

Lord of War Vol 2-281

Chapter 281: .The Will of the Barbarians of the North

Amidst the billowing smoke and dust, a large force soon appeared at one end of the horizon.

This is a well-equipped and large-scale infantry army.

As the private army of the Hastings family under the territories of Tin Chiin, this army is one-third of the entire territory.

The Pentium, which is full of tens of thousands of people, is of course not so light. Even if it is not comparable to the cavalry charge, it can definitely be regarded as powerful.

The leader of this army is a middle-aged man.

He is Domingo's uncle, a direct member of the Hastings family, and he is responsible for the training of the private army throughout the territory. Although there is still a gap compared to Domingo, in the entire Hastings family, his leading talent is also second only to Domingo. Of course, this is excluding Thain. If Thain's If his identity is recognized, then the middle-aged man can only be placed in third place.

However, it is precisely because Thain's identity has not been recognized that this army will be commanded by him.

Of course, he can command only these ten thousand private soldiers. The command of the Kingdom's 2nd Cavalry Regiment is not on him, but on Taylor.

As for Domingo and Thain, neither of them came to the front line in person.

Not every lord is like Sean, who is always at the forefront in the event of a war.

But judging from the fact that Domingo sent a direct family member and Taylor, it is obvious that he is very concerned about the attack on the Dai Consul.

The smoke and dust billowed, and the army in the Pentium had a magnificent momentum.

But after continuing to advance for nearly a hundred meters, the army finally found an army intercepting them on their way forward.

If this private army of the Hastings family is a wave of chaos, then the army intercepting them at the moment is a reef.

The entire army has been lined up in a square formation. The lineup is very compact and there is no gap at all. At first glance, you can see that the cooperation of this army is very tacit, and the military quality is very high. If it is changed for anyone to form such a phalanx. Turnkey would certainly not react, but at this moment, the phalanx in front of him was the northern barbarian who was recognized as the least suitable for being a soldier in the whole continent!

Tenqi. Hastings was only slightly surprised, and immediately calmed down. No matter how disdainful he was when he heard about the Iron Wings army, but now he no longer has this mentality, because as the commander of the family private soldiers of Tin Chiin, he is very clear about the army under his command. What kind of quality is it, and there is nothing comparable to steel wings.

However, Turnkey did not have the slightest concern.

He knew that his army might not be particularly good, but when it comes to fighting, he doesn't fear anyone at all. In recent years, he has been taking this private army to suppress the bandits and robbers in the territory, but he has not fought less in battle. He is convinced that even if his army is not as good as the opponent, he will never be inferior to this so-called steel wing in combat.

The northern barbarians are not suitable to be soldiers, this sentence is not just to say.

Turnkey's hand was raised. The entire running army has already begun to slow down, with a sneer at the corner of his mouth: heavy infantry? Perhaps it has an advantage when dealing with cavalry. But without the cooperation of any other arms. Heavy infantry is a dish, even light infantry can easily defeat a heavy infantry regiment, because no country on the mainland has ever dared to form a pure heavy infantry directly, usually in a mixed infantry regiment. There will be a formation regiment, which is specifically used to prevent cavalry charge and raid.

Tenqi has secretly laughed at Pandan's ignorance in his heart. If he knew that the steel wings were a pure heavy infantry army. He brought 20,000 people directly over and it was enough to destroy this army, and there was no need for Taylor and his 30,000 light horses.

Watching Turnkey and his 10,000 soldiers start to release the speed of the buffer, and quickly change into an attack formation during the run, Anno's face did not fluctuate at all. He just also raised the steel gun in his hand and pointed to the front, and the entire steel wing began to greet the enemy in front with a neat and unified pace.

The earth began to tremble.

It was not because of Turnkey and his 10,000 people, but because of the advancement of steel wings. This army, which in the eyes of many people, is basically waste wood, is moving in a neat and unified step and unswervingly moving forward. . Every time the five thousand people raised their feet, there was only one heavy roar, as if a giant was constantly advancing. At this moment, in Turnkey's eyes, the steel wings suddenly became taller. The vigorous murderous aura even felt a tremor in his heart.

how is this possible?

This is Turnkey's first thought.

But how would he know that for the northern barbarians, being able to eat is their greatest happiness. Therefore, when others complained about the exhaustion of training, the Northland barbarians never stopped for a moment. They knew that their enlightenment was not good, but they were willing to spend more time practicing how to form a neat square. , How to maintain the unity of the forward rhythm, how to change the formation in the offensive, how to shoot, how to shoot.

Even people like Anno bit the bullet and worked hard to learn those words that seemed to him to be meaningless, and even followed William to learn what tactics are, what is tactical judgment, and what is strategic vision. Before becoming a follower of Sean, Anno would never think that he would have such a day no matter how whimsical he was. So he was grateful to Sean and William, and it was because of gratitude that he would work hard to learn these things. .

This is the iron will of the northern barbarians!

If Sean is here at this time, then he can find that the original steel wings had only a gray light but it was condensed into reality at this time, exuding a kind of almost brilliant brilliance!

This kind of brilliance, if Xiao En sees it, he will never be unfamiliar, because this is the sign of the military upgrade!

At this moment, Steel Wing has finally been promoted from a quasi-level four army to a real level four army!

Army: Steel Wings

Strength: Level 4

Number: 5011

Commander: Anno

Commander skills-steady forward: When the skills are activated, all soldiers in the army will not enter a state of fatigue and weakness

Morale: Fearless

Faith: a devout follower (the army will never be defeated)

War Skills: None

Army advantage: the will of the northern barbarians (when the composition of the army is all northern barbarians, all abilities are increased by 50%)

The brilliance of this brilliance is not visible to the naked eye, it is more like a sublimation of the soul. But Turnkey could not see this brilliance. However, he could feel the change in the momentum of the steel wings, which seemed to be a bit more aggressive than before, which made a bad thought vaguely rise in his heart. However, since Turnkey had decided not to underestimate the steel wings, he certainly would not continue to blindly let the army attack when this kind of thought rose from the depths of his heart.

He quickly ordered the army to be divided into two parts. Three thousand archers were left behind, about 500 meters away from the steel wings. This distance was just right to give full play to the maximum power of all archers. The seven thousand soldiers in the former army consisted of two types of soldiers. The front was light infantry in leather armor. Their weapons were short swords and round shields. Its role is to entangle the enemy and create as much chaos as possible; behind the four thousand light infantry, there are three thousand halberds. Once the light infantry in front creates a sufficient scale of chaos, these halberds With the advantage of maintaining a mid-range distance, the * will begin to carry out the enemy's interspersed tactics like a sharp blade. Once the enemy's position is successfully divided, the rest will be mermaid.

This set of tactics. In Turnkey's hands, he has already played well.

Almost no thinking is required. Turnkey's hand suddenly fell, and three thousand arrows formed the first wave of arrows, which had already been drawn down.

"Meat!"

An Nuo let out a cold drink.

In an instant, after hearing another tidy roar suddenly, five thousand steel-winged soldiers immediately raised their heavy shields on top, and in a blink of an eye, there was an extra layer on the heads of these northern barbarians. A defensive cover composed of heavy shields. What is even more surprising is that the whole set of movements is as smooth as clouds and flowing water, without the slightest pause or intermission.

"Ding-"

The rain of arrows flew down, but it was impossible to wear these heavy shields at all, or even embedded in the shield surface. There was only a sound of clanging like hail.

Whether it was Turnkey or the soldiers under his command, they were a little dumbfounded at this moment. They never thought that the experience of steel wings in dealing with bow and arrow attacks was so sophisticated. Originally, Turnkey was planning to bully the difference in actual combat experience between the two armies, but by looking at the actions of the steel wings, they knew that their actual combat experience would definitely not be so bad.

In fact, it is true, or that the steel wings are much more seized than the private army led by Ting Qi.

While these people were still looking for the bad luck of the bandits, Iron Wings had already deployed defenses in the Panxiadi Rift, and had repeatedly fought against Jingrui troops in other territories. The growth gained from this actual combat experience is of course better than Ting. These private troops led by Qiin are faster.

Not to mention that Steel Wings has been officially promoted to a Tier 4 army. Even if it is still the previous strength, this army will never be the opponent of Steel Wings-of course, it is okay to cause a certain degree of damage. But at this moment, Turnkey had made one of the most fatal mistakes-even if he felt that he valued the steel wings enough, his inner pride still made him look down on this army of northern barbarians.

So at this moment, still adopting the cutting tactics that use infantry as cavalry is obviously a fatal mistake!

You should know that the steel wings are not a heavy infantry specially used to resist the cavalry, they are not the kind of iron cans that can't move at all!

"Meat skewers!"

Seeing that the enemy soldier in the front was less than two hundred meters away from his side, Anno gave a new combat command in a deep voice.

I saw all the northern barbarians suddenly stopped, then put down the heavy shield in their hands, and slowly drew out the short spear they carried in the enemy's somewhat dazed * se.

Seeing this scene, Turnkey's face changed suddenly.

But without waiting for any new instructions from him, Iron Wing has already thrown out the short spear in his hand!

Five thousand short guns!

made a sharp whistling sound in the low air, and then fell into the array of light infantry rushing forward.

These short guns are all high-quality weapons specially bought by Sean. Their sharpness hardly needs to be doubted. Coupled with the strength of the northern barbarians and the distance of just two hundred meters, how can these lightly armed infantry's equipment resist? What about this round of gun shooting?

In almost an instant, more than half of the lightly armed infantry fell.

In an instant, there was a wailing sound on the battlefield.

But this is not the end, because all the northern barbarians have already started to draw a second shotgun, and then throw it again without hesitation!

Turnkey's face se, became extremely pale at this moment.

Chapter 282: .Steel Killing Array

Two waves of short guns were thrown, and a total of tens of thousands of short guns were thrown. The 7,000-strong force in front of us fell over 2,000 in an instant, and nearly 1,000 others were injured. .bique.

It can be said that just by throwing two waves of short guns, this army that was preparing to fight with the steel wings in close hand-to-hand strangulation has been abolished by half of its combat power!

Anuo glanced at the short gun of the people around him, showing a bit of regret on his face.

The standard equipment of steel wings is three short spears, a long spear, a heavy shield, and a chopper. Although they belong to the heavy infantry, they are not wearing heavy armor. They only use the rivet breastplate to protect a few vital points. , Even the skirts and boots of the regular heavy-armored infantry were not worn. Such a heavy infantry, of course, has a higher mobile surname, but in terms of defensive capabilities, it is by no means very good, otherwise Teenqi would not order the archer to attack first.

But Turnkey would never know that the first standard tactical maneuver that soldiers who join the steel wings need to learn is the Roman phalanx.

Of course, this square has naturally undergone some changes.

