Limits 117

Chapter 117

In the end, the judges gave Nathaniel a score that allowed him to keep his dignity, but there was still a clear gap compared to Luca's score.

However, the battle for the championship wasn't just about the final performance. It was based on the total score from all the previous rounds. The final total score would determine who would claim the championship title.

In the tense moment of announcing the total score, viewers at home, both on TV and computer screens, clenched their fists, hearts racing with anticipation.

Isaac couldn't help but shout angrily from in front of the TV, "I swear, if Luca doesn't win, the music industry is truly doomed!"

Samuel silently prayed, beads of sweat forming on his palms.

Jack, however, remained unusually calm. To him, as long as Luca had given his best, the result didn't matter. From the moment Luca's final song stirred the crowd, it was clear he had already succeeded.

The camera shifted to the stage, where both finalists, Luca and Nathaniel, wore expressions filled with nervousness. They stared intently at the huge screen, waiting for the result.

The judges below the stage were also anxiously awaiting the final result.

Finally, the host lightened the atmosphere with a humorous remark and, with a steady tone, announced, "The judges of the Youth Vocal Showcase have determined its ultimate winner-the champion!

"Now, I announce that the winner is... Luca Hudson from Alnewgo University! Congratulations to him!"

The applause was thunderous, as if it might flip the entire venue over.

The camera switched to display the total score comparison, showing that Luca had narrowly won with a score of 108 to 107, edging out Nathaniel to claim the championship.

The result was incredibly close, almost to the point where Luca could have lost the competition with just a slight mistake.

In the footage, along with the congratulations to Luca, there were also some doubts and criticisms about the results. However, since Luca had ultimately won, these negative voices didn't dominate the conversation.

Instead, there were more well-wishes and affirmations for Luca. A rising star in the music industry was beginning to shine...

Back in the dorm, the applause was equally enthusiastic.

Jessica excitedly shouted, "Luca, I love you! You're really so handsome!"

Anya said with admiration, "He's really amazing, I totally admire him."

Miranda turned to Isaac and said, "Isaac, if you could have even half of Luca's abilities, I'd be completely satisfied."

Isaac awkwardly smiled, knowing that Miranda was joking.

Even Joshua and Ronnie felt the growing gap between them and Luca.

There would always be some geniuses who sprout wings and soar into the clouds, while ordinary people spend their entire lives trying and never catch up.

The camera shifted back to Luca and Nathaniel.

Luca was overjoyed. Winning the championship was undoubtedly the greatest recognition for him. But more importantly, the original song he had performed live had gone viral, and his future singing career was now wide open.

Nathaniel, on the other hand, looked like he had been struck down. But even after losing, he walked over and gave Luca a friendly hug.

The host then handed Luca the microphone to deliver his acceptance speech.

Luca took the microphone, his face glowing with excitement. He first thanked his parents, teachers, leaders, classmates, and the caretakers in the dorm.

But at the end, he specifically mentioned one person-someone who was crucial to him.

Standing on stage, Luca held the microphone and spoke emotionally.
