

Last Days 841

Chapter 841: Negotiation

While the two of them were by no means weak, but it would be difficult for them to deal with the magic beasts on their own. It was also because of this that they asked for help from Continent Z.

As for why it was not other continents...

Because all the available returnees were only in Continent Z.

"Reward distribution?" Samuel asked directly. He didn't mind going as long as they could get enough benefit.

Anyway, he and Riya were already planning to go into the crack soon.

Before the teleportation formation was opened and the location was told to them, it would be better to check the cracks first.

Besides, they still have to deal with the cracks and made arrangement.

No one knew how long they would be gone if they entered the passage to the other world.

But right now, they didn't know where the passage is or when it would open. But since the message said that it would be after the seventh person reached rank 7, it should be soon. They might be able to receive the message of the passage's opening sometime soon.

"Half," Mr. Jones replied.

Samuel arched his eyebrows.

Continent W was really willing to pay for the exploration into the crack.

Perhaps, they dared to do this because they knew that there would be more rank 7 magic beasts inside the cracks. There were already a lot of rank 7 magic beasts facing them sometime ago and they were already somewhat overwhelmed.

If there were more...

They wouldn't be able to handle it.

So the best solution that they could think of was to request help from other returnees who had reached rank 7.

Other people would still need a long time to reach rank 7, so they could only turn their heads to the other returnee from other continent.

No way.

There were only two returnees in Continent W.

And the two of them hadn't even reached rank 7 yet.

"When will Ruth and Jonas Nolan reached rank 7?" Samuel asked another question first.

If they were the main forces and these two people were waiting on the back... Samuel felt that it would not be fair in the slightest bit. The crack might 'belong' to Continent W because it was in their territory, but it was not like they couldn't enter by force or sneaking in.

After all, there were no rank 7 in Continent W.

The skills that they could master upon reaching rank 7 was not something that lower ranked magicians, magic warriors, and warriors could possibly handle at rank 6.

So if they really wanted to keep the distribution fair....

One of them had to reach rank 7.

"Their estimation is next week," Mr. Jones replied and then glanced at the laptop on the side. There was a video call ongoing with the representative from Continent W who wanted to ask for their help.

He didn't understand why they were in such a hurry, though.

After all, it was not like Samuel and Riya were going anywhere, right?

"Oh?" Samuel noticed his father's gaze and looked at the screen. "I don't think it'll be enough, Sir. Either increase our percentage or give us offer that we couldn't refuse."

"Jonas Nolan will be responsible to create several potions that can replenish your mana, recover injuries, and also increase your strength," the man said indifferently. He knew that the person in front of him is the black hearted Samuel, so he was prepared to negotiate.

But of course, they would never let Samuel push them too far.

They had a bottom line on how much they could accept giving to Samuel and Riya.

"I think we need to discuss the amount appropriately." Samuel heard this and knew that Continent W was basically trading resources for the two of them to step forward and basically be the 'bodyguard' of the people from Continent W.

Being a bodyguard is a very tiring job and Samuel didn't like it that much.

Riya listened from the side and simply sat down to wait. She believed in Samuel because she knew that he would not accept any losses.

So, the two of them started their negotiation mode.

Mr. Jones handed the front to his son and instead turned to look at the other generals on the scene. He moved away slightly to give space for Samuel and then talked with these people, "What do you think?"

"I think it's a good idea to get more resources, but it'll depend on Samuel and Riya's decision," the general replied without hesitation.

They do need more resources.

Even though they knew that Samuel and Riya will definitely take resources for themselves, but the two of them had already reached rank 7. For lower ranked materials that they found, they could simply hand it over to the bases or traded it with them for what they needed.

After all, what they needed was no longer the same as them.

Still, they knew that it wouldn't do them any good to force Samuel and Riya to listen to their opinion.

Because at the end of the day, the one who had to come forward and face those rank 7 magic beasts would be Samuel and Riya. So they would let these two people be the one to decide what they wanted to do.

"What do we need specifically?" Mr. Jones asked, wondering about this matter.

"What we need more is to lead more people out to kill the magic beasts. Otherwise, we'll only rely on the formation all the time." The general's expression was solemn when he mentioned this matter.

Not long ago, they fought against the magic beasts' tide and the general could see that many people's fighting skills were not on par with their ranks.

They needed more practice.

"This can be arranged." Mr. Jones nodded.

After that, they started to discuss about this matter in a low voice.

Riya, who was sitting on the side: "... I have become a total bystander in the entire discussion.

Chapter 842: Negotiation (2)

To be honest, Riya felt a bit helpless about her current position.

After all, she was not proficient in negotiation and it seemed that all she could do was to listen and wait for Samuel to finish.

Should she meditate?

But Riya felt that she would be labeled impolite and ignorant if she were to do it so openly and blatantly in front of other people. Besides, meditating required her to focus and couldn't be disturbed by others.

What if they called her when she was meditating?

Riya contemplated.

It seemed that she really couldn't do anything but to listen.

Thankfully, Samuel finished the negotiator and made the arrangement with the other party from Continent W. There was a list of resources agreement that they agreed with and Samuel showed it to Riya.

"Is there anything that you want to add?" Samuel asked.

The representative from Continent W: "..."

He had the feeling that if Riya were to say that there was something she wanted to add, Samuel would not hesitate and started another round of negotiation with him.

Why is he here to discuss business but ended up being fed with dog food?

The representative from Continent W fell into doubts.

