

Kryptonian 931

Chapter 931: Split into two groups

At the same time, the Sand Village in the Wind Country also felt the threat from the Poison Village.

In the office of the Kazekage, the fourth Kazekage of the Sand Village, Luo Sha, was discussing countermeasures with his advisory group.

"The rise of the Poison Village is undoubtedly a potential huge threat to our Sand Village."

Luo Sha's voice was steady and powerful.

"We can't sit back and do nothing, we must take action."

"Yes, Lord Kazekage."

The deputy next to him nodded in agreement.

"But a direct attack is obviously not a wise move. The poison techniques of the Poison Village are too strange. We need a more careful plan."

"Perhaps, we can try to join forces with Konoha."

Another consultant made a suggestion.

"As the leader of the ninja world, Konoha's strength should not be underestimated. If we can convince them to fight against the Poison Village together, the chances of winning will undoubtedly increase greatly."

When Luo Sha heard this, a hint of deep thought flashed in his eyes.

He knew that in this era of crisis, it would be difficult for any party to cope with all challenges alone. Joining forces with Konoha may really bring a turning point for the Sand Village.

And they are allies with Konoha.

Luo Sha thinks it's okay!

Not long after, a secret letter carried by a special envoy of Sand Village was quietly delivered to Konoha.

In the letter, Sand Village expressed its concern about the rise of the Poison Village and proposed a joint fight. After reading the letter, Sarutobi Hiruzen immediately convened a high-level meeting to discuss the feasibility of this proposal.

"I think the proposal of Sand Village is worth considering."

Sarutobi Hiruzen said at the meeting.

"The rise of the Poison Village not only threatens the River Country, but also poses a challenge to the balance of the entire ninja world. We can't sit idly by and must take action."

After a heated discussion, the Konoha high-level finally decided to accept the proposal of Sand Village and fight against the Poison Village together.

Their main purpose is to prevent the Poison Village from taking root in the River Country, so this time it is necessary to uproot the Poison Village in the River Country.

However, when the two sides began to prepare for a joint action, an embarrassing reality was placed before them-the number of ninjas in Sand Village was seriously insufficient.

Due to the indifference of the daimyo of the Wind Country and the cessation of material support, the Sand Village had to embark on the road of eliteization, but this also meant that they were far behind Konoha in terms of numbers.

Facing the upcoming battle, the Sand Village could only provide more than a hundred elite ninjas, which was insufficient compared to the thousands of ninjas that Konoha planned to dispatch.

Despite this, the Sand Village did not give up hope.

In this battle, quantity is not the only factor that determines victory or defeat. What is more important is tactics, strategy and tacit cooperation between ninjas. What's more, how can a newly established ninja village, the Poison Village, compare with their old five major ninja villages?

So, the Sand Village began to make intensive preparations for the war, selecting the most elite warriors and formulating a set of exquisite tactical plans, striving to exert the greatest combat effectiveness on the battlefield.

The two sides cooperated and naturally discussed how to attack.

Nara Shikaku quickly drew a detailed battle map on the projection, marking in detail the possible defense layout of the Poison Village and the advantageous offensive routes of the Konoha and Sand Village coalition forces.

"I suggest that we adopt a strategy of splitting up and attacking together. A part of the elite troops will attract the attention of the Poison Village head-on, while sending a small group of elite troops to raid its logistics and supply lines from behind. In addition, we need to prepare enough antidotes and medical teams just in case."

The Sand Village has no objection. The Nara clan is well-known in the ninja world. With them commanding the battle, what is there to worry about?

However, just as the "Konoha Sand Village" coalition was preparing intensively, a shocking news came like a bolt from the blue - the Daimyo of the Wind Country actually announced the establishment of the Poison Village and publicly stated that it would fully support its development!

This news instantly caused an uproar in the ninja world, and also put the newly-formed "Konoha Sand Village" army into an unprecedented embarrassing situation.

The ninjas of the Sand Village were all shocked and angry. They never expected that the Daimyo of the Wind Country, to whom they had always been loyal, would give such great support to the Poison Village at a critical moment.

This not only put the position of the Sand Village in the ninja world in jeopardy, but also dealt a heavy blow to their morale.

After Luo Sha learned the news, anger and despair intertwined in his heart.

He knew very well that this decision not only meant that the Sand Village was completely abandoned, but it was also likely to trigger an unprecedented crisis. He urgently summoned the elders and senior officials in the village to discuss countermeasures.

"We must not sit and wait for death!"

Luo Sha said angrily.

"Although the Daimyo of the Wind Country has betrayed us, we still have our own pride and dignity. We must prove to the entire ninja world that the Sand Village cannot be easily replaced!"

He planned that the Sand Village would solve the Poison Village when the Poison Village wanted to move into the Wind Country!

No one else in the Sand Village had any objections, even Chiyo and Ebizo were alarmed. There was no way, this was equivalent to the Daimyo of the Wind Country removing their Sand Village from the list.

If they still didn't move, wouldn't the Sand Village be finished?

In contrast, Konoha's reaction seemed calmer and more decisive. Sarutobi Hiruzen quickly summoned senior officials to reassess the situation and formulate a new strategy.

He realized that behind the rise of the Poison Village, there must be more complicated political and interest conflicts. And the decision of the Wind Country Daimyo might just be a move in this big game.

In order to deal with this sudden change, Konoha decided to increase its investment. It not only increased the number of ninjas going to the Kingdom of Rivers, but also sent an elite team to sneak into the Kingdom of Winds, trying to find out the real power behind the Poison Village and the real intentions of the Daimyo of the Kingdom of Winds.

Wesker divided his troops into two groups. Although they were short of troops, they had a way to solve this problem.

Genin was very strong and could slaughter ordinary people, but that didn't mean they were invincible.

In Wesker's view, a mere Genin was no match for the Licker, not to mention the Tracker, the Tyrant, or even Alex's Hunter.

So they planned to use biochemical weapons as troops, and just arranged ninjas to follow them and command them.

Now there are only a few poison ninjas left in the Poison Village of the Kingdom of Waves, and the remaining poison ninjas are all divided into two parts, one going to the Poison Village of the Kingdom of Rivers, and the other going to the Kingdom of Winds.

The Daimyo of the Kingdom of Winds was also controlled by Wesker, otherwise he would not have agreed to the Poison Village becoming a ninja village of the Kingdom of Winds and removing the Sand Village.

"We're being watched."

Wesker looked into the distance.

He could sense the presence of chakra and human presence there.

Chapter 932: Spiritual Beast: Licker

The Sand Village's jonin, Maki and Yura, are leading the Sand Village's ninjas to monitor the Poison Village's group.

"Are those the Poison Village's ninjas?"

Yura has a white cloth wrapped around his head, both sides of his face are covered with white cloth, his right eye is covered by hair, and he has a goatee.

He said while looking at the Poison Village in the distance.

Next to him followed his subordinate, who had a white cloth wrapped around his head, a Sand Village forehead guard on his forehead, a tight black combat uniform, and a khaki Chunin chain mail on the outside.

"According to the intelligence, the skull-patterned forehead guard is the Poison Village."

Maki, who had a white cloth wrapped around his head, a white cloth covering his left face, two red marks on his right face, a tight black combat uniform, and a khaki Jonin chain mail on the outside, nodded and said.

Maki is very powerful. He can be the mentor of Gaara, Temari, and Kankuro. Maki's strength should not be underestimated. He easily killed Konoha's special ninja Gekkou Hayate, and confronted Kakashi, Kai, and Shiranui Genma side by side with Kabuto.

He is deeply trusted by the Kazekage and has rich leadership skills. He is an indispensable general of the Sand Ninja.

They are keeping a close eye on the people of the Poison Village, just to annihilate them all here!

