

The Life of A Billionaire's Wife

Chapter 20 Veronica Finds Out She's Pregnant

Matthew agreed to give Veronica five minutes, but he broke his promise.

This is too much!

When Veronica saw Matthew simply walk past her, she grabbed onto his arm. "Matthew Kings, I even let the thing about you sleeping with me go, so can you ask the expert team to treat my dad? I will pay you the surgery fee! I have money!"

Originally, she wanted to ask Matthew to give her a discount on the hospital processing fee, but that jerk was being so mean, so she had to give up on that thought for the time being.

Just three minutes ago, she even felt moved by Matthew's words when he said that he had gotten her a team of medical experts to treat her dad. At that time, she even thought that he was not too much of a sc*mbag and at least still had some conscience left in him.

Now it seemed that she had thought too highly of him.

As he was grabbed by Veronica, he stopped and turned around while staring at her with narrow and sharp eyes. Finally, his gaze fell on her neck, only to find that the necklace was too dazzling for its own good.

"You have money?" His handsome face was filled with a mocking smile. "Are you planning to sleep with Xavier Crawford? How much is he paying you for a night?"

For more than two months, he had arranged for someone to secretly supervise Veronica and her mobile phone, so he was very sure that she had never slept with Xavier.

But the conversations among the nurses in the hospital just now and the necklace on Veronica's neck were enough to show that she was in a relationship with Xavier.

"You!"

Veronica didn't expect Matthew's thoughts to be so dirty, so she snorted coldly and said, "You're right! Xavier gave me that money."

No one could tell where the anger came from, but she raised her neck to lift the beautiful necklace on her collarbone, and said to him casually, "This is the necklace

Xavier gave me—I am in a relationship with him. So, Young Master Matthew, please stay away from me. Otherwise, my boyfriend won't let you go.”

She immediately regretted her ‘showing off’ the moment after she said it.

Although admitting that her boyfriend was Xavier could make Matthew stop bugging her in the future, she knew that once she angered the man, she could kiss the chances of the group of experts treating her father goodbye.

A hint of coldness appeared in Matthew’s cold eyes. He raised his hand to lift her chin, rubbing his thumb against her skin. “I’m warning you: Stay away from Xavier Crawford. Otherwise, don’t blame me for being rude to you.”

“Wow, Young Master Matthew, you are so used to controlling everything in Bloomstead, so you think you can be unscrupulous just because you have money and power? You tell me to stay away from him, but I won’t.”

After all, she was not a girl who was willing to give in so easily and would only be more stubborn when met with someone as tough as herself. Therefore, her temperament was destined to clash violently with Matthew’s.

“Try me!”

The man leaned over and approached her. She could feel his faint breath on her face, which caused her to be a little uncomfortable from his forwardness. Looking from an outsider’s perspective, the way they stood so closely to each other seemed very ambiguous.

But the next moment, the man said, “If you let me find out again, I will break your leg.”

“You’re insane.” Veronica immediately felt that there was something wrong with Matthew. “If you don’t cure my dad, that’s fine. I can always transfer him to another hospital.” As she felt completely fed up with Matthew’s ridiculous threats, Veronica hated him to the core. “I’ll transfer him now.”

“Do you think you can escape from me?”

As Veronica listened to his words, she frowned. “Hmph, these are my legs. I can leave whenever I want and do whatever I want.”

Veronica’s behavior was completely out of Matthew’s control.

This out-of-control situation angered him.

He stepped forward, grabbed her by the collar, and said lightly, “You are pregnant with my child—do you think you can do whatever you want?”

Although Veronica didn't know anything, it had already been a month since Matthew decided to put a test on her.

Not only did she not take the initiative to find him, she even actively rejected his existence.

Matthew was sure that Veronica had zero interest in him, and that she had been working part-time for a month without any miscarriage.

At that point, he felt that it would be good for Veronica to give him a child.

After the child was born, he figured it'd be a good idea to give her a sum of money to leave so that she would not bother him.

Matthew made up his mind and planned to tell her the truth in the next two days—who knew that he would run into Xavier and her in the hospital.

He would never allow her to be with such trash like Xavier while she was pregnant with his child.

“What? Pregnant with your child? If you have problems with your head, go see a psychiatrist,” she reprimanded in exasperation. “Even if I was out of my mind, Matthew Kings, I would never be pregnant with your family's child in my life.”

Damn, does this woman really think that I can't sense the sarcasm in her words?

“Oh, is that so?” Instead of being angry, the man laughed. “Did you feel anything after the last miscarriage? Did your period come?”

He reminded her.

“I...”

Veronica was at a loss for words, and she looked at the man in front of her inexplicably, his questions echoing in her mind.

It was true that she really didn't feel anything from the last miscarriage.

Though she heard that miscarriage would hurt, why did she not feel a thing?

Moreover, she really didn't seem to get her period recently.

A few days ago, Veronica only thought that the abortion operation caused her menstrual cycle to be irregular, but as she heard what Matthew said...

Did she not undergo the operation at all that day?!

“Impossible. I took birth control pills yesterday.”

“Is the medicine white and oval, and has a slightly sour taste?”

“H-How did you know?”

“Because I ordered everyone from the Twilight Club to the Brocade Gardens.”

Matthew wasn't hiding it. His handsome face carried a faint smile, as if he was mocking Veronica's innocence.

Veronica shook her head like a rattle. “That's impossible... That's impossible! I-I don't have your child!”

“This is the hospital. We can always go for a check-up to know whether you're pregnant.”

“I don't believe you. This is the Saint Hospital opened by your family. Can't you just fabricate the results the way you see fit?”

“Well, it's not difficult to confirm anyway. Go to the clinic to buy some test strips, and you'll know after taking a test.”

“Impossible! You liar...”

Veronica muttered.

Though she said she didn't believe it, her mind was in shambles.

She said that she was going to transfer her parents to another hospital, but at that moment, she could only walk past Matthew and out of the hospital.

Soon, she rode on her motorcycle and went home.

On the way home, she saw a pharmacy and was going to buy some pregnancy test strips, but she began to wonder if Matthew had warned this pharmacy.

After all, she often used this route.

With that in mind, she simply turned the motorcycle around and went to a road she seldom traveled to, where she bought a few boxes of test strips from the two pharmacies there.

Immediately, she started the test when she got home.

Ten minutes later, a scream broke out from the toilet. "Matthew Kings, you beast... Sob, sob."

She looked at the five to six test strips placed in front of her; each of them had two bars on them, showing a positive result, indicating that she was indeed pregnant.

She cursed Matthew angrily.

However, she was still not reconciled with the result, so she went to a Chinese medicine clinic again and asked an old Chinese medicine doctor to help her diagnose, but the result came back as... pregnant.

With that, she walked out of the Chinese medicine clinic, walked down the street in despair, then sat on a bench and stared blankly ahead, as if she was frozen in time.

After she sat for some time, a car stopped in front of her. The door opened, and Matthew walked toward her step by step.