Riya didn't pay attention to the representative from Continent W and instead looked at the list that Samuel gave to her. It was basically stating that the herbs resources would be given to Jonas Nolan but minerals and related resources had to be given to Samuel. The magic beasts corpses would belong to whoever found them and then if there were any formation inside, the formation plate had to be given to Riya.

And there were also other detailed distribution below.

Riya looked at it and felt that Samuel was truly worthy of his reputation as a black hearted businessman. Almost everything that they could possibly need were listed here and even if not all resources could be given to them, they had the favorable term.

She looked at the list before asking, "How about the special resources?"

"It'll fall on the same category as the ordinary resources, the distribution will be based on their type," Samuel replied without hesitation.

Neither he or Riya could use the plants and if Jonas Nolan could create some kind of useful potion, then he didn't mind handing the resources over to the other party. There were not many resources that could be swallowed or absorbed directly like those formation cores that they found before.

Even if there was some...

Samuel and Riya could just use the one in their respective crack.

It was unlikely that they would be given differential treatment.

There was no evidence for this, but their instinct was telling them so and they believed in it.

"Hmm, do I need to prepare additional magic scroll for the people in Continent W?" Riya asked another question.

After all, they might face rank 7 magic beasts and if the number was large, Riya and Samuel would not have time to care about the people who followed behind them.

"We'll buy them separately," The representative from Continent W quickly said when he heard their conversation.

What a joke.

If he dared to let Samuel negotiated the amount based on their current cooperation, he was sure that he would be slaughtered once again.

Samuel will definitely dare to do it.

He was absolutely sure of it.

"Alright, Uncle has the list for the price of every magic scrolls," Riya said with a shrug.

There were no other questions from her.

The representative from Continent W was silent.

He glanced at Mr. Jones, who had returned from communicating with the soldiers and other people on the side and felt that he was tricked. Because Mr. Jones said that everything would have to wait for Samuel and Riya to arrive.

Knowing Samuel's black bellied's nature... he already felt his heart hurt.

Now, he seemed to understand that even Mr. Jones was not any better.

"Mr. Jones, it seems that you have never said that there's a price list," The representative from Continent W said with dissatisfied tone.

"That's the internal price for the people in City A Base," Mr. Jones replied unhurriedly. "I'll give you the list later." After revision, that is.

Even though the last part of the sentence was not said, everyone present somehow understood what Mr. Jones was actually planning to do.

Riya: "..."

She felt that her future father in law was surprisingly very cunning, just like Samuel.

Though, she felt more amusement than anything else.

After all, she knew that they were fighting for their own benefits and was not willing to accept any subpar treatment or any less advantage. Though, Riya was sure that they knew proportion.

When to advance and to retreat in business was sometimes quite subtle and not everyone could catch it.

"I hope you wouldn't take too much time for that, Mr. Jones." The representative from Continent W snorted.

Mr. Jones kept a polite smile on the surface, not answering the other party's question in the slightest bit.

No matter what, he would not tell them what he was actually planning to do.

As for how much those things increased in price... he will naturally not cause trouble. And part of the additional benefits would also be given to Riya.

After all, she was the one who worked so hard.

"I'll be waiting." The representative from Continent W then closed the connection.

After all, he still has other things to do on his side. They have a lot of things that they needed to prepare after searching an agreement with Continent Z.

"Next is the one from Continent Y," Mr. Jones said and felt some headache when he thought about them.

"I don't think Continent Y will need us to help them explore the crack..." Samuel looked at Mr. Jones blankly. "There are two people who have reached rank 7 and presumably the last one wouldn't take that long either."

The last one is a magician, though, so Samuel was not entirely sure how fast she would be.

Chapter 843: Ami

After all, the mana concentration on the Green planet definitely couldn't possibly be compared to that world.

It was still far from comparable.

"Yes, there are two returnees who have reached rank 7, but they said that none of them are willing to cooperate with them... the higher ups are more in favor of ignoring them but there are a small part who hopes that you can come to them and exchange resources," Mr. Jones replied.

Samuel could see that the call was not connected like the one from Continent W before, so the negotiation was most likely almost a big failure.

But even then...

It wouldn't be that easy to completely disregard Continent Y.

"I only know that there are two people who have advanced to rank 7... Can you tell me their situation?"
Riya asked curiously.

When one advanced to rank 7, there would be mana fluctuation in the air. Riya and Samuel might be busy fighting with those magic beasts, but they were not blind.

They could sense the mana fluctuation that basically affect the air from a distance away.

Later on, it was basically confirmed one by one that there were many returnees who have advanced to rank 7.

"About Continent Y..." the representative had a black face, not knowing how he should explain about the situation of the three returnees.

...

Continent Y some time ago

After the magic beasts' outbreak, Continent Y could be said to be the only place that didn't solve it completely. The other continents managed to curb these magic beasts to stop them from killing and destroying the land to an extent.

Even if it was not perfect, there was no danger of them dying at any moment like the people in Continent Y.

There were also enough soldiers who will step forward to handle the matter of the crack and send people to guard them. There were many people who were working hard and many of them managed to survive for a long time, so they were not that weak.

Besides, there were still training that Nalan and Navi gave to their government during the time they cooperated with each other.

Coupled with the large amount of resources they managed to get, there were still some people who managed to reach rank 5 as warrior.

These people could still fight against these magic beasts for a period of time.

But then again, their number was limited and it was impossible to protect the entire large area of Continent Y. Thankfully, they still have enough weapons that they developed in conjunction with mana, which partially suppress these magic beasts.

Later on, they found out something interesting.

These magic beasts would only be active around the areas where the returnees were present.