There can only be one ninja village in the Wind Country. Even if the Daimyo of the Wind Country has removed them from the list and established the Poison Village as the Ninja Village of the Wind Country, they can completely kill all the people sent by the Poison Village, and then the Daimyo of the Wind Country can only choose them.

This is also the best way for the Sand Village to show its strength.

To be on the safe side, the retired Chiyo had to produce a large amount of antidote, just to target the highly poisonous ninjutsu of the Poison Village!

After noticing their existence, Wesker smiled slightly.

"Release the Licker."

Wesker ordered his men.

"Yes, Lord Wei!"

The poison ninjas said respectfully immediately. They didn't know that the "Lord Wei" in front of them was the poison ninja leader Wesker of their Poison Ninja Village. Wesker disguised himself as "Wei". There was also another one called "Ke". The two senior ninjas of the Poison Ninja Village were his identities.

In the eyes of the poison ninjas, Wei and Ke were his right-hand men.

In addition, Wesker did not use the transformation technique, but the transformation of the virus, which made his appearance flawless, and even the white eyes could not see anything wrong.

Most of the poison ninjas signed a contract with the lick and cultivated the lick into their own summoned beasts, so at this time they all summoned the lick.

The poison ninjas made seals one after another, and the surrounding space seemed to be distorted by an invisible force. Then, one by one, the hideous lickers covered with mucus and spikes suddenly rushed out of the distorted space. They made bursts of creepy roars, and their eyes flashed with a desire for blood.

These lickers are not only the summoned beasts of the poison ninjas, but also their most powerful fighting partners. Their appearance instantly changed the situation on the battlefield.

Seeing this, Maki and Yura of the Sand Village changed their faces slightly, but they did not show any panic.

"These summoned beasts look difficult to deal with. They are probably the reliance of the Poison Ninja Village!"

"Be careful of the poison on them!"

As experienced jonins, they know the importance of keeping calm and using judgment when facing such unknown and powerful enemies.

Maki quickly adjusted the tactical layout and issued a series of instructions to Reizo: "Reizo, you lead some of the chunins to contain these summoned beasts. Remember, don't fight hard, and focus on delaying time."

"Yes, Lord Maki!"

Reizo took the order and immediately led a team of chunins, holding kunai and detonating talismans, and carefully approached the lickers. Their movements were agile and cautious, trying to limit the range of action of the lickers through teamwork.

As the distance between the two sides narrowed, the air was filled with not only tension, but also an indescribable tragic feeling.

The ninjas of the Sand Village drew their weapons, some holding kunai tightly, ready for the upcoming bloody battle.

The ninjas of the Poison Village, relying on the protection of the Lickers, slowly moved forward, their eyes showing both the desire for victory and the fear of unknown dangers.

After all, the opponent is one of the five major ninja villages. Even the weakest Sand Village is not a big shot that they could contact before.

But now they have to fight them!

Although the Sand Ninjas are facing scary-looking Lickers, what have they not seen?

"The puppet troops are fully deployed, and puppets are used to eliminate the summoned beasts first to prevent poisoning!"

With Maki's order, the battlefield of the Sand Village was instantly shrouded in an atmosphere of tension and strategy.

The puppet troops, as the unique pillar of the Sand Village's combat power, are now like ghosts shuttling around the edge of the battlefield. Each puppet has been carefully designed and built. It not only has an indestructible shell, but also has various mechanisms and hidden weapons built in, specially designed to deal with various complex battle situations.

With a "cluck" sound, the puppets quickly set up a net on the battlefield with an elegant posture that was almost like a mechanical dance.

They cooperated tacitly with each other. Some were responsible for attracting the attention of the lickers from the front, using their hard bodies to resist the attacks with poison and spikes; others quietly went behind the enemy, using long chakra lines as a link to control and carry out precise strikes from a distance.

The lickers were obviously aware of the threat of these puppets. They no longer just charged blindly, but began to show higher wisdom and tactical qualities.

Several lickers seemed to have some kind of tacit understanding with each other. They divided the work and cooperated with each other. One was responsible for restraining the puppet, while the other took the opportunity to go behind the puppet and try to find the source of the extremely fragile chakra line - the location of the controller.

Such cooperation forced the puppet troops of the Sand Village to respond more cautiously. Every action needed to be accurately calculated to avoid falling into a trap.

At the same time, the Chunins of the Sand Village, led by Lisa, also launched a fierce battle with the lickers.

They knew that it was not a wise move to confront head-on. Therefore, they relied more on teamwork and terrain advantages, and used the flexible cooperation of ninjutsu and kunai to constantly harass the lickers and consume their physical strength and attention.

Occasionally, there would be Chunins who bravely launched a surprise attack and tried to fight for their lives, but more often, they chose a conservative strategy. After all, their main task was to delay time and wait for a better counterattack opportunity.

On the battlefield, dust was flying, and the shouts of killing and the roars of the lickers were intertwined, forming a thrilling picture.

In the midst of this chaos, the two senior ninjas, Maki and Yura, remained highly calm and alert. They stood on the edge of the battlefield, closely watching every subtle change in the battle situation, ready to adjust their tactics at any time.

Chapter 933: A great victory

"These summoned beasts are very powerful, but fortunately we have puppet troops."

Maki looked at the puppets that had been destroyed by the Lickers.

Yura nodded and added: "That's right, but we must be careful. The Poison Village should have a backup plan, so we can't take it lightly."

"Wind Style: Big Breakthrough!"

With the roar of a Sand Ninja, a strong wind pressure burst out, instantly tearing the surrounding air apart, forming a powerful storm wall, blocking the Lickers' offensive.

Following this, wind style ninjutsu such as "Wind Style: Wind Cut" and "Wind Style: Tornado Hurricane" followed one after another. These wind style ninjutsu were like the violent storms in nature, sweeping across the battlefield and engulfing the Lickers. Many Lickers were torn to pieces under this force.

However, these seemingly fatal blows did not completely eliminate the Lickers.

After a short silence, the lickers destroyed by the wind escape technique miraculously stood up again, and their wounds healed at a speed visible to the naked eye, as if they had never been hurt.

This scene made all the Sand Ninja present feel a palpitation, and they began to realize what kind of terrible enemies they were facing.

It seemed that they did not belong to this world at all, but demons crawling out of hell.

"How can they... how can they still stand up?!"

A young Sand Ninja shouted in horror, with a bit of despair in his voice.

Lickers are all biochemical weapons created by viruses, not to mention that this world also has the magical energy of chakra. These lickers are now almost immortal, and their regeneration ability has been enhanced.

Moreover, after eating the Sand Ninja, the lickers obtained fresh DNA and chakra, and evolved into Type II lickers, which are larger, stronger, and faster.

"Maki, it seems that we have to go down in person."

Yura said in a deep voice. Maki nodded.

"Yes, it's time to show the true strength of the Sand Village."

After saying that, he stretched out his body and rushed to the battlefield like a cheetah.

"Wind Style: Wind Cut!"

In the air, Maki clasped his hands together, and sharp wind blades burst out from his fingertips, cutting the air like a sharp blade, directly approaching the vitals of the Type II Licker.

However, the monster seemed to have a premonition, flexibly dodged the attack, and opened his bloody mouth, trying to swallow Maki whole.

Maki was not afraid of danger. As one of the few jonins in the Sand Village, he had rich combat experience and even more powerful strength.

"Wind Style: Wind Blade!"

This wind style ninjutsu is to use three fingers as the center of the circle to form an extremely thin circular wind blade with a diameter of about 20 centimeters and throw it at the enemy.

The extremely thin circular wind blade drew an almost invisible trajectory in the air, cutting through the huge body of the Type II Licker at lightning speed.

