

LORD OF WAR

Chapter 15: .Desperate Survival

Night, a little deep.

Wind, a bit cold.

Except for a camp, there is nothing else in the wild plains. There are no bigger rocks around, let alone any obstacles blocking the line of sight. You can look at any place. Have a panoramic view of all the sights.

The campfire in the camp is still burning.

The temperature of the flame should be able to dissipate the cold of the night a little bit, but at this moment in this camp, it has no effect at all. It can even be said that the temperature inside this camp is actually lower than the temperature outside the camp.

But if someone approaches this camp, you can smell the extremely strong * smell emanating from the camp.

At this moment, in the camp, a dozen or so men wearing black heavy armor walked out of different camps, and the halberd and blood in their hands were dripping continuously. However, these people obviously don't take it seriously at all. Their faces without helmets are very cold. No matter how many people they kill, they can't shake the minds of these people at all. Obviously, this is a group of real killing machines.

"How?" Seeing these people return, a man standing in the middle of the camp asked in a deep voice.

Although the heavy armor on his body is the same as that of the others, he has an extra scarlet cloak, and his class is obviously higher than the others.

If Sean or Du Luen were here, he would definitely be able to easily recognize the origin of this man with a scarlet cloak.

Heavy armor knight.

Special Tier 3 advanced class unique to the Kingdom of Portoroa. This profession has very cumbersome job requirements-whether it is an NPC or a player in the original game, it is very troublesome to find a job. However, once you are successful, you will have qualifications comparable to those of general Tier 4 occupations—in fact, any special rank has the strength to overwhelm the general rank, and it is not necessary even to face a higher rank of ordinary professions. wind.

Faced with the inquiry of the heavy armored knight, all the people wearing black heavy armor shook their heads.

Although these people are only third-tier knight ranks, they all have a very obvious characteristic, that is, they are much younger than Du Luen, which means that these people have high potential. But in front of this heavy armored knight, they did not dare to be proud at all.

Perhaps in the original "Miracle", the special rank was just a stronger rank, but on the continent of Miracles, all those who were able to find such special professions were all true geniuses. They were naturally better than these so-called people with some potential. It is more valued.

"It seems that Durun is more cunning than Lord Earl imagined." The heavy armor knight frowned slightly, and his voice became much more indifferent. "I think Mr. Burwell will be interested in these goods, and it is not in the Polar Silver Chamber of Commerce. It's so quiet, but you remember to handle it cleanly and don't leave any evidence. I will take people to search the border area. After you have handled the matter, you will go back and report the situation to the Lord Earl."

"Yes." Several young knights named by the heavy armor knights nodded their promises.

Not long after, a monstrous flame burned up in the camp. Under the light of the fire, nearly ten black shadows galloped towards the border between the Kingdom of Portoroa and the Kingdom of Celian. The leader was this one. The heavy armored knight giving orders.

The Forest of Stars and Fall, the land of black soil.

Shaun opened the bone joints of the last skeleton with a sword, killing the skeleton in seconds without any suspense, and then feeling the experience value of the skeleton melted into his body.

Almost at the moment when the experience value of this skeleton transformed into his body, Sean who had been staring at the experience bar finally saw that the long experience bar finally reached the top of the right, emitting a golden luster. . At this moment, Sean could feel the blood in his body boiling instantly, as if something was awakening in his body, and his skin even turned red because of the boiling blood in his body.

The joy and excitement that has been suppressed, finally broke out at this moment!

If it wasn't for the environment that was really special at this moment, Sean even wanted to let out an excited howl to express his joy.

Finally got it!

The long-awaited career reward!

[Professional Reward (Men of Mercenary)—Desperate Survival: A large amount of wild survival experience enriches your knowledge and common sense. You are not a rigid theoretical school, but a flexible practice school. Common sense such as finding food, identifying directions, avoiding dangers, and preserving physical strength is just like instinct to you. You have completely become a master-level figure in this area, and the team members who act with you are based on your existence. Feel at ease. (This skill is an advanced skill for [survival in the wild], so in a normal wild environment, even if your team is hungry or thirsty, it can still play half of its combat effectiveness; in the case of hunger or hunger, your attribute points will not drop as a result ; In any terrestrial environment, your movement speed will not be reduced; in any environment, you will never get lost; automatically master [Water Source Exploration], [Food Exploration]; all creatures, all monsters, all materials, all poison identification.) 】

Seeing this career reward skill is exactly the same as what he had seen on the forum, Xiao En felt extremely excited and excited in his heart!