So as long as the three returnees were not close to them, they didn't have to worry about these rank 7 magic beasts coming over. After all, the force power of these rank 7 magic beasts were not something that they could withstand.

They were not strong enough.

So let these returnees be the one to face these rank 7 magic beasts instead of them.

Anyway, their relationship with the returnees could be said to have almost broken down completely.

They also found out the location where Ami was located.

No way.

A large number of rank 7 magic beasts were surrounding that place and Ami couldn't move even if she wanted to. It was only because she was in the soul state that these rank 7 magic beasts couldn't hurt her.

But she couldn't walk around either!

Because if they passed by their bodies, Ami would still feel restriction.

After all, her soul state was somewhat special because she could still touch solid matters, which naturally also included living beings.

These rank 7 magic beasts were all eager to tear her apart.

So when Ami got close to them, they would rush forward at the fastest speed possible and try to tear her apart.

Now, Ami was basically hiding.

Her face was dark.

"I have already advanced to rank 7 and now these rank 7 magic beasts are stopping me?" Ami looked at the rock that blocked these rank 7 magic beasts and knew that it wouldn't last that long.

The main reason why she was still here was because her physical body was stored in this cave.

When she faked her death before, she acted a full set.

She fought hard with the magic beasts and when they couldn't see her, she slipped among the magic beasts to find this relatively secure place. After adding some defensive magic to the things here, Ami now felt much better.

At the very least, these rank 7 magic beasts wouldn't be able to get close so easily.

And since she had advanced to rank 7, it should be easy, right?

But who would expect that these rank 7 magic beasts would crowd around the entrance and kept on attacking. If it was not because she used her magic to strengthen the rock that blocked the cave, these rank 7 magic beasts would have long swarmed in.

Ami's face was really bad.

"Damn it!"

It was only now that Ami felt how annoying it is to have to do everything by herself.

There were so many magic beasts in front of her and Ami knew very well that she was not strong enough to deal with so many rank 7 magic beasts on her own.

She needed help.

So her gaze moved towards her phone in her pocket. It hasn't been charged for around a year's time since Ami has been in the soul state for a long time. Her body was basically frozen in time with special magic that she learned.

Soul magician was indeed the most special magician in that world.

To be able to become soul magician, there was a great price to pay.

But compared to being unable to learn magic and had to be an ordinary person for her entire life... Ami felt that being a soul magician was really good.

Chapter 844: Ami (2)

Beep! Beep!

Using mana to charge her phone, Ami called the government and asked for help.

It was just....

"Miss Ami, you choose to abandon the country even when things are not very difficult and refused to help us, why should we help you at this time?"

The officials were pissed off when they found out that Ami was still alive.

This soul magician was once said to be the kindest returnees among all the returnees who came back. Because many other returnees were usually very demanding and asked for a lot of things from their respective government or association behind them.

What Ami needed was special.

She only needed these people to kill magic beasts in front of her so that she could absorb their 'soul.' It was actually more appropriate to say that she was absorbing their mana upon their death, but Ami didn't explain too clearly.

So in a way, she looked like she was easier to satisfy among the other returnees.

In the beginning, she did make many people like her.

Such an easy to please returnee was something that they couldn't imagine to dream at all before.

Just looking at Nalan and Navi had already told them how annoying these returnees could be. Each and every single one of them have their own demands and this made the officials from all continents very busy.

Continent Z could be said the one who 'suffered' the most.

There were a total 5 returnees in their territory alone.

Each and every single one of these returnees definitely will ask for something in return for the knowledge and resourced they handed over. Even though they might pay attention to the severity of their actions, but they would never refuse the resources given to them.

If anything, they would try to ask for more whenever it was possible.

So the officials were used to these returnees asking for things.

They both loved and hated these returnees for these reasons. After all, they could get some things that they could never obtain normally through these returnees.

Yet at the time, they had to pay a huge price to obtain it.

"What do you want?" Ami sneered.

For people in Continent Y, profit is above everything else.

She had lived in this continent for a long time and knew how selfish those people were. The officials were drinking and eating to their fill while the people below were living in a life full of hardship.

They were unable to do anything due to the huge disparity in social status and power.

Even if they wanted to protest, no one would listen to them.

She didn't have any sense of belonging to Continent Y. For her entire life, she was working hard like a dog at the bottom, so she felt no remorse when she saw them suffer under the attack of these magic beasts.

Yes.

She could still see what happened outside after becoming a soul body.

No one could see her and she couldn't really roam too far away from her body nor could she stay outside for that long, but she still watched as these people suffered the attack of various magic beasts.

Those people who used to be lofty and arrogant were screaming in fear.

When the entire base fell, who would have time to protect them?

Everyone had to run away for themselves and no one would care about other people who were not important to them.

There were even a lot of so called family members who staged betrayal on the spot.

Throwing away their wife, husband, children, or even parents were something that Ami had seen a lot.

This is human's selfishness at its peak.

She watched everything happening indifferently.

When faced with their own survival, they would definitely prioritize their own lives and didn't care about others.

Now that the officials were asking this...

They wanted something.

"Work for us," the man on the other side of the phone said indifferently.

"You're kidding me." Ami sneered.

How could she be willing to sell herself to the nation? Even from the very beginning, it was nothing more than cooperation with each other.

In the first place, she also never sold herself to the nation and instead cooperated with them to a certain extent.

That was why Ami could easily fake her death.

If she worked for the official fully, she was absolutely sure that they would definitely watch her closely and never allow her to stay far away from them. As a magician, her physical body has always been her weakness, which was why Ami didn't want to appear in front of others if it was possible.

Now that she had reached rank 7, she could finally refine her soul.

