

Last Days 136

Chapter 136 Cold Talisman (2)

After enough tickling Amelia, Riya went back to her room.

Amelia herself still laid on the sofa, not moving her body in the slightest bit. It could be said that the tickling session made her really tired.

She held the talisman paper in her hand and then laughed again.

'It's worth it~.'

Anyway, just being tickled a bit is nothing compared to the pain of having to endure the scorching temperature outside. There was already AC that was turned on all the time but it was far from enough.

Many people felt that the temperature was still too hot.

It was better when it was night time but on daytime, everyone just wanted to drink as much water as possible to maintain their body heat.

Riya went back to her room.

"Let's clean up the world first."

After locking the door, Riya went to her world and looked at her paper puppets that did their work and nodded her head in satisfaction. In this case, she could just stay on the back and enjoyed the result without having to personally take care of the farm.

Moreover, Riya was not exactly a farmer.

The knowledge to take care of these animals came from the books and Riya simply passed those to these paper puppets.

Since she would go again tomorrow, Riya decided not to make more paper puppets. Instead, she took some jade to make counterattack formation, defensive formation, and also attacking formation.

The fighting method of a rune master was very simple.

Either making runes on their own during battle or through the various formation and runes accumulated over the years.

In this way, there would be no lack of 'firepower.'

In that world, not many people dared to fight against rune master because they wouldn't know how many runes, talisman, magic scrolls, and formation that the rune master had prepared.

The higher the rank of a rune master, the more advanced formation that they could make.

Though, it didn't mean they were invincible.

Thinking about the time when she was surrounded by those high ranked magic warriors, magicians, and even warrior, Riya smiled bitterly. The battle for the treasure was very tragic and in order to escape, she could only run towards the chaotic area with the world treasure before being killed.

But it was also her fault.

Who made her covet this treasure?

'Time to work.'

Riya pushed the thoughts away from her mind and then started to make the formations. After it was done, she could pay a visit to her little tiger to see how he was doing.

"Ahh, brother!"

Amelia was unhappy when Samuel snatched the talisman paper from Amelia, who had fallen asleep in the living room. The cold talisman made her feel extremely comfortable, so Amelia couldn't help but sleep.

Samuel saw this and dark lines appeared on his forehead.

He had arranged for his sister and brother to work or train, but this girl was really lazy.

"How's your meditation today?" Samuel asked, his tone was stern.

"Ah... It's going well." Amelia looked away guiltily. She didn't remember anything about practicing and fell asleep for a long time.

Samuel: "..."

Sean, Amelia's younger brother, looked at his sister and felt that Amelia was really stupid. She kept on challenging their older brother and it seemed that without being taught a lesson, Amelia would never learn.

He sighed when he thought about this.

His sister seemed to be seeking death all the time.

"Do you think I don't know that you're being lazy again?" Samuel snorted and then pointed to the side.
"Meditate for an hour or I won't give this magic scroll back to you."

"Nooo!" When Amelia heard that her talisman was taken, she shouted unwillingly. Looking at Samuel's look, Amelia could only grit her teeth and started to meditate.

"You watch her." Samuel sighed and then handed the magic scroll to Sean who was standing on the side.
"After an hour, hand it back to her."

"Yes."

Sean held the cold talisman and felt really comfortable. He was staying outside to continue his work and didn't have much time to rest.

Now that he felt the effect of this cold talisman, Sean just wanted to lie down comfortably.

He looked at his sister speechlessly.

No wonder that Amelia could fall asleep in the living room and didn't stay holed up in her room. This talisman paper worked a thousand times better than their air conditioner. Even though the temperature was really hot outside, he felt that it was really cool right now.

Sean sighed and looked at the talisman paper unwillingly.

He had to return this to his sister later...

"Brother, where does this magic scroll come from?" Sean asked.

"It's from her friend," Samuel replied. "The runes could not only use the magic cores but also magic scrolls paper..."

Magic scrolls paper...

Samuel thought about those special paper that was made in that world and knew very well that those were by no means not an ordinary paper. But for their world to make talisman paper, they would need specific plants.

He was not entirely sure about what plants that could be used for this.

But without enough materials, it would be impossible for them to make magic scrolls at higher level.

Cold talisman or cold magic scroll that Riya made could only be categorized as rank 1 magic scroll, so ordinary paper could still hold the mana inside. While there would be more mana wasted due to the paper itself, but it was good enough.

But if they wanted to make higher ranked magic scrolls, the materials were highly needed.

He couldn't possibly let Riya use all the magic beasts' cores for everything.

It would be such a waste.

But for now, he could provide paper to Riya and let her make some cold talisman. In this hot temperature, it would be good if they could reduce the temperature to a certain degree.

As for the payment...

The contribution points alone didn't seem to be enough. He had to ask Riya about what she wanted.
