

Lord of War 63

Chapter 63: .The Awakened Angry Lion

Alfred, who has made a name in the mercenary circle in the past, is called the Scarlet Wrath Lion.

means his fighting style is violent and rough,  and cruel, just like a furious lion.

Even if players later generally believed that he was the  of war and battle, the official still did not change his title.

And Sean has always believed that in order for Alfred to truly exert his due combat effectiveness, the weapon he uses should be the halberd he is "proficient", rather than the pair of fist blades he is wearing now.

In "Miracle", there will be punishment for using unfamiliar weapons. This is why Sean must be transferred to a mercenary, because only mercenaries have the passive ability of "full weapon control". If you want to use weapons without punishment, you must reach the level of "mastery", and there are three levels of "good at", "proficient", and "specialized" above mastery, which can be increased by 25 in turn. %, 50%, 100% weapon power.

【Luxury】 This Tier 3 profession is the first profession to possess the ability of "Proficient" level weapons. Even the special advanced profession of 【Heavy Armor Knight】 is just good at it. However, in terms of comprehensive abilities, it is naturally better for the profession of [Heavy Armor Knight], because it is good at more than one weapon, but includes three weapons such as swords, long weapons, and short weapons, unlike the [Rights] He is only proficient in long weapons, but the others are only mastered. Short weapons are directly "unusable".

But is that really the case?

Alfred galloped like thunder, with a mighty rainbow, and rushed into the eight men of the wolf mercenary group like a tiger entering a flock.

Raising his hand is a straight punch with great force.

Fist moves and makes a sound.

There was a small crackling noise in the air. Alfred's punch actually shook the airflow in the air. If you look closely, you can even see the airflow surrounding Alfred's right fist. Form a spiral of strength.

Break the wind and punch!

A hint of surprise flashed in Sean's eyes, but he never thought that Alfred actually understood this powerful skill. He couldn't help but start to wonder whether this skill in the game was originally passed on from Alfred.

According to the sorting of players, many advanced skills in the game actually have origins, and as long as the players can understand this origin, then it is very likely to learn the advanced skills through related npcs related to this origin. Of course, there are actually some conditions that need to be met, but this summary method does help many players save a lot of trouble.

As for Pofeng Jinquan, as a Tier 5 player, it began to be mastered by players, and can be used up to Tier 8. It is known as the advanced skills that monks and fighters must learn, but there are ten in the game at the beginning. One of the skills related to the origin. So wanting to learn this skill is a very test of character. At first, less than a hundred people were lucky enough to learn it in the game.

Sean has never heard of it. Alfred, the Scarlet Wrath Master, who has been using the halberd and long-handled battle axe, has mastered this skill.

Straight fist, hit a wolves mercenary group in the chest.

There was no muffled sound of fist and flesh touching in the imagination, nor the slightest  sway, this jackal mercenary group only let out a scream, and the whole person flew out due to the force of this punch, falling into the previous Xiao The crypt passage when En and others came.

Only Xiao En knows that the attack determination of Pofeng Jinquan is calculated by "breaking defense", and it will also have a few seconds of armor-breaking effect, which is why it is called a must-learn skill for monks and fighters. However, from the point of view of Miracle Continent, this was an internal injury caused by the energy entering the body. Looking at the appearance of the other mercenary who has been injured, it probably means that you don't even want to walk out of that crypt channel anymore.

A fist shook an enemy away, and Alfred's face became a little colder.

At this point, the remaining seven talents of the Jackal Mercenary Group finally had a reaction, but because these people were standing in groups before, their positions at this time seemed not to be very good, let alone cooperation, between each other. They even interfered with each other, and the only ones who could really attack Alfred were the three people standing on both sides and in front of him. As for the others, it is natural to quickly change positions at this time.

For these mercenary groups that cooperate with each other tacitly, reasonable and appropriate positions can truly exert a powerful combat effectiveness.

But at this time, they never thought that the defender who was usually in charge of the front had already died in the previous two conflicts. Now they not only lack the defense of the defenders, but they are also wounded by themselves. In addition, they rushed to the battle when Alfred was at its peak, and lacked reasonable positioning and coordination, and the combat effectiveness that could be demonstrated. It's not half the usual.

Faced with the three mercenaries closest to him hurriedly counterattacked, Alfred's face showed a trace of disdain.

He waved his hand abruptly, and his right palm struck towards the mercenary on the left. The wind was still strong on his palm, and it was faintly visible that there was a stream of air squeezing on Alfred's right palm, and the air around his right palm was even more intense. It was a distorted strange appearance, like a huge sponge that was squeezed.

Seeing Alfred's palm facing him, the man in the Jackal Mercenary Group standing on his left was shocked. In a hurry, he abandoned the attack and changed his defense. The mind of cooperating with other comrades in arms-after all, these things have always been the responsibility of the defenders in the regiment before.

Alfred's palm seemed to be slow and ill, and he swung his pat down suddenly, but it caused the air to produce an extremely strong whistling sound.

Palm touch, sound, sparks.