But with so many rank 7 magic beasts out there, Ami wouldn't have the time to do anything.

"You have a track record, Miss Ami and you're the one who asks us for help." The man's voice was very calm.

They knew that if they didn't set up any restriction whatsoever, these returnees would keep on trampling on their dignity and did everything on their own. Not long ago, Nalan and Navi's action of abandoning the base had already crossed the line in their heart.

They didn't want to repeat such a thing.

Even if these returnees were indeed powerful, but they didn't want to be the 'slaves' of these people.

Using it when they need it and then abandoning after they no longer need it.

Heh.

Do these people think that they have no backbone at all?

In any case, the officials had come to an agreement together that they would never agree to whatever Ami requested them to do.

Even if it was Nalan and Navi who called, they would not agree to their conditions either.

"Good, very good." Ami gnashed her teeth and hung up the phone.

Seeing so many rank 7 magic beasts were still outside, Ami actually felt headache.

But she didn't want to be slaves either.

So she only have one option.

Fight to their death!

Chapter 845: Confrontation

Thud! Thud! Thud!

Countless rank 7 magic beasts suddenly fell down, their breathing was gone and then their bodies were trampled upon by other rank 7 magic beasts behind them. These rank 7 magic beasts only went on instinct and didn't have any thinking whatsoever.

But they were still much stronger and knew how to use tactics.

Could that be considered above instincts?

They were not entirely sure.

But these rank 7 magic beasts had their strength and ability appropriately reduced. Otherwise, newly advanced rank 7 magician or warriors would never be able to deal with them.

There were naturally some exceptions.

But even a genius would find it hard to face a lot of rank 7 magic beasts when they had only advanced to rank 7.

Inside the cave, Ami's eyes flickered with blue light and the mana from these dead rank 7 magic beasts was sucked into her soul body. She felt warm and comfortable all over, but it was barely enough to support her magic spells' consumption.

Rank 7 magic spell required a lot of mana and as a newly advanced rank 7 soul magician, Ami's mana was still very limited.

"I can do this..." Ami muttered to herself, her eyes flashed with ruthlessness.

Her intention of faking death in the beginning was nothing more than to take advantage of other people. After all, her attack skills were not very high before reaching rank 7 because of her own limitation.

After reaching rank 7, while her ability had improved, it was not to the extent where she could deal with so many rank 7 magic beasts.

But now, she had no choice.

Every time these rank 7 magic beasts, she would cast the same spell, attacking straight to their soul.

Countless rank 7 magic beasts fell down immediately and then trampled to death by the other rank 7 magic beasts behind them.

Again and again.

It took hours for Ami to finish everything and by then, she was soaked in sweat and slumped on the ground.

Seeing that her soul body was fading away, Ami knew that her time was up.

"I have to do soul fusion in advance... it's really annoying."

Whoever arranged for these rank 7 magic beasts to target these returnees seemed to be thinking of making their lives difficult and miserable.

Just thinking about how many rank 7 magic beasts he had to face not long ago...

Ami wanted to vomit blood.

"Forget it."

When she come out and become invincible.... She would be able to look down on the whole world.

She couldn't wait for that.

...

Not far from the place where Ami was located, Nalan and Navi were not in good condition either.

After Nalan managed to advance to rank 7, these rank 7 magic beasts suddenly become crazy and rushed over in their direction. The newly advanced guardian warrior Nalan had to step forward and used his large shield to block these rank 7 magic beasts' advance.

"Damn it! Can't these stupid magic beasts target other people instead?" Navi cursed in a low voice when she saw these magic beasts rushing over.

Her mana was running low from killing so many rank 7 magic beasts.

After all, Nalan might be a rank 7 guardian warrior, but his attack power was relatively lower.

Even she could kill rank 7 magic beasts faster than Nalan.

The requirement was naturally if she consumed a lot of mana to deal with these rank 7 magic beasts.

"Use elemental explosion," Nalan said.

"Are you sure?" Navi frowned.

Elemental explosion was the highest magic spell that she could use at rank 6 and the power was comparable to ordinary rank 7 magic spells.

While it was true that even rank 7 magic beasts would be killed through this magic spell, but it consumed so much mana and Navi didn't dare to use it easily. She had already used it once some time ago.

At that time, they managed to kill a lot of rank 7 magic beasts and Nalan finished his promotion.

The two of them ran away for a period of time.

And then these rank 7 magic beasts came to chase after them, even more frantic and crazy than before, making the two people felt like they were going crazy.

Before they knew it, they were already surrounded by these rank 7 magic beasts once more.

"Yes." Nalan's eyes were firm.

"Then you hold them back first." Navi took out the magic cores that she had collected before and then casted magic spell to let the mana out. Even though this method of mana replenishment was a bit crude and might cause damage, as long as they didn't the mana long in their body, it would be fine.

Moreover, five element explosion was a special magic spell that basically combined the elements of the world.

The elements were combined together.

And through the chain reaction of these elements, an explosion would occur and destroy the entire world.

The power alone was comparable to that of a nuclear weapon and also much more effective when dealing with these rank 7 magic beasts.

"Got it," Nalan replied calmly.

The two of them had supported each other for a long time, so he knew what Navi wanted to do.

Holding his shield at the front, he looked at the countless rank 7 magic beasts in front of him coldly. They were annoying.

Why does whoever sent them to that world even arranged for these rank 7 magic beasts to come?

Is he or she want to destroy the whole world instead?

Nalan didn't understand.

But it didn't matter.

He just needed to kill the enemies standing in front of him through his cooperation with Navi.