At least in the steel wings, unless it is a special armor-piercing or enchanted arrow, even the Mitsubishi armor-piercing arrow or the silver-tip armor-piercing arrow will hardly cause attrition to the steel wings. The reason why Anno will show regret is that there are too few short guns. It can only be thrown three times. Only the team led by Abaza and Quik is equipped with five short guns. Otherwise, they will not even be equipped with five short guns. It requires close hand-to-hand combat, as long as you keep throwing short guns to solve the opponent.

In the hand-to-head combat, Anno didn't have much confidence.

But Anno didn't know. The reason why he didn't have confidence was because he compared the Iron Wing with the Thunder Lion. If it was only compared with the private army in front of him, then the Iron Wing would be much stronger than them. It can even be said that after two short gun throws just now, the morale of this army has completely dropped to the bottom. At this moment, it has not been defeated and it can be regarded as Turnkey's well-trained.

Without any hesitation, Anno waved his hand again and ordered an attack. The formation of the Iron Wing troops remained unchanged, and they continued to advance at a steady pace.

Turnkey's face was pale, he couldn't figure it out anyway, why they could barely exert any strength when facing this army when they obviously had the advantage? The unbelieving Turnkey once again ordered the archers to release their arrows, and at the same time ordered all the remaining infantry to immediately charge. Although he did not know why these steel-winged troops did not throw the last short spear, he really did not dare to let the steel-wings throw. This last short gun was released, because the lethality was so amazing.

Although he knows that in a short distance, the lethality of a shotgun throw is far better than that of a bow and arrow, but he has never seen such an amazing shotgun throw.

But at this moment, he can no longer think about it, because the two sides have completely strangled together.

The two waves of arrow rain just now failed to cause any damage to the steel wings, but Turnkey knew that if he wanted to use a ranged attack to cause damage to the steel wings, he would only have to take advantage of the time when the two sides were completely strangling together. But he also knew that once he did this, it would also cause harm to his own soldiers, and even directly lead to the complete defeat of the frontline troops.

At this moment, Teenqi immediately fell into a kind of entanglement, because he did not expect that the army he trained by himself would be so weak!

is so weak that it can't beat an army of northern barbarians, which is ridiculous!

But the next moment, Turnkey's face changed again. It was no longer surprise, but horror!

On the battlefield, it is true that the steel wings and the enemy troops are completely strangling, but the changes in the situation are not as unbearable as Anno imagined.

The infantry in front of the enemy and the soldiers with steel wings almost collided with each other. Not to mention that they wanted to cause the collapse of the steel wings formation. They almost couldn't shake the front row of the steel wings. Instead, they were colliding with each other. In the middle, the roots were shaken by the heavy northern barbarians.

And once the front collision cannot stand firm, it will cause a momentary chaos in the front line because the troops in the back row want to eagerly keep up. If you are facing a hedge from other armies, this kind of small line chaos is of course negligible, but they are now facing a Jing Rui army that will never make any fatal mistakes, so there is almost no need for anything. Thinking, the northern barbarians in the front row had already erected their shields and spears, and saw rows of long spears pierced from behind the shield. When the spears were retracted, the tip of the spear and the front end of the gun body had already been stained red with blood, nearly a hundred. Only the light infantry in leather armor collapsed and fell straight down.

But this is not the end, because after this round of abruptly launched offensive, all the soldiers with steel wings have a handy sense of ease, so there is almost no need for Anno to give any new orders, the first half of the entire phalanx. Part of them immediately withdrew to the left and right without hesitation, and at the same time continued to move forward without stopping at all, and the spear in his hand was constantly piercing from behind the shield wall, but this time it was not doing it with full force.

Under such circumstances, in order to avoid the continuous large-scale attack by the steel wings, these private soldiers naturally have to keep moving with them. They still have this basic tactical quality. But unlike what they had imagined, they were not retreating and fighting, but advancing while resisting the attack. This scene looked like two troops passing by and greeting each other.

But Turnkey, who stood at a high point in the distance, could see very clearly.

And it is precisely because he can see clearly that his face becomes so horrified.

Because in his eyes, the entire phalanx of steel wings suddenly became a "concave" shape, and the soldiers under his command were like cattle and sheep being driven out, constantly being driven into the gap in the middle. Hardly need to think about it. Turnkey also understands that this is a typical mobile warfare pocket tactic. This tactic is not very clever. It can even be said that because it is an older tactic, many commanders have studied very thoroughly and want to be fooled. Is impossible.

But in fact, the army he trained with his own hands was not only fooled, but he found no problems at all, and was still advancing stupidly into his pockets.

Maybe five thousand people can't completely surround the remaining four thousand people, but as long as this tactical formation is completely completed, then the army under his command will probably be completely abolished. And to break an already completed pocket formation, then a strong intervention by the third army is necessary, but no matter what the final result is, Turnkey knows that those soldiers who enter the pocket may hardly survive. NS.

This can be known from the ferocity of the northern barbarians of Iron Wing.

If before today, someone told the Thunj Northern Barbarian that he can also become a soldier and can perform so well, then he will sneer in return.

"She hit!" Teenqi is also a decisive person. After he understood that he could not keep the infantry in any way, he did not hesitate to treat them all as abandoned children, but even if it seemed that the abandoned children had to use them for the last point. Do it, "she strike, give me all the arrows in the shortest time!"

"But my lord..." An archer glanced at his own unit that had completely entered the steel wing pocket, and said hesitantly, "If she strikes at this time, the biggest casualties will be us..."

"Do you think I can't see it?" Turnkey roared furiously, "Are you going to watch our people die? Now, desperately hit me, these brothers are killing you A chance in exchange! This is the only chance to damage that * army from a distance!"

just hesitated for a while, all the archers quickly chose to obey the order.

This distance is not a problem for them, but it is very difficult to accurately target soldiers with steel wings. But they also knew very well that even though they had never seen that strange shield phalanx, they knew that their attacks did not have any effect in that state, unless they used stronger arrows.

A large number of arrows began to desperately fell towards the battlefield of Steel Wings and Tin Chiyin's private army. Because they only pursued the frequency of she strikes, their strength would naturally decrease slightly. But in spite of this, the arrows are affected by the gravity bonus from the air. These falling arrows can still cause terrible damage. Hundreds of unprepared northern barbarians were killed by these arrows on the spot. .

This is still the first battle attrition in Steel Wing since the start of the war!

Seeing such a desperate attack by the enemy, Anno immediately understood the enemy's intentions. He immediately no longer hesitated and hesitated, and immediately ordered the army to change its position again. The entire steel-winged force immediately began to move directly from both sides. In the middle, the enemy force was completely cut into two parts abruptly.

Those Ting Qi who got into the pocket were immediately surrounded by private soldiers from all directions, but since the steel wings encircled these, of course they would not have any idea of catching them alive. The steel-winged soldiers in the innermost circle began to squeeze toward the center. They used heavy shields to resist the opponent's desperate attack, and constantly compressed the opponent's activity space. The spear will immediately pierce the encirclement circle, and screams will be repeated for a while.

The steel-winged soldiers on the periphery did not participate in this strangulation. They still kept facing outwards, and then set up their shields and guns, and their formation was actually a defending defensive formation. But at this moment, these steel-winged soldiers obviously thought too much, because Turnkey ordered the sheer attack regardless of the enemy and us, which had completely collapsed his entire private army. At this time, those who were lucky enough to not enter the encirclement. The private soldiers were thinking about how to escape, how could they continue to come and fight these steel-winged soldiers.

As for the steel-winged soldiers in the middle, they also did not join the siege. Instead, they held up a heavy shield to resist the arrow rain from the sky.

This is the tactical formation of attack and defense that William tailored for Iron Wing: Iron Kill Array!

With the screams getting weaker and weaker, the encirclement in the middle of the steel killing array has become smaller and smaller. Everyone knows what this means.

A large amount of blood has dyed the land under the steel wings into red, and the blood that continues to flow is almost about to form a stream of red.

And at this moment, there was a tremor in the earth again!

On the left and right sides of the Iron Wings army, two cavalry units with exactly the same banner appeared at the same time.

Dabion 2nd Cavalry Regiment!

Chapter 283: .The first hole card!

Seeing the arrival of reinforcements from the Kingdom's Second Cavalry, Turnkey's pale face finally recovered a trace of blood, but there was still a bit of grief in his eyes. If it weren't for Taylor's insistence on splitting the attack from the left and right, the Kingdom's Second Cavalry Regiment could have arrived at the battlefield ten minutes earlier. In this case, it only needed to cooperate with the infantry's ground advance, and one round of charge could easily solve this * northern group. To barbarians.

But all this, because of Taylor's insistence on splitting and attacking, led to the end of the entire ground force almost being wiped out.

Of course, in fact, it is no different from the wipeout.

Turnqi knew very well that from the moment he ordered a strike that did not distinguish between the enemy and us, it would be impossible for the thousands of soldiers who had fled to be gathered back, and it was even more impossible for those wounded to survive. In the mixed army of 10,000, only 3,000 archers were left alive-Turnkey glanced at the bows and arrows, and he knew that these people would probably leave soon after returning.

There is no soldier. He would like a commander who will abandon his subordinates at any time, unless he cultivates an army of dead soldiers, or a military * with outstanding personal charm.

Turnkey's mouth was bitter. He knew that even if he could win this battle, he would face heavy punishment when he returned, because the entire 10,000 private soldiers were broken in his hands.

But can he blame Taylor?

The Second Cavalry Regiment of the Kingdom was originally famous for its rescue. From the division of troops to the formulation of the tactical route to the arrival on the battlefield, the entire process took only ten minutes. But he just couldn't hold on for more than ten minutes - at this moment, the Turner Wizard was awakened in amazement, that the Iron Wing did not rely on the fortifications of the camp to resist, but chose to take the initiative to attack, or on such a flat ground!

Turnkey's pupils shrank suddenly, and his instinct told him that this was a trap.

But. What kind of trap is it?

.....

Taylor is different from Turnkey. He is not only a genuine general, but also a powerful upper-level golden powerhouse.

He just glanced at the situation on the battlefield, and he had completely judged that the 10,000 private soldiers of the Hastings family had been completely folded here. But even if I saw it with my own eyes, Taylor's face still looked strangely unbelievable: how is this possible! ?

He knew that from the division of the troops to the rush to here, the entire time would never exceed ten minutes, because his command was the Second Cavalry Regiment, known for its fastest speed in the entire Kingdom of Darbion. However, in less than ten minutes, the 7,000 soldiers of the Hastings family were completely defeated by a 5,000-man army on the frontal battlefield, and the enemy army did not even have any casualties.

Although after going to Pandaling. Taylor had already realized that the Iron Wings army was likely to be stronger than the 30,000 private soldiers trained by the Hastings' huge investment, but he did not expect that it would be so strong! In ten minutes, a nearly non-destructive battle can easily annihilate 2,000 more troops than your own. This has definitely reached the level of Jing Rui's army!

