

Lord of War 28

Chapter 28: .Doubt

"Mr. Ron, what do you mean by that?" Sean stopped eating and raised his head to look at Ron.

The development of the script in front of him is a little different from what he expected.

"Mr. Sean knows about the spinel?" Ron showed a different aura from ordinary people at this moment. Although Xiao En knew that the person in front of him was a normal person with no rank and ability, and had only six other attributes except wisdom and will, at this moment he was still shocked by the momentum in him.

This is the aura of a real superior, vigorous but not compelling, strong but not bullying.

"Of course I do." Sean said in a deep voice.

He knows more than this kind of spar, and he knows exactly where it is mined, related data, functions, etc.

The so-called spinel is a kind of rhomboid spar shaped like an obelisk, about five centimeters long, and the whole body is bright and white with a very faint silver light.

This kind of spar and magic crystal mine also contain magic power, but the magic power contained in the spinel is very scarce, and it cannot be used in such as magic spar or large magic array like magic spar. However, the stability of the square spinel is also beyond the magic spar, and it is precisely because of this stability, so magical apprentices can use the square spinel to train their mental power.

But it is only limited to magic apprentices.

Because after breaking through the limitations of magic and mental power to become an official magician, the mental stimulation provided by the square spinel is useless, and the amount of spinel mined above is not like magic crystals. The mine is so difficult and rare, and does not require processing, so in the Maggie Empire market, only two Maggie Empire silver coins are sold.

According to the unified coin plan launched by the Pan-Continental Chamber of Commerce later on uniting countries, one gold coin can be exchanged for ten silver coins, and one silver coin can be exchanged for one hundred copper coins. The normal cost of an ordinary family of three is about five gold coins per month. Of course, this level will vary slightly depending on the environment of each country, but there will be no deviations in the specifics.

So the burden of two silver coins is not a problem at all for a magic apprentice.

This is why Sean said that although the Black Cat Chamber of Commerce is indeed quite famous, there is also something that magic apprentices can afford but can't sell.

As the Black Cat Chamber of Commerce on the northern side of the Marvel Continent, which specializes in selling magic materials and magic items, they not only sell a complete variety of goods, but also stable in terms of volume and supply, but they do not have such a square tip. The spar can be sold because of course there is no spinel mine in the Kingdom of Portoroa, because the currently known spinel ore veins are only available in the Maggie Empire.

"Mr. Sean, not from Puerto Rico." Ron took a sip of the juice, frowned slightly, and then put down the juice.

Seeing Ron's movements, Sean's brows frowned.

He knows Ron because he didn't deal with less in the game, so he is very clear about Ron's many habits. For example, Ron prefers wine to juice, and once he is confident and confident, he will pick it up. Take a sip of the wine glass to cover up the inadvertent smile on his face.

What is it that makes Ron feel so confident?

Sean suddenly discovered that the plot that he should have been very familiar with seems to have become more and more out of control: "Yes."

"A batch of cube spinels from the Black Cat Chamber of Commerce have been robbed." Ron put down the wine glass in his hand and said lightly, "It's in the territory of the Kingdom of Portoroa."

"Do you think I did it?" Sean raised his brows, obviously angry.

"Only a few of the great magicians in the Kingdom of Portoroa know the effects of the square spinel." Ron said in a deep voice, "Moreover, this batch of goods was not lost elsewhere, it happened to be in Tindes. The intersection of the collar and Zobold collar was just five days ago." Ron deliberately paused to observe Sean's reaction, but unfortunately he could not find anything on Sean's face, so he continued: " And on the same day that the goods from the Black Cat Chamber of Commerce were robbed, your Excellency appeared here closest to the place where the incident occurred. Is this just a coincidence?"

Shaun has the heart to scold his mother at this moment. This is really just a coincidence! But he also found that he had no way to explain it clearly, because it was all because he didn't fully understand the information: the player who announced this task on the game forum was a resident of the Kingdom of Portoroa, and he was from The Black Cat Chamber of Commerce heard the news, so Ron naturally did not suspect him.

But now, Sean has not gone through the usual steps that trigger the task, which naturally arouses Ron's suspicion.

Shaun now finally knows where Ron's confident aura comes from. This guy has obviously regarded himself as a prisoner.

"Five days ago, I just entered the territory of the Kingdom of Portoroa." Sean said lightly. Although things are a bit out of his control, Ron has not yet mastered the rhythm of the entire conversation. "Correctly speaking, it is Gang. Enter the Tindes collar."

"I asked from the immigration department, and there is no news related to you." Ron smiled, his face more confident, "Neither the border nor the Tindesley has anything to do with you. record."