"The world is round, earth supplemented with water, blooming with vitality and kept the world intact, the sun shine and burned the ground, providing the energy for the metals to change its form and return to earth," Navi chanted, her voice was light and calm. She looked at the rank 7 magic beasts outside Nalan's shield with piercing coldness.

roar!

Boom!

"Elemental explosion," Navi smiled.

Chapter 846: Confrontation (2)

BOOM!

Large explosion occurred, nearly destroying the entire city.

Both Nalan and Navi were fine as they were protected within Nalan's shield and Navi didn't really target themselves.

The good thing about the five element explosion was the fact that there would be a safe place in the middle where the caster was located. Whoever created this magic spell was truly a genius.

It was a destructive magic spell that destroyed everyone but those around her, which was perfect to kill a lot of enemies when they were trapped.

Through the history book, Navi knew that the elemental explosion was a magic spell created during an emergency.

It was created by a genius magician of the tower where Navi was learning magic in that world. At that time, the world was facing great magic beasts' tide and countless people died. The defense line was breached and countless people died.

The genius magician had to watch as his friends and comrades stood in front of him, protecting him with their entire life.

Because he's their pillar.

He had to live.

Unfortunately, these magic beasts kept chasing after him and destroyed the city that they should have protected.

At that time, the genius magician thought that if he was going to die, he wanted to kill as many magic beasts as possible.

Even if the entire world is to be destroyed as the result, why not?

So the first elemental explosion magic spell was born.

At that time, the magic spell was still out of control and put a lot of load on his body, putting him in injured state. It was reserve people from the tower who found him injured with countless magic beasts' corpses all over the place.

This incident became a legend.

But perhaps for that genius magician, he would rather not learn a powerful magic spell if it had to cost him almost everyone he knew in his entire life.

Later on, he became the vice head of the tower for a period of time before disappearing into seclusion and no one knew where he is anymore. And elemental explosion has become a very special m magic spell in the tower.

Only people who have certain qualification was allowed to learn this magic spell.

Navi worked hard for a long time in order to get the qualification to learn this magic spell that would allow her to kill countless people or magic beasts in an instant. And the safe place in the middle was something that was added later on.

Otherwise, they would also kill themselves with this magic spell.

Swish!

Seeing countless rank 7 magic beasts and weaker magic beasts fell down, Nalan nodded in satisfaction. "Beautiful."

Navi smiled and stretched her hand. "This is the most useful magic spell that I have learned, but the burden to the body is not small..."

She used two five elemental explosion in just a short period of time. It was estimated that she wouldn't be able to use it anytime soon unless she wanted to be seriously injured or even caused permanent scar.

Once she was too heavily injured, it might even damage her foundation and affect her chance of going to the peak in the future.

So Navi didn't plan to use it.

At least, let her take a long break or only used it again after she advanced to rank 7.

Otherwise, it was simply not worth it.

Nalan frowned. "Can you still hold on?"

Without Navi, his attack power was almost nonexistent. While he could still deal with these rank 7 magic beasts, but it would definitely take much longer than before. Even now, he was already exhausted from holding off so many rank 7 magic beasts.

If he had to fight for a much longer time...

Nalan didn't know whether it would be possible for him to hold on.

"I should be fine," Navi said without hesitation.

She didn't want Nalan to abandon her no matter what.

The two of them were similar as in they would never waste their time on unimportant people nor would they be willing to spend their time waiting for others to keep up or catch up with them.

If others couldn't keep up, then they would be abandoned.

It was as simple as that.

"Good. Let's go."

"Yes."

They didn't plan to contact the officials, so they had to leave on their own to travel around this continent. With so many rank 7 magic beasts chasing after them, it wouldn't be that easy either.

As they walked out, Navi would collect these rank 7 magic beasts' magic cores for her use.

Nalan didn't really need it, so he just get a few rank 7 magic beasts' corpses for them to eat. It might not be the most delicious food in the world, but they could make do with it as it contained more mana, which would be beneficial for him.

Many of these rank 7 magic beasts were destroyed beyond recognition, but those that was located further away still looked relatively intact.

Those that were relatively intact were what Nalan chose for their food.

"It's really miserable to be chased by these rank 7 magic beasts no matter where we go," Navi complained in a low voice.

Nalan arched his eyebrows. "Do you want to go there?"

"Hmm? The other world?" Navi frowned. "There will be too many danger over there and will it be possible for us to find other resources?"

"I don't know."

The message only said that it would grant them the teleportation formation to a completely different world, but there was no message to them about what kind of world it would be.

Nalan himself was not entirely sure.

"Let's wait later." Navi didn't really want to face rank 8 or above magic beasts. Before she could reach rank 7, her fighting power was still limited.

"Good."

Tep.

The two of them stopped on their track and looked at the somewhat illusory figure walking not far from them.

"Ami."

"Nalan and Navi."

Chapter 847: Accident?

From such a big Continent Y, how big is the chance for the three returnees to meet each other?

They all went their separate ways with no one bothering each other.

But after a while, they just found out that the other party was actually still standing in front of them.

It was truly strange.

"Why are you here?" Ami frowned when she looked at these two people. After being forced to fight against a lot of rank 7 magic beasts not long ago and then completed the fusion with her physical body, she was already in bad mood.

Now that she had physical body again, Ami will have to find some food to replenish her energy, so she was busy picking the rank 7 magic beasts' corpses that she killed last. Some of their species couldn't be eaten, but some others were edible and those were her targets.

"I should be the one asking this question to you." Navi sneered upon seeing Ami again. "You're not going to say that you accidentally bump into us, are you?"

