

KRYPTONIAN: MAN OF STEEL

Chapter 9 An unexpected world

"Fuck, you almost squeezed me to death."

Even with Luther's magnanimous temperament, he couldn't avoid swearing now.

There was no way, who made him suffer the treatment of being torn to pieces?

Even the equipment on his body was crushed, all the preparations were in vain.

If it wasn't in broad daylight when he came here, he would have died.

Because the energy in the cells was emptied, this superpower of "crossing" needs to consume the energy of all his cells, and even squeeze his vitality to complete.

Things like being torn to pieces feel like a trip to the eighteen levels of hell.

It's good that Luther just swore.

The most important thing now is... find a piece of clothing first, and then avoid being exposed to the sunlight of this unknown world for a long time!

In this regard, Luther is still very cautious.

He didn't spend much effort. Judging from the rapid charging of sunlight, the sun in this world is very active and young, which is a very good source of power for Kryptonians.

But Luther still resisted the instinct from his genes to embrace the sunlight. Anyway, he has almost recovered.

Kryptonians have so many mutant versions, he doesn't want to bet that he can mutate well.

"What kind of world is this?"

Luther began to look for a place to get information, that is, a computer.

In terms of technological level, this world does not seem to be low. Luther actually doesn't know whether he has traveled through the world or just ran to another place?

It was not until he saw an animal wearing clothes and walking upright and talking like a human that he was sure that he had traveled through time.

And Luther also found something.

"Universal Capsule Company?"

The super brain quickly started the search engine, and then Luther knew what world this was.

The world of Dragon Ball!

Or it can be called the world of Saiyan monkeys and his enemies, anyway, Saiyan monkeys conquer the world.

The protagonists are all Saiyans.

"A Saiyan with a stomach of a terrifying antimatter annihilation reactor that only needs one meal to explode a star in a hundred light years?"

Luther pondered, and didn't expect that he would travel to the world of Dragon Ball. The world's No. 1 martial arts tournament has been held, but there is no Jackie Chan or the name of Wu Tian teacher, but there are Crane Immortal School and Kame Immortal School, but the reputation is average.

He quickly analyzed the useful things in the Dragon Ball world.

The first one is naturally the Dragon Ball, a good thing that can make wishes, no matter which time traveler, it is impossible to let go of the Dragon Ball.

I just don't know if I can make a wish with the Dragon Ball as a non-local hukou?

Is the wishing effect of the Dragon Ball only effective in the Dragon Ball world, or is it applicable to other worlds?

He doesn't want to make a wish for an immortal body, and then run to other worlds thinking that he is immortal, but end up being beaten to death.

The second one is - "Qi"!

Everyone in the Dragon Balls is a Qi mage, except Broly.

With the strengthening of Qi, it can even withstand the attack of the Big Bang. Without the strengthening of Qi, the Super Saiyan God will be pushed by the train and can't move.

It's really incomprehensible that they can withstand hundreds of times the gravity, but the body is still so fragile.

At the same time, Qi is almost omnipotent, and can develop electric Qi, such as the Ten Thousand Nations Shocking Palm. In this way, it should be possible to turn into fire, ice, etc.

The most important thing is that the destructive power of Qi is very strong. Two hundred points of combat power can destroy the moon. In terms of mass, the mass of Qi is estimated to be far greater than nuclear energy.

According to the setting of Dragon Ball, Qi is the most fundamental energy in the body of living things. With practice or training, this energy can be freely manipulated.

The hidden energy in the body of life, as well as the spiritual power such as righteousness, evil, courage, and vitality, all belong to "Qi". "Qi" can make the body exceed the limit.

In the world of Chinese boxing represented by Tai Chi, great importance is attached to the training and control of Qi.

The magician Babidi in "Dragon Ball Z" invented a machine to measure and absorb "Qi", but modern technology on Earth can neither measure Qi nor store Qi. However, sometimes you will "gain vitality and courage" when you are encouraged by others.

Although "Qi" cannot be seen, it does exist. This is "Qi".

Although Luther already has a means of energy attack such as heat vision, Qi is better.

Because Qi can produce many special super powers, such as the mind reading mastered by Sun Wukong (touching the head to read Xiaolin's memory, and the turtle master Cheng Long also read the memory of Nanwu, who was short of water in his hometown, during the martial arts competition, and it was read without contact.

Psychological sound transmission (preventing Xiaolin from killing Vegeta, interrupting the sound transmission between King Kai and the Great Elder), dream perception (perceiving the relevant situation of the external Cell War during the heart attack coma), instant movement (learned from Yadrat), fusion (learned from Metamo in the underworld), and the Qi condensed entity after fusion into Vegetto (piercing Buu and picking it up like a spear).

Protective shield (used to prevent being absorbed when entering Buu's body), etc., these are all advanced applications of Qi. It is estimated that Qi is used to contact to read the mind and transmit, perceive the other party's Qi to teleport, synchronize Qi to merge, etc., which is a very wonderful setting.

Unlike some super powers that rely on racial talents, these can be used by people who can use Qi. This thing is so wonderful and mysterious.

Let's take the simplest example, the perception of Qi, which can span many light years without any transmission delay, is truly a metaphysical perception...