

Last Days 174

Chapter 174 Is This Really Beast Tide? (2)

Of course, Riya didn't plan to tell them everything.

The main reason why instant magic existed was because these magicians had to catch up with the speed of these warrior and magic warriors to protect themselves and fought.

If they have to cast long chants every single time they fought... it was estimated that these magicians would have long extinct.

The long chants were only for the highest ranked and highest damage of magic. This would only be used when the magicians were well prepared and then cast the chants.

After that...

Boom.

Even the entire city could be destroyed.

Riya herself had some rune magic spell that required some time to make because of some reasons.

As for these simple magic spells.

Oh, even a split second was enough.

"How did you..." Amelia felt that Riya's spell casting speed was even faster than her. When she used the defensive counterattack magic, there was still a slight delay because she had to urge her mana and so on.

But Riya's magic spell...

It seemed instant.

"Practice," Riya said simply. She couldn't say that most of the runes magic spells that she had learned only needed her to form the runes, right? For Riya, who had drawn countless runes, making runes with her mana only required instant move from the tip of her finger and her control of mana.

Afterwards, the runes were formed and they could deal with the magic beasts in front of her.

"Oh." Amelia thought about the mana control training that Riya gave to her and felt that it should be the main reason for Riya's ability to quickly master the magic spells.

This made her feel a bit depressed.

It seemed that she had to train more after going back.

If Riya were to know what Amelia was thinking, she would tell the other party that mana control alone was not enough. A lot of practice of the spells would be required.

But that was for later.

Bang! Bang! Bang!

As time passed, the number of magic beasts around decreased sharply.

Samuel had already dealt with a few rank 2 magic beasts on the back of the pack and took their magic cores. The corpses would be dealt with by the soldiers.

"Can't you bring along their corpses too?" Mr. Jones looked at his son who returned with empty hands speechlessly.

Did his son read too much film and felt that his current action looked cool?

"...I don't have the proper tool," Samuel replied in a low voice. He glanced at Riya, who was staying not far from his sister and felt that he really should ask her for some space storage scroll. Otherwise, it would be difficult for him to move around and fight.

If he had to carry bags behind him... Samuel felt that it would be really inconvenient.

Mr. Jones looked at his son and rolled his eyes. "Don't blame me if those bodies are broken when retrieved."

"I think it's the researchers who will complain."

Mr. Jones: "... " that's true.

Samuel ignored his distressed father and then walked around the area. Seeing that only a handful of magic beasts were left and no more magic beasts coming, he didn't continue to make any move.

This magic beasts' tide was really small.

So that artifact should be either a growth artifact or it was limited by Murin's own power.

He was more inclined to the latter, though.

After all, the sword that came with him was in the same exact state with the time when he was still in that world.

But this meant that this would be best chance to kill Murin.

'But what if there are more magic beasts around Murin?'

Samuel sighed.

It could be said that both Samuel and Riya were worrying about the same thing. They knew Murin's famous name and if they were to make a move they were not sure of, their own cards would be exposed to the enemies.

Neither wanted to do that.

Bang!

"It's done." Riya looked at the scene and then asked, "Amelia, do you know the direction towards the base where that Mile guy come from?"

"Huh?" Amelia looked confused for a moment and then said, "Oh, you mean the Business District's Base? I'll show you on the map."

After that, Amelia cleaned her sword and sheathe it back before taking out her phone and tried her best to find City A map. To be honest, this map was outdated. It was the map before the entire City A was destroyed by the large earthquake.

But it was enough to show the location on the map because Riya was not that blind either.

"It's here." Amelia found the location and pointed it on the map.

"There..." Riya saw the location and estimated how fast it would take for the people from the Magic Association to reach the Business District's Base. From what she knew, these people still needed car and so on.

So... it would take a few hours.

"I'll go now."

"Eh?" Amelia was stunned. "What do you want to do?"

"Deal with them," Riya replied calmly.

"Why do you want to do that?"

"Because they're not going to let you go either," Riya replied calmly. She had seen the hostility shown by the people from Magic Association, so it was estimated that the Magic Association wanted to stand against the officials.

With them attacking Samuel openly like that, it was the same as declaring war with them.

But would the officials be willing to help them?

Riya doubted it.

She knew very well that Samuel couldn't represent the officials and it might only involve City A base.

Riya didn't have a strong sense of belonging towards City A Base.

But she would stay here for the next few years.

Moreover, her friends were here.

So she would not let those who wanted to destroy the city exist. Before they could make any other moves to destroy City A Base, she would deal with them first.