Instantly, the monster's huge body was split in two, and black blood spurted out, interweaving with the raging storm around to form a doomsday scene.

However, seeing the scene of the licker coming back to life just now, Maki was not careless at all.

The vitality of the Type II licker was beyond imagination.

After a brief twitch, the broken body began to slowly wriggle, and granulation appeared again at the broken wound, healing at an astonishing speed.

"Wind Style: Vacuum Wave!"

As Maki chanted in a low voice, he quickly formed seals with both hands, and the airflow around him began to surge violently, as if even the surrounding air was pulled by this force.

Then, a series of rotating wind cuts gushed out of his mouth, like a tornado composed of sharp blades, with a whistling sound, sweeping towards the surrounding Type II lickers.

These wind cuts are not only fast, but also highly accurate. Each one is aimed directly at the enemy's vital points, trying to completely destroy these seemingly invincible monsters.

Type II Lickers were cut into pieces by the wind blades of the vacuum wave.

But Maki did not give up and continued to attack. He planned to find the weakness of the Lickers.

As the battle progressed, Maki gradually discovered that whenever the Lickers suffered a heavy blow that affected their chakra flow, their resurrection speed would drop significantly, and some Lickers even completely lost their ability to move due to chakra exhaustion.

This discovery gave the Sand Ninjas a glimmer of victory.

This is indeed the weakness of the Lickers. The energy of any creature is limited. The Lickers seem invincible, but as long as they are not given the opportunity to replenish their energy, they can be exhausted to death.

However, there are not only Lickers on the battlefield, but also Poison Ninjas.

However, facing the wind ninjutsu of the Sand Ninjas, the chakra toxins generated by their poison ninjutsu can be easily dispelled, so they can only rely on close combat.

"For ninjas, the effect does not seem to be ideal."

Wesker did not use the Tracker and the Tyrant because even if these two biological weapons were strengthened, they were just large targets for ninjas.

The power of ninjutsu of ninjas is very strong, and most of them can even be said to be more powerful than modern weapons.

Lickers are different. They move fast and are agile.

You should know that lickers can dodge supersonic bullets without being strengthened. Although they only dodge according to the muzzle of human guns, this is enough to show how smart they are. Now that they have obtained the strengthening of chakra, these lickers can even fight against Genin and Chunin.

"Sure enough, Lickers are still suitable for assassination. If they fight on a large scale, they will be easily covered and hit by a large number of ninjutsu."

Wesker records this.

Of course, the casualties among the Sand Ninjas were also very high. After all, Wesker brought hundreds of Poison Ninjas here, and with the Lickers included, it was impossible for them to be the only casualties.

The Sunagakure Village could not accept the casualties suffered by the Suna Ninja, so they had no choice but to retreat.

If it weren't for the puppet troops, they would even be in danger of being annihilated!

And even with the puppet army, the puppet army has already fought tooth and nail.

Making every puppet is not easy, but for Wesker, the Licker is a biological weapon that can be thrown away every day, and its low cost is simply outrageous.

So far, the price/performance ratio is pretty good.

Sunagakure Village was beaten by the Poison Ninja Village and had to retreat. This news was quickly noticed by the Ninja Village who cared about it.

This also made them despise Sunagakure Village for becoming more and more miserable. At the same time, it also shocked the Poison Ninja Village. Is it really going to do what Sanshouyu Hanzo can't do and subvert the structure of the ninja world?

However, in this battle, none of the three strong men of Sunagakure Village, including Kazekage Rasa, Chiyo and Ebizo, took action.

Chapter 934: Repairing the plank road in the open, but marching through Chencang in secret

After the unexpected and brilliant victory in the Poison Ninja Village, the entire ninja world seemed to have been hit by a shock bomb, causing ripples everywhere.

The Kingdom of Wind, a country that has always been respected by Sand Hidden Village, is currently experiencing unprecedented changes and challenges.

Kazekage Rasa, the powerful ninja known as the "Golden Shield", faced the sudden defeat, a look of solemnity and deep thought flashed in his eyes.

Just relying on force alone may not be able to completely eradicate the threat of the Poison Ninja Village. What's more, the mysterious and unpredictable poisonous technique of the Poison Ninja Village makes any attempt to underestimate the enemy likely to pay a heavy price.

Therefore, he decided to adopt a two-pronged strategy: on the one hand, he strengthened the defense and intelligence gathering capabilities of Sunagakure Village to ensure that he was fully aware of the movements of the Poison Ninja Village; on the other hand, he relied on the deep knowledge of Chiyo Granny and Ebizo to conduct in-depth research. And crack the poison in the Poison Ninja Village and weaken its threat from the root.

After all, the most troublesome thing about the Poison Ninja Village is their poison.

"Can the Wind Release Ninjutsu effectively curb their poisonous techniques?"

Luo Sha saw this vital information. In front of the wind escape ninjutsu, the poisonous ninjutsu could not be used.

He has already understood that this kind of poisonous ninjutsu is actually a unique ninjutsu from a secret arts family like the Nara clan, but there is also the existence of "poison escape", but poison escape is said to be unique to the poison ninja leader.

At the same time, Granny Chiyo and Ebizo, two elders of Sunagakure Village, also took action quickly. They are not only one of the oldest and strongest ninjas in Sunagakure Village, but also a symbol of wisdom.

Grandma Chiyo is famous for her superb medical and poison skills, while Ebizo is good at strategy and layout.

Sunagakure Village recovered the bodies of all Suna ninjas, except those eaten by Lickers, which could not be recovered. This is a common practice for ninjas, to obtain intelligence and information from corpses.

It's a pity that the poisonous ninja corpses in the Poison Ninja Village can't be found. In order to prevent the corpses from leaking secrets, the corpses of the ninjas in the Poison Ninja Village will completely destroy the corpses after losing control of their own poison.

Therefore, it is naturally impossible to obtain any information from the poisonous ninja's body. Even if there is a problem with this self-destruction mechanism, the poisonous blood or toxins flowing in the poisonous ninja's body are not easy to come into contact with.

The two teamed up to conduct a meticulous inspection of the recovered Sand Ninja corpses. From the scars, toxin residues and other clues on their bodies, they wanted to piece together the full picture of the Poison Ninja Village's combat effectiveness, as well as the secrets behind those terrifying poison techniques. .

In the dim laboratory, Granny Chiyo's eyes flashed with sharp light. She carefully pierced the skin of the corpse with a special silver needle to extract a trace sample of the toxin.

These toxins are colorful, some are as green as emerald, while others are as deep as violet, and each one contains deadly power.

Granny Chiyo knew very well that these toxins were not only the weapons of the Poison Ninja Village, but also a symbol of their identity. Unlocking their secrets would be equivalent to finding the key to fighting the Poison Ninja Village.

After days of sleepless research, Granny Chiyo finally made a breakthrough discovery.

She discovered that these toxins do not occur naturally in nature, but have been carefully cultivated and improved artificially.

This means that Poison Ninja Village has a complete toxin research and development system, and the scientific and technological strength behind it cannot be underestimated.

After all, most common poisons are just naturally occurring poisons in nature. Sanshouyu Hanzo was so poisonous that he conquered the world. In fact, they are also poisons from nature. As long as this kind of poison that is not a systematic poison can be cracked, it will be easy to deal with.

But now, the Poison Ninja Village has obviously developed its own tricks, which makes it difficult to deal with them.

Chiyo felt that it was more difficult than ever.

What is even more shocking is that there seems to be some kind of delicate balance and symbiotic relationship between these toxins. Once triggered, it will trigger a chain reaction and form unimaginable lethality.

