

Sofia Restaurant, located in the downtown area of Celestial Sea City, is the only five-star restaurant in the city. It's said that the minimum spending per person can reach twenty thousand.

Ye Huan sat in his seat drinking water, cursing silently about wasting money.

It's just a blind date meeting, is it necessary to come to such a high-end place? My future wife better learn to be frugal, wasting money is absolutely a no-go!

And most importantly, that squanderer has no sense of time!

The meeting was scheduled for eight o'clock, and Brother Huan has already been half an hour late, only to find that the other party still hasn't arrived!

Not only has she not arrived, but now another half hour has passed. It's now nine o'clock, and the other party is still not here!

"Sir, what exactly is the situation with your date?" The waiter's face looked unpleasant.

"Let's wait a little longer." Ye Huan said calmly.

"It's nine o'clock now, and you have occupied the table for half an hour without ordering, which is troubling for us."

Upon hearing this, the men and women waiting in the lounge area wearing suits and evening dresses showed dissatisfaction. Their waiting time for a table had basically reached half an hour or even an hour.

You have to understand, at Sofia Restaurant, once one table finishes dining, it usually takes less than two minutes for the next guests to be seated.

This occupying-a-table-without-ordering situation has lasted for half an hour and severely disrupted the usual dining order.

Ye Huan felt three black lines forming on his forehead; he didn't even have a dime left to his name. If he orders food and gets stood up, he'll be screwed, plus this place is expensive. Even washing dishes all night wouldn't cover the meal cost.

"My date hasn't arrived, so I can't really order either, right? Let's wait a bit more." Ye Huan shrugged helplessly.

The waitress looked at the time and said coldly, "Fifteen minutes, if you don't order by then, we will have to ask you to leave!"

With that, her face turned even colder, and her gaze towards Ye Huan was filled with contempt.

This man was dressed plainly, even a bit scruffy, wearing a T-shirt and patched jeans, lacking noble aura, looking out of place in the luxurious restaurant.

If it weren't for the fact that the table was indeed reserved, she would have called security to kick him out already. After all, at Sofia Restaurant, every table's expenditure gives the corresponding waiter a commission accordingly.

"Occupying a public resource without using it for half an hour, plus the previous half-hour of an empty table, the real loss is at least eight hundred to a thousand!"

And he kept saying he was here to meet his fiancée; could it be that he's so poor, yet his fiancée is a rich and beautiful girl? Who would believe that?

Thinking of this made the waitress even angrier, storming towards the security department at the door, whispering something to the security guards.

"Get him out of here!"

The waitress returned to the restaurant, yelling sternly.

Soon, four bulky security guards approached, saying, "Hey buddy, let's get going, shall we?"

Ye Huan glanced at the clock nearby, frowned, and said, "It's only been two minutes, didn't you say fifteen?"

"Ha!" The waitress sneered, "You've already severely disrupted our dining order. Either you order now, or you leave immediately!"

"Yeah, you're here to meet your fiancée? Come on, buddy, not to burst your bubble, but couples dining here are generally either rich or powerful, with assets of at least millions or billions. You think you can meet your fiancée here? Daydreaming?" The security team leader chimed in, "Be sensible, leave quickly, or we'll handle you for disrupting the dining order."

"It's not right to treat customers like this, Sofia's supposed to be a big place."

"Exactly because it's such a big place, there's no room for bad apples like you!" The waitress folded her arms, smirking, "To think I actually believed your nonsense earlier, thinking you were actually a customer."

Meanwhile, the rich kids in the waiting area voiced their support.

"Buddy, don't you take a good look at yourself, is this a place you can come to? I bet you just came in for the air conditioning. Isn't it better to enjoy free air conditioning at a supermarket?"

"This lady and I are a couple, our family assets exceed two million, otherwise we wouldn't dare to dine here."

"Exactly, looking at you, I bet you just moved some bricks? Hurry up and leave, don't affect our dining!"

The rich kids verbally attacked Ye Huan.

Ye Huan frowned slightly, "I really am here to see my fiancée; it's just that the other party's punctuality is lacking, she's just late."

The waiter laughed angrily, saying to the security guard, "Stop wasting time talking to him, just throw him out and give the table to someone in need."

"Are you leaving on your own, or shall we escort you?" The security leader said with a fierce expression, "If we do it, there might be some injuries."

Seeing that Ye Huan was still standing still, the security leader waved his hand.

The security guards nodded knowingly and directly held Ye Huan's arms.

A minute later, the security leader cursed, "Are you all useless? Two hundred pounds of muscle gone to waste? I've given you plenty of benefits, and you let me down at this crucial moment? I told you to lift him out, not just grab his arms!"

The security guards, blushing with embarrassment, exerted even more effort!

Yet they found that no matter what, even using their full strength, they couldn't move this man an inch!

This man and the chair he was sitting on seemed nailed to the ground!

"A bunch of useless idiots!" The security leader cursed, grabbing Ye Huan's collar with one hand.

At this moment, the waitress chuckled mockingly, knowing the security leader was really pissed off.

Which means this freeloader is about to face some tough times!

The security leader had once retired from the special forces, his strength comparable to a bull, having once punched through a steel plate!

"This behavior I perceive as provoking me." Ye Huan calmly sipped his tea, "Not gonna lie, I hate it when people provoke me. You still have time to let go."

"Provoke? I'm teaching you a lesson!"

The security leader roared, applying force to grip Ye Huan's collar with his right hand.

But soon, his forehead broke out in cold sweat; in shock, he used all his strength!

"Hurry up and teach him a lesson!" The waitress, arms akimbo, urged the security leader, "Hurry up!"

"I want to hurry up too!"

The security leader cursed inwardly, his face turning red from exerting full strength, still unable to make Ye Huan budge!

How is this possible!

His face was filled with disbelief, someone who could punch through steel couldn't lift this freeloader by force?

Two minutes later, Ye Huan slowly turned his head, his eyes icy.

The security leader felt like a beast was staring at him, a strong sense of danger arose in his heart.

Ye Huan grabbed the security leader's collar with one hand, smilingly said.

"Now, it's my turn, right?"

As soon as the words fell, the security leader shivered.

"Get him out already, why so much nonsense!" The waitress was dissatisfied.

In the next second, her eyes widened in disbelief, stepping back a few steps.

"This... how is this possible..." The rich kids in the waiting area, watching the drama unfold, all echoed this soul-searching question, eyes filled with shock.

This man actually lifted the two-hundred-pound-looking security leader with just two fingers?