Iron Wings, this army composed purely of northern barbarians is a Jing Rui army?

Taylor never believed it. If it were Alfred's Thunder Lion as the commander in command, then he might still be able to accept it.

A mob composed of a group of northern barbarians...

Taylor's eyes have turned red. A strong murderous aura filled his body.

This killing intent quickly spread to the cavalry behind Taylor. At this moment, every cavalry began to become excited and enthusiastic after feeling Taylor's killing intent. Their faces have also become hideous, and their eyes have become blood red like Taylor did. When the killing intent radiated by tens of thousands of people is condensed into one body, there seems to be a vaguely crimson aura in this cavalry unit. Condensed in the sky.

"kill!"

Taylor lifted his anger and let out a whistling sound.

"kill!"

The cavalry of the 2nd Cavalry Regiment of Dabion, who followed Tyler, responded with an equally loud roar.

At this moment, the condensed killing intent floating above this cavalry unit almost exudes an awe-inspiring and terrifying aura. The speed of the entire army's charge suddenly accelerated a lot.

This is an army with war skills!

Any army can become a Tier 3 army only if it obtains one of the three points of war skills, army superiority, and belief ownership, and with two bonuses, it is naturally a Tier 4 army. If it has three items, it is a level five army.

Among the three abilities, the trickiest is the three-level army with war skills.

If the commander's ability is strong enough, and the ability to command in a battle is seized, then a third-level army with warfare skills can fully exert the strength of a quasi-fourth or even a fourth-level army.

The Dabion 2nd Cavalry Regiment has been able to gain a foothold in the Dabion Kingdom in recent years, and has gradually become a distinctive army, because this army has a war skill: angry charge. Although possessing a war skill, in fact this war skill is largely influenced by the commander, and belongs to an unstable war skill. But if this war skill can be stabilized, then the Second Cavalry of Darbion The strength of the regiment can even be stronger.

Only at this moment, because of Taylor's anger, this cavalry unit spontaneously displayed this skill.

If Sean is here, he can see through the real eye. At this moment, there is a faint red brilliance covering this cavalry unit. This brilliance has not only increased the charge speed and impact force of the entire unit, but also Also increased the attack power of the troops. Of course, the angry person will definitely not pay attention to his own defense, so in fact, angry charge is still a double-edged sword.

If in other circumstances, Taylor launched the entire army's angry charge is not wrong, and it can even be said to be the best combat option.

But in the current situation, he rashly launched an angry charge, which is by no means a good decision.

Because at this moment, the Thirty Thousand Dabion 2nd Cavalry Regiment did not gather together to initiate a charge, but attacked from both sides. Although everyone knows that the commander of this cavalry regiment is Taylor, it is actually equivalent to two troops at this moment.

As a result, the fifteen thousand people attacking from the left can't keep up with the force on the right commanded by Taylor himself.

It was just a blink of an eye, and Turnkey, who was standing on a high place, had already noticed that Taylor's flanking charge tactic had failed.

Because the two sides are completely out of touch!

Although Anno is also the commander-in-chief, his strategic vision is obviously not enough, so in fact, it is impossible to see this almost failed charge tactic. It's just that whether it fails or succeeds, there is no difference for Anno, because William told him that there is no need to worry about this cavalry unit, so Anno will naturally not take this cavalry at heart.

Even if this cavalry regiment has 30,000 people!

"Abaza! Quinn!" Anno snorted in a deep voice.

The five hundred people led by these two people are the two strongest teams in the entire steel wing. They are not only equipped with the terrible heavy tower shield, the shock shield. He also carried five short guns, and he was not even wearing an orange chest protector, but a half-length armor, and jing steel boots on his feet, which greatly strengthened the defense capabilities of these northern barbarians. .

I heard Anno's roar at this moment. The two people on both sides of the entire army phalanx naturally knew what it meant.

I saw Abaza looked excitedly at the enemy army that was getting closer and closer to him, and shouted loudly: "All give me a twelve point jingle. If anyone loses the chain at this time, you guys today. The rice is mine!"

Compared with Abaza's roar, the calm and sophisticated Quinn just said a few words, instantly making the northern barbarians who followed him become even more crazy. Because what he said was: "If you lose the chain, you have no food for three days."

Hearing these words, the eyes of a whole thousand Northland barbarians instantly turned red.

Snatching food from the barbarians in the North is no different from cutting off other people's money.

Watching the menacing cavalry regiment charge. These northern barbarians did not have the slightest fear at all. They looked at each other as if they were looking at running meat, and they were even stronger than those of the Dabian 2nd Cavalry Regiment in terms of momentum.

"Boom!"

Only a loud noise was heard, and the northern barbarians on the left and right had already set up a new defensive formation. At the same time, the impact shield was activated, and the pegs in the shield were completely driven into the ground, and at the same time, they were pressed against the impact shield one by one.

Almost at the moment when all the pegs of the impact shield were driven into the ground, a brilliance that was invisible to the naked eye flashed across these two squares.

After the two shock shield defense arrays were laid down, the remaining northern barbarians did not hesitate to push one by one behind these northern barbarians, forming a thick wall of flesh. Although they are fearless, it does not mean that they are really fools. The charge of a total of 15,000 cavalry is definitely not a joke, especially when the enemy is still flanking the left and right sides. This double The collision of impact forces is not only the most hurtful to the outermost person who is responsible for resisting it, but also the most hurtful to the middle-most person in the entire legion, because they need to withstand the two impacts from left and right.

But the only good news is that the two cavalry units seem to be out of touch, so this double impact will not work.

Less than a minute after the formation was put down, the cavalry unit that launched an angry charge led by Taylor had a fierce collision with the unit of Abaza!

"boom!"

A strong clashing sound suddenly sounded, accompanied by the neighing of war horses and various screams.

Time seems to have stopped at this moment.

The air seemed to freeze at this moment.

Whether it is Turnkey or Taylor, it is completely  at the moment!

Because they imagined that they would smash through the entire steel wing phalanx with a single blow. Instead, at the moment when the collision occurred, almost all the cavalry that rushed in the front were knocked on their backs. Many riders were thrown out directly, and then fell heavily into the square formation of steel wings. There are even many people who were smashed into meatloaf directly after this collision, even if it was a war horse under the crotch.

Under such a violent charge, it is completely impossible to slow down after discovering an accident.

So even if the cavalry who first hit the impact shield did not die immediately, when the horses behind them hit one after another, the number of casualties quickly began to expand. And at this moment, let alone maintaining the integrity of the formation, even if it is to stop the chaos caused by the blocking of the charge, it is not easy.

encountered such a heavy defeat, and with the war skills turned on, Taylor obviously could not accept this result anyway.

Although he was not injured in any way because of the powerful strength of the upper gold powerhouse, it is obviously impossible for his mount to have such good luck.

At this time, the cavalry regiment from the left finally slammed into the shock shield defensive line that Quinn was holding.

This time, both Taylor and Turnkey could see clearly.

When the cavalry hit the iron wall with the steel wings spread out, Taylor found that the entire space suddenly swayed. Although Turnkey did not have the power to try to touch the rules, his eyes caught a lightness. The almost imperceptible mist shook in the air, and it was vaguely in the shape of a shield.

At this moment, even if Taylor and Turnkey were stupid, they had already seen it completely.

The cavalry regiment failed to charge or even suffered damage. The problem lies in these shields, which are larger than normal tower shields.

And these are obviously the real killers of this steel wing at the moment!

is also the lord of Pandaling who dared to let an infantry corps with only five thousand men to block the trump card of the 40,000 army!

Hardly need to think, Turnkey and Taylor know that they have been in the plan to adjust the tiger away from the mountain!

Chapter 284: . Mensor's plan

Just as the steel wings intercepted the charge attack of the 2nd Cavalry Regiment of Dabion, on a hill about a few hundred meters away from here, there was also an army waiting. It's just that this army is not an army belonging to the Hastings family. Of course, it no longer belongs to Sean's army. This army was transferred to Florence by Sean some time ago, and now their commander is the door. Suo Helian.

Although Mensuo was unable to personally train the army because of the short period of time, after some means of establishing prestige, it is not too difficult to command this army now.

At this moment, in addition to the Mensor who commanded this army, there were Florence, Dante and other strong men responsible for protecting Florence.

Although William did not tell Mensuo what they need to be responsible for in this battle, Mensuo is also an arrogant person. How can he tolerate accepting a territory for nothing? William Bai gave him three thousand troops, which already made him feel that his dignity was somewhat damaged. If he did not contribute to the capture of Ting Qi's collar at this moment, then he would not be the door.

However, there are many situations in which power is output.

It's a must to enter the Tin Chi Yin collar, but the timing is equally important.

Regardless of Florence's views, since he is a follower of Florence and wants to help Florence grow his family, then he cannot let Florence's allies surpass them in overall strength. Therefore, even if the steel wings were besieged by the 30,000 cavalry charge, he did not order to attack, but chose to hibernate quietly and wait for a perfect harvest time.

After all, with his current strength, even if there are several golden powerhouses, it will cost a heavy price to defeat the 2nd Cavalry Regiment of Darbion. At least these three thousand soldiers will definitely not be left with many people. Therefore, Mensuo made up his mind. He would definitely not order an attack before the Steel Wings and the Second Cavalry Regiment of Dabion were defeated. Only in this way could he achieve the greatest results for Florence.

However, when the 2nd Cavalry Regiment of Darbion collided with the steel wings, the result was completely unexpected.

Even if he thought that William had just left this army here, but he did not think that this army could stop the charge of the 2nd Cavalry Regiment of Dabion, at least the formation would definitely be cut. But in fact, the steel wings really blocked the charge of the 2nd Cavalry Regiment of Dabion, and even caused a lot of damage to them-almost after blocking the charge of the cavalry, it was another round of shotgun throwing!

This time, not only Turnkey, but Mensuo already knew why Steel Wing left this last short gun and used it.

It turned out that they had already known that the Second Cavalry Regiment of Dabion would attack here, so these short guns were reserved for these cavalry. Moreover, with such a distance, the throwing of these short guns will not be the same as the previous two attacks. There will be too much waste. Mensuo does not even need to be on the scene to know that by resisting the chaos and each other caused by this time. Trampling, coupled with the throwing of a short gun, can cause at least six thousand casualties.

"It's not easy!" Mensuo stared at the battlefield ahead, and gave a heartfelt compliment.

Hearing what Mensuo said, the people present were a little surprised: How could Mensuo say such a thing?

You must know that in the fascist kingdom, even if you saw the army trained in Turin with your own eyes, you were even forced to do nothing by Turin. Mensuo never praised him. The look in his eyes was simply a kind of disdain and sarcasm. But at this moment, no matter how the people present looked at it, they didn't think that the steel wings could be compared with the Turin army, but Menso gave a sincere compliment, which is of course surprising.

"It's really not easy." The thin old man standing next to Florence nodded, with a similar tone of approval.