Faced with such a complex toxin system, Granny Chiyo and Ebizo decided to adopt a two-pronged strategy:

On the one hand, continue to study these toxins in depth and strive to create corresponding antidotes as soon as possible;

On the other hand, the defense and intelligence collection of Sunagakure Village were strengthened to prevent the Poison Ninja Village from launching another raid.

At the same time, the Poison Ninja Village is also busy preparing for their next move.

Wesker quickly selected a new station on another land in the Kingdom of Wind.

The terrain here is difficult, easy to defend and difficult to attack. As for the problem of barren land, it is not a problem at all, so it is an ideal place to establish a Ninja Village.

If the Poison Ninja Village wants to gain a foothold in the ninja world, it must have its own base, a place where new ninjas can be trained, new poison techniques can be developed, and strategic materials can be stored.

Under Wesker's call, the great names of the Kingdom of Wind also gave unprecedented support to the Poison Ninja Village.

The daimyo of the Kingdom of Wind knew that the rise of the Poison Ninja Village was of great significance to the security and stability of the Kingdom of Wind. Therefore, he not only provided land and material assistance, but also personally came forward to recruit those who aspired to become ninjas and were willing to work for the Poison Ninja Village. Efficient young people.

Some of these young people were orphans who were born in poverty and longed to change their destiny (the master was kind-hearted and looked down on the poor, so he sent them all away), some were rebellious ninjas who were dissatisfied with the rule of Sunagakure Village, and some were attracted by the reputation of the poisonous ninja village. Lang Ren.

With their own dreams and ambitions, they gathered under the banner of the Poison Ninja Village.

The prosperity of a ninja village cannot be separated from the injection of fresh blood.

The arrival of these new members not only brought vitality and vitality to the Poison Ninja Village, but also allowed it to grow rapidly in a short period of time.

However, Wesker always maintained a clear understanding in his heart.

He knew that although the station of the Poison Village in the Wind Country was important, the real power was still the Poison Village in the River Country.

There was a secret base that he had carefully arranged, and it was the cornerstone of his grand plan.

He used the strategy of "openly repairing the plank road and secretly crossing Chencang" to attract the attention of the Sand Village and even the entire ninja world in the Wind Country on the one hand, and quietly accumulated strength in the River Country to prepare for future challenges on the other hand.

Not only the Wind Country, but now the Poison Village has defeated the Sand Village, even if the Sand Village has not deployed all its combat power.

This has made the reputation of the Poison Village shock the entire ninja world. Many wandering ninjas and rebellious ninjas saw the opportunity and came to join. The scale is much larger than when the Poison Village was first built. After all, the Poison Village at that time was just an unknown and mediocre small ninja village.

These ninjas from other big and small countries have given the Poison Village a certain basic combat power.

Wesker plans to start experiments on strengthening ninjas using the T-virus and G-virus.

Chapter 935 Virus Adaptation Experiment

Wesker fused the T-Virus, G-Virus, Veronica Virus, and Las Plagas parasites to create the new Uroboros Virus.

After "entering" the main god's space, he strengthened himself with all the viruses in the Resident Evil series.

When Wesker first introduced the T-Virus into the ninja world, he did not expect such an amazing effect.

The ninjas actually showed amazing adaptability to the T-virus.

Their bodies seemed to be born for this virus. Not only did they show no signs of mutating into monsters, but due to the strengthening effect of the virus, their physique, speed, strength and even their chakra refining ability all experienced qualitative leaps.

"It's incredible,"

Wesker stood in the observation room, looking through the one-way glass at the ninjas who were undergoing intensive training with the T virus. Their eyes were shining with unprecedented light, which was the ecstasy of satisfying their desire for power.

Tyrant virus was created by James Marcus, one of the three founders of the Umbrella Company, by combining the progenitor virus with leech gene fragments, and finally isolated a brand new virus, and named it after the initials of "TYRANT", or T for short. Virus.

The T virus strengthens and recombines the characteristics of biological genetic factors, and is a terrorist virus produced for the purpose of developing biological weapons and strengthening human genes.

But most creatures cannot adapt to its mutation and become terrifying monsters, and the same is true for humans. There may be only one among tens of millions of people who can adapt to the T virus.

But in this ninja world, as long as they are ninjas, they can adapt to the T-virus!

The ninjas were ecstatic about the leap in their abilities, and they began to try to incorporate their newly acquired power into ninjutsu to create even more powerful moves.

They felt that their decision to come to the Poison Ninja Village was the most correct choice. Can other Ninja Villages bring them such a good improvement in strength?

Totally impossible.

But they don't know if this is just Wesker experimenting on them, or it's the kind of human experiment that doesn't involve animal experiments.

But even if they know it, for ninjas who pursue ultimate power, this is just a small price to pay on the road to becoming stronger.

"The physical fitness has been improved, and more chakra can be extracted, which is equivalent to being strengthened in all aspects."

Wesker was surprised by this 100% success. In order to verify the applicability of the T virus outside the ninja world, Wesker decided to conduct experiments on civilians.

However, the results were very different.

Civilians were unable to withstand the mutability of the T virus and mutated into irrational zombies one after another. It was not because of the special constitution of people in this world.

It's just that the lethality of these zombies in the ninja world is greatly reduced. Even if the T virus can be infected, for ninjas, being bitten is equivalent to being strengthened.

As a result, Wesker quickly skipped the T-virus experiment and conducted the G-virus experiment.

G virus, commonly known as the big eye virus.

Marcus's student William Birkin had amazing talents in the field of biology. Once, he conducted an experiment on the female experimental subject Lisa Treva.

During the experiment, the original form of the G virus was discovered after injecting the Nemesis virus into the test subject.

The birth of the G virus seemed to be a gift from God to William. He has seen firsthand how the virus can reshape life in a short period of time, pushing those infected to the limits of evolution.

Cells divide at an astonishing speed, producing a variety of strange cells that have never been seen before. It is as if nature has completed millions of years of evolution in an instant.

William was deeply shocked by this power. He firmly believed that through the G virus, humans could transcend the boundaries of nature and evolve into "god-humans", a new race with extraordinary abilities, wisdom and longevity, thus completely changing the world.

However, the G virus does not evolve infinitely, although it has the ability to cause infected people to undergo multiple genetic recombinations in a short period of time and achieve biological evolution.

However, its uncontrollable variability and potential destructiveness eventually brought William's dream of a "god-human" to naught.

What Wesker strengthened was a controllable version of the G-Virus.

However, he was also able to generate and create the original version of the G-Virus.

The ninjas all volunteered to undergo the experiment. Even though Wesker said that this time the risk was very high, they didn't care.

You can gain strength by giving your life. How could they let go of such a cost-effective thing?

As a result, dozens of ninjas were injected with the G virus at the same time.

This time he was not so lucky. The G virus was more domineering than the T virus. Even if Wesker controlled the dose, he did not lose his mind due to overdose like William did.

But these dozens of ninjas were still stunned.

Such a high death rate scared the remaining ninjas, but some ninjas still came forward and were willing to accept the experiment.

Wesker changed the method this time. By controlling variables, each ninja was injected with a different dose of the G virus.

This time, out of hundreds of ninjas, only one ninja survived.

And this ninja also has a big eye, located on his chest.

Wesker naturally does not have such big eyes. Having big eyes means he is uncontrollable.

This is because the big eyes are the consciousness of the G virus, which is another consciousness that is not controlled by itself.

However, this ninja did not lose control. On the contrary, his physical strength reached a very terrifying level. He was originally just a Genin, but now his physical strength alone is comparable to that of a Jonin who is proficient in physical skills, or even stronger.

He can also extract chakra comparable to that of a Jonin, and it can almost be said that he has become a Jonin-level strongman in one step.