"Otherwise?"

The two women didn't like each other.

Ami was envious of Navi's talent, which could use five elements so freely and unrestrainedly. Even in that world, she was so famous and many people adored Navi because of her ability.

She was a very famous genius.

On the other hand, a soul magician has never been a popular profession and even if there were some powerful soul magician, not many people would look up on her. Perhaps the main reason was because a soul magician's magic spell was usually invisible to the naked eyes.

They could only sense it through their perception and it was also not the most accurate one either.

Usually, only after they reached rank 7 would it be possible for them to sense a soul magician's attack. Below rank 7, their soul power was simply far from enough for them to be able to sense it.

So for most people below rank 7, receiving a soul attack meant direct death.

Some magic beasts were even capable of launching a soul attack too.

"Are you going to fight to death here?" Nalan interrupted when he saw these two people were about to attack.

Both of them were very strong and Nalan didn't want them to fight here. From his perception, there were many rank 7 magic beasts in the distance.

Moreover, he was absolutely sure that the government was still watching over them.

Presumably through the satellite or something like that.

And if these two people were to truly fight, it would never end up until one of them was injured and might even result in their deaths. Because these two people wouldn't be able to hold back in the slightest bit when facing the other party.

"Tsk." Navi frowned.

She might have Nalan to protect her, but even then, there were a lot of danger out here.

The two of them were planning on going on their own, so they have to be prepared to face a lot of dangers.

As for being with the government and so on...

It's impossible.

Navi didn't want to stay with them and she knew that it would be impossible for her to accept trusting those people.

They were not worth it.

"You can try," Ami said coldly.

Her bad mood after facing those rank 7 magic beasts were still very strong.

Besides, she could sense that Navi was only rank 6 and hadn't advanced to rank 7 yet, so her magic spells were still limited.

The two groups of people glared at each other.

In the end, they turned sideways and went to different direction, not wanting to bother with the other party in the slightest bit.

Both of them were returnees.

There were various methods that they could use when they were forced to a dead end and since both Nalan and Ami had reached rank 7, they knew that the real danger will come in a bit more than a year's time.

At that time, there would be more magic beasts coming over to Planet Green.

What if the entire world ended up destroyed?

They had to prepare their way out.

Those who survived until the great magic beasts' tide had already seen how these magic beasts could destroy an entire area on their own. Unless they wanted to do nothing when this matter was repeated, then they would have to prepare everything with all their might.

It wouldn't be easy.

"They didn't fight." The officials were naturally watching over these returnees' situation.

Putting aside the few destroyed bases, the other bases were well protected. There were no rank 7 magic beasts coming over to chase after them.

All of the rank 7 magic beasts were chasing after the returnees.

So when facing with the weaker magic beasts, they could still hold on with the powerful weapons in their hands.

Now that they saw these returnees meeting each other and then parted ways...

They understood that they have missed something.

...

Continent Z, City A Base

"They exchanged for the news that you received upon reaching rank 7 with some resources," Mr. Jones explained when he saw Samuel frowning after listening to the representative from Continent Y's words.

"Continent Y is too far away." Samuel shook his head. Even if he wanted to help them, Samuel felt that it would be impossible for him to go there and then fought with the magic beasts.

Besides, he was absolutely sure that what the representative from Continent Y truly wanted is actually Riya.

Because they wanted to seal the crack.

The rank 7 magic beasts might only chase after the returnees, but there were many other magic beasts that will still roam around Continent Y. Having more magic beasts meant that they could get more resources from killing them.

But what if they didn't have the ability to kill these magic beasts?

Then what awaited them would be nothing more than their own death.

"Mr. Samuel, what we want is not you but the rune master."

Chapter 848: I Don't Need It

Samuel's eyes flickered and he looked at the representative from Continent Y coldly. "I can represent the rune master and it's impossible to travel so far away."

"How about the teleportation formation?" the representative from Continent Y didn't want to give up.

Through scattered intelligence gathered over time, they managed to get a lot of valuable information. One of them was the fact that the rune master was capable of making teleportation formation.

This was actually not a secret.

The other returnees from Continent Y had already said that a really powerful rune master would be able to create teleportation formation. Through this teleportation formation, they can technically appear from various positions all over the world.

Even crossing to the other side of the planet was not impossible.

Riya frowned slightly and calculated the distance.

The Green Planet was really big and even traveling within Continent Z alone took a long time. Even if she could use teleportation formation, the mana used to travel such a long distance was not a joke.

She could use magic cores to replace the need for mana, though.

But...

"Will there be enough time?"

She still wanted to enter the crack and then they would pay a visit to Jonas Nolan from Continent W.

Once it was done, the passage might have been prepared for those who wanted to enter in advance.

Riya didn't know the exact time when the teleportation formation would be prepared, but she had a feeling that it wouldn't take that long. Because of that, she didn't really want to take so much job from others.

Yes, they could save more people like this.

But...

Is it her business?

Riya pursed her lips slightly as she rubbed her hand.

While she knew that it was possible for her to save more people if she went to Continent Y, she didn't want to put her own life in danger. She was not such a compassionate person who could abandon everything else just for the sake of saving people.

And she had the feeling that the representative from Continent Y had other plans by making them go to Continent Y.

"No." Samuel's face darkened slightly upon hearing Riya's question.

While the matter of time was indeed important, he could guess what the representative from Continent Y actually wanted to do.

Isn't it the same as Ruth before?

Detaining the returnees who come to their continent so that they couldn't go back. If it was not because of the pressure from Continent W, even Continent Z wanted to make sure Ruth stayed.

