

Lord of War 42

Chapter 42: .sneak into

"Woo—Woo! Whoo!"

Similar to the barking sound of a dog, it reverberates in the camp, especially the kobolds standing near the entrance of the camp.

Kobolds are a kind of humanoid creatures that are only about one meter tall, cunning by nature, and timid. Their head is not the head of a dog, but a head similar to a raptor: it has a prolate mouth and jaws, bright eyes and horns like gems, and its body shape is relatively close to the velociraptor recorded on earth: the same. It has scaly skin, generally dark brown, and occasionally black. It has a straight tail like a mouse. The joints of the legs are erected in a z-shape. It has a strong movement speed. It has only four toes and has a flat, long and sharp shape. .

Kobolds are not very talented in language, but the magic is that they can speak dragon language, but they make a sound like a dog's barking. Perhaps this is the main reason why they are called kobolds.

All of this is the result of Sean's previous observations, which is exactly the same as the kobold in his memory.

At this moment, a group of nine of them stood at the entrance of the camp, and a few kobolds were discussing something fiercely not far from them. Because of the fog, Sean couldn't see the situation in the camp, only the unique barking of the kobolds, and the kobolds in the camp also couldn't see the situation here in the fog, just arguing fiercely. .

"What should I do?" Ans asked in a low voice.

Sean thought for a moment, then picked up a spear, squatted down and walked out.

His height is close to 1.8 meters, but he is still relatively short in Miracle Continent, and after he squatted down, his height is about the same as the height of a kobold. Of course, the figure in the mist seems to be naturally fatter. A lot.

Shaun did not enter the camp, because in that case, he would definitely wear the help. He can only rely on the influence of the fog on each other to create an illusion.

When the other people saw it, they immediately reacted. Ans, the two pikemen, and Cecilia also picked up the spears and spears, and walked out behind Sean. There were not too many, just right. It's five people. The two swordsmen took the opportunity to get around and lurked one left and the other lurking on both sides of the entrance of the camp. These cooperations are not difficult for them. Everyone does not need to say anything more, they will be in a tacit understanding. Complement each other.

Sure enough, when Xiao En and others appeared at the entrance of the camp, the arguing voices of the kobolds stopped. After a while, a kobold finally screamed. It's just this kind of answer, which is obviously a difficult job for Sean. He brought the skill panel and the attribute panel to the world together, but he didn't bring the language talent panel, of course, even if he was in the game at the beginning. Here, it is impossible for Sean to understand what the kobolds are saying.

It was obviously not the first time that Sean encountered this kind of coping method. He pretended not to hear and walked a few steps forward. The figure gradually disappeared into the mist, and the few people behind him also followed. Celia stayed in place for a while, seeming to be hesitating, but soon chose to move forward.

Such a move suddenly made the kobolds in the camp look a little irritable.

seemed to be a cursing sound, and these kobolds also moved. They soon rushed out of the camp, and at the same time they continued to make unexplained screams.

However, all of this naturally cannot affect the decision of Sean and the others. At a far enough distance, Sean and the others have thrown away the spears and spears in their hands, and then stood up again, with their familiar weapons. In hand, turned around and waited for the kobolds entering the urn.

Quick running sound.

Slight "pop" sound-that is the sound of the body plunged into the thick fog.

As soon as they plunged into the mist, the five kobolds were stunned. They looked at the humans standing not far ahead with some doubts, just as many as they were. In the next second, these kobolds started to panic. They were timid and cunning by nature. They would never dare to attack if they were not more than twice the enemy in number, but now they have discovered that there are five of them. A human being is in front of them, where they still have the desire to attack.

But when they turned around and wanted to escape, they found that the retreat behind them had also been blocked, and there were four other humans waiting for them.

Sword as light as electricity!

The gun is like a dragon!

Xiao En and the others did not hesitate to shoot the moment they saw the kobold panic.

Simple and cruel killings easily solved the five kobolds who were lured out of the camp.

Its swift and straightforward killing technique also shows that Sean's team is not a rookie. Everyone is obviously a veteran with a long history of battle. It is also because of the smoothness of the two consecutive times, plus Xiao before departure. En's explanation and arrangement, other people in the team also began to truly believe in Sean.

There is no need to clean up. Although the equipment on the kobold is not too damaged, these items are just ordinary weapon leather armor, and some of them are even inferior to ordinary ones. And these guards from the Black Cat Chamber of Commerce are equipped with sophisticated equipment, how can they be worthy of these things, and Sean and Cecilia are two people with high-sightedness and a magician, so naturally they are even more insensitive. On it.