Wesker conducted in-depth research and analysis on this result, and finally came to a conclusion: the reason why this ninja can control the power of the G virus is probably related to the unique chakra in his body.

Chakra, as the source of energy in the ninja world, is not only closely connected with the spirit and physical strength of the ninja, but also has a subtle connection with life energy to a certain extent.

Perhaps it is this connection that allows this ninja to maintain his self under the invasion of the G virus and even use its power for himself.

Alex on the other side is also conducting his own virus experiments in the Poison Village of the River Country.

The black light virus is much simpler and more brutal in this regard, especially Alex also strengthened the original Red Light Project Hope Town virus and the virus in the untouchables, plus his own black light virus.

Although several Supreme Hunters were created accidentally, there were also successful infected bodies.

These infected bodies have acquired the physical strength and chakra of a jonin level, as well as the body transformation that can switch forms.

Chapter 936: Beginning of stealth operations

Alex also knew that he had successfully created "evolvers" in games and comics.

But ninjas are different from humans in his world after all.

With his understanding of the concept of "evolvers" in games and comics, he successfully integrated the blacklight virus technology into this world and created the unique "blacklight ninja". Everything seems to be developing in the direction he expected.

Alex felt that he could proceed with the next plan.

The blacklight virus not only made the ninjas' physical strength, speed, and recovery ability a qualitative leap, but more importantly, it gave them a miraculous camouflage and deformation ability.

This ability surpasses the transformation technique in traditional ninjutsu, because it is not just an imitation of the appearance, but a thorough change at the cellular level, allowing the blacklight ninja to perfectly integrate into any environment and become a true "invisible killer".

That is what Wesker said before, the Lurker Plan.

Although it is not impossible for them to push other ninja villages, Wesker said that he would keep a low profile and did not want to attract too much attention.

More importantly, in this ninja world where the strong are respected and the forces are complicated, it is not the best policy to conquer by force directly. Instead, it may cause unnecessary war and chaos.

Therefore, they decided to take a more covert and more efficient way - lurking and infiltration, gradually disintegrating and controlling the internal forces of the five major ninja villages.

Therefore, the Lurker Plan is the best way.

Maybe it can help them take down the five major ninja villages.

Alex asked the ninjas who were transformed into black light ninjas by him to perform the lurking mission.

They all have the camouflage and deformation ability of the black light virus, which is completely impossible for the ninja world to defend against.

Because ninjas are used to looking at people's chakra, if there is chakra on the face, it means that this person may be disguised by transformation.

But if it is replaced by the black light virus, it is a change at the cellular level, which cannot be seen at all.

The first to engage in lurking operations is Konoha, because the Land of Fire is very close to the Land of Rivers, and they are adjacent to each other.

Konoha Village, as the core of the Land of Fire, naturally became the primary target of their actions.

Konoha not only has a powerful ninja army, but also has bred many legendary ninjas and a profound cultural heritage. It is a force that cannot be ignored in the ninja world.

However, it is this strength that makes Konoha the best testing ground for their undercover operations.

Alex carefully selected a group of the most outstanding black light ninjas, who are not only extremely powerful, but also have excellent psychological qualities and adaptability.

When night falls, the edge of Konoha seems to be shrouded by an invisible shadow. The black light ninjas shuttle through the night like ghosts, their figures are sometimes clear and sometimes blurred, as if they are part of nature.

One of the ninjas, using his superb concealment skills, mixed into a caravan going to Konoha for trade.

He was dressed in the clothes of an ordinary traveler, with a gentle smile on his face, chatting and laughing with other people in the caravan, but in fact he had already planned how to use this opportunity to approach the core area of Konoha.

After experiencing the magic and weirdness of the Poison Village in person, he knew that he had made the right bet, and now he was carrying out the undercover mission even more so, he wanted to get more!

If you want to gain more powerful power, you have to accumulate more merits through more missions.

At the same time, another group of black light ninjas took a more direct approach. They used the special ability of the black light virus to directly disguise themselves as patrol ninjas of Konoha.

These disguised patrol ninjas wore Konoha uniforms, held standard weapons, and patrolled every corner of the village. Not only did they successfully deceive ordinary villagers, but even some low-level ninjas failed to see through their true identities.

These disguised patrol ninjas performed their daily patrol tasks while secretly collecting intelligence about Konoha to prepare for subsequent actions.

Konoha Village was gently covered by a layer of light moonlight. Under the seemingly peaceful and peaceful surface, there was an undercurrent.

The lurking actions of the black light ninjas were like ghosts in the night, silently eroding this ancient ninja village.

A black light ninja, wearing a black cloak, took advantage of the cover of the night, held a high-powered telescope, and scanned the streets and courtyards below with a torch-like gaze.

His eyes seemed to be able to penetrate all obstacles and capture every subtle movement.

Not far away, another ninja hid among the treetops, using the cover of leaves and his own superb concealment skills to listen to the low conversation coming from the high-level meeting room of Konoha in the distance.

These intelligence, whether about the deployment of military strategy or the undercurrent of political forces, were recorded one by one by them and passed back to the Poison Village through complex secret codes.

Not only monitoring and obtaining intelligence.

The black light ninjas also subtly guided the thoughts of villagers and ninjas, allowing the public opinion that was originally favorable to Konoha to quietly change.

In the village teahouses, markets, and even the playgrounds of ninja schools, these "guided" discussions gradually gathered into a force that cannot be ignored, quietly changing the public opinion environment of Konoha.

Some originally firm anti-war voices were weakened, replaced by excessive pursuit of peace and blind fear of unknown threats.

What's more terrifying is that the black light ninjas also used their abilities to quietly solve those ninjas who might pose a threat to them.

By absorbing each other's chakra and memory, they not only obtained each other's identity and abilities, but also perfectly copied each other's appearance and behavior habits.

In this way, even Konoha's elite ninjas could not detect that enemies had sneaked into their side.

These "replaced" ninjas continued to operate in Konoha, but they were no longer their original selves, but became black light ninjas.

They either leaked important intelligence or launched a fatal attack at a critical moment, leaving Konoha's defense system full of loopholes.

As the activities of the black light ninjas deepened, an uneasy atmosphere began to permeate Konoha Village.

Cracks gradually appeared between the ninjas who had originally lived in harmony.

Some of the original firm supporters began to waver and doubted the upcoming joint action.

Rumors spread everywhere, some saying that Konoha's top leaders were bribed by external forces, and some saying that war would only bring disasters and peace was the only way out.

These remarks were like sharp daggers, severing the trust between ninjas.

This distrust quickly spread within Konoha like a plague, plunging the entire village into an unprecedented crisis.

Chapter 937: Inciting Konoha

"What's going on, Danzo?"

Sarutobi Hiruzen certainly wouldn't ignore the comments in the village, not to mention that it's not just comments, many ninjas from different families have begun to make various comments that are not favorable to them, which naturally attracted attention.

What a civilian ninja said, and what a ninja clan leader said, even if the meaning is the same, the weight is completely different!

"I don't know what's going on either."

Shimura Danzo was also confused. In response to the threat of the Poison Village, Konoha planned to unite the Cloud Village and the Rock Village to deal with the Poison Village, but now the village is one-sidedly resisting the war.

Originally, after the Sand Village had no ability to continue to unite with Konoha, Sarutobi Hiruzen was not a fool. If the Sand Village couldn't do it, there were still others, and it was just a change of the object of the alliance.

The problem is that Konoha is not united now, and some people say that the village is going to harm everyone's interests, because the Poison Village is just a small village and it is impossible to cause any trouble to Konoha, but Konoha wants to unite with other villages to attack the Poison Village!

