

Lord of War 86

Chapter 86: . Sean is angry

A peculiar silver liquid was pouring from the purgatory kobold's body, and then quickly covered its whole body, while black liquid flowed out from the bottom. When the kobold purgatory's whole body was wrapped in silver liquid, the crisp sound of glass sounded immediately, and the solidified body wrapped in silver also began to be peeled off little by little, turning into a little star to float and disappear.

The puddle of black liquid on the ground also seemed to be absorbed by the earth, just like the dries up river water. And the sawtooth dagger inserted in the trunk has also turned into a black liquid flowing down the trunk, but the liquid has gradually evaporated in mid-air before it touches the ground.

In an instant, the purgatory kobold who had been working hard with Sean before, completely disappeared in front of Sean, without leaving a trace. Had it not been for the tree trunk pierced by the serrated dagger that left a hole, Sean seemed to feel that he must have been in some kind of illusion just now.

In this world, this happens when only one creature dies.

Unsigned summoned creatures!

Summoning magic is a magic of life. Creatures that appear through summoning magic, because they are limited by the powerful magic power and will of the summoner, will be weakened to a certain extent in the display of their strength. Only the summoned creatures that have signed a contract can display their true strength. But this kind of contract signing is based on the soul, and many magicians can only sign one summoned creature in their lifetime, so the magicians who are good at summoning magic naturally dare not sign this kind of contract with the summoned creature casually.

Furthermore, although the summoned creatures that have signed the contract can exert their true strength and have the ability to survive on the main plane, once they die, they will damage the contract magician very seriously. Even on certain dark battlefields, they will even target the magician's contract creatures to make them bigger and weaken the opponent's strength to the greatest extent.

The related content about the summoned creatures appeared in Sean's mind.

But, knowing these things doesn't help Sean's situation at all. And the most important point is that after killing the purgatory kobold, Sean didn't even get any experience points. Not only that, but none of the equipment on the purgatory kobold was dropped. For Sean, it was definitely a loss-making business.

Fighting for life, it's fine if there is no experience value. As a result, because it is a summoned creature, he did not even give a piece of equipment on his body. Sean was very annoyed this time. In addition, the hatred for the Medusa Chamber of Commerce has risen several steps.

In addition to the Medusa Chamber of Commerce, who else can command an infernal creature?

However, the ensuing questions also puzzled Sean: No one in the Medusa Chamber of Commerce should be able to command a purgatory creature. You know, kobold purgatory can be regarded as a person with a head and a face in the kobold tribe. It is equivalent to a nobleman in human society. This is not something that everyone can command, even if it is just a summoned creature, it has the right. Refuse to obey.

Judging by the patience and high IQ behavior of this purgatory kobold, it is definitely not the kind of creature that will obey the call inexplicably, so the remaining possibilities are forced summons and forced orders. But if you can forcibly summon a Kobold with a Tier 3 profession, the opponent must be at least Tier 4 or higher. If it is a Tier 4 profession, then it is definitely better for the opponent to shoot in person than to get a summoned creature. Threatening.

Sean quickly filtered through the Medusa Chamber of Commerce those people who could summon the purgatory creatures, and found that these people had no possibility of shooting at all. Judging from the current age and time, these people are either far away in other countries, or are conducting some secret experiments, or even went to other places to plan all kinds of chaos. How can they care about Tindes in such a small territory? Chaotic situation.

Suddenly, Sean suddenly thought of someone!

"Black magic books, large magic robes, and a messy impression." Xiao En's brow furrowed deeper and deeper. "It was the third expansion at the beginning, and the era of magic technology has begun to develop...according to the timeline. Ten years ago, it was 1871, and now it is exactly 1871. The future Demon Warlock of the Medusa Chamber of Commerce seems to be doing experiments here at Tindes at this moment."

In an instant, all the relevant memories of this demon warlock were completely awakened in Sean's mind.

In the original game, when the third expansion was released, the time span in the game jumped from 1879 to 1881, and the magic device technology entered the formal research and development stage, and it was the first to spread among the royal families and great nobles of various countries. And as the most important update in the third expansion, a year later (1882 in the miracle calendar) the demon warlock opened the gate of the abyss and dropped the fifth legion of purgatory demons onto the main plane. It was a game. The war that swept over half of the continent's countries was also a milestone for Magic Device Technology to officially appear on the mainland stage.

