

Chapter 68 Farewell to a friend

Erick pulls Eduarda firmly against him, and places a chaste kiss on his neck, but Eduarda rubs against him, making it clear that his intentions are different.

"We are in the planning room, and at any moment someone could come in, you are aware of that, because if I start I won't stop, Erick practically growls in your ear.

"I'm aware", says Eduarda rubbing himself even more in an erection that has already begun to appear.

Erick growls softly, and grabs her breasts with his hands, while she continues rubbing her ass on his cock, which is now hard and ready to penetrate her.

Freeing one of his hands, he unbuttons his pants and frees his huge cock from his underwear, then lifts the back of the dress that Eduarda is wearing and commands:

"Put one leg on the bench in front of you"

Eduarda doesn't even question, she just obeys, and almost screams when Erick rips off her panties and slips inside her.

"You like that, don't you, making me lose my mind anywhere", he growls in her ear, while Eduarda rolls around on his cock, biting her lips hard to prevent a loud moan from escaping her mouth.

Erick starts a back and forth slow and rhythmic, while he pulls her closer to him and slides one of his hands to her clitoris and begins to circle it with his finger, making her hold her breath and moan softly trying not to attract attention from anyone to what they are doing. Erick sinks his teeth lightly into her mark thus increasing her pleasure, making her make noises and moans.

But suddenly the door opens, and Pedro and Draco enter, Eduarda tries to get away from Erick, he keeps her in place whispering in her ear I warned you.

But when she realizes that Pedro and Drco don't seem to realize what's going on there, Eduarda realizes that her dress is covering everything, and holds her breath when Erick goes back to circling her clits with the hard member still inside her, while talking normally with Peter and Draco regarding the next steps in the war. That whole situation the fear of being caught Erick's fingers moving on her clitoris all this made Eduarda reach a violent climax biting her tongue and closing her eyes so that the other two would not realize what was happening there between her and Erick.

With the tone of voice still calm Erick pee to have a word alone with Eduarda and as soon as they leave, he begins to penetrate her with urgency and with form, Eduarda who still hasn't even recovered from the last orgasm feels another one forming inside of himself, and moves against Erick and his erection, he holds her by the waist pulling her hard against him until both reach orgasm feeling their bodies shudder with pleasure.

As soon as Eduarda arranges the dress, she gives Erick a light kiss and says she's going back to the royal house for a shower and to change.

Erick nods but realizes that in fact she wants to stay, as her partner he can feel her emotions, and that's why he knows that finding out that two of his friends were actually Hercules and his brother was something that moved her a lot, for so Eric decides to give her the space she seems to need, as he doesn't want to force her into anything and it's obvious that she already realizes that sooner or later they will have to kill Hercules, but Eduarda still had memories of him as her old gang friend.

Erick was right because Eduarda didn't go home, but to the clearing where she always went to think.

She couldn't believe that Gaby, her sweet and good friend Gaby, who had often protected and helped her, was actually the greatest villain of all Hercules.

Images of them in her old pack filled her mind, they had always been close by like a protective shadow, and the strange bond she had always had with him now made sense they were each other's opposites destined to destroy each other, because Eduarda could never love another someone other than her partner, other than Erick.

She hears footsteps and to her surprise there is Hercules, who slowly approaches her saying:

"Let me explain yes"

Eduarda knew that it was right to run or raise the alarm, but for some reason she managed to do it, because she still saw him as her friend and protector.

"At first I wasn't sure you were the person in the prophecy, but I decided to stay close to make sure, time passed and we became friends and I fell in love with you Eduarda even without knowing that you were the person I wanted. I've been looking for years on end, but then our suspicions that you were the chosen one only increased when I decided to declare myself, I found out that Alf had made a stupid plan to bring you here and I only had to come too. Peter was my little brother, he was competitive that's why he tried to win you over but he was always loyal to me so much he gave his life for me, but if there's one thing we both did is protect and love you, I'm here to ask you to come with me Of my own free will, I don't want to lose you in this war either. So please come with me, because I already lost this war once, but this time I won't be the one to lose it" when saying these words Hercules extends his hands to Eduarda and wishes from the bottom of his heart that she chooses him and not Eric for once.

◀ Chapter 68 Farewell to a friend

+120 Points at most

Eduarda takes two steps back and says in a choked voice:

"Today out of respect for the memory of Peter I will let you go, but next time we will fight and one of us will fall, for I am light Hercules I have always been, I could never choose the darkness that dwells in you over the light that permeates all those who I love you, now I see clearly that I was wrong with you, because I am absolutely sure that you never loved me, you just want the power that lives in me, or you would have been honest with me from the beginning and you weren't, but for the times you helped me I let it go today, but Hercules be sure it will never happen again", when she finishes she boldly turns her back on him, and when she turns around again he is no longer there he disappeared like smoke in the wind, as if he had never been there .