If Mensuo's compliment just surprised them, and it is not too much to be valued, then the thin old man's words are enough to shock people.

"Mr. Pod, what are you saying is not easy?" Florence's face was also shocked unconcealed.

This thin old man is someone who has been with him since he was born in Florence. It is said that he was an orphan picked up by the police at first, and there is no need to doubt his loyalty. Even Pepe, Nana, the giant man in a hooded cloak, and the dead man who died to cover him were all trained by this person. It can be said that if there is no such thing as Bo The old man of Germany, then there will be no Florence today.

Therefore, Florence certainly respects this Pod, who is listed as a "guard" by Florence according to the jihadist card.

But since he was sensible to now, for more than ten years, he has rarely heard Bod praise anyone. But at this moment, he did not hesitate to praise after seeing the steel wings blocking the charge of the two hussars, and judging from the tone, it was obviously a sincere praise from the heart, which made Florence curious. NS.

"It's normal if you don't see it, because your strength hasn't reached a certain height." Pod said in a deep voice, "I think the reason why General Mensou would say it is not easy is because they can stop with just such a few people. The impact of the cavalry charge on both sides?"

"Indeed." Mensuo also respected Pod. "Even if it is a light cavalry, as long as it is formed in scale, the impact and impact of the charge are definitely not something ordinary people can withstand, let alone this army is not pure. Heavy infantry, at best, can only be regarded as armed and heavy shield soldiers. With a scale of 5,000 people, let alone blocking the impact from two directions at the same time, it is difficult to resist even one direction. I originally felt that facing such a situation. Charge, their formation will definitely be cut into two pieces."

"If it's a normal situation, it really can't stop it." Pod said in a deep voice, "Even if it's me, I can't stop a charge of this magnitude. Let alone me, even the lower sanctuary powerhouse is absolutely absolutely You will not stand alone on the assault route of a cavalry with a scale of more than 10,000."

Everyone knows the horror of the cavalry charge, and Bod's words have deepened everyone's impression of the cavalry charge.

But the problem is that the steel wings are really blocked.

"That's because there is a wall of rules." Seeing everyone's doubts, Pod did not continue to hide, but said, "I think the problem should be the tower shields in the hands of the northern barbarians on the left and right. Those towers. The shield is slightly different from the standard tower shields used by other northern barbarians, especially when they gather their strength, I even see the phantom of the Wall of Rules..."

"The Wall of Rules!" Dante exclaimed.

Obviously, Dante knows what it is.

"The wall of rules is the barrier of all the laws of this world. Legend has it that when the strength of some legendary powerhouses reaches a certain level, their actions will drive the power of the laws of this world, and if they choose to defend, then they themselves It is equivalent to a part of this world." Pod knew that many people were not clear, so he started to explain, "So the wall of rules is equal to a part of this world....Those cavalry crashing into this way is completely equivalent to moving towards The Wall of Rules hits it, and it's a strange thing to be able to break through the shield walls of those northern barbarians."

Speaking of this, Pod hesitated a little, and added: "If they can really break the shield wall of these northern barbarians, then we won't have to fight this battle. At least it's equivalent to a senior. The full blow of the legendary powerhouse."

Hearing Bod's words, everyone swallowed.

The image of the army of Steel Wings instantly became unpredictable in the eyes of everyone.

But in fact, this is not as exaggerated as Bod said.

The reason why the steel wings can block the charge of these cavalry is purely because of the special war skills inspired by the impact shield in their hands: the continental barrier!

If the 2nd Cavalry Regiment of Dabion is not a light cavalry unit, but a heavy cavalry unit, then the end will certainly not be so tragic. And if it were dragoons or lizard cavalry and other special cavalry units, then the formation would have already been broken. It's just a pity that the 2nd Cavalry Regiment of Darbion is a light cavalry unit, so they will naturally encounter the influence of the domain suppression effect, and this effect is "complete immunity".

Therefore, it was the Second Cavalry Regiment of Dabion, not the Iron Wings, that suffered heavy losses.

Of course, this other aspect is also because after activating the "Continental Bulwark" warfare skill, the two small units led by Abaza and Quinn are already a real level five army.

A level 5 army, even if there is only one strong combat unit, is enough to suppress a high-level golden strong, not to mention that the Dabion 2nd Cavalry Regiment is just a military army. At this moment, I lost my commander and suffered various impacts from short gun throws and failed charges. Morale has almost completely fallen to Ice Valley. What is even more well known is that a cavalry unit that cannot exert its mobility and charge capabilities is compared to light infantry. Even worse.

Mensuo was also a decisive person. He knew that his strategy to win more negotiations and living space for Florence by weakening the steel wings was no longer effective, so it would be meaningless to continue to delay the rescue without going to rescue. It will also make the people of Pandaren have opinions about Florence.

Mensuo would not think that the beauty who can design such a perfect quasi-strategy would not know his little actions.

But even if he knew it, the other party didn't say anything. Only now did Mensuo finally understand that he was still not strong enough.

Therefore, he did not hesitate at this moment and immediately ordered the entire army to attack, because even if the northern barbarians can fight, it is still difficult to be besieged by more than 20,000 people. If he does not support it, then the final result will be The steel wings will be wiped out. At that time, Darbion's 2nd Cavalry Regiment might have suffered heavy losses, but with the three thousand men in his hands, it was completely impossible to stop the continued invasion of Darbion's 2nd Cavalry Regiment.

Instead of causing such an irreparable loss, it is better to act now.

And as soon as he heard Mensor's order to attack, Yiqi was the first to go out, Dante, and his target was naturally Taylor, the deputy commander of the 2nd Cavalry Regiment of Dabion.

Chapter 285: .Calculation and Conspiracy

The war at the junction of Dayi and Tinkiin did not attract much attention.

In fact, when everyone knows that Domingo has invested as much as 40,000 troops on this battlefield, and the enemy has less than 10,000 troops at most, no one is interested in continuing to pay attention to this unsuspecting one. Battle.

More people's eyes have fallen on the border of Tin Chiin, where two small battles have completely broken out.

The Thunder Lion, which belonged to the Bandar leader, was suddenly led by Yedby to Tin Chiyin. Within two days, he captured the Great Boll Corridor of Tin Chiyin, and drove all the defenders out of the corridor area, and watched. The marching direction of the Thunder Lion seems to be Roves City.

This city is the second city that Tin Chiyin has invested heavily in. It has a population of nearly 70,000. It is less than four days away from Luomingen City, and it is even closer to Hastings Manor. Usually, when a banquet is held in Hastings Manor, some nobles living in the city will be invited a few days in advance, so people in Roves City are no strangers to Hastings Manor or Loming.

If this city is captured, then the entire southeastern part of the Tinkiin Neck will become the equivalent of falling under the control of the Pandan Neck.

But the real crisis does not stop there.

There is another army that launched the attack at the same time as the Thunder Lion, but this army only has more than 3,000 men, which is smaller in scale than the Thunder Lion. However, no matter how small it is, this army still fought a beautiful victory in the face of an enemy twice as large as theirs. Again, it took only two days. The Tin Chiin army, who was responsible for resisting this Panda-led army, once again. After being defeated, they could only regroup about thirty miles away from Luo Mingen, but their morale almost dropped to freezing point.

Even if it is no fighting spirit, it must not be overstated.

This time, there is no need for others to judge, and everyone knows that the goal of this army is Luo Mingen.

Those who are mindful just made a judgment on the map, and they have already understood that once the two armies are allowed to occupy Loming and Roves respectively, then Hastings Manor will become a turtle in the urn, because no matter which direction they flee, Neither can escape the encirclement of Panda's army. Once the Hastings Manor is captured and all the Hastings family members are captured, then this is tantamount to announcing the fall of the Tingkiin in disguise, and they don't even need to continue to march to the northeast of the Tingkiin—located in There is also an old castle where the Hastings family originated to the northeast of Tingqi, which is the last retreat of the Hastings family.

But if the encirclement formed here in the Hastings Manor can wipe out the entire Hastings family, then there is really no need to continue to the castle of the Hastings family.

It's just that many people don't even think about it. Why did Tin Chiyin lead another army with twice the strength of Panda, but was still beaten so that he could only retreat to the outskirts of Luomingen and regroup thirty miles away? Many people are very eager to understand the key details of this battle, but they also know that it is impossible to understand these details at this time, and once the war between Pandaling and Tingqiin is over, they think It is even more difficult to understand the details.

Only people like Sean and William know why they can win this battle so easily.

"Ano and the others will be fine?" Sitting in the newly established military camp, Sean frowned, obviously still a little uneasy.

"If the mainland barrier is really as powerful as you said, then there will be no big problem." William knew that Sean was a man of affection, and this time using steel wings as bait was indeed a death. Only because William had confidence in Sean, he would not hesitate to use this method, "We don't have time, so we can only make quick decisions."

But from William's words, Sean heard other meanings: "What do you mean by saying there is no big problem?"

"If there is only a unit of steel wings, even if it can block the charge of the Second Cavalry Regiment of Dabion and cause them to chaos, the disadvantage in numbers will definitely not be able to make up for the first time." William's voice was very calm and calm. It made everyone around him feel indifferent, "So the final result is that the entire army of Iron Wings died, and the Second Cavalry Regiment of Darbion will have about 10,000 people left."

"What!" Sean was shocked, Dang Even stood up immediately, "But you said..."

"Yes, I said there will be no problem, but this is based on a prerequisite." William still said calmly, "and this prerequisite..." Having said that, William glanced at Pepe and Nana and Nana, this made them suddenly feel a bit chilling, but William did not sell it. He knew when he could not say anything, and when he had to explain clearly: "Then it depends on the attitude of the door."

Pepe and Nana were shocked in their hearts. Although this reaction was not strong, they still couldn't escape the feeling of Rena.

If it wasn't for Sean's mind not here at the moment, the reactions of these two people would definitely not escape Sean's capture.

Obviously, both Pepe and Nana knew Mensor's plan.

"In the strategic plan this time, I didn't count Menso's army, but I knew that with his spleen, he would definitely lead the army to attack." William said in a deep voice, he didn't care if Pepe was still standing here. With Nana.

"Is there a difference?" Sean puzzled.

"Different positions." Rina suddenly wanted to understand. After all, she was a mercenary before, so she knew all these little tricks very well.

William showed an approving  se, nodded and continued: "If he counts his army, then he will be my subordinate this time in terms of position. But once he decides to send troops by himself, then in terms of position he will be my subordinate. It is our reinforcements, and this difference in stance will also determine how much he will exert in this war.... Anno and the others blocked the charge of the 2nd Cavalry Regiment of Dabion. There is no need to doubt at all, so the situation is very good. It will soon be in chaos. If Mensuo led an attack at this time, then it would surely inflict heavy damage on the 2nd Cavalry Regiment of Darbion, even though 8,000 men dealt with more than 20,000 cavalry..."

