

LORD OF WAR

Chapter 14: .Future direction

The blade drew an arc in the air, and the light blue brilliance made this arc clearly reflected in everyone's sight.

Charles' saber.

A special-effect magic weapon that used to be a gold level, but now it has become a bronze-level micro-effect magic weapon due to the loss of magic power, but no matter how weak it is, it still cannot be changed. This is a magic weapon. fact.

is more than enough for the current situation.

After all, even if it is Du Luen, that set of equipment on his body is only a high-quality level. The equipment of other people is even worse, it's just excellent.

Of course, in the eyes of other people, these so-called equipment levels can only be simply judged whether they are good or bad. It is not like Sean, who can know the specific levels and related attributes of these equipment at a glance, but this is also thanks to it. I learned about the special ability of Sean's [True Eye] and his sufficient knowledge of the game "Miracle".

He still remembers that equipment can be roughly divided into four types: casting, demonization, legend, and artifact.

The equipment created by ordinary blacksmiths is basically ordinary equipment. This type of equipment is usually military-standard equipment; and if the equipment is built through some complicated processes, it is excellent equipment, and in a more powerful country. , The standard equipment used by the military is at this level, and in some countries with relatively weak strength, only those elite troops can use such equipment; as for high-quality equipment, the craftsmanship is naturally more than that of sophisticated equipment. It's complicated. The standard equipment used by the elite troops of those powerful countries is this level.

Although there are differences in quality, ordinary, sophisticated, and high-quality equipment are actually in nature—casting. And one level higher than this level is magic equipment. This type of equipment is made by special means. Only blacksmiths who know the mysterious skills can make it, and the premise must be very special. The matching of the materials will work.

According to the quality of the magic equipment, it can be divided into three levels: bronze, silver, and gold. According to the strength of the magic, it can also be divided into five stages of minor effect, weak effect, medium effect, strong effect, and special effect. The stronger the magic power attached to the demonized equipment, the stronger the power that the demonized equipment can exert. Basically, this type of equipment cannot be mass-produced at all, so even if you have money, you may not be able to get a bronze-level magic equipment.

As for silver and gold, it is not something money can handle.

So Shaun has a magic weapon in his hand, even if it is a low-effect bronze grade, it is enough to make Du Luen extremely jealous.

Here in the land of black soil, the effectiveness of this weapon is comparable to that of a divine weapon!

The long sword swung several trajectories in Xiao En's hands, just ordinary slashing and killing, but Xiao En showed it was full of an artistic treasure-like beauty. All the skeletons that besieged him were not his one-shot enemies, and they were scattered into skeletons before they even got close.

Any kind of undead creatures basically rely on soul fire to maintain their own alternative life. The vast majority of undead creatures have no wisdom at all. They just live in this world in a way similar to instinct. Perhaps they are eager for light and heat or because of some other reasons. Undead creatures. For any living species, it will attack instinctively, and then plunder its life energy to increase itself.

It's just that, even if it is a first-order undead creature like a skeleton, its bones are as hard as a sword. According to the knowledge on the Marvel Continent, undead creatures are inherently capable of surpassing human strength. Therefore, it is difficult for a person with ordinary first-order strength to deal with the same only first-order skeleton. Under normal circumstances, they rely on the strength of the rank to suppress and force. Defeat undead creatures, or rely on tacit understanding and clever cooperation to solve them.

Therefore, a Tier 3 capable person with outstanding strength like Du Luen and Old Peter or a tacit understanding like a guard will naturally not put the skeleton in his eyes, even the black warrior is not without the power of a battle. But even they are relying on their own strength to suppress and forcibly smash the skulls of the skeletons, and destroy the soul fire inside to solve these undead creatures. They simply can't do it by attacking the cervical spine and skull like Sean. Bone joints to kill skeletons.

Any species in this world will have corresponding weaknesses, even undead creatures.

The weakness of the skeleton lies in the first joint between the skull and the cervical spine. As long as this is destroyed, the skull's soul fire will naturally extinguish, which is far more efficient than the method of breaking the skull.

It's just that this method is not something that everyone can easily do, because although the skeletons are slightly slow, it does not mean that they are very rigid. Of course, they will protect their vital positions very well. With the inertia of movement and the protection of cautiousness, even someone like Du Luen who has fought against undead creatures may not be able to guarantee an accurate attack every time.

But...

Du Luen's gaze couldn't help but look at Sean.

