

Last Days 114

Chapter 114 Conflict (2)

"Stop quibbling." Amelia waved her hand lazily. "Put them in the apartment areas. Every family can only have one room."

"Yes."

The soldiers had long been ordered to bring these people to the apartment dormitory area. Even if they were the relatives of these families who had villa here, the number of villa was only one.

Not all of them were willing to stay together with their relatives that were not their close family members.

So these people would be treated as the ordinary refugee who came to the base.

"What? No! I want to stay in the villa!" The young man, Joshua, immediately yelled and complained.

The other people who came along with them also frowned when they heard this.

Amelia glanced at the soldier.

"We have made inquiry to your relatives and they all requested for you to stay in the apartment area," the captain soldier said calmly. He felt that this kind of view might become the norm in the future, so he tried to get used to it.

Anyway, there were many people who didn't know what was good for them and only knew that if they screamed harder, there would be people who would follow their words.

As for face?

They didn't care at all.

Face couldn't be eaten anyway.

"No!"

"There must be mistake!"

"What are you doing, ah..."

Bang!

A gun was shot on the sky and the captain soldier was already tired. "If you don't wish to follow the procedure and rules here, you're welcome to leave. The base is not lacking people like you at all."

They all shut up.

When the guns have been used, they knew that the soldiers were serious and those who dared to make trouble would be kicked out of the base.

These people looked at each other and could only follow the soldier unwillingly.

"When my husband come, he'll come to you," Valeria's mother said harshly. She couldn't stand this kind of treatment and felt that they should have gotten the best. Her husband is the brother of Mr. Jones, so how could they were not even given proper treatment?

Valeria's mother couldn't accept this.

"Even if he come, nothing will change," Amelia said lightly.

In the face of her annoying cousin and aunt, she has always been very tough. None of her other siblings could compare to her in terms of her direct methods of refusal when facing them.

"Damn girl!"

"If you continue cursing, I don't mind asking them to kick you out," Amelia added.

"Mother," Valeria quickly called out. She knew that her mother was not exactly someone who would follow the rules. For her to be able to get married to her father from her family background, it was not easy.

Now that they were already in the base, they shouldn't make more troubles and then get kicked out.

How could they survive if they were outside the base?

The two of them were really weak and there were many magic beasts that would feast on them if they dared to step out of the base.

So no matter how unwilling Valeria's mother was, she knew that she had to shut up.

But this didn't mean that everything is over.

Valeria's mother looked at Amelia with hatred and then followed the others. From her looks, it was clear that when there was a chance, she would definitely fight back and make trouble to Amelia and the others.

"You should be careful in the future," Sophia reminded.

"Don't worry." Amelia waved her hand and said, "She wouldn't be able to do anything to me. Besides, I have long wanted to beat her up."

In the past, Amelia didn't dare to be so excessive because it was still the world ruled by law. There were still laws in the current time but it was no longer as strict as it used to be.

The chaos caused by the earthquake made many areas inaccessible and Valeria's mother's action alone had made many people annoyed.

Ruby and Sophie could only shake their heads bitterly. It was truly Amelia's style.

"Come on, let me introduce the rules of the base to you." Amelia grinned, not wanting to talk about this matter anymore.

"The rules are strict now?" Sophia asked.

The soldiers didn't say much about the situation at the base aside from the fact that they were not allowed to make trouble. Moreover, the matter of the contribution points had been made known and they could exchange their own resources for it. Of course, if they could do something for the base, the base would also accept it.

Ruby didn't have many things and the divided resources between her, Amelia, and Riya were mostly exchanged for contribution points for her to live. But aside from that, Ruby has been staying in the research institute and didn't really need these.

It was kept for the time being.

"Basically, the base is gathering resources and you can trade the resources you have from outside for the contribution point," Amelia said. "This system has only been made not long ago and..."

Bang!

Hearing the gunshots, everyone turned and found Joshua had taken out a gun at some point of time and shot one of the soldiers.

These people were stunned and then they saw Joshua aimed the gun in their direction.

"Get down!" Amelia yelled and brandished her sword while urging the counterattack spell.

Bang!

The bullet was shot in Amelia's direction and stopped a meter away from her, right at the shield.

"Ugh."

Feeling the mana consumed to block it, Amelia snorted but didn't make a move to get closer. The closer one to the gun, the higher the kinetic energy and the more mana Amelia would need to block it.

Even though the mana in the air had increased, Amelia was still a rank 1 magic warrior.

Her mana was not much.

Joshua looked at Amelia with hatred and then clicked the gun's trigger again and again, "Die!"

Bang! Bang! Bang! Peng!