So, the nine people in the team quickly entered the kobold camp.

The scale of construction of this camp is very large, and it is completely built in accordance with the standard military camp. The four-meter-high fence, the perfect drainage channel, the well-planned tents, and the thick sand on the ground in the camp fully illustrate the extraordinary nature of this kobold camp. Moreover, a magic circle was arranged in the camp, and the mist of the Forest of Starfall could not invade here, so all the layout and conditions of the entire camp were naturally very clear in the eyes of everyone.

Sean only took a brief look, and he could conclude that the initial scale of this camp had at least more than 600 kobolds.

Normally, the standard size of a kobold camp is about 200 kobolds, while the size of a tribe is more than 400. Usually to determine whether a kobold tribe is strong or not, just look at the number of kobolds in the tribe. This is very different from the jackals who are prevalent in the strategy of strong men, so a kobold has more than 600 kobolds. The tribe can already be regarded as a strong kobold tribe above the average or even close to the standard.

But what is a bit strange is that this kobold tribe does not have the kobold heads, kobold commanders, kobold warlocks, and many other Tier 4 or Tier 5 occupations that a normal tribe should have. As the biggest leader of this tribe, there are two Tier 3 kobold mages, and the one who really controls this tribe is a magician who specializes in soul energy from the Medusa Chamber of Commerce.

The so-called soul energy system refers to a magic system based on magic such as soul, spirit, and illusion.

If this is a real kobold tribe, then naturally it must rely on the offensive of the army to be able to defeat it. The crisis in a realm is naturally the responsibility of the lord of the realm. The Black Cat Chamber of Commerce did not consider seeking the help of lord Tindes, but the old Marquis Perrault is unconscious, and Viscount Durun has not inherited the title. , And nearly half of the military power in the territory fell into the hands of Count Mario.

Complicated and chaotic relationships and situations, in the end, the Black Cat Chamber of Commerce can only solve the matter by itself.

Fortunately, this is not a real kobold tribe. The kobolds in this camp have no young children, so there is no new blood supplement, and the force is one less than one. In addition, this kobold tribe does not have corresponding priests or treatment methods, and if it suffers irreparable damage, there is also no way to supplement it.

At this moment, looking at the situation in the camp, Sean knew that there were probably not too many kobolds left, and couldn't help but think of Ron's words before.

If you give him one or two more days, maybe he can really capture this kobold camp.

In a way, Sean thanked the Medusa Chamber of Commerce and the Polar Silver Chamber of Commerce for their joint pressure.

Sean stretched out his right fist, then raised an index finger, swiped to the right, then raised his middle finger, letting the * stand up, and then swiped his index finger to the left, and then closed the fist. Then five fingers spread out at the same time.

Everyone looked at Sean blankly.

"What do you mean?" After a long time, Anles asked boldly.

"Don't you understand?" Sean looked surprised, and then remembered that this tmd is not a game. I used to have this kind of sneak command and combat habit in the game, so he subconsciously operated it without considering these people at all. Understand these code words simplified from the gestures of military operations on Earth.

However, Sean is also thick-skinned. At this moment, his face is not red and heartbeat. He is still the usual high-ranking person who said: "This is a special coded gesture, how can you not? When conducting stealth operations, you must rely on this. Gestures to communicate. What I meant just now was that the first group went to the right to sneak in, the second group went to the left to sneak in, and the rest followed me."

Everyone suddenly realized that they looked like they were taught, so Xiao En's image became taller unconsciously.

Then, a swordsman raised his hand with a timid expression, and said embarrassingly: "But Commander, you... didn't give us a group."

Shaun squinted contemptuously, still showing his face not red and heartbeat. At this time, he wouldn't say that he had been divided into groups in the game before, just subconsciously commanding it just now: "This kind of thing is still necessary. I teach? According to the conventional establishment standard, do you understand?...Don't understand? You are really useless! A pikeman, a swordsman and a defender, isn't this a formal standard configuration? Isn't our current manpower? Is it just fine?"

So, everyone looked at Xiao En with worshiping eyes again.

"Watch what I'm doing! The three of you go to the left, and the three of you go to the right." Sean randomly ordered a pikeman, a swordsman, and a defender to the left, and let the other three go to the right. The remaining thieves and Cecilia naturally followed themselves, "Cecilia and you follow me."