I saw Sean waved the long sword in his hand and lightly opened the simple sword in the hand of the skeleton on his right side. Only in this way, he broke open the cautious defensive posture of the skeleton and directly exposed it. Flaws and empty doors. Naturally, Sean wouldn't let the opportunity like this one go. He stepped forward without hesitation. The long sword in his hand slammed forward. The tip of the sword pierced the bone joints easily, and his wrist was slightly deflected. Hearing only a very small "click" sound, when Sean pulled his sword back, the light red flame in the hollow eye sockets of this skull had been extinguished, and the whole head even fell off as a result, on the ground. Rolled a few times.

From the grid sword to the kill, Sean's entire set of actions are completed in one go, as if they have been tempered countless times, completing a kind of instinct.

The bones lying down on the ground at this moment can piece together at least 20 skeletons, of which more than ten were killed in the face of Sean. This shows how well Sean is dealing with these skeletons.

The battle did not last too long. The siege of a mere 30 skeletons couldn't stand the attacks of Sean and others. But Du Luen and Sean are very clear that although the strength of these skeletons is not very good, they appear in groups each time, ranging from a few dozen to as many as dozens. Although it is not obvious to everyone's physical exertion , But in the long run, it will accumulate into a very terrible variable.

In addition to the black soil, the constant attack of dark power has accelerated the consumption of everyone's energy and physical strength.

In just half a day, Sean and the others encountered a siege of skeletons approaching Qibo. Harley and Cecilia, who were physically weak, had already begun to become a little out of breath. The number and number of these skeletons appearing is much denser than that of Sean in the game at the beginning, and this is only in the outermost area. Sean is very clear about what the enemies are in the depths. Although both are undead creatures, they are by no means comparable to skeletons.

Of course, killing so many skeletons is not a benefit at all. At this time, Sean's level is already close to the critical point of level ten, and he is about to rise to level ten soon. And as long as you reach this level, you can not only advance to the second-tier occupation, but also get a long-awaited career reward, but this second-tier occupation has a prerequisite, then find an advanced career point.

Shaun's gaze stopped briefly on the guards and Du Luen.

There are many second-tier occupations that can be employed by first-tier [mercenaries]. Although there is no such thing as a hidden occupation in "Miracle", there are special ranks. Of course, there are many kinds of jobs. All kinds of requirements.

However, if it is only a general occupation, there are no such cumbersome requirements. As long as the player finds the right way and meets its relevant requirements, they can be employed. Of course, the more you go up, the more difficult it is to find a job. It's just that players are different from NPCs after all. The rules that limit NPCs do not exist for players. The only thing that limits players is how to find relevant progress. Rank career points.

But this is not a problem for Sean. The only thing he needs to consider now is how to develop his future career path.

Is the [Warrior] who chose the old path to move on?

Or at the same time part-time [Knight Apprentice] embarking on a new career path?

According to the situation in the previous game, if it's just a path to black, it will take shape very quickly, and it can display a strong combat effectiveness at a low level, but this kind of development will become performance after the fifth level. Pingping, and in order to deal with increasingly powerful monsters and enemies, he had to readjust his career development. This loss Sean did not eat less in the game at the beginning.

And if you start to take into account other aspects of development from the lower ranks, although the formation is very slow, it often takes the third or even fourth rank to start to exert combat effectiveness, but this type of employment can often become a special rank, and its combat effectiveness is more than General occupations are crushing. And as long as you plan well, you can basically continue to develop without hindrance, and you don't need to go back.

Of course, Sean would have this idea, but in fact, the world he lives in now is not a game world.

In the game, he is a player, and he is not afraid of any failure. Anyway, death is nothing more than loss of equipment and experience. But now that you are in the real world, everything is completely different. If you fail in this world, then it is very likely that you will pay the price of death, which makes Sean have to think carefully.

At present, Sean has no way to really make up his mind. In the final analysis, it is actually a problem with the rank of [Knight Apprentice]: as long as he asks Du Luen for related professional issues, he can naturally become a knight apprentice, but this is how he comes. It is basically bound to Du Luen. As long as Du Luen doesn't nod his head to express his permission, then he can only be Du Luen's [Knight Apprentice] for the rest of his life and cannot become an official [Knight]. This is where Sean hesitates.

You should know that this situation is not a joke, because in the game, a player offended his mentor. After that, he has been stuck in the profession of [Magic Apprentice] and cannot be transferred to [Magic]. Even had to delete the account and replay.

Sean doesn't want to be such a person, because in this world, there is no such thing as "cut off and retrain". ;