

Lord of War 39

Chapter 39: .The mystery of swordsmanship

"I... lost." Hank seemed a little hard to accept the facts at hand, but when he felt the emptiness of his right hand, he finally realized that his weapon had been cut off.

But for Hank, what really defeated his will was not the breaking of the weapon in his hand—it was just an excellent weapon. Although it was made of pure iron, it was naturally different than a magic weapon. It's too late, so being cut off can only show that it is a gap in weapon material, and has nothing to do with strength. But in fact, in the confrontation just now, he has been in a state of being suppressed. No matter how strong he is, if the opponent doesn't fight hard, it will have no effect at all. This is no longer a disparity that can be determined by the material of the weapon. .

But what really defeated his will, but his most proud hammer shock was actually useless!

If the first failure, he can still be regarded as an accident, then the second time he witnessed the situation, he was completely at a loss.

Even, he could not figure out why it failed.

What happened to that afterimage?

Shaun's long sword, slowly retracted into the scabbard, then turned and walked towards Cecilia. Sean knew that Hank was completely abolished. At the moment he gave up, his volition dropped to "10 (13. He was tantamount to completely denying his efforts over the past so many years. Fundamentally self-denial, there will never be a chance to rise again.

There are two situations of weakening of attributes. One is the weakening of current attributes. This situation is temporary. Generally, when problems such as major setbacks are encountered, they will be weakened like this, but as long as they survive, there will be By growth. And the second, the most serious one, is the weakening of the growth limit, which is Hank's state at the moment. This kind of essential negation is usually impossible to improve.

Of course, there are always exceptions to everything.

Sean looked at Cecilia, her wisdom and willpower proliferation, which is still a mystery to this day. But he wouldn't think that a maggot-like thing like Hank was qualified to be compared with Cecilia.

"How did you do it?" Cecilia looked up at Sean, her eyes full of curiosity.

"A little secret." Sean smiled and patted Cecilia on the head. Only then would he show a gentle side.

Hammer shock, in the early days of "Miracle", was a very dangerous skill. For this reason, more than half of all warrior players in the game chose to change their position when they were in Tier 3.

But is this skill really invincible?

In fact, this is not the case. The explanation of this skill is "Destroy the center of gravity". On the other hand, as long as it is not in a moving state, the center of gravity will not be destroyed. The only remaining method is the stun effect within a foot. But later, some players discovered that when the hammer base hits the ground, that is, when the ground reacts, they can be immune to this effect when using any fast-moving skills, and the same applies during the skill casting phase. It is equally effective.

And sprint, it happens to be a fast-moving skill.

Hank's two sprints, Sean cracked both in this way.

In the era when Sean was in, pvp unless the technical strength, equipment gap, and level gap of the two sides are too large, otherwise it is basically a battle of will. Because all the special features of the ranks, the necessary combat skills and even the equipment attributes, etc., are already to the extent that they can be remembered by the naked eye, whoever reveals the flaw first will die.

So in this world, Sean may still have a very low class strength, but his vision and breadth of insight are completely incomparable even at ranks above the eighth level.

"Huh, don't tell me." Cecilia slapped Sean's hand away angrily, "I was so worried about you."

"I know." Sean smiled, and Sean was not without feeling the magic fluctuations in the air just now.

It's just that compared to the knowledge of cracking these skills, what really gained Sean in the battle just now was the passive skill "Mystery Swordsmanship".

After this battle, Sean finally confirmed that "Mystery Swordsmanship" is not a simple passive skill. Although the skill is described in this way, in fact, as long as he holds the sword, he has an extremely mysterious feeling. , That is, this swordsmanship has been carved into the bone marrow and into the soul. When he and Hank collided with each other for the first time, he used the "memory" left in his soul by this swordsmanship to concentrate his entire body's power on the tip of the sword to create that powerful impact.

Afterwards, in the second confrontation, he could draw his sword so decisively, he did not give Hank a chance to fight against each other at all, and even left a flaw in the sword, which is also the memory of this swordsmanship in his soul. In fact, even if Hank does not use the second hammer shock afterwards, Sean is sure to abolish Hank's weapon in the next minute. It's just that even if Hank loses, he won't suffer a blow. It's as big as it is now.

