Chapter 198

After saying that, Matthew grabbed the wine glass and left with the man in glasses.

It could be seen that Drakengard Games was in high demand in the investors circle as everyone wanted to invest in the company. It was just that not everyone was able to invest in them.

At that moment, Thomas asked curiously, "Who's Mr. Hamilton? Is he really that powerful?"

Ryan glanced at Thomas and said in a low voice, "You wouldn't know about this, but Patrick Hamilton is actually an alumnus of Alnewgo University. He just graduated this year. He founded Drakengard Games, which has released several big hits.

"He has not only made an appearance on the Alnewgo finance channel, but he's also the new favourite among the capital's tycoons. Apparently, they're currently developing a large-scale game and need funding, so..."

Ryan didn't finish his sentence, but Thomas and Mia already understood.

Although they didn't know Patrick, the up-and-coming company, Drakengard Games, had already gained a great reputation in the gaming industry. There was a widely known saying that any game released by Drakengard Games would surely be of high quality.

Considering Drakengard Games' current popularity and influence, gamers were full of expectations for the games released by them, and they were also willing to pay for the games.

Therefore, investing in Drakengard Games was basically a guaranteed win, and everyone wanted to invest in them to get a share of the profits.

No wonder Ryan was so eager to get involved.

But aside from wanting to get a share of the profits, Ryan was also desperate to establish a connection with Drakengard Games because of Ellen Games' current predicament.

He hoped that Ellen Games would be able to regain some momentum through a collaboration with Drakengard Games. Moreover, the company's connection with Drakengard Games would attract the attention of investors.

Suddenly, Mia's gaze fell on Jack, who was sitting alone in the corner nearby and eating some fruit. She frowned and muttered, "Why do I run into him everywhere? Is he a starving glutton? All he does is eat."

Thomas had also noticed Jack, and a look of disgust appeared on his face. "Just ignore him. He's as annoying as a fly."

Mia nodded and ignored Jack.

At that moment, Ryan was suddenly attracted by a confident young man ahead.

The young man looked arrogant, and he was surrounded by beautiful women, all of whom were busy fawning over him. It was obvious that he had an extraordinary identity.

Ryan's eyes lit up, and he quickly walked over with Thomas and Mia. He greeted the young man enthusiastically, "Hello, Mr. Mitchell. It's such an honor to meet you here!"

The young man was Jonathan Mitchell. He was the son of James Mitchell, the district governor of Alnewgo.

With his father's status, he could behave however he wanted. Moreover, Jonathan himself was also a wealthy investor. Naturally, people would go over and beyond to please him.

As Ryan approached him, Jonathan nodded slightly in greeting. He didn't even glance at Ryan, and there was a look of disdain on his face.

How could the CEO of a failing company actually have the nerve to approach Jonathan? He should just stay in his lane.

But Ryan didn't mind. Instead, he introduced Jonathan to Thomas and Mia even more enthusiastically.

When they heard that Jonathan was the son of the district governor, they immediately became more respectful. Mia, in particular, started batting her eyelashes at Jonathan. After all, if she could attract a wealthy man like him, she would be set for life.
