

Lord of War 35

Chapter 35: . Ron is visiting (seeking Sanjiang ticket!)

After Sean replied to the professor named Bonny White, he put the matter down completely, and did not think about the consequences of this matter for himself.

In fact, this kind of thinking is just another way of "wisdom", that is, once a decision is made, there will be no more troubles.

For this matter, Cecilia naturally witnessed the whole process.

Although she knows the Heerson Institute, she doesn't know much about the special institution of the Temple of Wisdom, she just heard about it in the family. But Cecilia herself knows very well that she has never seen Sean deal with something so seriously and cautiously—even if it is crossing the Forest of Starfall, something that is extremely unbelievable to many people, Xiao Well, they agreed with just one sentence.

"This matter is very troublesome?" This was the first sentence Cecilia said after Sean replied, and the worry in her eyes was clear.

"It's not troublesome, it's just a bit tricky." Sean smiled, and after replying to the letter, he was completely relaxed, "But now I have got rid of the problem, but what will happen next? That's not something I can master."

At least not what I can master at the moment. -This sentence, Sean did not say clearly, just meditating in his heart.

The unexpected invitation from the Helson Institute has completely deviated from what Shaun could have anticipated. When he went to the Hall of Scholars to participate in the scholar assessment, he had already thought about all kinds of situations, but he didn't think about it—in fact, in Sean's subconscious mind, he hadn't expected Heerson's research at all. The emergence of this special institution, after all, is something that is completely impossible to come into contact with at this stage, and in Sean's memory, there should be no points like the Heerson Institute in small territories like Tindesley. .

These are the key factors that Sean will ignore the existence of the Heerson Institute.

However, after analyzing it, Xiao En immediately figured it out: Although the Timberland is a small territory, the old Marquis Perot does not have much strength, but this territory has a unique geographical factor—adjacent to the Forest of Starfall. Even if the Temple of Wisdom does not have too strong secular force, but sometimes, knowledge is far more terrifying than ordinary force. This is why the Temple of Wisdom dared to get a Tier 7 beast to study.

Through this incident, it also sounded a wake-up call to Sean: The development and changes of many things in this world have gradually divorced from his cognition, and he must be more cautious in his future actions. Fortunately, the Helson Institute is a special academic institution. If the heretical court visits it, then it really can only speak with a fist.

With the current strength of only Tier 2, I am afraid that no one will put him in the eyes.

In the final analysis, we still have to improve our own strength as soon as possible.

Fortunately, now the [Scholar] profession has started. Although the level of [Scholar]'s experience has increased due to professional punishment, this is not a problem for Sean, because he deeply believes in the black cats. Will come to myself soon. However, even if the instance of the Kobold Camp cannot allow him to meet the advanced conditions, he still knows the location of another instance of Tinders, and that one is another important purpose of Sean's trip to Tindes.

After pacifying Cecilia so that she would not be distracted by this accident, Sean began to get busy with his own affairs.

First of all, the thing he needs to deal with first is the next kobold camp.

Kobolds are a kind of humanoid creatures about one meter tall. Although they have the word "dog head" on their names, they are actually not real dogs. Kobolds look a bit like upright lizards, but from the eyes of people on earth, they should be regarded as reduced versions of human-shaped velociraptors. Although this is a humanoid creature, they are not recognized by humans, even if they are kobolds. People also have their own culture and inheritance history.

Because of their size, kobolds are much smaller than humans in terms of strength and endurance, and even because of the relatively short evolutionary history of races, their wisdom and will are a bit worse than humans. However, for any wise race, there are both smart and foolish. This theorem also applies to kobolds—in their complete heritage, kobolds also have the profession of mage.

Any humanoid creature, or any intelligent group, has a relatively complete professional system and related divisions.

Therefore, in this kobold camp on the outer edge of the Forest of Starfall, there are two kobold mages—this is an authentic Tier 3 profession. Whether they are humans or not, the inheritance of mages has rigid restrictions: any Formal magicians are all Tier 3 occupations. In addition, there are also a large number of kobold gunners, kobold sentry, kobold guards, etc. Although these are mostly second-tier occupations, once they are formed in sufficient numbers, they will naturally occur. A qualitative change.

According to Sean's understanding of the history of this kobold, the kobolds in this camp can already form a new kobold tribe.

In fact, this group of kobolds did not do this, but still strictly maintained the "camp" model to continue to survive.

Although humans do not want to recognize the history of the kobolds, if you really encounter a kobold tribe, the most correct way is to start the game by "war". But if what you encounter is just a kobold camp, then a team of adventurers with a long adventurous career is enough to deal with and solve it-of course, the premise is that this is really a camp.

