

Last Days 192

Chapter 192 RUN!

Samuel saw Riya's gesture and arched his eyebrows.

There was a faint smile that he might not notice on the corner of his mouth.

After losing her temper for a while, Riya was able to calm down. At the very least, she was willing to talk to him again.

This was a good thing.

"I want to know what you find when you see that crack before," Samuel replied.

He didn't notice anything strange from the crack. As for the fact that the distance between the surface and this place was odd, Samuel had noticed it too before but didn't think too much about it.

When he looked at that crack, he didn't notice anything strange.

But Riya was able to notice the difference right away.

"The crack is narrowing," Riya replied calmly. "You might not notice it because you haven't entered the crack before. But if you had seen the size of the crack a few days ago, you'll know that the crack's size had decreased from before."

It's narrowing?

Samuel arched his eyebrows, pleasantly surprised by this matter.

If the crack could be closed in the end, wouldn't it mean that there wouldn't be any more magic beasts coming out from the cracks anymore?

This would be good thing for them.

"I know you're happy about it, but if you're inside when the crack is closed, you can't get out of this place," Riya reminded helplessly.

Besides...

"And, I don't think all cracks are closing. The previous crack didn't seem to be of any different from before."

Riya had seen a few cracks and the size of the cracks still looked pretty big in the place where they came here before.

Of course, this might be because Riya didn't enter through that one crack.

But she knew that the average size of the crack itself should be similar.

Samuel nodded.

This matter still needed the scientist to step forward and do detailed record or anything like that. Otherwise, they might not know anything and end up harming themselves.

Thinking about this, Samuel rubbed his head.

How should he report this...?

Riya didn't care what Samuel was thinking. For her, the matter of the crack was only temporary. Once she reached rank 5, she would make a teleportation formation somewhere on the surface and then make some of them in the crack directly.

In that way, it would not matter whether the crack was open or not.

"Anything else you want to ask?" Riya asked when she saw Samuel fell into deep thought.

She didn't want to stay here for a long time considering that the formation might start. After all, Riya had to break down the entire formation to find out the hidden settings and what she had seen so far was not enough.

These formations were engraved into the walls and connected thousands of kilometers away to the other pillars all over the world.

It would take her a long time to check.

Time she didn't have right now.

"How do you know it has something to do with... that place?" Samuel asked slowly.

"Because that's the only different place there is in this area," Riya replied. "If there's something strange with the crack, it might have some relationship with that place."

And it did have.

But Riya was not sure if that was all because she hadn't explored deep into the underground.

When she returned, she had to spend more time in her training to reach rank 5 as soon as possible.

The teleportation formation could be said to be her best confidence.

Because as long as she prepared the teleportation formation, she could basically make sure to escape when the situation turned for the worst.

As for being a coward?

Nonsense.

The most important thing is human's life.

She wouldn't want to fight a sure loss battle unless there was some kind of special circumstances involving it.

Samuel nodded. "Do you know those runes and formation?"

"I know some but not all," Riya replied. She did notice the interlocking formations there, but she was not entirely sure what kind of formation all of them were. After all, a large scale formation were usually a combination of several smaller formations and it was the combination of these formations that would show the real effect of the big formation.

If she only saw one part of the formations....

There were were possibilities and Riya didn't want to jump into conclusions so easily.

"Not all?" Samuel repeated with a frown.

Riya looked at Samuel as if she was looking at an idiot. "Don't you know that a big formation like that might contain several smaller formations interlocking together? Analyzing them couldn't be done right away."

"Why did you not take your time to study them?" Samuel asked again.

He could see that Riya should have her own methods to analyze those formations and so on.

"Because there's no time," Riya replied.

"Yes?"

"If the cracks continued to close, we'll have to find other cracks to get out. Besides, what kind of formation it is to cause so many corpses to disappear..."

Riya hadn't finished speaking when they felt the earth trembled.

Both of their expression changed as they looked to one of the interaction.

Boom!

Several large magic beasts came and looking at the imposing aura, both of them knew that these magic beasts were at least rank 3.

Dealing with these magic beasts were not a problem.

But from the way the ground shook, there might be endless magic beasts behind....

"Run!"

Swish! Slash! Slash!

Bang! Bang! Bang!

Countless sword slashes were made followed by countless magic spells rushing towards these magic beasts as both Riya and Samuel ran in the direction where the crack was located.

The death magic beasts' corpses directly entered Riya's space where time was frozen.

She had no time to care about them for the time being.

But she didn't want to leave these behind.

Of course, she would not be stupid enough to purposely wait for these magic beasts and just grabbed the nearest one.

Drap! Drap! Drap!