Unfortunately, it was not possible.

They have already sent her back some time ago so that she could help to defend Continent W from the magic beasts.

One crack has been sealed by Riya.

As for the other one, the military had already send people to kill the magic beasts that poured out of the crack. They were still able to handle it one way or another, ensuring that nothing bad would happen to the bases.

Because of the special profession of their returnees, most of the military still have to step forward for them.

"Don't be so stingy, Mr. Samuel." the representative from Continent Y sneered. "Think of the bigger picture. If Continent Y were to fall..."

"Then we'll seal all the land route towards Continent Y," Samuel said without hesitation.

The entire world was connected through land route and even though it was said that there were four continents, it was more like four government. How these government of continents were formed, it has an extremely long history and Samuel had no interest to repeat those things.

It was not important either way.

The most important thing is that the relationship between Continent Z and Continent Y were not that good.

Moreover, they couldn't trust the other party completely.

What if they wanted to use this chance to keep the returnee in their land and prevent them from going back?

You know, even the teleportation formation had its limitation.

Otherwise, Riya would not have died in that world.

He himself was not completely invincible and if he was heavily injured, it was still possible for him to die.

So Samuel didn't want Riya to take risks.

It was not worth it.

"You're such a heartless person..."

"Tell that to your own returnee. Since they decided that they can't even trust their own government, why do you put the blame on me?" Samuel shook his head. "We can't do this business and you don't have anything worthy of exchange with us..."

"Including the special magic core?"

Special magic core.

So far, special magic cores could only be found through the formation in the crack. Back then, there were a lot of incidents that happened around this matter that caused a lot of people's death.

Riya's eyes narrowed.

She had speculated based on the shape of the formation that the other half of the formations were in other continents. One of them should be in Continent W while the other one should be in between Continent X and Y.

Most of them were located in Continent Z and there were indeed more returnees in their areas.

So it wouldn't be surprising to find it.

While these special magic cores were indeed useful, neither Samuel or Riya needed it anymore. The few that Riya found when she and Samuel paid a visit to the crack were all given to their friends.

"I don't need it." Samuel spread his hand. "And if you can get special magic core, what makes you think that we can't get it."

The representative from Continent Y looked at Samuel coldly. "Meditation method for soul magician..."

"Soul magician, Guardian Warrior, and elemental magician... what makes you think that Continent Z didn't have enough meditation technique already?" Samuel retorted with disdainful expression.

Most meditation technique had long been spread out in that world.

Moreover, thanks to the other returnees exchanging various meditation techniques that they had heard but never practiced... people in Continent Z had more than 10 options!

Chapter 849: Reason

While the specific paths for these three professions might be somewhat interesting, Samuel didn't plan to change his job.

And he didn't know whether there will be other people who were interested in these three professions in Continent Z.

But even if there were some people who were interested...

He had no plan to exchange his and Riya's safety for the sake of buying some meditation information.

It's impossible.

"Soul magician's meditation technique will greatly increase your soul power. I don't think that it's something that you can possibly reject." the representative from Continent Y was confident.

He had heard from Nalan before that soul magician was a relatively special profession and that not many people pay attention to one's soul strength before reaching rank 7. Moreover, ordinary people didn't really have the qualification to increase their soul strength before reaching the specified rank.

"I don't need it. If you think that it's very precious, you can ask Ami for more details," Samuel said indifferently.

The meditation technique used by the soul magician was indeed a bit special because it could increase their soul power to a certain degree. But the main function of the meditation was still to increase their own mana.

It was just that they used a special kind of mana in order to advance their ranks faster.

The mana that could only be obtained from the dead...

Upon a magician or magic warrior's death, the mana in their body would disperse outside. It was hard to detect and not many people would bother paying attention to this kind of thing.

But this was something that does exist.

For soul magician, they targeted this special mana.

But because most people couldn't sense the difference in the mana, they ended up calling as soul power or something like that.

Otherwise, it would be impossible to call their profession as soul magician.

As for strengthening one's soul...

To be honest, all returnees have their own meditation technique that could increase their soul strength. This was because they had already advanced to rank 7 and naturally received appropriate meditation technique that could also strengthen their soul.

While the effect was not as obvious as the meditation from the soul magician, it was still very good and they didn't really need to practice other things given by other returnees.

Moreover, many practice required them to have foundation in specific areas.

If they rashly changed to some exercise without knowing the future development, it would be too foolish.

No returnee would make such a stupid mistake.

Each and every single one of them were definitely careful enough and would not put their own life in danger because of such an unreliable thing.

"What?" the representative from Continent Y was stunned. "How could it be?"

When he first asked the returnees on his side, they all told him that the soul power was something important for magicians.

Only warriors didn't pay that much attention because it was not their main focus. But it didn't mean that they could neglect it completely. If they faced a master who could use soul attack when they were stronger, it was estimated that they would die instantly without any ability to protect themselves.

It was also because of this that warrior would also have their own special training.

Samuel is a magic warrior, so he naturally understood the importance of the soul power very well.

How could he say that he didn't need it?

"You need to ask the returnees very clearly about this," Samuel said calmly, refusing to give out more information to the other party.

What a joke.

He had worked hard for a long time, how could he be willing to hand out everything that he had in his hand to others so easily?

As for the information...

Information is also a kind of resources and Samuel would not stupidly tell the representative from Continent Y more information than necessary. He still understood that sometimes, a war is won simply because they have more information compared to the other party.

So he would not tell them the truth.

The truth that all returnees have their own method to increase their own soul power, so the requirement that he wanted to use was useless.