The mercenary who resisted Alfred's palm with the knife felt a violent breath rushing in from his right hand. Not only did the whole hand completely lose consciousness at this moment, but the sleeves were even more vigorous. The piercings were twisted into pieces, and cracks appeared on the skin exposed to the air, like dried and cracked ground, extending to the shoulders. The next moment, the blood in the man's body was stunned by Qi Jin like a blowout, gushing out from the crack in his right hand.

Hammer shake!

This is the signature skill of [Luxury], but although this skill is called "hammer shock", it does not have to be cast with long weapons or hammer weapons.

However, like Alfred, who hid this skill in the palm of his hand to attack the enemy, it still greatly exceeded Sean's expectation: the npc in the game does not have such a flexible and terrifying side. Even among players, they never thought that this skill could be used in this way.

One hand to stand up!

In the eruption of blood mist, Alfred protruded his left palm again, passing through the spurting  mist particles, and locked the mercenary's throat with one hand, and then he pulled himself into the block. Alfred actually used this mercenary as his shield, blocking the two weapons that stabbed him.

Only heard the mercenary utter a scream, which is obviously a miserable state of death.

The members of the Jackal Mercenary Group are also worthy of this name. Seeing the weapon pierced into their companion's body, they didn't mean to stop at all. They actually used force again, the weapon penetrated, and the attack was to fight Al. Fred also runs through the idea.

But if Alfred was killed so easily, it would be wasteful that Sean would be so laborious to win. Seeing that the weapons of the two opponents penetrated their companions, Alfred waved his left hand and threw down the half-dead corpse. But at this time, because of Charles Sabre, Alfred was strong. Definitely not low, this throw caused the center of gravity of the two mercenaries to completely deviate, staggering a few steps forward.

It looked like, but instead he sent himself into Alfred's attack range. Faced with such a generous gift, Alfred definitely had no reason to refuse. With one step, his hands were raised, each pinched the throat of one person, and the cervical vertebrae of the two were broken off with a strong pinch and a twist.

At this point, in a round of face-to-face attack, Alfred easily solved four of them with his rich combat experience and fierce and fierce means.

At this time, the other four people walked around and set up their positions, but when they opened their eyes, it was only a short time. They had already lost half of their hands. They looked at each other and looked at each other with horror. Thicker. They had long known that Alfred was not easy to provoke, and that none of the people in the village who had troubled him before had a good end, but until now they did not know how much the gap between them was.

In this encounter, thunderbolt killed four people, even if it was only four wounded, but the head of the wolves mercenary group also felt that they did not have this ability. He swept his gaze, and glanced at Sean and Cecilia standing behind. He would never forget Cecilia's beautiful face, but he was actually a little taboo against Sean before. Strength, after all, he hadn't forgotten the scene of confrontation with Alfred in the tavern last night.

But now, he saw that Xiao En's face was pale, and his posture was a little shaky. He must have been injured, and he suddenly had a care in his heart: "The three of you hold him back, I'll take the two!"

In his opinion, a little girl and a sick person are not afraid at all. They only need to hold Alfred for thirty seconds! As long as he holds the other two hostages in his hands, he is not afraid of Alfred's disobedience, but at this moment he is determined that Sean will never stay.

When Alfred heard the call from the head of the Jackal Mercenary Group, he wanted to turn back to protect him, but the three men from the Jackal Mercenary Group next to him would dare to let Alfred go back so easily, and immediately exchanged each other. Cooperate to shoot Alfred. It's just that they have seen Alfred's fierce and hot shots. At this time, they didn't dare to fight recklessly. They were just cautious and focused on entanglement. Alfred couldn't find a chance to kill in one shot. .

The leader of the wolf mercenary group did not dare to waste time at all, and it was even more impossible to say anything here, and rushed towards Sean and Cecilia with a few steps.

Looking at the other person coming by alone, Sean shook his head and let out a laugh: "You are really underestimated."

Cecilia just smiled sweetly when she heard the words, and gently spit out the last syllable in her mouth. The magic power on her body was swayed, the elements in the air immediately became abnormally active, and the temperature in the cave rose suddenly. Arrows condensed by flames burned on top of Cecilia's head. The head of the jackal mercenary group was shocked when he saw this arrow formed by burning flames. He did not expect that this beautiful little girl in front of him was actually a magician. division!

But there is no turning back arrow in the bow.

Neither Cecilia nor Sean are soft-hearted people. With Cecilia's mental thoughts, Flame Arrow suddenly shot out, directly penetrating the heart of the head of the Jackal Mercenary Corps. There was nothing at all. Leave him any time to argue.

With the death of the head of the jackal mercenary group, the remaining three members of the jackal mercenary group immediately lost the heart to fight again, and they all wanted to get away, but this time it was Alfred's turn to take the initiative. Quan, how could it be possible for these three to leave easily, on the contrary, the offensive became more and more fierce.

Not long after, grasping a trace of the flaw in the opponent's panic, Alfred once again made a thunderous shot, and completely killed the three in a straightforward manner!

At this moment, what Xiao En saw was that arrogant angry lion finally opened his eyes, exposed his minions, and completely awakened!