Some people even found out that the Kumogakure delegation tried to steal the bloodline limit of the Hyuga clan but failed, and then they bit back. As a result, the village not only ignored the Hyuga clan, but also asked the Hyuga clan to hand over the murderer who killed the delegation to negotiate peace. In the end, the Hyuga clan had no choice but to use the body of the clan leader's younger brother, Hyuga Hizashi, to settle the matter.

Even a big Konoha clan like the Hyuga clan was treated like this, let alone them?

Now they want to unite the Kumogakure and Iwagakure villages, whose interests will be harmed by then?

Konoha is not only facing the external threat of the poisonous ninja village, but also the intensification of internal contradictions.

Shimura Danzo sighed: "Hiruzen, I am also troubled by this matter. Although the Poison Village is weak, its poison technique is strange. If left unchecked, it may become a major hidden danger in the future. We originally planned to unite with Kumogakure and Iwagakure to jointly eliminate this evil force, but..."

"But the villagers don't seem to understand this foresight."

Sarutobi Hiruzen took over the conversation, with a trace of worry in his eyes.

"What they see is only the peace and possible sacrifices in the present, but they ignore the long-term peace and tranquility. What price needs to be paid to maintain it."

As the topic deepened, the two of them recalled the unbearable past - the Kumogakure delegation incident.

It was a farce about trust and betrayal, but it ended with the great sacrifice of the Hyuga clan.

Hyuga Hizashi, the ninja who should have enjoyed a high status in the family, sacrificed himself for the honor of the family and the tranquility of the village and became a political victim.

This incident, like a scar that is difficult to heal, is deeply imprinted in the hearts of every Konoha ninja, and has quietly planted doubts and dissatisfaction with the decisions of the top leaders.

"Now that these memories have been re-examined, it is undoubtedly another crack in the already fragile wall of trust."

Danzo said indignantly.

"The villagers began to doubt whether our decisions are really for the benefit of the majority, or just to satisfy the ambitions of a few people."

Sarutobi Hiruzen heard this and smoked in silence.

"The situation this time is obviously much more complicated than we expected."

"Danzo, you must find out for me where this anti-war sentiment comes from?"

Sarutobi Hiruzen said, this sudden resistance is by no means a storm without wind.

"Hiruzen, I have sent the most elite intelligence personnel to investigate, but there is no definite news yet."

Danzo's answer was a little helpless.

He understood that the spread of this emotion was far more complicated than it seemed on the surface.

It is not just the fear of war, but also the distrust of the decisions of Konoha's top leaders and the deep worry about the uncertainty of the future.

In fact, the outbreak of this anti-war sentiment did not happen overnight.

For a long time, although Konoha, as the leader of the five major ninja villages, has strong strength and influence, its internal contradictions and differences have never stopped.

Especially after experiencing many wars and conflicts, the villagers' desire for peace has become stronger, and any news that may trigger a war will touch their sensitive nerves.

The threat of the Poison Village was originally just one of Konoha's many potential enemies, but under the manipulation of the Black Light Ninja, it became the fuse that ignited the public's emotions.

These ninjas disguised themselves as influential figures in Konoha or opinion leaders among civilians, and successfully incited the public's emotions through clever words and carefully designed plans.

They took advantage of the public's fear of war and dissatisfaction with high-level decisions, and exaggerated the "innocence" and "weakness" of the Poison Village, trying to portray Konoha's joint action as an unnecessary invasion.

How could the Black Light Ninja allow Konoha to successfully join forces to attack the Poison Village?

Alex just used a little trick to make Konoha lose its footing and become chaotic internally.

Of course, the most important thing is that the villagers and the family can't see what benefits the destruction of the Poison Village can bring. In their eyes, there are only losses. However, because Konoha was a one-man show before, there was nothing they could do but endure it.

Now the black light ninjas have infiltrated, and their disguised identities are all important ninjas, or they are very popular among the civilian ninjas. These people speak together, and even the Hokage cannot ignore their opinions, which also makes those who dare not speak out also speak up.

The Cloud Village and the Rock Village naturally did not move. It was originally the joint operation proposed by Konoha. Now that Konoha itself did not move, they certainly could not move.

Otherwise, if there were any losses, wouldn't they suffer a great loss?

Even Ohnoki thought that this was Konoha's conspiracy!

Let them fight with the Poison Village first, and then consume their manpower, and then they will be able to reap the benefits.

Then after the spies in the Hidden Leaf Village reported back what Konoha was experiencing, Ohnoki immediately decided to help Konoha!

Compared with the future threat of the Poison Village, and it is not known whether it can develop, Konoha is undoubtedly Ohnoki's heart disease. Only when Konoha is gone, Ohnoki can go to the underworld to see his teacher with peace of mind.

So he didn't care about the Poison Village, and mobilized the Rock Village spies in Konoha, asking them to find ways to incite the emotions of Konoha Village.

The Hidden Cloud Village made the same decision as the Hidden Iwagakure Village. The Poison Village was nothing to them. They felt they could clean it up with a little effort. The most important thing now was Konoha. If they could get Konoha into chaos and then wipe out the Hyuga clan or do some other self-destructive operations, that would be even better!

Chapter 938 Boros

On the other hand, Boros failed to meet the strong man he wanted, or rather, Boros's search seemed to have encountered unprecedented obstacles - he failed to immediately touch the opponent he dreamed of, at least, not the strong man he defined by traditional standards.

Just as Boros was wandering in the vast world of the Ninja Realm, and his desire for battle in his heart was almost transformed into reality, an old man who looked like a human but revealed an extraordinary aura suddenly appeared in front of him.

The old man was slightly hunched, but his deep eyes flashed with wisdom and insight.

He wore two horns on his head, his long coffee-colored hair was casually scattered, and he was wearing a flawless white gown. On his chest were six black magatama-shaped patterns, as if containing ancient and mysterious power.

Even more striking was the rotating red vortex logo on his back, and below it were magatama arranged in a nine-square grid, with three in each row, flashing a faint glow, as if they could communicate the mysteries between heaven and earth.

"Are you also an alien from the universe?"

An old man appeared in front of Boros and blocked his way.

"Are you an energy body?"

Boros's perception is extremely sharp. As a semi-energy life form, he can almost see through the essence of everything in the world.

At this moment, he clearly felt the unique breath of the old man-it was an existence that transcended the constraints of the flesh and was purely composed of energy. He was secretly surprised in his heart. Such an existence is also extremely rare in the universe.

"To be precise, I am dead. Now only my chakra is still alive. Of course, it can also be called a soul."

His words revealed a kind of indifference beyond life and death, as if he had seen through all the vanity in the world.

"You can call me Otsutsuki Hagoromo."

The old man introduced himself. This name has a pivotal position in the long history of the ninja world. He is the legendary Six Paths Sage, the ancestor of ninjutsu, and a god in the hearts of countless ninjas.

However, for Boros from an alien planet, this name only represents a powerful existence, an opponent who may be worthy of his challenge.

He noticed Boros, the one-eyed alien, who didn't look like a creature from the Ninja World no matter how he looked at it. In particular, he felt the fighting spirit and oppression rising from Boros, as if he was not facing a humanoid creature, but a great terror that could cause the earth to collapse.

"An alien from the universe, you could say that."

Boros thought about it and gave an ambiguous answer.

"Then what is your purpose in coming to the Ninja World? Are you from the Otsutsuki clan?"

Otsutsuki Hagoromo's tone was full of vigilance and curiosity.

He knew the power and ambition of the Otsutsuki clan, and was also worried that this suddenly appearing alien would pose an unpredictable threat to the Ninja World.

If he hadn't been able to determine whether Boros was good or evil, he would have taken action long ago.

Of course, Otsutsuki Hagoromo didn't know if he could beat Boros.

Boros shook his head, his eyes firm and fiery.

