

Last Days 13

Chapter 13 News of the Outside World

Fourth Floor Block A Dormitory Group Chat

Pampered baby: Hey, we're all now trapped in the dormitory. <cry.jpg>

The prettiest girl: I'm not in the dormitory during the weekend but in the villa. Still, my parents are warning me not to come out at all because the outside world is very dangerous. <sigh.jpg>

The prettiest girl: To be honest, I think the outside world are exaggerating. This mist shouldn't be that dangerous and the cause of the sickness might be something else.

I want a red packet: It's better to be safe than sorry. I took a look at the corridor outside and it's also filled with the mist, so I didn't dare to come out. Ugh, who thought that staying in the dormitory in the weekend would be a good idea?

Pampered baby: QAQ classes will start again tomorrow, so many students come here in the weekend.

I want a red packet: Mel, I thought that you don't have any classes again as fourth year? <confused.jpg>

Pampered baby: I don't, but I'm running away from home. <baby embarrassed.jpg>

The prettiest girl: ...

I want a red packet: ...

I'm a baby: ...

Ruby: link to the shock brought by the mist, the hospitals are full for the entire night, many people are crying blood.

Ruby: I think that these pieces of news wouldn't be lying. Even if not everyone got sick, those who got contacted with the mist have higher chance of getting sick. The experts are analyzing the substance within the mist and will give more thorough analysis later on.

Ruby: With that in thought, you should pay caution in what you eat and drink. It's better to stay at home and didn't go out in the slightest bit. Also, try to boil the water before you drink it in case of contamination.

I'm a baby: As expected of Ruby, the best medical student in our dormitory floor.

I want a red packet: Ah, is the water dangerous? But I just drank from them...

I'm a baby: I think it's more important for you to think about how to get food without getting out first. Many people are staying at home today because of these massive reports. The number of people going to the hospital last night are overwhelming.

The prettiest girl: @I'm a baby, Victoria, I thought that you're not in the dormitory last night?

I'm a baby: I'm not. I'm at home, but even my parents are worried because the food at home can only last for four days of consumption.

I want a red packet: maybe the mist will disappear tomorrow?

I'm a baby: I hope so

I want a red packet: I have a lot of instant noodles, so I won't die out of starvation. At most, I will be busy with boiling water. Is the water really contaminated @Ruby?

Ruby: This is only my speculation because the mist covered everything, including the ground. Who can say for sure that the virus didn't enter the ground and might contaminate the water? For the sake of precaution, it's better for us to boil the water first.

I want a red packet: QAQ I'm lazy.

Ruby: @Little Soft, @the prettiest girl, don't forget to read the relevant news. It's important to protect yourself. I know that you're lazy to read it Sophia.

Pampered baby: Little Riya is sleeping. I'll tell her when she woke up. Anyway, isn't Sophia in your room, Ruby?

Ruby: Sophia is staying in the other room last night because she wanted to play game. I hated the noise she made when she played game all night, so she will not play here.

I want a red packet: ...you're a very serious person, Ruby

Ruby: She's a medical student and should have more awareness that she will be a doctor in the future....

Riya read the content and didn't know whether to laugh or cry. Ruby and Sophia were both medical students but they have an extremely contrasting personality.

It was unknown whether the university was taking example of her and Amelia who were very different, they also assigned the two medical students who have very different personality.

Ruby was very rigid and strict with herself.

Sophia was the complete opposite because she liked to play around.

The two of them stayed in the dormitory all day long except for classes but Riya was not close to either one of them.

Ruby was always busy with lab.

On the other hand, Sophia would always went to other dormitory to play some games.

She rarely came here unless she was so tired that all she wanted was to sleep.

When she was playing games, she was extremely noisy.

Also, there were only 6 people in the chat group. There was a separate group for the entire dormitory but Riya didn't check that chat group very often. In that chat group, their name would be the number of their room.