Ami should know this.

But she purposely didn't tell the officials from Continent Y.

Reason?

Samuel didn't know, but he didn't want to meddle.

'If you're trying to use information to buy things from us, it wouldn't be that easy.' Riya was listening on the side and had a look of pity for the representative from Continent Y.

She knew very well that many information about that world and various exercises and so on were not that rare for Samuel.

With his family background and status...

How could he not know many things?

Even though some specific matter such as runes and formation things were still unknown to Samuel, but other general things like the meditation technique and common knowledge was definitely mastered by Samuel.

Riya was also taught a few things that she had misconception due to her unable to receive formal education from the very basic in that world.

The soul power is important.

But she and Samuel had already reached rank 7.

If what the representative from Continent Y wanted to sell is the meditation technique that could increase one's soul power rapidly before reaching rank 7, then they might still want to take a look.

Because these things were the treasure of some ancient or big family in that world.

Riya never had the qualification to take a look at it.

And Samuel's family also had it, but the level was not very good. This was because Samuel had already seen it and tried it out.

It was just that the technique was not suitable for him.

So he never forced himself to practice and simply planned to wait until he reached rank 7 before switching the meditation technique in order to train his soul strength further.

So the two of them never worry about this matter.

Chapter 850: Leaving

"What are you talking about? Explain..."

Toot! Toot!

Samuel directly clicked to hung up the call. He looked at his father calmly and said, "I and Riya will apply to leave the base for a while."

The negotiation with the Continent W was already done, so he didn't really have anything else to do.

As for Continent Y...

Forget it.

They couldn't even control their own returnee and was still thinking about taking advantage of other continent's returnees.

How shameless.

Even though Continent X also couldn't control their returnee and had to abandon one island, they were not shameless enough to run over and demanded Continent Z to help them.

Perhaps it was because they still have a new returnee who appeared.

Samuel was not entirely sure about their current condition, though.

After all, not all information will be exchanged with each other and they didn't have the time and means to observe in details.

"Now?" Mr. Jones was stunned.

"Yes. If I stay here any longer, I think you'll just drag me to work." Samuel's face was dark when he thought about this.

He and Riya didn't spend that much time in City A Base, but he felt that every single time would be filled with someone looking for them for some reasons. Either it would be the soldiers, his friend, or even his father.

Just like today.

Samuel felt that he seemed to be working for the continent and there was no break at all.

He had already reached rank 7.

Can't they be given more time to rest?

"That's a good idea," Riya murmured.

Clearly, Riya also saw that when they were in City A Base, they would be dragged to do various things one after another.

She didn't have the interest to play with these officials or even the military.

Before returning from that world, she was just an ordinary person. Someone who couldn't be more ordinary than others and didn't really have anything particularly remarkable. She was only living her life ordinarily, struggle to live and enjoy her ordinary life.

But then she was transported to a completely different world.

In that world, she had to struggle and fight for a few years, pushing herself to the limit in order to make sure that she would not die.

So what if she has some talent?

Any talent who hadn't grown up yet is useless.

She had to work hard in order to get stronger and finally becoming one of the 'geniuses' who stayed away from the limelight. Thankfully, there was no need for her to meet with those annoying people and she could stay hidden for as long as she wanted to.

Now after coming to this world, Riya also still didn't have any intention of cooperating with the continent unless necessary.

When it was time for her to deal with the magic beasts, Riya was still willing to raise her hand and helped to fight.

But she would not do it all the time.

People also had to learn to protect themselves.

The message stated that they were all selected amongst billions of people. They were selected to retain human's hope.

Not to be savior.

Or anything like that.

Perhaps whoever sent them to that world had long known that none of them were people who were willing to sacrifice themselves for the sake of others. They were selfish and cruel enough, which was why they could survive for so many years in that dangerous and cruel world.

If he, she, or it had chosen a righteous soldier instead, the journey might be even more bumpier than them because of the righteous heart.

None of the returnees came from the soldiers' background.

It was odd indeed, but it was the reality.

They were either from a big business family or came from a relatively ordinary or even an orphan who didn't have any parents.

They have different way of thinking from the soldiers.

When the continent truly needed them, they would still stand forward and help. The main reason is because they didn't want these magic beasts to destroy their home planet and turning the entire world into a desolate world.

But if they were asked to be at the frontier at all times...

They couldn't do it.

Many magicians and warriors were selfish people who pursued their own strength's improvement from the beginning until the very end.

It was naturally no different from Riya and Samuel who were also selfish people.

They didn't have the time and energy to care for the entire world.

"That... I didn't mean it." Mr. Jones coughed. "It's just that there are some things that need your help to solve."

"Father, just ignore the request of others if it will make City A Base in difficult situation."

"I know."

"And these two continents..."

"There are millions of people' lives on the stake at the very least," Mr. Jones said slowly and looked at his son. "Even if not all of them can be saved, I want to know if there's a way to help them that didn't cost much."

It was also because of this that he chose to call Samuel and Riya over to talk with Continent W's representative.

As for the representative from Continent Y...

It was just a bonus.

Mr. Jones never expected for the representative from Continent Y to be able to convince Samuel with his righteous and annoying attitude.

"You win, old man." Samuel sighed helplessly.

He felt that it was useless to argue with his father about this matter. Even when facing with those people who made trouble back then, Samuel was also the one who played the bad role.

Samuel could see that his father really couldn't bear to see so many people died.

City A Base was indeed a bit too safe.

There were no magic beasts that attack, so the people here could think about other things.

At this moment, Samuel felt he and Riya should leave or these people will never be able to grow.