Shaun now only hopes that the Black Cat Chamber of Commerce will not actually attack this camp.

is just a fact, and it is often cruel.

But behind this cruel reality, Sean's snicker is hidden.

Sitting in the lobby on the first floor of the hotel, Ron found that he was actually very resistant to entering the hotel. After all, the first two experiences were definitely not pleasant. When he left for the second time, Ron thought that the farther away from Sean, the better, and even vowed that he would never see Sean again.

Unexpectedly, after only five days of work, he would come to this hotel again, and before coming here, he even prayed that Sean would never leave Arthur City.

Of course, compared to Ron's inner struggle and entanglement, Sean also looked at Ron differently.

According to his original estimate, Ron would come to him in at most two days, but he didn't expect to arrive until the fifth day. And looking at Ron's haggard appearance, Sean understood in his heart that the Black Cat Chamber of Commerce had already launched an attack on this kobold camp, but the actual result obviously did not develop in the direction Ron had guessed. This attack I am afraid it ended with heavy losses.

Otherwise, Ron would not have to come to him again. As long as he continued to attack, the camp would be taken down sooner or later.

Judging from the current results, the kobold camp may not be much better.

"According to your previous reminder, after some searching, I did find the place where the Medusa Chamber of Commerce hides the spinel." Ron glanced at Sean, he couldn't help but wonder if Sean had already known it. He knew about the kobold camp, but he didn't remind himself, but since he was asking for help at this moment, of course he couldn't continue to guess Sean with such evil thoughts, "That's a kobold tribe. "

Ron especially emphasized the word "tribe": "But it looks like a camp. I suspect that those kobolds were domesticated by the Medusa Chamber of Commerce."

Sean nodded and signaled Ron to continue, but he gave a secret compliment in his heart: As expected of the future heir of the Black Cat Chamber of Commerce, his observation ability is really different. Even if there were various background and habit introductions released by the game at the beginning, the players still waited until they entered the camp to face the final boss before finally understanding it. And Ron naturally couldn't see the final boss, because if he did, he didn't need to come to him, so this judgment must be inferred by him.

"You launched a storm against a tribe of kobolds?" Xiao En said with a look of surprise.

"Yes." Ron didn't see any clues from Sean's face, so he could only give a wry smile, "This time, the Black Cat Chamber of Commerce has lost a little bit. And because we launched an offensive head-on, it seems to be involved. Some people's nerves, the Medusa Chamber of Commerce and the Tindes of Polar Silver suddenly began to pressure and harass us. Now in order to maintain the situation, the offensive teams have been removed."

Speaking of this, Ron's face showed a trace of anger: "Damn it! It's just a little bit worse, just give me three more days...no, two days, you will be able to completely capture this tribe!"

"I can understand." Sean comforted Ron, but he was a little frightened in his heart: Fortunately, this is not good, otherwise he will be really busy these days.

"Please, help me again." Ron was silent for a while before finally speaking, "Those kobolds set up the camp in the mist, and there are traps and mechanisms everywhere in the mist. There is a lot of fighting these days. To a certain extent, it is because of the interference of the fog that the loss is so great. I know that you cross the Starfall Forest, and I think you must have a solution to the fog of the Starfall Forest!"

"You mean, you want me to help you get the spinel back?" Xiao En raised his eyebrows: The show meat is here.

"Yes." Ron nodded, "I think you are the only one who can do this, because I have few people left to mobilize now....Of course, as long as you are willing to make a move, We can all discuss the remuneration."

After gritting his teeth, Ron simply threw out a huge profit. Anyway, the Black Cat Chamber of Commerce has already suffered a big loss this time, and he doesn't care about it anymore. As long as he can get all the spinel back, these losses can be made up soon. And Polar Silver and Medusa, which have also paid a high price, cannot recover in a short period of time. In this way, the Black Cat Chamber of Commerce takes advantage.

Businessmen are chasing profits, Ron has already calculated all these details.

"It's not impossible to ask me to take action." Sean pretended to be silent for a moment, then nodded and said, "But I want the command of the team. It is the kind that absolutely obeys orders, otherwise I won't help you. of."

"This..."

Without waiting for Ron to speak, another middle-aged man who came with Ron and Fox this time suddenly grabbed the conversation: "Just because you want the command of the team? You first figure out who you are. You are just a second-tier [Warrior]. What qualifications do you have to lead the team? Just be your guide... Maybe, your crossing of the Starfall Forest is just a scam!"

Master, You have to be careful with this kind of person, maybe he's just here to cheat money! A second-tier little warrior can actually traverse the Forest of Starfall...hehe."