

Chapter 66 Lost Battle

Suddenly Eduarda feels a strong distress coming from Celeste and this distracts her, for a second, but the panic takes over her when she understands that Celeste is worried about Erick, who is a bit destabilized by the evil power that is affecting his life force.

Returning to her human form she runs to him, but realizing her intention the followers of Hercules stand in her way preventing her from approaching, for if Hercules wins that battle evil will win and darkness will spread over the land.

As Eduarda throws herself into the struggle to get to Erick, the battle around her continues to rage with fury and intensity. She concentrates all her power, summoning the lunar energy that flows through her. Her eyes glow with determination, and her body is enveloped by a radiant aura, indicating the presence of her divine nature.

Hercules' followers try to block her path, hurling themselves at her with all their might. Eduarda dodges the blows with supernatural agility, demonstrating a formidable ability in hand-to-hand combat. She fights with grace and dexterity, combining her agile movements with the strength of her blows, delivering powerful kicks and punches that drive her enemies away.

Meanwhile, the battle between Erick and Hercules reaches an even more intense level. The two Lycans collide repeatedly, their claws clashing in a deadly dance. Both exhibit remarkable endurance, their bodies scarred by wounds, but their unwavering determination continues to drive them forward.

Eduarda, watching the furious struggle before her, feels her heart racing with anguish. She knows that every second is crucial, that Hercules' victory would mean a dark fate for everyone. Determined, she redoubles her efforts, launching powerful blasts of lunar energy towards Hercules' followers, driving them away and creating an opening in their defense.

With her skill and agility, Eduarda moves forward quickly, dodging attacks and overcoming obstacles. She uses her ability to manipulate the elements to create a protective barrier around her, deflecting blows and spells aimed at her. Her control over earth, water, fire, and air makes her an unstoppable force.

At the center of the chaos, Erick continues his battle against Hercules with renewed determination. He refuses to let evil prevail and fights with all his might, channeling his anger and his connection to his wolf pack to increase his strength. His eyes glow in an intense golden hue, reflecting his true essence as a leader and protector.

Eduarda finally approaches Erick, but Hercules' followers are determined to stop her. They throw themselves at her in a last desperate effort, but she is not shaken. Her determination is unbreakable, and she faces her enemies with bravery and courage, using her power of wolf transformation to deliver quick and accurate blows.

Meanwhile, the battle between Erick and Hercules reaches an explosive climax. The two Lycans exchange powerful blows, their claws and teeth meeting in a lethal dance. Each movement is accompanied by a deafening roar, and the tremors caused by the force of their attacks are felt throughout the courtyard.

Eduarda struggles with all her strength to make her way through Hercules' followers. Her body moves with grace and agility, delivering precise and skillful blows that stun her opponents. She uses her lunar power to launch bursts of energy, creating a zone of protection around her as she advances toward Erick.

Meanwhile, the battle between Erick and Hercules reaches a critical point. Both Lycans are exhausted, but their determination is undiminished. Each blow is dealt with the intention of finishing the other off, and the air is charged with the energy of their confrontations. Flames and thunder collide, lighting up the courtyard with explosions of light and sound.

Eduarda finally breaks through the defensive line of Hercules' followers, arriving at Erick's side. Their eyes meet, conveying a mixture of relief, love, and determination. Together, they know they must defeat Hercules to ensure everyone's safety.

Combining their powers, Eduarda and Erick unite in a deadly dance, facing Hercules with perfect synchrony. Their attacks are relentless, their strategies are sharp, and their connection grows stronger with each move. As Hercules fights with all his might, it becomes clear that he is facing a losing battle.

Little by little, Eduarda and Erick's combined power begins to overcome Hercules'. Their blows find their targets with precision, weakening the king of evil. With each wound inflicted, he seems to lose some of his strength and arrogance.

As the battle continues, the resistance unites around Eduarda and Erick, providing support and protection. Peter, Draco, Lila, and Joshua fight alongside them, demonstrating formidable skills and unwavering determination. Together, they form an unstoppable team, each member contributing their unique skills.

Gradually, Hercules' power weakens until, finally, Eduarda and Erick deliver a final blow. A burst of energy envelops Hercules, throwing him backwards with devastating force. He falls to the ground, defeated and powerless.

But as soon as the energy blast dissipates, it is possible to see that the dead person on the ground is not Hercules but Peter, who at the last minute pushed Hercules away from Eduarda and Erick's attack and received all the fury of the attack himself, taking advantage of this Hercules and his remaining followers launch themselves through an opening and reach the freedom of the training center, but Hercules is anesthetized by the loss of his younger brother, for Peter was his brother, they were always fighting and disagreeing on everything, but his brother always accompanied him and now had given his life for his.

The battle comes to an end, and a tense silence fills the courtyard. Eduarda and Erick face each other, still with the adrenaline of the fight pulsing through their veins. They know that the battle may be over, but their journey is far from over.

With the victory over Hercules, the resistance finds a brief moment of relief. They know there are still challenges ahead, but they are united and determined to protect their kingdom and those they love. And both sides, are willing to do anything for victory.

 Congratulations! You've won
30 minutes of free reading time!

Claim Now