"I came from the Forest of Xingyi." Sean shrugged and said nonchalantly.

Hearing Sean's words, Ron's expression on his face was slightly taken aback, and he seemed to be overwhelmed. After a while, he suddenly laughed out of his voice: "Haha, this is the funniest joke I've heard so far."

"If someone else said so, I would think so too." Sean also laughed. He was not in a hurry to defend everything. He knew the ways of the nobles in this world, and he was also familiar with the circumstances. How to control the rhythm and deal with the nobles is the most basic ability that all players in "Miracle" must have. "But if I said this, then many people usually won't laugh."

Ron looked at Sean with interest, and then picked it up: "Oh?"

With a faint smile, Sean resumed his eating movements, elegant and graceful, typical aristocratic style, because he knows that the rhythm of this conversation has been completely controlled by him: "I came here together with Viscount Du Luen. ."

Stiff.

The smile on Ron's face instantly froze like a freezing magic, and his eyes showed a hint of incredible color. He and the middle-aged man next to him glanced at each other, the middle-aged man's face also showed incredible expression, and then the middle-aged man immediately turned and walked out of the hotel. In this case, even if Sean uses his toes to guess, I also know that the other party must have gone to verify.

But Sean was not worried at all. He was still eating his dinner methodically. Cecilia next to him had already used up his dinner, and was sitting well at the moment, also looking at Ron with interest. If it were changed to a few minutes ago, Ron would definitely say hello to Cecilia in a polite and graceful manner, but now he has no such mood at all.

He was judged to be the target of the prisoner, thinking that the loss of the square spinel could be settled in every possible way, but in the end he found that he had made a mistake himself, and even the target person had something to do with a viscount. Even he needs to deal with these carefully. Although the Black Cat Chamber of Commerce is indeed one of the largest large-scale chambers of commerce on the northern continent that specializes in supplying magic materials and magic items, the capacity of the Chamber of Commerce is not so great that it can influence the attitude of a kingdom, let alone influence, even if it is affected. It can't be.

accuse a nobleman of robbery?

As long as Ron is not a fool, he would never do this kind of thing, although he did have some doubts whether the robbery of the square spinel was related to the nobles led by Tindes.

Sean has not relaxed and observed Ron's face. At this moment, seeing his face changed several times, he knew that he was suspicion in his heart, so he spoke again without hesitation: "The Chamber of Commerce of the House of Dragons, but it has been opening up Bodo. The thoughts of the Luoya Kingdom magic material market."

Ron raised his head with a look of surprise: "Who are you anyway?"

Shaun touched his nose. This is the second time someone said this to him in the past few days.

but...

The rhythm of has been completely mastered by him.

"Leave aside the Dragon Language House, although Polar Silver's business products are different from the Black Cat Chamber of Commerce, but the business scope is the same." Xiao En poured himself a glass of red wine and slowly shook it up. A glass of red wine matches his aristocratic attitude, which has the taste of some superiors. "No chamber of commerce does not want to become more powerful. If you say that Polar Silver will also occupy your market share, will it become more powerful? Are you stronger?"

Ron's face paled slightly. If the ambition of the House of Dragon Whispers to open the magic material market of the Kingdom of Portoroa was that the Black Cat Chamber of Commerce had long been prepared for, then this knife from Polar Silver would definitely not be their defense. Inside. Because according to the past situation, although the Polar Silver and Black Cat Chamber of Commerce are also one of the best large chambers in the northern part of the miracle continent, the Black Cat Chamber of Commerce has indeed stabilized the polar silver side. After all, the Black Cat Chamber of Commerce sells to Magicians, these are the masters who don't care about coins, and the speed of collecting money is naturally not comparable to Polar Silver.

However, because the Black Cat Chamber of Commerce has always focused on market operations in a certain field, it must be the polar silver that cannot be compared to many fields in terms of contacts. If the polar silver really uses the spinel as a stepping stone to open the magic material market, then After that, other magic materials will continue to enter the market. By then, the market share of the Black Cat Chamber of Commerce will be conservatively estimated to be reduced by at least half!

Ron's forehead was slightly sweaty: "In the case of Polar Silver, there has never been... ever involved in the magic material market..."

The corners of Sean's mouth raised slightly, Ron's heartbeat suddenly accelerated, and he suddenly realized an answer that he didn't want to admit.

And this answer is now speaking from Sean's mouth: "What if Polar Silver and Dragon Language House cooperate? Even if it's not Dragon Language House, but Medusa Chamber of Commerce?"

There is no blood on Ron's face!