

Last Days 49

Chapter 49 The Past

It was not like Mr. Taylor didn't want to teach his daughter a lesson. But Riya had already gone against him once in the past when he beat her up through various means in order for her to make way for Ciera.

At that time, Riya was still young but because she was of similar age with Ciera, the two of them went to the school together.

Ciera is an ordinary student.

On the other hand, Riya is an excellent student who could easily ace her lessons without learning for a long time and had the time to learn about other things.

Comparison was tedious.

And with his wife watching from the side, Mr. Taylor also felt uncomfortable and tried to make Riya's lesson failing.

At first, it did happen.

Her results were going down.

But that was not the end.

Troubles followed and Riya continued to rebel. He used harder means but the case escalated until it alarmed the police officer.

Coupled with Riya's preparation and countless evidences that who knows where she could obtain it, Mr. Taylor had to compromise. If the child service was contacted again for the second time, it was estimated that his entire face would be lost.

This was the reason why he didn't hesitate to call for severance letter the moment Riya grew up and separated her account. Because he knew that Riya's deep scheming mind would be willing to hurt herself in order to destroy his family.

At such a young age, she was already very terrible.

Mr. Taylor did try to repair the relationship but the result was very terrible and nearly cost his own life.

Since then, he never dared to get close to Riya.

He felt that she was a maniac.

But because everything was done when Riya was under 14 years old, the law couldn't fault her for defending herself. At most, it could only send her for a few days of detention because she was a bit extreme.

For a child who was forced to go extreme... it didn't seem to be a big problem and only need some education.

On the other hand, the evidences were on his hands and if it was to be reported, he would be the one going to jail for more than several years.

Was it worth it?

Naturally not.

The two of them had been maintain the sense of coexistence for the past few years. Even though there were some skirmish here and there, it had never alarm the police officers again and Mr. Taylor also slowly let go of his fear of Riya's teenager day.

But the reality would not let him to actually come down.

"Will she be willing to sacrifice her future just for little trouble?" Mr. Taylor frowned. Now that Riya had become an adult, if she were to commit a crime, he would be able to send her away.

He called for the surveillance and felt headache.

it was not a crime.

At most, it was only making some troubles. The problem was that the surveillance clearly showed that Riya did nothing and the one who made trouble was Ciera.

"Stupid." Mr. Taylor sighed but he knew that his daughter didn't have good IQ from the very beginning. It was different from his son who inherited more of the cunningness of his grandfather and himself.

But making some trouble to the university... should be possible.

Mr. Taylor thought for a while and made a phone call.

At this time, Amelia had no other choice but to follow her brother home. She sulked in the car while Samuel was driving.

Ring! Ring!

"Yes?" Samuel answered the phone and frowned when he heard the content. After a while, he put it down and turned to look at his sister through the rearview mirror. "Did Riya get into trouble?"

"Hmm?" Amelia arched her eyebrows and nodded vehemently. "That b*tch Ciera is there and make trouble again for Little Riya. I'm not very clear about the exact detail, but you can check the surveillance. I believe that it'll tell clearly what happened."

Samuel arched his eyebrows and nodded. For some reason, he also believed in Riya. He asked for surveillance from Carson Family and looked at the video. In that video, Riya was keeping a distance from Ciera, who wanted to get close.

They talked to each other and the content was indeed quite biting.

It was clear that Riya's patience was running out.

She didn't want to deal with her step sister and her parents who never take care of her anymore.

"Taylor Family wants to block Riya's certificate. She had already finished her entire lesson and her certificate is ready but the Taylor Family didn't want her to get it." Samuel's eyes grew a shade colder.