"My name is Boros, and I don't know any Otsutsuki clan. The purpose of coming to the ninja world is, of course, to find a strong man to fight!"

His voice was full of desire and expectation for fighting, as if he was willing to give everything as long as he could find an opponent worthy of fighting.

"For example, you seem to be very good."

Boros's eyes suddenly became sharp, and he stared at Otsutsuki Hagoromo closely, as if he had regarded him as the target of the next challenge.

However, Otsutsuki Hagoromo just smiled faintly and shook his head.

Otsutsuki Hagoromo understood after hearing what Boros said that he was a battle maniac.

There have been battle maniacs in the ninja world for so many years, such as the Kaguya clan, which is a famous battle maniac and lunatic.

It's just that Boros gave him a feeling of being too dangerous, and he could come across the stars, so he was not easy to deal with.

Even if he was not of the same race as his mother, Otsutsuki Hagoromo attached great importance to aliens from the universe.

"I am just a remaining chakra consciousness, and I don't have the power to fight."

There was a sense of helplessness and regret in his words.

As the remaining chakra consciousness of the Six Paths Sage, although he possesses wisdom and knowledge beyond ordinary people, he can no longer use ninjutsu to fight as freely as he did in his lifetime.

However, Boros did not give up.

There may be more powerful beings hidden in this ninja world waiting for his challenge.

So, he made a request to Otsutsuki Hagoromo: "Tell me, who is the strongest ninja in this ninja world? I want to find him and fight him!"

Otsutsuki Hagoromo was slightly stunned when he heard this, and then smiled bitterly.

He knew Boros's persistence and madness, and also understood what such a request meant to the ninja world.

"Boros, there is no strong man in the ninja world who can fight you."

Otsutsuki Hagoromo said very straightforwardly.

Judging from the energy aura emitted by Boros, even if it is not chakra, it is too powerful. He even feels that he may not be Boros' opponent in his prime.

Of course, if they really fight, the various strange and weird rule abilities of the Six Paths level will make Boros suffer a great loss.

Boros, whose energy is indestructible and who is immortal himself, is simply nearly immortal. Otsutsuki Hagoromo can completely seal Boros, or extract his soul, or do other things.

It can only be said that Boros is still a bit disadvantaged when facing the Six Paths level.

When numerical monsters fight against mechanical monsters, numerical monsters usually lose more than they win.

"Really?"

Boros didn't believe it. He decided to ask others. Do you really think he is a good person? As long as he keeps killing, there will always be someone to stop him, and then those strong people will appear.

The chakra consciousness of Otsutsuki Hagoromo was swaying gently, like a breeze in the ancient forest, with a bit of helplessness and expectation.

As a former Six Paths Sage, he knew the complexity and power of the ninja world, but he also knew that he was just a shadow now and could not directly intervene in reality.

He could only place his hopes on those strong people hiding in the dark, hoping that they could perceive Boros's threat and stand up.

"I can only hope that someone in the ninja world can stop him."

Otsutsuki Hagoromo thought.

The Hidden Mist Village, a ninja village known for assassination and secrets, has become a new stage for Boros to find strong people today.

Along the way, he ignored the panicked civilians who were fleeing in all directions. Their lives and deaths were as insignificant as ants in his eyes.

His eyes were only fixed on those strong men who could fight him, eager to find the long-lost passion and satisfaction in the battle.

Chapter 939: Boros challenges the Hidden Mist Village

Members of the ninja-hunting unit were hunting down a seriously injured rebel ninja.

"boom!"

An invisible pressure suddenly came, making all the fog ninjas present feel an unprecedented sense of crisis.

Their hair stood on end instantly, as if they were tightly grasped by invisible hands of fear.

Just as they were trying to find the source of this pressure, a figure appeared among them like a ghost.

Boros, a warrior from a distant galaxy, shocked everyone present with his unique appearance.

He was tall and muscular, his blue skin glowed like a metal in the sunlight, and his horizontal single eye looked extremely strange, as if he could see into the deepest fears of people's hearts.

"Tell me, where is the strongest among you?"

Boros's voice was low and powerful, and every word struck the hearts of the Mist Ninjas like a heavy hammer.

There was no threat in his tone, only pure inquiry, but the power hidden under this calmness made people dare not despise him in the slightest.

"You...who are you?"

A brave mist ninja forced himself to calm down and tried to ask the other party's purpose.

"I am Boros, the strongest warrior in the universe. I am here just to find an opponent who can rival me."

Poros's answer was simple and direct, without any disguise.

"Go to hell!"

An impatient Mist ninja finally couldn't restrain the fear and anger in his heart, and suddenly activated the Kirigakure technique, trying to escape in the thick fog or launch a surprise attack.

However, his movements seemed so clumsy and weak in front of Boros. His movements seemed to be slowing down in Boros' eyes, and he was easily discerned.

Poros smiled slightly, it was a kind of pity and disdain for the weak life.

Boros suddenly appeared in front of the fog ninja, and one hand penetrated his chest easily, as if it had penetrated a piece of tissue paper.

"Bang!" A living heart was taken out of Boros's chest. It was still beating vigorously, but the people present could not feel the slightest breath of life. Only the shadow of death enveloped everyone.

"Is this your strength?"

Boros's tone was full of disappointment and disdain. He threw the heart away as if it were just a useless stone.

This scene completely shocked everyone present.

They had never seen such a cruel and powerful enemy, and the fear in their hearts spread like wildfire.

They looked at each other, their eyes full of despair and fear.

"He actually killed Akai with one strike!"

"Where did the monster come from?"

"What do we do?"

Although the ninja-hunting troops are experienced in many battles, they are only good at chasing and killing rebellious ninjas. They have never encountered top-level experts. That is the work of the seven ninja swordsmen.

"Take me to find your strongest person, otherwise, you will all die."

As soon as Boros finished speaking, he appeared in front of another Mist Ninja again, still pierced the chest, and took out the beating heart.

Use death to whip them and drive them to find strong men to fight with them!

Faced with Boros' declaration, some of the Mist Ninjas tried to muster up courage and responded with a trembling voice: "You...why are you so cruel? We are just ordinary ninjas, not the opponents you are looking for at all."

Boros shook his head slightly, with a trace of compassion in his eyes: "Cruelty? This is just part of the law of survival. On the vast stage of the universe, the law of the jungle is the eternal truth. I give you the opportunity to find the real strong man, Isn't this a kind of mercy?"

Although his tone was light, the power in it was irrefutable.

The mist ninjas looked at each other with mixed feelings in their hearts.

They know that in the face of such an existence, any resistance is futile.

But do they really want to take Boros to the village? Will the village think they have betrayed them?

As the village with the most rebellious ninjas, the Mist Ninja Village is naturally the most afraid of this kind of thing.

Especially since they were still chasing ninja troops, they knew the price of betraying the village even more.

"Mizukage-sama will definitely be able to deal with him!"

The Ninja Chasing Troops felt that although Boros was very strong, he could not be Mizukage's opponent.

After all, there are only five absolute strong men in the entire ninja world, not to mention that his own Mizukage-sama is a perfect Jinchuuriki!

So they finally decided to take Boros to Kirigakure Village.

But they first sent people back to inform the village.

Boros naturally doesn't care about their little moves. It doesn't matter whether he wants to notify the opponent's strong men to prepare, recruits people, or even lays traps. Boros is fearless.

He just wants to fight!

Boros followed the chasing ninja troops unhurriedly. Considering the speed of the opponent, it was indeed unhurried.

Boros himself walked faster than this.

Over at Kirigakure Village, after getting the information about the Kirito ninja who came back early, the controlled Mizukage Goju Yagura was very angry.