In the third expansion, this demon warlock is the last boss. According to the tracing of the party's roots in the game, the demon warlock's life was finally thoroughly investigated: it was ten years ago, that is, in 1871, in Puerto Roa. Gleason Tindes of the Kingdom conducted an extremely secret experiment to transform his race from a human into a demon.

If it was just this, Sean would not have noticed anything. What really made him suspect was that he had seen this post on the forum before, and it clearly stated that the demon warlock and Tingde It seems that Earl Mario of Sling has some kind of secret agreement, and he is also an important help for Earl Mario to become Lord Tindes. Of course, another thing that reminds Sean of the other party's identity is that Fire Dragon Poison is a toxin that purgatory demon likes most.

Although the Demon Warlock in the third expansion does not have a name, Sean still believes that the other party is now Mudds! Because he not only fully matches the original post in terms of timeline and behavior, but also makes Sean feel very familiar in appearance. Although the demon warlock in the third expansion is already a semi-demonic image, if you are careful In retrospect, the two still have a lot in common.

At least, both are also wearing large magic robes, holding black magic books, and having short maroon hair.

"I've avoided this storm and prepared to leave this place of right and wrong, you are actually coming to trouble me!" After trying to understand this, Xiao En's face became angry, "Okay! Since you Medusa Chamber of Commerce If the people who are determined not to make me feel better, then I will definitely not make you feel better!... Others don't know what Fire Dragon Poison is about, but I know very well that if you want to take the righteous name so much, I will let You know, this kind of title is not so easy to pick up."

Sean picked up the scabbard, retracted the long sword into the scabbard, turned around and ran towards Cerroda Village. As he ran, he murmured: "I didn't take the first kill of the demon warlock, but I heard that the first kill will definitely drop the book of the devil. It seems that it should be the black book, the devil The book may make Cecilia's fire magic more proficient.... And the heavy armored knight Martin used seems to be a halberd, which is obviously better than the old Fred in material, which can also save a fortune. Weapon replacement fee."

Before the battle started, Sean had already begun to calculate how much benefit he could get from the Mario Earl's camp. And just a rough calculation, Sean found that killing everyone in the Earl Mario's camp, the harvest was very rich, let alone the wealth that the Lord Earl might have collected over the years, he alone The equipment of this group of people is enough to arm several Alfred.

Just thinking about it, Sean's idea of going to Earl Mario to trouble him became even stronger. When I ran this way, I seemed to be more energetic. Not only did he not feel sore in his waist and legs, but he also didn't feel dizzy because of his mentally exhausted head.

.....

In Royce Manor, Mudds, who was negotiating something with Earl Mario and Martin, suddenly frowned, then turned his head and looked at the book with a black cover that he had placed on the desk. Because of Mudds' sudden movement, Earl Mario and Martin also stopped talking, turned their heads and looked at the book, but their faces were obviously puzzled.

Suddenly!

Along with the sound of a "whoop", a group of purple-black flames suddenly emerged from the black-covered book.

The burning of the flame seemed a bit strange. It was supposed to be a flame that completely ignited the entire book. It seemed to have been squeezed. It only emerged from the inside of the book, and then spread to the four sides of the plane, and yes. The book itself has no influence at all. After burning like this for a few seconds, the flames in the book finally went out. Mudds walked over with a stride and reached out to turn over. It happened to be the burning page, but this page was not what everyone imagined. Completely slightly, but completely blank.

But Mudds knew that there should have been a kobold purgatory on it, and that kobold purgatory was the summoning object he summoned to find Sean trouble. Only at this moment, the purgatory kobold completely disappeared from the page.

"What's the matter?" Count Mario asked with a look of surprise.

"The guy named Sean is really not easy." Mudds said in a deep voice, "The kobold of Purgatory imprisoned in the Book of Sacred Books was solved by him.... Congratulations, Lord Earl, you found another talent."

Earl Mario laughed happily after hearing Mudds's words, with a proud look on his face. Obviously Mudds' flattery made him very comfortable. But he seemed to think of something in general, and Earl Mario asked: "He wouldn't know that we were testing his abilities?"

"Please rest assured, Lord Earl, he's afraid he doesn't even know what Kobold Purgatory is." Mudds said softly, "There are not a few people in this world who can find Kobold Purgatory, Mutant Kobold and Kobold at first glance. The difference between these three. Even those who look at the spire, except for a few old monsters, everyone else needs to be dissected to discover the subtle differences inside."

"That's fine." Count Mario said with a smile, "Go and arrange a meeting with this Sean for me."