Having said that, William paused for a while, and then added: "More than that, there are likely to be thousands of private soldiers. The number of enemy troops should still be around 25,000.... But these are not important anymore. The barbarians of the North are notoriously tough. They will certainly not flee and retreat. In the face of this kind of army that is almost dead, plus Mensor's army from behind, they will definitely be able to drive away Dabiandi. The Second Cavalry Regiment."

"Run away?" Xiao En was taken aback for a moment.

"Do you really think you can eat those 40,000 people with only 8,000 people?" William gave Shaun a blank look. "If we can knock down 20,000 troops, we will make a lot of money.... So Mensuo will definitely do it. Ordered an attack to rescue Iron Wings, but the question is what time he would choose to send troops."

"Why choose?" Sean looked puzzled.

"Because we are allies." William was a little helpless in Sean's slow reaction. He didn't know why the Jingming Sean had such a performance, but when he said this, William looked at Na. Na and Pepe, he didn't believe that these two Florentine followers would not know Mensor's plan.

Even if they didn't know, William believed that they definitely had a way to get in touch with Mensuo, and would relay everything he said today to Mensuo. It's just that William didn't care at all. He was using arrogance now, even if Mensuo knew it, he still didn't want to act according to his plan. The only thing he can't be sure about is how heavy the casualties of the steel wings will be.

As for the iron wings and the entire army, it is impossible, unless Mensuo is willing to ruin the three thousand people in his hands, or even give up the Tin Qiyin.

"If there is an ally by your side who is much stronger than you, and the offensive and aggression are very strong, will you sleep and eat?" William saw that Sean was still a little bit confused, so he asked. , "In this world, if you want to have equal dialogue, then only if the strength of the two sides is the same can it be possible.... Especially since they have just escaped from the fascist kingdom."

Behind Pepe and Nana, there was already a cold sweat.

And Xiao En finally understood: "I understand, then you estimate how much the loss will be..."

"Yin's tactics and calculations are only an inferior method after all." William said lightly, "Mensuo is not the kind of person who digs his own grave, so he will definitely not let the steel wings be wiped out. The question is what he is like. Commander in command of... If he is smart enough, then he will definitely take action immediately when he sees that the Steel Wing has successfully blocked the 2nd Cavalry Regiment of Darbion. In this way, the Steel Wing will hardly have any loss, but the same Darbion The Second Cavalry Regiment will certainly not suffer too much. I estimate that it would be good if there were 5,000 casualties."

"If his strategic ability is only average..."

"Then the casualties of the steel wings will definitely not be too great." Almost before William could finish the remaining words, Sean had already interrupted William.

Others don't know what Mensor is, will William still not know?

The thirteenth guy among outstanding generals in mainland China.

Such people are not smart people, so what kind of people are smart people?

William didn't ask Sean why, because he knew that Sean was actually very accurate in seeing people. Since Sean chose to believe in Mensor, he didn't need to say anything, so he replied: "Since this is the case, then our actions are Speed up."

"What's the meaning?"

" The Hastings family concentrated their forces to take the Daj, it was just a way to move the tiger away from the mountain. If Mensuo is really as smart as you said, then the Dabian 2nd Cavalry Regiment will definitely receive the order to return assistance. , I guess it will be two or three days." William said in a deep voice, "So we must take Lomingen within these two days, otherwise, once the Second Cavalry Regiment of Dabion comes back, then It's that we were attacked by outflanks."

But at this moment, another urgent report came.

William took a look, his face changed slightly, but he soon returned to normal: "It seems I still underestimate Domingo Hastings."

"what happened?"

"Domingo has discovered that our side is the army where the coach is, so he gave up Roves and gathered all the remaining troops in the territory to Luomingen, and made it clear that he would fight us to the death." William sneered, "This Domingo is really not easy. He dared to adopt this desperate tactic. But it is really effective for us. Now the opponent's total force reaches 10,000, and we only have more than 2,000. The five-fold gap is no longer simple. We can rely on morale and tactics to solve the problem. As long as we launch a hedge on the front battlefield, we will have to be defeated."

"Then now..."

"Now we are constrained." William's face was also a little uncomfortable, "Alfred can only lead the troops to turn to Hastings Manor immediately.... We can only choose to go to Dayi now. To retreat over there, you must join forces with the steel wings and Mensor..."

But before William finished speaking, another urgent report came.

William frowned and opened the emergency report again, but this time his face was no longer depressed, but a kind of unspeakable shock: "Unexpectedly, the ability of this Mensor is really true. It's beyond my expectation! Order the entire army to withdraw immediately to the direction of Dayi's leader!"

Chapter 286: Thain Hastings

William would never think that this time the real commander of the army is not Domingo Hastings, but Thain Hastings.

Even what he thought was a wonderful way to break the game was not invented by Domingo. He did not have the courage to make a desperate move, otherwise he would not be just an earl. But Domingo does not, but Thain does. He is not a person who can only talk about military affairs on paper. Whether it is territorial governance or military strategy, he is not bad. If it were not because he was an illegitimate child, the heir of the Hastings family would have been early. There will be nothing wrong with Avi.

Of course, it's not too late now.

Tian has been officially recognized by Domingo at the Hastings family meeting yesterday and has become a member of the Hastings family.

If there is no accident—of course, that means he can win this battle, then he is the next heir to the Hastings family.

originally seemed to him to be a sure thing, but now it is an accident that shocked the entire Hastings family.

Even Domingo Hastings directly fell ill after hearing the news.

Seyin's face was uncertain, he just stared at the urgent report before him, and did not speak for a long time.

"Turnchi was killed, the first regiment was annihilated, Taylor was killed, and the 2nd Cavalry regiment of Darbion suffered heavy casualties. He has now retreated to the capital."

The words in the emergency report are very brief, but the significance they bring is extremely surprising.

Teenqi was killed, and Thain didn't feel it at all. Ever since he met Sean's troops in Void City, he already knew that the private army led by Tinki was not comparable to the opponent. This can be seen in the Lion of Thunder. The battlefield over there will know.

Six thousand against five thousand, the result was only two or three days, only three thousand people finally escaped to Roves.

If this result was acceptable to Thain, then 6000 people played against 3000, and the result was that 6000 people were defeated. This result made Thain unacceptable. Even if the opponent has a magician and a cavalry force that does not count the casualties, but if the number is twice the opponent, even if it can't win, at least it should be an orderly retreat, not a big rout!

But the fact is that 6,000 people only fled back to nearly 4,000, but the other side only suffered nearly 1,000 casualties.

The battle loss ratio of two to one does not seem to be a big deal, but the problem is that the opponent has only three thousand people!

Thain forced himself to be calm.

He took a few deep breaths and finally suppressed the resentment after seeing this urgent report. He originally wanted to rely on the back support of the 2nd Cavalry Regiment of Darbion, and then gather all the troops in his confinement to attack William's coach in an attack, a front and rear encirclement tactic, but now Darbion is second. The cavalry regiment withdrew from the battle, and the force he could use was only ten thousand people left. Thain was still a little helpless.

In fact, as long as the Dabion 2nd Cavalry Regiment does not retreat, but insists on returning, Thain is 100% sure that William and Sean can be left behind. And as long as these two people remain, then the war will be won by their Ting Qi, and he will be able to take it back no matter whether Rofus or other areas fall in the end. But he also knew very well that this time his father was able to bring the 2nd Cavalry Regiment of Dabion to participate in the war with Pandaren. Of course, it was because of the influence of Duke Nugus that the royal family acquiesced in this. This kind of behavior, otherwise, how could his father command this army to participate in the war between the nobles?

You know, the 2nd Cavalry Regiment of Darbion represents the army of the Kingdom of Darbion!

An army officially organized by the kingdom is involved in the conflicting war between the two nobles. Is this to start a national war?

So, if the 2nd Cavalry Regiment of Darbion had too many casualties, then this unit would definitely choose to withdraw from the dispute between the two nobles. It's just that Thain didn't expect that things would come so soon, and even Tyler was killed on the battlefield, which was a heavy blow to the Hastings family.

Because, now the Hastings family has only one golden power left.

Once even this golden powerhouse is dead, then this battle can be eliminated.

Because as long as the opponent has the courage to adopt decapitation tactics and successfully kill him as the commander, then the army under his command will completely fall into the chaos of losing the commander. With William's ability to command in battle, Thain believes that no matter how large an army loses its commander, it cannot pose any threat at all.

Perhaps others may not dare to take the risk of using decapitation tactics, because any commander who is not outstanding in personal strength will definitely have a jing sharp jing guard. This jing guard is used to prevent decapitation tactics. The stronger the army. The guards around its commander will be stronger. Thain knows that in the war between the southern side of Darbion and the Principality of Ryan, the two sides invested a total of 13 sanctuary powerhouses. Only the marquise was protected by four sanctuary powerhouses, plus The thundering front she trained by herself has no way to implement the so-called decapitation tactics.

If it was tens of thousands of years ago, the personal strength of the strong can really be said to be invincible, but in this era, if there are people who think that they can come and go freely in the army by the personal strength of the strong, they can kill as they wish. Kill, then this person must be an idiot. If this is the case, what kind of army do the major countries need to train, what kind of arms race do they need to engage in, and how can there be military class distinctions such as Jing Rui and Ace?

will take the risk of using decapitation tactics. They are all very courageous and determined to be desperate. If the difference between the military strength of the two sides is not too great, no commander is willing to take the risk of using decapitation tactics. But Thain is very clear that once he loses the protection of the golden power sent to him by the Hastings family, then William will definitely not hesitate to use decapitation tactics to quickly end the battle.

Without him, the opponent has three low-level golden powerhouses, and they are still very powerful.

If there is only one person, Thain is not afraid. After all, the thousand Jing Guardians around him are not vegetarian. But for the three, the result is completely different.

Of course, if Thain knew that there were not only three people around Sean, and once he joined Mensor and Anno, the number of gold powerhouses would surge to seven, and one of them would still be half-footed into the sanctuary. If he is truly strong, then he will definitely choose to surrender without hesitation.

Do we still need to fight this kind of battle?

The so-called war between the nobles only broke out when the high-end combat power possessed by each other could almost check and balance each other.

Once the high-end combat power of one of the parties is strong enough to completely break the balance, then the war will not break out at all.

But even if Thain doesn't know that Sean has an ally such as Florence, his pressure is still very high.

Stretched out his hand and rubbed his face, Thain's face looked extremely tired, because he suddenly found that he had a desperate feeling. He knows very well that he has actually entered a dead end. There is almost no way to crack this game right now. Although it seems that he has the advantage, in fact, as time goes by, his advantage will only get smaller and smaller, until Finally, there is no ability to resist.

"Report!"

Just then, a rough roar suddenly interrupted Thain's thoughts.

"What's up?"

"The enemy army has abandoned the camp and evacuated towards the northwest."