According to the setting in "Miracle", any profession can get a profession reward as long as the profession level reaches a multiple of ten. Such profession rewards are basically passive skills, so as long as the player wants, they can even be employed at the same time. Multiple careers develop together. However, because the first-tier occupation is only a starting occupation, the highest level of the three first-tier occupations can only reach the tenth level.

The ultimate career reward for mercenaries is this passive skill called [Desperate Life].

But in the game, Sean didn't know that his first-tier occupation was not only [mercenary], but also a part-time [apprentice] occupation. Although he did get two career rewards, it was a [mercenary] occupation. The reward is a passive skill called [Survival in the Wild], whose effect is more than half weaker than that of [Desperate Life]. Later, someone posted a post on the forum and everyone figured out what was going on.

If you want to learn [Desperate Life], you must specialize in [Mercenary]. If you work for two or three Tier 1 occupations at the same time, you will never learn this skill. In the same way, if you want to learn [apprentice] or [pastor]'s final career reward, you must also specialize in the development of a career. According to the official statement, "a person does not have so much energy to be distracted by too many things." .

Once you have learned the final career rewards, although you can also work part-time in other careers in retrospect, it is no longer possible to get career rewards.

In other words, if Sean is willing, he can now take the two first-tier occupations [apprentice] or [priest], but even if these two occupations reach the full tenth level, it is impossible to get them. Career rewards.

However, these Sean don't care. He will specialize in the profession of [Mercenary], which is naturally out of the best consideration.

What Sean really wants is the "full creature, full monster, full material, full poison recognition" item in this passive skill, and the [True Eye] with the bloodline ability is equivalent to talking about any wild creatures and monsters. You can easily obtain the relevant data of the other party, without the need to carry out relevant academic learning. After all, some books required for academic learning are not available to ordinary people.

When Sean reopened his eyes, the world he saw had undergone some subtle changes: as long as he could see, the direction of the field of vision in front of him would automatically appear in his mind, and he could even easily "capture" "To the trajectory of the wind. And following the trajectory of the wind, the smell in the air turned into thin lines in his field of vision. Each thin line represented a kind of smell. As long as Sean focused his attention, it could even be fine. Determine the origin of these smells.

This is the special feature of 【Desperate Life】 !

And when Sean's gaze fell on the skeletons scattered on the ground, detailed data about the skeletons immediately appeared in front of him. This was the data he could not see when facing the skeletons before!

But these are not the most important!

What is really important is a bone that Sean picked up from the ground at this moment.

【Skull's cervical vertebrae: enchanted material (undead), alchemy material (bones), hardness 7. 】

[Item description: It is the first joint of the skull's cervical spine and head. Because it is infected by the dark magic, this is the hardest bone on the skeleton. You can feel the weak dark power inside just by holding it in your hand. . 】

Identification!

This is also one of the abilities that [Desperate Life] possesses, but the "full-material identification" of [Desperate Life] has no such effect. It can really achieve such a near-omniscience result, or Thanks to the ability of [True Eye]. From this point of view, Sean can already be sure that his original judgment is correct. The combination of the passive skill of "Desperate Life" and the talent skill of "True Eye" is simply perfect to the extreme!

After officially determining the effect of this professional reward, Sean's eyes once again turned to those guards and Du Luen.

The level of the mercenary has reached the highest level ten, and this means that he can now take a second-tier job.

As long as you take office, your combat effectiveness can be greatly improved. Coupled with the cooperation of [True Eye] and [Desperate Life], you can see the data of all monsters. Sean believes that the next journey will definitely be easy. A lot of it.

Furthermore, he is not completely unprepared for this trip.

===== dividing line=====

Re-modified some related settings of this book, especially the career system. Therefore, the amendments to the previous fourteen chapters have also been completed. They are all detailed amendments and explanations, which are irrelevant. So there is no need to re-read it, just talk about it here, everyone knows it.

One more important question. The book will try to make the list next week, so it will be updated twice a day next week. I hope everyone will vote for me. I want to be on the new book list again. Very, very, very much! ! A watch will be released immediately after twelve o'clock tonight. I hope that friends who have not slept by then will vote for me, thanks!
