

Last Days 163

Chapter 163 Fearless!

It was a bit of pity for her close friends back then.

But Sophia also understood that she couldn't force the situation and had to accept this. Besides, it was not like she was suffering either. Aside from missing her previous friends, Sophia could accept them being separated like this when there was no common topic.

Besides, when they grew up, it was indeed hard to see their previous fiends.

Now that the world had changed like this, Sophia knew that someone like Riya would definitely stand at the top in the future.

At that time, would she remember her?

Sophia knew her talent was not very high.

She had tried training herself and her brother had to force himself to praise her, saying that she was good. But Sophia understood that her talent was actually really bad and it was hard for herself to reach this point.

What Sophia could do was to do her best and accepted whatever result for her in the future.

But she was a bit unwilling to lose contact with Riya and the others.

"Don't think too much." Riya patted Sophia's hand when she noticed the sadness in Sophia's eyes. While she didn't understand much why Sophia became so emotional, but Riya felt that it might be because she showed such strength.

Yes, she is more powerful than the others.

And Riya also knew that she would live much longer than the others, possibly leaving them all far behind while she stood at the forefront.

But no matter what, Riya didn't want to leave her friends so quickly.

"I'm not going anywhere anytime soon." Riya looked at Sophia seriously. "If you want to play with me or with Amelia, you can just come to Amelia's mansion. I'll be staying there during this period of time."

Sophia took a deep breath, smiled and nodded. "Ok."

The two girls talked a bit more about a few other things before Riya came back to Amelia's place. That night, Melly woke up and Sophia gave her a feast but she couldn't decide whether to make a contract with Melly or not.

Because Sophia didn't really want to bind Melly with her.

For the next two days, Riya stayed at Amelia's house to help the two siblings practiced. It could be said that their talent for mana control was not very good. If it was not because the two of them competed with each other, it was estimated that they would never finish this training.

Riya, who was watching over these two, also felt helpless when she saw this.

Their talents were a bit...

Well, even Riya didn't know how to say this.

She just felt that they would be better off as magic warriors rather than magicians. Otherwise, they would never be able to become a formal magician even after a year of training.

The mana concentration in this world had indeed increased but it was still far from that world.

Only Riya could enjoy much higher mana concentration thanks to her formation.

And just when the two siblings were training and Riya was making another talisman, there was commotion and a guard came to them.

"Mr. Samuel, Mr. Jones ask you to come to the gate," the guard said and bowed.

Because Samuel wanted to become stronger, he handed most of the affairs of the base to his father. Unless it was a problem that couldn't be solved by his father, Samuel would not interfere in the matter.

In the past two days, he was also training.

And watching his training... Riya felt that this man really didn't know the word 'tired' at all. He could still be energetic after carrying heavy load and practicing his sword for a long period of time.

If it was Riya...

She would throw a white flag highly.

Physical practice was indeed not for her.

Riya also didn't want to force herself to train her body because she knew that she couldn't bear it and her improvement was also very slow. It would be better for her to meditate and increase her mana.

"I'll go there." Samuel stood up and then glanced at Amelia, who was sneaking a look in his direction curiously. "You two don't have to come."

"I know, Brother."

"Yes, Brother."

Sean shook his head and then looked at the egg in front of him. He had no interest to go and join in the fun. It would be better for him to practice controlling his fire better and cook this egg in his hand.

For some reasons, his brother told him that he should try cooking the egg directly...

In this case, Sean didn't dare to let the fire hit the egg directly or it might crack the outer layer. So his progress has been very slow.

After Samuel got out, Amelia looked at Riya, who was writing on the table and there was a stack of cold talisman on her side. Riya went out for dinner and also wrote some talisman after asking for more paper from Samuel.

While Samuel felt that the previous paper was enough, Riya said that she wanted to write other talisman.

So Samuel handed over a large batch of paper for free.

This paper was basically worthless right now....

The talisman that Riya made was naturally not the cold talisman but other talisman that was also useful.

"Riya, let's take a look at the commotion?"

"I'm not really interested." Riya frowned and raised her head. She saw Amelia was looking at her with large puppy eyes.

Riya: "..."

She felt that her friend was getting more and more shameless. But at the same time, she also understood that Amelia was getting bored in the mansion without anything else to do. So she planned to go out and have some fun.

Anyway, the worst case scenario that could happen was that she would be beaten up by her brother.

She had been beaten up so many times that Amelia didn't think too much anymore!

So a bear child is fearless!