"What?" Thain was taken aback. At this moment, he immediately understood that the other party must have received the news that Turnkey and Taylor had died and that the Second Cavalry

Regiment of Darbion had withdrawn from the war. "Immediately Order, the whole army will attack!"

Soon, Thain's order spread to all corners of the entire barracks, and a group of soldiers immediately began to assemble, and then followed his captain and left the barracks.

This time, the army moved very fast, and they chose to attack without even cleaning up the camp.

Such an eager march made other people in the army secretly speculate, but under the constraints of their respective captains, the army has always maintained a marching formation. From this point of view alone, it is also possible to see the basic strength of this army. The foundation is still there, not as bad as the outside world imagined. It's just that since it's a rapid march, it will definitely have some impact on physical strength, especially if the rapid march lasts for a long time, it will even have an impact on the army's combat effectiveness.

But right now, even if he knew these issues, Thain had no choice.

Because once William and Steel Wings are brought together, Thain knows that it is impossible for him to beat the opponent by himself. What's more, he didn't believe that someone as cunning as William would prevent the Thunder Lion from giving up his original offensive goal and rushing to his side. When the time comes, if he is caught up by the Thunder Lion, then he will be surrounded by the front and back flanks.

For this, no matter what price he pays, he must take down William as the coach!

Fortunately, this kind of extremely wasteful rush march did not last long. Only three hours later, Thain had caught up with William's coach.

The two sides encountered each other on a mountain.

As soon as he saw the opponent's army, Thain immediately calmed down. He did not order to move on. Instead, he let the army set up a formation and began to rest on the spot. The three-hour rush march has actually begun to affect the combat effectiveness of the army, so if the army is not allowed to regain its strength, then once fighting breaks out in a while, even if he has 10,000 people, it will not help.

However, almost when the entire army began to rest in place, Thain always felt that the situation seemed a bit wrong.

Because he discovered that the strength of William's coach's army seemed to be less than he had imagined.

But who are missing?

Thain's brows frowned. He knew that he was still a little anxious this time, and he didn't send a scout ranger in front, but since the situation is already like this, it is useless to regret it. It is better to calm down and solve this. A battle.

Since twice the number of troops can't fit your army, this time five times the army depends on how you fight!

Almost just when this thought emerged, Thain's face changed instantly!

Because he knew who the missing soldiers were.

Rena and her cavalry unit!

Chapter 287: .The vision determines the pattern [seeking a monthly pass]

"The reaction is not too slow." From a distance, William saw that the attacking formation just opened by the enemy who was catching up turned into a defensive formation, and finally twitched his mouth.

is just an indifferent expression, but it only turns into a sneer.

There is almost no need to think, and William can also know what the other party is thinking at the moment. Obviously, it was because the opponent discovered that Rina and her cavalry unit were missing, so they chose to shrink the lineup to defend. As for everyone, Rina and her cavalry unit have a deep scruples-the three-thousand-man defensive array was actually completely opened under Rina's charge.

If it weren't for Rina's attack to open the opponent's formation, throwing the opponent's army into chaos, and then successfully attacked the flank, it would be really difficult for an army of 3,000 to have a head-on confrontation with an army of 6,000. .

It can be seen how terrifying Rena's aura skills are, especially since she is also the commander of an army.

"This person is definitely not Domingo." William said in a deep voice, "I didn't expect that there would be a cautious general in the Hastings family with such good judgment... But unfortunately, his vision is too small. "

"How do you know that he is not Domingo?" Sean stood beside William and said with some confusion.

"If it was Domingo, he has already attacked." William said lightly. "Domingo has a very strong offensive consciousness. This is from the fact that he trained the Second Cavalry Regiment into an army that is particularly good at rushing and attacking. You can tell. You have to know that the combat style of any army will be inherited by the general who leads them. If the general is more cautious and conservative, then this army will be better at defending....Similarly, one If an army admires offense in particular, then its generals will have a very strong sense of offense and aggression."

Sean nodded slightly.

But William did not expect Sean to understand this. He had known that Sean was a type of shopkeeper, but he didn't hate such a lord, because he would never point fingers at things he didn't understand. William hated most. Those who don't know how to pretend to understand. Of course, Shaun actually has many things that William admires. For example, his vision of people is very accurate. People like Rena and Alfred have not only appeared in se but also never had any problems.

Of course, there is one more important point, that is, he does not doubt whether he employs people.

It can be said that he trusts his opponents very much, but in another way, it is that he is very bold.

"Limiting the growth of a general is not his talent, but his vision." William continued, "The higher a general's vision, the more things he will see, and he is making tactics. In the case of strategic arrangement, the pattern will be larger. Similarly, the more you will see and think of when you are in front of the battle command, the quicker and more accurate the response will be."

"Do you mean that the opponent's commander's vision and style are not good?"

"No, it's the opposite." William said, "I can be sure now that it is the man's idea, not Domingo's idea, to give up Roves and concentrate our forces to fight us.... Even, look. It was this person who took the bait on the bait I set."

"I'm a little confused." Sean said straightforwardly, "You will say that he has a good vision, and then you will say that he has made your mistakes in judgment..."

Cecilia chuckled and added to William: "William means that without a certain vision, he will not find the bait he arranged. But at the moment this person, even if he has a good vision, can learn from some clues. I found the clues, but the pattern he could see was still too small.... Besides, it was the bait that William personally laid. If he could see through, wouldn't it mean that the other party was just like William?"

Although everyone knows that Cecilia's last sentence is actually a flattery to William, but William is very useful.

"Are you interested in this person?" Sean glanced at William.

"Such people, if they can't be used by us, they must be resolved as soon as possible." William's voice is very calm, but the murderous intent in his tone is not concealed at all, "So once the opponent is defeated, anyone can escape, that's it. People cannot be escaped by him. If he is allowed to escape, as long as he is given enough time to digest after this battle, then he will be a very difficult enemy in the future."

"I understand." Xiao En nodded, "rest assured, as long as I find him, then he will never let him escape."

"Then what should I do now?"

"Let's go." William remained calm.

"go?"

"They just stopped to rest, and their formation changed so quickly. Now they must have almost consumed their physical strength." William chuckled, "It's our turn to march in a hurry at this time. If the other party doesn't want to lose us, we must Once more hurried marching to keep up, guess whose physical exertion will be more severe in the end?"

Hearing William's words, Sean immediately understood.

If a person is highly concentrated, he will not feel tired too easily, but once he feels tired, it means that his physical strength and Jingshen have almost reached the limit. If you rest at this time, your body's functions will immediately send out various jingles, so it is easy to enter a state of deep fatigue and weakness, but without adequate rest, continue to perform activities that require large-scale physical exertion. , Then it is an overdraft of physical fitness.

Hardly any hesitation, at William's order, when Thain's army changed its formation, Sean's army immediately opened again. And this time, with the speed of marching quickly, he quickly got out of the sight of Thain and the others, but in just a blink of an eye, Sean and the others almost disappeared from Thain's sight.

Seeing this situation, Thain just froze for a moment, and then immediately gritted his teeth and chose to pursue it.

It's not that he didn't think about the possibility of the opponent's ambush, but he has already chased here. If he does not continue to pursue the pursuit, he is really unwilling, and once the enemy forces and the troops that defeated the 2nd Cavalry Regiment of Dabion join together , Then he is even less sure of winning. So considering that there are only more than two thousand people on the other side-now Rina and her cavalry unit do not know where they have gone, there are only more than one thousand people left on the other side, and the ratio of the two sides is close to ten to one. If this is not daring to pursue, Then it would be too embarrassing to spread it out.

After seeing Ting Qi's army choose to pursue, William gently shook his head: "Sure enough, his vision is still not broad enough." Having said that, he said to Xiao En: "Although this man has a good strategy, he also has a certain degree. He has vision and ability to judge, but he is too eager for quick success and quick gains. A series of mistakes have driven him to desperation. Although it can be judged that this person is more cautious from just discovering that Rena is missing and immediately turning the offensive to the defensive, this kind of cautiousness is only Relatively speaking."

"If it was you, what would you do?" Sean was a little curious.

"Abandon the pursuit, fully shrink the defense of the entire territory, and if necessary, give up Loming, Roves, Hastings Manor, it doesn't matter." William said lightly, "He can choose to abandon Roves, which proves his courage. He has a good vision, but it's a pity that he is still reluctant to give up Hastings Manor and Luo Mingen, otherwise he would not choose to chase us, but directly go back to find Fred's trouble, then Fred and his Thunder The lion will really suffer a big loss, and maybe even withdraw from this battle early."

"So cruel?"

"Don't forget, the location and people are not on our side." William said softly, "Now, it depends on his vision."

Tyenne doesn't know how William evaluates him, but if he let him know, then he will definitely feel very shocked, and he will not even choose to continue chasing William. Because in fact, just as William had evaluated, Thain really has no retreat at all. Tinci's successive defeats, the retreat of the 2nd Cavalry Regiment of Darbion, and Domingo's illness, these are heavy. His baggage made Thain almost breathless.

He desperately needs a major victory to appease the hearts of the people and the military, and only in this way can the Nugus family not think that their Hastings family is a waste.

So, Thain did not stop pursuing.

The two armies just chased and fled like this, running along the border line between Yadby and Tinki, in the direction of Dayi.

For four days, Thain did not choose to give up. As long as Shaun's army stopped to rest, Thain would order the army to approach, forcing Shaun and others to have no time to rest. Of course, once nightfall, the two armies will still choose to rest very tacitly, but usually at dawn, Sean's army will take the lead. This will force Thain's army to rest with Sean and others. almost.

If you don't understand the situation, you won't even think that the two armies belong to opposing camps.

At night on the fifth day, William did not let the whole army continue on the road, but chose to rest in place. Since he chose to rest at night on the first night, he was attacked by the Thainites. From the second day onwards, William did not choose to rest at night. Instead, he drove until late at night before ordering the military to stop and rest. Liang set off immediately. Although the rest time was greatly reduced in this way, and even hundreds of soldiers had fallen because of this, William still did not make any changes.

Until tonight.

William looked at the enemy army less than one mile away from his side, his eyes became extremely cold: "It's a pity, he has been completely blinded by victory, and he has lost the calm and rationality that a commander should have.... Everything will be done tonight. It can be over."

Four consecutive days without rushing all night, the entire army has become extremely exhausted, coupled with the previous night attacks and the non-combat attrition on the road, there are now less than a thousand people left. The heavy loss is still the Cecilia Guards of Clover. After all, this unit is the one that can really fight the most. It is naturally at the forefront during the battle, so the attrition is naturally the most tragic.

But at this moment, Clover and his Cecilia Guards were extremely excited.

Even the messy image can't conceal the aura that this army exudes.

