Limits 192

Chapter 192

The municipal government placed great importance on the summit, as the attendees were all prominent figures, including CEOs of various listed companies and influential financial investors. This summit would also have a profound influence on Alnewgo's future development.

Alnewgo's security and police departments were extremely cautious, as any mistakes could lead to serious consequences.

Jack was stopped by a plainclothes officer a few blocks away from the venue, and two security guards came forward and asked him to show his ID. When they saw Jack's young appearance and his ID card that stated he was Drakengard Games' CEO, a hint of surprise flashed in their eyes.

One of the officers happened to be an avid player of "Panzer Saga", a popular game developed by Drakengard Games. He excitedly pulled out a notepad and asked Jack for an autograph.

Jack gladly agreed to sign it. After that, he arrived at the entrance of the Imperial Hotel. A grand red carpet had already been laid out to welcome the numerous CEOS and chairpersons coming from afar.

On both sides of the entrance stood many beautiful hostesses. They had all been carefully chosen and were dressed in clothes that revealed their long and slender legs, radiating charm and beauty.

Among the hostesses, Jack unexpectedly spotted two familiar faces-Amelia and Queenie. He didn't expect to see them here as event hostesses.

Jack didn't know that Amelia and Queenie had put in a lot of effort to fit into the elite circles. They were hoping to meet more elites through this summit and perhaps even have a romantic encounter with a CEO.

This hosting opportunity was the perfect chance for them to make their dreams come true, and they were not disappointed.

Here, they had already met many of the influential figures that they had only ever seen on television, making them extremely excited.

The two of them even planned to find an opportunity to take photos with the honored guests after the welcome ceremony. Of course, it would be even better if they could have deeper interactions and develop something further with them.

Jack had no choice but to walk past Amelia and Queenie to enter the venue. In fact, he didn't particularly enjoy meeting them, but it was unavoidable at the moment.

Jack adjusted his collar and strode into the hotel when they weren't paying attention.

Amelia and Queenie smiled sweetly as they welcomed each guest enthusiastically.

When they spotted Jack walking into the hotel in his tailored suit, there was a flicker of surprise in their eyes.

In addition to being surprised at his formal attire, they were even more surprised to see him at such a prestigious event. However, they were aware that there were other events also taking place at the Imperial Hotel today, apart from the important IT summit.

Apparently, a well-known film crew was holding a launch party for their new TV series, and there were other organizations also stationed in the building. So, not everyone entering the building was necessarily there to attend the summit.

As she watched Jack walk further away, Queenie twirled the red ribbon in her hand and asked Amelia with a smile, "Did you see Jack just now?"

Amelia took a sip of water and nodded lightly.

They couldn't talk when they were welcoming the guests earlier, but now that they were on a break, they finally had the chance to exchange their thoughts.

Queenie smiled and said, "He actually looks quite dashing in a suit. Do you want to guess why he's here?"