

Last Days 195

Chapter 195 Magic Spells

Life type magic spells?

Riya thought about it for a moment and nodded. There wouldn't be any problem with her looking through the database of those two association that was made public.

If it was the one hidden...

Then sorry, she was not a member.

And Riya didn't know how to hack into the website. In her school, she mostly learned how to build program and not to infiltrate into website and so on. These two fields might sound similar but there were actually a lot of differences.

As Riya changed her sitting position, she took out her phone and checked the website of the two association. With her having all magic element, charging her phone was a very easy job.

"Hmm?"

Riya looked at the first row of the magic spell in the Martial Arts Association and her lips twitched.

"Light, light, please help me borrow your light. I need your help and you can see that I dance beautifully, so please let me spread the light and purify. I don't need much and only a little bit is enough for me to use. Thank you very much for your permissions, purification."

Riya: "..."

The hell?

Whoever made this magic spell should have known that this was not the official magic spells, right?

Riya looked at Samuel with difficulty. "Senior Samuel, are you using this magic spell when you purify the magic beast meat before?"

Samuel was silent.

He did use that magic spells but he didn't use the chant at all. Because he knew very well that the chants shouldn't be like that but Peter didn't know the real chant and he could only use that one.

No matter how embarrassing it is, they could only use it.

And it was also spread out.

Thankfully, many magic spells from the Magic Association also have outrageous chants that it balanced the people's heart.

They just thought that the chants should be like this.

"I use the mana fluctuation to imitate the magic spells' effect but I never actually use the chant," Samuel said slowly.

Use the mana fluctuation?

Riya nodded in understanding. For some people who had reached high rank and since Samuel used to be of high rank, his sensitivity towards mana was higher than others. This allowed him to have greater advantage when learning new magic. Through learning the mana fluctuation, he was able to learn the magic spells.

There was no need for him to use the magic chants.

Though, this method was not applicable for many people, so they have to start through using the chants.

Riya looked at the chant once more and her lips twitched.

"Did Amelia learn this magic spell?" Riya suddenly asked.

"Yes. She learned it."

Riya was silent and suddenly felt regretful. If she knew that Amelia was also learning this magic spell, she would stay in City A Base for a while longer and then record Amelia using this chant and then showed it to the other party.

It would be funny.

If Amelia were here, she would be scolding Riya for being a fake friend. Unfortunately, she didn't know Riya's plan or the two of them would have a long debate with each other.

"is there no other magic spell?" Riya asked.

She knew that there was purification spell, but she thought that it was the normal magic spell that she knew from that world.

After all, Samuel and many others came from that world...

Well, she had only seen Samuel, Peter, Murin, and that young lady from another family in the video. But just from the fact that these people were all quite nearby, Riya guessed that there should be more, spreading all over the world.

As for how many in total, Riya was not sure.

When these people were using the magic spell, they would only say purification and didn't say the chant, so Riya never realized that the chant was a bit embarrassing.

"I don't know any other purification magic spell," Samuel admitted with a wry smile.

Riya: "..."

You came from the family with one of the largest reserve of magic spells in the world and you can't even do basic purification magic?

The lower ranked purification spell can be learned even at low rank and the higher ranked purification that was more effective indeed needed them to learn more and Riya would not expect Samuel to know this.

"You..." Riya wanted to say that Samuel should have known but then closed her mouth.

Forget it.

Samuel was known as a sword magic warrior in that world. He might have focused his entire life to learn various swords type magic spells and also other magic spells related to combat.

As for other things...

Riya highly doubted that Samuel had learned them.

"I..." Samuel looked at Riya's look and felt a bit embarrassed. Well, it was indeed his fault for not learning those.

Though, if one were to ask about combat magic spells, Samuel did have plenty of them.

Riya silently took out a magic beast corpse from her space and then use her magic to cut it out. She held a large piece of magic beast' meat in her hand and the rest were thrown back to her space.

After that, she chanted, "I'm the messenger of light, borrowing the healing power to treat and expel the impurities in front of me. Lend me your light, purification."

The chants were indeed somewhat embarrassing, but it was nothing compared to the previous one.

There was a faint light on Riya's hand that fell on the piece of meat and then absorbed inside.

Riya held the piece of meat closer to Samuel so that he could see that it had changed and the magic spell worked.

Samuel looked at the piece of meat in Riya's hand, clearly sensing that the violent fluctuations of the mana had disappeared and it has become a completely edible piece of meat.

Samuel: "..."

The chant was really easy to remember and everyone could learn it so easily.

At this moment, Samuel felt that he was indeed very stupid not to learn this magic spell in the past.