As for the other dark-winged unit, it can't be regarded as a unit at this moment. After all, heavy infantry will definitely have a great impact on the speed when escaping. Therefore, when leaving the barracks that day, the dark-winged unit did not wear the necessary equipment, but chose instead. Pack light on the road. The most serious non-combat attrition these days is also this unit, but everyone knows that the jet black wings are still too short to be established after all, and the training volume is far from reaching the standard, but after this battle, I am afraid it will be Has changed.

Just as William was staring at the enemy, Thain was also staring at the enemy.

But at this moment, Thain is full of scumbags, his eyes are flushed, and his whole person looks abnormally haggard and tired.

In fact, not only him, but the entire army under his command also looks the same, and at this moment, there are no longer 10,000 people, but only more than 8,000 people. Because if you want to talk about long-distance raids and non-combat attrition, the heaviest loss is definitely not the pitch black wings, but this unit of Thain.

Thain knew that after pursuing for so long, he had already cut off his retreat. But he knows that all this will end tonight, because he has chased to a distance of less than one mile from the enemy. This distance can be said to be no, but both sides are very tacitly agreed and did not choose to be at this distance. Go to war.

But Thain knew that he had no time. According to his budget, the unit that defeated the 2nd Cavalry Regiment of Darbion had only two days left before it would rendezvous with Sean's army. Therefore, he must annihilate this troop with less than a thousand people left tonight, and only in this way can he wash away the shame of Ting Qi's successive defeats.

And the way he chooses to fight is night attack.

A large-scale night attack involving 8,000 people attacking 1,000 people! (To be continued.)

Chapter 288: The same tactics

Night, it looks very peaceful.

Not only is there no insects, there is even no wind.

This kind of quietness has far exceeded the quietness in the ordinary sense.

However, as long as it is a person with a certain amount of experience, it will be very clear that this tranquility is actually caused by the escape of murderous intent.

Such a strong and obvious murderous intent, the two armies present are not recruits, of course, you can feel this strong killing intent. There is almost no need for the commanders of both sides to say anything. Everyone knows each other very well. No matter what the result is, tonight will end the multi-day laborious journey. Many veterans even have a sense of relief at this moment. , The whole person seems relaxed and jingling a lot.

Even if it is late at night, not many people fall asleep.

Because the time to evacuate is very urgent, so no matter it is the camp on Sean's side or Thain's side, let alone tents and quilts, there is no one to set up the wooden fence. Everyone sleeps on the floor, and if it is too cold to bear, only a few people can huddle together. In fact, the most serious situation of non-combat attrition is to be frozen in sleep because of the lack of protection against the cold. die.

However, no one complained.

War is cruel and realistic.

Yese is getting thicker and thicker, but no matter which side it seems to be very tacit, they didn't do it. And with the passage of time, Ye Se also began to gradually turn from dark to light. Everyone knew that dawn would be coming in about a few hours. Generally, at dawn, the large troops would definitely set off one after another, and then a new one. The wheel fled and pursued, but this time, no one came to remind them that it was almost time to wake up.

Time is passing quietly.

But soon, there was finally a slight noise in this quiet space.

Although the sound is very slight, it is just the sound of a few stones rolling down, but in this case, it is obviously not normal at all.

If you look down from a high altitude at this moment, and if the sky is slightly brighter, you can clearly see that a large group of people have surrounded the small area where Sean and others are resting, and are slowly shrinking the encircling circle. A little closer. The sound of rolling stones just now was caused by a soldier accidentally exerting a little force when he landed, and it happened to step on a high and low ground.

The sound almost sounded like a chain reaction of dominoes, spreading rapidly from the soldier to both sides, until the entire encirclement circle, all the soldiers held their breath at this moment, and no one dared to move on, as if in At this moment, everyone has become a sculpture.

If William could see this scene, he would surely show appreciation in his eyes without hesitation, and sincerely praise Jing sharp.

In fact, this unit can indeed be regarded as Jing Rui, and it is also the last hole card that Sean Hastings has been hiding.

The number of troops preparing for the night attack and siege is not very large, probably less than two thousand people, but there are nearly five hundred people in it are the Jing Guards around Thain, and the other thousand people are Tin Chiyin. The most seized group in the private army. In other words, these people are already the real Jinghua among the 8,000 remaining soldiers of Thain, and Thain dared to put all these Jinghua into this night attack so desperately, I have to say this. It is indeed a great courage.

In other words, Thain threw all these people into this night attack when he thought he was bound to win.

But anyway, William and others did not seem to have noticed the encirclement of this force, and even when and how the nearly two thousand people left the camp of Thain, they did not find out. You know, more than two thousand people are not only one or two hundred people—especially in this semi-wild and semi-prairie terrain, small groups of dozens of people can easily be spotted, let alone one or two thousand people.

But in fact, no one in William's camp gave a jing.

The people who were silent due to the accident of the rolling stones finally took action after waiting for about ten minutes. But this time their speed has slowed down a lot more than the first time, and they have become much more cautious, and even start to choose their footing.

As these people advance, the entire encirclement has already begun to gradually shrink.

As a result, the originally sparse encirclement naturally began to form and became tighter. When it was within a few hundred meters of the range where Sean and others were resting, it was naturally impossible to hide the figure of the entire encirclement. Several officers, who seemed to be leading the team, finally stopped worrying about hiding themselves, and suddenly pulled out their swords. In a moment, the sharp sound of a sword unsheathed suddenly broke the silence in this area, accompanied by a The officer swung his sword and fell, and the cry of killing suddenly rang into the sky.

A short distance of a few hundred meters is actually not too close. If it is a normal night attack, it is of course impossible to attack at this distance. But on this terrain, this distance has no place where they can hide their figures. Unlike the night raid barracks, there will be tents that can cover their figures, and this time their numbers are indeed quite large. , So sooner or later, it would be better to use the aura to deter the opponent.

However, there are only a thousand people who charge, and nearly a thousand people are not responsible for the charge, but start to draw bows and arrows, and then sheave the first round of arrows.

Yese is not thick at first, but it is not bright either. It seems that this situation has been foreseen a long time ago, and even the full moon hides behind the dark clouds early. And under this kind of sky, this wave of arrows cast by the archer can be described as a real dark arrow. Although the sound of stringing and howling arrows is endless, it is one thing to hear the sound, and I want to block these arrows. It's another matter.

Almost no Tingqiin soldier would doubt the merits of this wave of arrow rain, not to mention that when they rushed past these hundreds of meters, the arrow rain would definitely fall two more waves. Even if the three waves of arrow rain can't wipe out all the enemies, it is enough to make them completely maimed. At that time, the only thing they need is to clean the final battlefield-in fact, the five hundred Thain jing guards. The target that soldiers really need to deal with is the two golden powerhouses.

And their task is not to kill these two golden strong men, because their strength is not enough to kill these two golden strong men, so their biggest task is to entangle these two people so that others can go smoothly. Of sweeping the entire battlefield.

.....

When a raid was launched on the encirclement net around this area of Sean's resting place, another night raid was also launched.

The person leading the team is Sean.

And following Sean were Cecilia, Clover, and the Cecilia Guards who were almost completely maimed again.

But unlike the tactics of the encirclement and contraction circle launched by Thain, the only 500 people on Sean's side formed an arrow force and directly launched a strong attack towards the rest area where Thain and others were located.

They didn't hesitate or pause at all, and even didn't care whether they would make any abnormal noises—of course, they also chose to attack when they lurked hundreds of meters in this area. In terms of tactical choices, Sean did not act very well. He could only say that he was exactly the same as the troop that was attacking his own camp, but the only difference was that even if an offensive was launched, the actions of Sean and others were still very different. Swiftly and did not make any loud noises.

It's not like when the army launches an offensive, there will be screams of killing.

Of course, in comparison, because of the small number of people, Sean naturally has fewer archers' attacks.

Only based on the sharpness of the Cecilia's guards, this kind of straight-line breakthrough hardline attack is naturally not much inferior to the opponent.

So when Sean and the others have rushed to the edge of the Saien camp, the whole process didn't even last for a minute—in fact, if Sean wanted to, the distance of hundreds of meters would be even thirty for him. There is no need for seconds, but he cannot play heroism at this time. He must cooperate with the entire team to attack, otherwise, if he is out of touch, even if he can kill the lower level of gold, it will only lead to the destruction of the entire army. .

Sean is not the kind of person who can't hold his breath.

Such a fast charging speed, of course, is not a light physical consumption, especially for troops that are already exhausted. However, this exhaustion is not unique to Sean. The soldiers of Thain's army are also exhausted, even worse than the soldiers of the Cecilia Guards. Therefore, when Sean and the others completely penetrated and swung their swords to spread their arms, and easily broke through the edge of the entire area, the dull brain of Thain's army finally responded and understood that they had encountered an enemy attack. NS.

But, why did they encounter enemy attacks?

Aren't they supposed to attack each other?

The chaos began to spread throughout the entire army in an instant.

When Sean's attack was almost successful, a loud scream finally broke out less than a mile away.

At this time, no matter how dull the people in this camp were, they finally understood that the enemy had adopted the same night attack tactics like them. But just as the enemy didn't seem to have noticed their sneak attack, the people on their side also didn't understand how the enemy army who had come to attack at night escaped their sight. There was not even a trace of jingle. You must know the location of their camp. There are a lot of people, and in order to prevent the enemy from escaping, the commander even ordered other people to be scattered around as eyeliners. Of course, he must be able to control the entire battlefield for the first time.

But why, the changes on the battlefield are different from what they expected?

It's just that at this moment, the situation no longer allows these soldiers to think about it. The enemy army is like a knife pierced into the butter, and it penetrates towards the center of the camp without any hindrance. In this position, Thain was under the * of the Jing Guards, and tried his best to issue various orders, trying to calm down the entire army as soon as possible to resist the enemy's sneak attack.

And Sean looked at the clerk who had followed Domingo to the Void City in a bit of amazement, with a smile on the corner of his mouth: "I finally found you." (To be continued.)

Chapter 289: .Different ending

Thain's face se is very ugly.

As a commander, and his own strategic ability is not inferior, so he originally thought that Rena led the team to leave in order to launch a flanking raid and sao harassment at him in the midway, and it is precisely because of this that he He just kept biting behind the enemy army and didn't dare to be too far away from the enemy army. Even if he knew that the enemy was forcing his troops to consume as much energy as possible, he really didn't have a good solution.

And on the second day of the pursuit, he already knew that he was actually hit.

But at that time he had no choice, and he didn't even dare to retreat. Because he knew all too well, in such a tired marching situation, retreating, if suddenly encountered Rena and his cavalry troops intercepted midway, coupled with the enemy's return to the carbine, what kind of consequences would be caused.

That was a real defeat!

Rather than being completely defeated before the first battle, he might as well continue to pursue it like this. In this way, the two sides will lose each other's battles, and maybe even be able to defeat the other. And it is precisely with this mentality that he will bite behind William for five days-of course, except for the loss caused by an accidental night attack on the first night, William never gave Thain any chance.