All cats and dogs dare to challenge Kirigakure Village!

In the Mizukage Building, the lights were dim, reflecting Goju Yagura's face twisted with anger.

As the leader of Kirigakure Village and the perfect Jinchūriki of the three-tailed beast Isobutsu, he has never felt the provocation and threat from the outside world like this.

The name Boros is like thunder in the dark night, shaking the heart of every Mist Ninja.

"Is this happening?"

Kuju Yagura's voice was deep and powerful, with unquestionable majesty.

"How dare a mere outsider be so arrogant and treat our Kirigakure as nothing!"

He stood up, and a huge amount of chakra surged in his body, as if even the air around him was trembling. The power of the three-tailed beast was faintly boiling in his body, ready to respond to the master's call at any time.

"Lord Mizukage, this man is very powerful and extraordinary."

The Kirigakure of the pursuit ninja team knelt on the ground, with a bit of fear in his tone.

"He asked for a battle with the strongest in the village, otherwise he would kill us all."

Kuju Yagura heard this, and a sneer rose at the corner of his mouth, and a cold light flashed in his eyes.

"Humph, what an arrogant guy! Since he is seeking his own death, let him see what the true power of Kirigakure is!"

Immediately, Kuju Yagura ordered to quickly gather the masters in the village, including the remaining members of the Seven Ninja Swordsmen and many elite ninjas, to prepare for this sudden challenge.

At the same time, he also secretly arranged multiple traps and defensive measures, just in case.

At the same time, Boros still followed the pursuit ninja team leisurely, as if he was completely unaware of the coming storm.

As the distance got closer, the iconic towering tower of the Hidden Mist Village gradually came into view, wrapped in thick fog, adding a bit of mystery and oppression.

Chapter 940: The Trash Cannon Eliminates Trash

Boros's steps were steady and powerful, and every step seemed to leave an indelible mark on the ground. His figure seemed particularly tall and lonely in the hazy fog at the edge of the Hidden Mist Village.

The air around him seemed to freeze, and even the wind held its breath, fearing that it would miss the epic duel that was about to take place.

Boros stopped, looked around, and a faint smile appeared on the corner of his mouth.

"Finally, are we here?"

The faint smile on the corner of Boros's mouth hid the expectation of unknown challenges and the confidence in his own strength. His eyes were deep, as if he could see through all the falsehoods and look directly into the deepest fears of people's hearts.

He looked around, and those eyes hiding in the dark and peeping were nothing but insignificant dust to him.

The chasing ninja troops saw this and felt uneasy.

They knew that once Boros stepped into the Hidden Mist Village, he would surely set off an unprecedented storm. But they also understood that they had no way out and could only move forward with gritted teeth.

When Boros stepped into the Hidden Mist Village, the whole village seemed to hold its breath.

The air was filled with tension and solemnity. The villagers hid in their homes and peeked at the uninvited guest through the cracks in the windows.

The Mizukage, Yagura, had already led many masters to wait at the entrance of the village.

"Are you the strongest in the Hidden Mist Village?"

Boros looked at Yagura, with a fighting spirit in his eyes.

"Let me see if you are worthy of my full-strength fight!"

Yagura looked at Boros. He had never seen such a strange guy, but there were many strange things in the ninja world.

Yagura snorted coldly and responded: "Hmph, I am the Mizukage of the Hidden Mist Village, Yagura. Today I will let you see the strength of the Hidden Mist Village!"

He waved his hand, and suddenly, hundreds of ninjas rushed to Boros like a tide, and various ninjutsu and hidden weapons intertwined into an airtight net, trying to trap Boros in it.

Those elites of the Mist Village are all experienced warriors.

Kujiya Kura did not move, preparing to let his ninjas consume all the opponent's chakra.

This method of sacrificing the car to save the king is absolutely no problem for anyone. You have to know that there are nearly a thousand Mist Village ninjas. Even the Nine-Tails in the world can't beat them in a chakra battle, right?

It's just that they underestimated Boros.

"Huh?"

Boros saw that Kujiya Kura did not move, but let his men rush up to beat him up, and guessed the other party's idea.

But it doesn't matter, the number of people does not exist for Boros.

Boros faced this overwhelming attack, but there was no panic on his face.

On the contrary, his eyes became brighter, and the huge single eye on his chest began to flash a dazzling blue light, as if some ancient and powerful power was awakening in his body.

As the blue light intensified, the black lines on his body began to wriggle, releasing a more terrifying aura. It was the condensation and release of energy in his body, foreshadowing the impending devastating blow.

This was a huge energy wave released by the large amount of energy accumulated in the body. Any small fish would be wiped out if they touched it. One shot would form a large pit of dozens of square kilometers on the spaceship.

The official book called this Boros's best trick, which could instantly turn a large range of targets into dust.

Boros called himself "small fish cannon", which was specially used to clean up small fish.

"Small fish cannon!"

Boros shouted, and the single eye on his chest suddenly opened. A thick blue energy beam instantly ejected. Wherever it passed, whether it was water ninjutsu or the ninjas of the Hidden Mist Village, they all seemed so small and fragile in front of this power.

The thick blue energy, like a crack torn from the depths of the universe, carried the breath of destruction and ruthlessly devoured everything around it.

Wherever this beam passed, the space seemed to be torn apart by its power. All the water-style ninjutsu that blocked it were as fragile as paper, and evaporated without a trace in an instant. Even the ninjas of the Hidden Mist Village who tried to use the fog as a cover were turned into nothingness in front of this destructive force, and they could not even scream.

The ninjas of the Hidden Mist Village fled in all directions, but their speed was far less than the spread of the beam. Despair and fear intertwined in their eyes.

This scene shocked everyone present.

They had never seen such a terrifying attack, as if even the world changed color. Goji Yagura's face also became extremely solemn. He realized that his previous tactics had completely underestimated Boros's strength.

This seemingly weird guy actually possessed such amazing destructive power, enough to bring the entire Hidden Mist Village into a catastrophe.

However, just when this force was about to affect Goji Yagura, he suddenly disappeared from the spot and barely escaped this disaster with the water-style ninjutsu.

He knew that he could not defeat Boros just by relying on the advantage of numbers, and he had to find other ways.

"Asshole!"

Yakura immediately realized that Boros was not an easy guy to deal with. The power of the strange technique he had never seen before was probably not much worse than the Tailed Beast Ball. Faced with this sudden crisis, Yakura did not choose to escape, but responded quickly.

He took a deep breath, and the chakra in his body boiled like a ignited flame, and then his body began to undergo subtle changes.

The dark red tailed beast chakra surged out like a tide, covering his whole body, making him look like a half-human, half-beast. This is one of his trump cards - half-tailed beast transformation.

The half-tailed beast transformed Goji Yagura's body swelled up, and the body was surrounded by rich dark red chakra, as if a sleeping giant beast was about to wake up, and its might made the whole battlefield tremble.

The air was filled with a tense and oppressive atmosphere, and every breath seemed to foreshadow the upcoming fierce collision.

Goji Yagura rushed towards Boros, but Boros did not show any fear.

On the contrary, a glimmer of excitement flashed in his eyes.

He seemed to be enjoying the pleasure brought by this battle. For Goji Yagura's attack, he simply raised his fist and prepared to respond with a head-on confrontation.

"Fooled!"

Goji Yagura sneered in his heart. In his opinion, Boros's behavior was undoubtedly seeking his own death.

"Coral Palm!"

This move used in the state of Tailed Beast Transformation, corals will grow on the parts of the body hit by his palm. (This technique is extremely destructive to physical ninjas)

The opponent actually dared to confront him head-on, so he can only wait for his body to be destroyed!

His palm touched Boros's fist, and the next moment, his hand was shattered.