb it into the material structure. However, at the micro level, this ability has limitations."

Luther's words revealed a deep understanding of physics.

There is a delicate balance between atoms and energy. When attack energy penetrates deep into this balance, the ability to absorb kinetic energy and absorb energy becomes ineffective.

"The attacks I use are aimed at this micro-level balance."

Luther explained,

"By precisely controlling the release of force, the attack energy can create a resonance effect between atoms and energy. This resonance effect can directly act on the vibration mode of the atoms in your body, thereby bypassing your kinetic energy absorption and energy absorption mechanisms. "

Luther's words are full of professionalism and theoretical depth.

The resonance effect he refers to is an important concept in physics.

When the frequencies of two vibrating systems are the same, energy transfer occurs between them, causing the vibration amplitude to increase.

Luther used this principle to precisely control the frequency and amplitude of the attack energy so that they could match the vibration mode of the atoms in Thanos' body, thereby producing a resonance effect.

This resonance effect is extremely destructive on a microscopic level.

It can directly act on the bonding energy between atoms, causing fundamental changes in the structure of matter.

Under Luther's attack, the atomic structure in Thanos' body was completely destroyed, the energy balance was broken, and he suffered unprecedented damage.

In addition to the resonance effect, Luther also used the tunneling effect in quantum mechanics to enhance the effect of the attack.

In the quantum world, particles have the potential to cross potential energy barriers and achieve a transition from one state to another.

Luther precisely controls the wave pattern of the attack energy, allowing them to "tunnel" Thanos' energy absorption barrier to a certain extent and directly act on his body.

This attack method requires not only a deep understanding of physics, but also extremely high energy control ability and precise power release skills.

Luther can do this, which shows that he has reached a whole new level in the use of power.

He not only relies on the accumulation of power to attack the enemy, but also achieves a fatal blow to the enemy through insight and control of the essence of power.

As a great scientist before he went crazy, Thanos naturally understood what Luther said.

But he couldn't believe that Luther could do this on his own.

Chapter 600 Impeccable!

It is precisely because of knowing and being able to understand that we know the degree of difficulty here.

At the very least, if Thanos does it himself, he can never do such an operation by himself except using the power gem to transform and control himself.

"Thank you for telling me this. Next, your attack will have no effect on me."

The purple power gem inlaid in the Infinity Gauntlet on Thanos' left hand flashed a purple light, and his injuries recovered immediately.

This is the super-speed regeneration superpower copied by the power gem, and it can also restore Thanos' physical strength and spirit to full health.

Thanos' eyes revealed a hint of cold determination.

Facing an opponent like Luther who is proficient in physics and energy control, pure strength is not enough to guarantee victory.

He needs a deeper transformation, a transformation that can resist Luther's special attacks.

He concentrated his mind and deepened his consciousness into the power gem in the Infinity Gauntlet.

The purple light flashed again, and this time, it was not only healing his body, but also began to synchronize with his body structure.

Thanos felt that his body was being enveloped by a powerful force, which was deeply analyzing and understanding the nature of Luther's attack.

The Power Stone is not only a source of energy, it is also the most powerful knowledge base in the universe.

It allows Thanos to understand the nature of power more deeply, so as to exert more powerful power.

Thanos began to immerse himself in the wisdom of the gem, and his consciousness seemed to have entered a whole new world.

In this world, he saw the flow and change of energy, the structure of atoms and molecules, and all the mysteries of the universe.

Simple power enhancement and endless energy are only very rough applications of the Power Stone.

The real power lies in having a deep understanding of the nature of power and being able to use it to create and change everything.

The deeper the understanding of the nature of power, the more powerful power can be exerted!

The user of a certain Power Stone in the comics is even more ridiculous. He just embedded it on his forehead and let the Power Stone strengthen all his power tenfold, and then he felt that he was invincible.

Thanos began to use the power of the Power Stone to reweave his defense mechanism at the atomic level.

He no longer simply absorbs and transforms energy, but builds a complex energy resonance network at the microscopic level.

This network can identify and adapt to any form of energy attack, transform it into harmless energy, and even bounce it back.

First, Thanos uses the energy of the power gem to penetrate into every cell and every atom of his body.

He wants to readjust and optimize his body's energy absorption mechanism to make it more flexible and efficient at the microscopic level.

He wants to make his cell and atomic structure more stable, so that it can remain stable and not be damaged when the resonance effect occurs.

His body began to emit a faint purple light, which was the power gem recoding his cell structure.

Thanos felt that his body was undergoing earth-shaking changes, as if he had gained a new vitality.

His muscles became more solid and his bones became harder, as if he had become an indestructible steel giant.

Then, Thanos began to build a protective field composed of the energy of the power gem around his body.

This protective field can not only absorb and transform external energy attacks, but also dynamically adjust the energy frequency to prevent resonance with Luther's attack energy.

Thanos's perception is also constantly improving. He can clearly perceive the energy flow and changes in the protective field, so that he can respond in time.

When Luther attacked again, his energy attack was completely absorbed by Thanos's protective field.

Thanos was even able to convert these energies into his own power, further enhancing his defense and attack capabilities.

His skin became harder, as if he was wearing an invisible armor that could resist the damage of the resonance effect.

In addition, Thanos also used the energy of the power gem to transform his nervous system.

He wanted to take his perception to a new level and be able to keenly capture any tiny energy fluctuations.

In this way, even if Luther's attack is cunning, Thanos can react in time and protect himself from harm.

At the same time, Thanos is also learning Luther's attack mode.

He knows that only by fully understanding the opponent's attack method can he find a way to crack it.

He uses the energy of the power gem to simulate Luther's attack frequency and create a virtual attack environment in his body.

In this environment, he can constantly experiment and adjust his defense system until he finds the best defense method.

As the transformation progresses, Thanos feels that his power is growing.

His body became stronger and his mind more focused.

This transformation was not only for defense, but also to gain an advantage in the next battle.

Finally, Thanos also took into account the tunneling effect in quantum mechanics.

He knew that although this effect had a negligible effect in the macroscopic world, it could have a huge impact at the microscopic level.

Therefore, he used the energy of the power gem to set up a series of quantum barriers in his energy field.

These barriers can effectively prevent or weaken the tunneling effect, making it impossible for Luther's attack energy to directly penetrate his body.

When the transformation was completed, Thanos opened his eyes.

His eyes were full of confidence and strength, as if he had become a true cosmic overlord.

His body has become a perfect fighting machine, not only with strong defense, but also with a new level of attack power.

"You are indeed very strong, Emperor Luther."

Thanos said calmly,

"But now, I am no longer the same person as before. Let's see if your attack can still pose a threat to me."

He stood there, waiting for Luther's next attack.

He knew that this time, he would no longer have any weaknesses and would be able to fully control the rhythm and outcome of the battle.

Luther quite recognized and even appreciated Thanos' series of operations.

This Thanos is undoubtedly very good at using the Infinity Stones. The Well of Eternity allows him to understand and gain knowledge about the Infinity Stones. In addition, Thanos himself is cursed by knowledge and is a great scientist comparable to or even surpassing Tony Stark...

These things combined make this Thanos extremely terrifying. Even if he only gets a Power Stone, he can exert desperate combat capabilities!