Fox glanced at Hank, sighed slightly, and waved for someone to take him away.

From his eyes, it is naturally not difficult to see that Hank has been completely abolished, but what can he say about this kind of thing? He doesn't know anything about business issues, and even normal negotiations are not particularly good. The only thing he knows is fighting, but his duty is to be responsible for Ron's safety.

nudged Ron a bit, which brought Ron, who was in a completely absent state, back to his senses.

Compared to Fox's vision and insight, Ron is completely ignorant in combat. Although his business talent is not bad, he is still relatively young after all, and his negotiating ability is also somewhat inadequate, but at least he is not as horrible as Fox.

After recovering at this moment, he immediately greeted Xiao En, and at the same time, he did not forget to speak to the other guards around him: "This is Mr. Xiao En, who is also your new commander. Next, about the dog head. Mr. Xiao En is solely responsible for the crusade against the tribe."

The remaining ten or so people looked at each other, but no one said anything at this time. They had already witnessed the battle just now, even though Sean was only a second-tier fighter, not even a formal rank. , But even Hank, the strongest of them, lost. Is there any hope of victory based on their abilities?

"Master Ron, even if you say so..." A brief silence and staring at each other does not mean that everyone has accepted this result. A young man said, "But this Mr. Sean really knows How to fight? We are going to attack a tribe of kobolds, not to besieged and kill a group of kobolds. There is an essential difference in this."

"Believe me, I know them better than the kobolds themselves." Sean turned his head and looked at the young man. He looked like he was only in his twenties, and probably a few years older than himself, but from his strength. Judging, it is obvious Tier 3 [Shield Guardian], "I know that you have just experienced a terrible failure, which has left a shadow on your body and mind to a certain extent... Don't be surprised why I found out, Because many of you have very unnatural expressions."

"But what I can tell you is that your shame will be completely washed away, as long as you are willing to pick up your weapons again and go with me."

"Of course, I have to say something first. Anyone who doesn't want to follow my command can stop participating. I don't need any perfunctory guys. I don't want to put other players in danger because of a few people in the team. In the environment." Shaun's gaze swept across those who were not injured or whose injuries would not affect the fighting performance, but most people did not dare to face Shaun.

When he was playing "Miracle", he did not rarely cause all kinds of group annihilation because of the existence of the group annihilation engine. But reality is by no means a game. If the group is destroyed because of an accident, then you don't need to think about the end. Therefore, Xiao En would rather have fewer people than bring those who are reluctant.

It's just that Xiao En was slightly disappointed that there were not many people who dared to respond to his direct stare, and they were all middle-aged people. Those young people who would really take on the elite guarding of the future of the Black Cat Chamber of Commerce flinched.

However, Sean is not really in need of so many people, but more people will always feel more secure. After all, this is the reality now. It is impossible for a dungeon that restricts five or ten people to appear. The reason why the dungeon insisted on ten people at the beginning of the Starfall

Forest was also because of Sean's safety considerations. If the number of the team is too large If it is, let alone the arrival of the black soil, it has long become the belly of those monsters.

However, this "kobold gathering place" is somewhat different. Although it is in the mist of the Starfall Forest, this copy does not belong to the range of the Starfall Forest. At most, it occupies a little gray area. This is also this copy. The most peculiar place-it is completely different from the situation in the Starfall Forest. Although there are many mobs, they are not too threatening, and because they are humanoids rather than beasts, kobolds are more like humans, so the fighting method is not confused, and any vital part can be deadly. .

And the most important thing is that these kobolds and the pioneers of the Black Cat Chamber of Commerce have already fought both sides, so there should not be too many kobolds in the camp now, which on the other hand alleviates Sean's Consumption and danger. However, if there are a few Tier 3 [Thieves], it is even easier to pass this copy.

can be before this.

Sean turned his head to look at Ron, grinning, "Next, it's time for the two of us to talk."

"Talk about...what?" Ron shuddered suddenly when he faced Sean's smile.

"Of course it is a matter of remuneration."

A smile appeared on Sean's face that he thought was the most elegant but was definitely a devil in the eyes of others.