So when Thain can chase tonight until he is only one mile away from William, Thain knows his chance is here. In other words, even if there is no chance, he will definitely choose to divide the victory or defeat tonight, because his original geographical and human advantages have been completely worn out in these five days.

Until this moment, Thain finally realized the horror of William.

Unconsciously, he was already in the game, and he was even forced to give up the two strategic advantages that he firmly grasped.

Therefore, the moment he saw William stop to rest at night, Thain knew that William would definitely choose to launch a night attack. He even felt that William would know that he would definitely launch a night attack tonight, so he had already started arranging the battle plan for tonight almost the moment he ordered a rest, and he even assigned hundreds of people to serve as The purpose of the eyeliner is to monitor all movements of the enemy.

But he didn't think about why he sent so many people out, but he didn't even send out a jingle. Instead, he let the enemy into the camp.

But he knew that he had no time to think about it at this moment.

"That's okay, it's here to solve you all and save me too much trouble." Thain quickly recovered to calm down, especially since he had seen that there was actually Pan in the team that came from the raid. When he was the lord of the collar, he became more calm, "Thank you, Mr. Laubert."

"a piece of cake."

The golden powerhouse who was responsible for protecting Thain's safety smiled slightly, and at the same time fully radiated his aura. He is already half-footed into the realm of high-level gold, second only to Taylor in the entire Hastings family, and even if he is desperate, Taylor may not be able to solve him easily, so look at Laubert Come, that master whose strength is only the pinnacle of silver is not worth mentioning.

Of course, he already knew that the master of the upper silver pinnacle was the lord of Pandaren, Sean Connery.

As long as they can win him, they will win the battle no matter how heavy the losses are.

Therefore, without the slightest hesitation, after the momentum exploded and climbed to the extreme, the strong man rushed towards Xiao En like a sharp arrow.

"So fast!"

When he saw the action of this strong golden man, a strange se flashed in Xiao En's eyes. However, in the next moment, he already understood that this golden powerhouse is basically a powerhouse with a strong wind swordsman as his career development, so it is not surprising that he has such a speed, on the contrary, because of his agility value. Very high, so the relative endurance and strength of the two attributes will definitely be lower, so the offensive will not be too strong.

The only tricky thing is his attack speed.

But at this moment, Sean didn't even intend to fight him head-on, because his goal was Thain—he had promised William that he would never let this person run away, so he would definitely not let this person leave him. Sight. Although he already knew that this guy would definitely not be able to escape the ambush ring that William had already set up, but if he could not catch him personally, but let William personally catch him, he would think it was something. Very embarrassing thing.

So when the golden man dashed forward, Xiao En's eyes suddenly became cold, and he swung his sword without hesitation: "Get away!"

At this moment, Sean has not hesitated to use the two signature skills of Lightweight Technique and Adrenal Gland Stimulation. At the same time, he even activated the Demon Hunting Mark and evil thoughts.

A Jing God impact directly hit Laubert's mind, it must be more than fifty points in terms of the will of the golden strong, but Sean did not intend to let the evil thoughts stun the opponent from the beginning, he only needs a moment of vertigo. Will suffice. And the special ability of evil thoughts did not disappoint Xiao En, the original swift figure of the golden powerhouse suddenly stagnated, and the whole person even staggered.

As a result, he naturally couldn't avoid the black sword qi that Xiao En wielded.

When Black Se's sword aura hit Laubert's body, Laubert finally recovered from the dizziness, and his face even showed a trace of amazement. Originally, he planned to take Sean with a single blow, and then force the opponent's entire army to surrender, but he didn't expect that his attack would have been taken away by Sean with a single blow before his attack, even though the power of this sword aura was not It was quite enough to not cause him to be seriously injured, but at this moment he obviously felt a trace of sluggishness in his figure, and the blood in his body also became a bit turbulent.

All of these let him know that the black sword aura just now is by no means simple.

As a result, Laubert no longer dared to underestimate the enemy, and the * of twelve minutes of operation stared at Sean, and rushed up again with a long roar.

But this time, his aura is obviously much more fierce than before.

Laubert is not a stupid and arrogant person. In the first time he suffered a loss, he already knew that the lord was definitely not easy to mess with, and he even guessed that the weapon in the hand of the lord was by no means simple. He is not the kind of person who doesn't understand anything. He joined the Hastings family ten years ago, and he has been practicing outside before that, so he knows very well that if some people are lucky enough to gain certain When special demonized equipment, it can greatly increase its own abilities.

Because he once met one.

So Laubert knew that if the lord really had this kind of equipment, then he would never be able to capture the lord easily, especially since there was an army beside him. Therefore, he has made the decision at this moment to directly and simply behead the lord here. Anyway, with the strength of his golden power, with the cooperation of his own troops, it is easy to wipe out this raid team. matter.

After that, even if the lord dies, as long as their night raid troops can successfully capture the opposing commander, then tonight will still be a beautiful victory.

But Laubert's idea is very good, but the facts development does not necessarily follow his plan.

Because at the moment he took another shot, he realized that he seemed to be locked by some kind of Jing God power. Before he could figure out what the source of this Jing God power was, the few red feathers suddenly appeared. She came out of the enemy's army.

Almost as soon as he saw these flaming feathers, Laubert immediately yelled in fright.

That is the sixth level of magic, flying flame feathers!

Don't look at these feathers looking light and fluttering, but the power of this magic is even greater than the bursting flame bomb!

Because the bursting flame bomb is a fixed-point range explosion magic, as long as the distance is a little farther, the damage will not be particularly large. But these fiery red feathers are tracking magic, and their power is still very concentrated, and they don't spread out like a bursting flame bomb.

Almost when he saw these feathers, Laubert immediately dodges and dodges without thinking, but his movements are swift and ingenious, but in this area, even if he can dodge, it does not mean that others can do it. . Therefore, Lingyu still exploded behind him-in fact, fortunately, this hapless soldier was relatively close to Laubert, otherwise he would definitely turn around with Lingyu's tracking characteristics, but even so, Laubert was still affected by this. The shock wave of the explosion shook forward and flew out, directly in front of Sean.

This time, Sean didn't wait for the other person to stand up, and waving his hand was a resurrection.

Because Sean has no time to waste.

When the terrible murderous aura broke out on Sean, Laubert's mind was shocked, and he suddenly realized that he was finished. And the next moment, as he had guessed, his corpse was directly cut off by Xiao En with a requiem, and he was already dead to death.

But Sean, because of his requiem, was temporarily immobile.

Only at this moment, Sean is not alone. He is also surrounded by Clover and Cecilia's Guards.

Therefore, no matter how chaotic the situation is, the surrounding soldiers can't hurt Sean at all—the Cecilia Guards quickly protected Sean. And in the battle formation, there are also Clover, who is also the highest silver pinnacle strength, and Cecilia, who is comparable to the golden powerhouse. Faced with the exhausted enemy forces around, how can they lose? What's more, Cecilia is no longer the little girl who doesn't understand anything. The magic she displays here is no longer a pure pursuit of lethality, but uses whatever range is large, as long as it can hurt enough. The enemy will do.

It was almost as soon as the close combat between the two sides started, Thain's heart began to sink continuously, because he knew that these soldiers under his command were not the opponents of the soldiers equivalent to the death squad. In other words, even if the soldier's combat power can be compared with the opponent, but the opponent has a magician, this result also makes him look very helpless. At this moment, his troops have not collapsed, purely because the number of them is superior.

But Thain knew that even if he could successfully annihilate this unit in the end, his casualties would be very heavy.

"Surrender." Thinking of this, Thain said, "You have no chance of winning."

"Why do I think you have no chance of winning?" Shaun's voice came from the army, but Thain couldn't see where Shaun was.

"Do you think you can still win? Just rely on hundreds of you?" Thain said in a deep voice, "I admit that you can avoid my scouts with some tricks, but now your barracks have also been sent by me. It has been attacked, so you have no chance of winning at all!... You are also a noble now, as long as you surrender, I promise to give you the treatment that the noble deserves!"

"Hehe." Hearing Thain's words, Sean suddenly laughed, "Why do you think that it was our camp that you sent people to attack? ... You didn't chase us for a day or two, but why Will you be so close to us on the fifth day?"

Hearing Sean's words, Thain's face finally changed suddenly. At this moment, many things he had not figured out and doubted before, finally figured it out completely: "You are the bait!"

This time, Sean very generously acknowledged Thain's words: "Yes, in order to make you the decoy to shrink the defense line of the barracks.... Your so-called night attack tactics, William has already seen through, those you sent to attack People will only find an empty space with nothing.... By the way, William asked me to relay a word to you."

"What's the matter?" Even though he knew that it didn't make sense to say that, Thain couldn't help it.

"He said, 'Tell that guy, there is a tactic called a ring encirclement net.'" Sean laughed.

At this moment, Thain couldn't help it anymore, and spouted a mouthful of blood with a "pop".

Almost in response to Sean's words, thunderous steps came. It was the sound of Anno's steel wings and Rina's first cavalry regiment finally entering the battlefield! (To be continued.)

Chapter 290: .After the war

The so-called ring encirclement net is simply an anti-encirclement tactic that uses all kinds of tricks.

When the enemy forms an encirclement tactic, invest equal or greater forces outside the encirclement of the enemy to form a new encirclement.

However, this kind of tactic can only be regarded as a conspiracy, not a conspiracy or conspiracy, and the limitations of its use are very large. If it were not for the special environment tonight, coupled with the tactics that William had already guessed that Thain would use, and the timely support of Rena, Anno, Mensuo and others, this tactic would be impossible to implement.

Say it better, it's William who has done everything, but if it's ugly, it's playing with fire.

As long as one of the three links goes wrong, the ring encirclement tactic is a joke, and it may even be used by the enemy.

If this happens, then Croft, Sean, Cecilia and others who were used as bait to force Thain to order the contraction of the defense line will really be wiped out.

Fortunately, this tactic finally succeeded.

And when Anno and Rena led the troops into the battlefield, the cat-and-mouse game that lasted for five days has finally come to an end.

Neither William nor Thain made a mistake. The war really ended tonight.

It's just that the former is the winner and the latter is the loser.

In the battle, the last army led by Ting Qi was completely annihilated. Except for the fall of a golden powerhouse, there were only more than 2,000 dead in the war, more than 4,000 troops were dropped, and more than 1,000 people fled. But William did not order the pursuit, because it was no longer necessary.

And among these soldiers, only nearly 3,000 people can return to the battlefield, and the other 1,000 people are seriously injured.

However, these have nothing to do with Sean and William. He sent all these soldiers to Florence, so Florence can piece together a force of 6,000. Although the strength of the troops is not too much, it is enough to hold most of the Tin Qi's collar. Moreover, the Yedby collar who was swallowed by Sean, he did not intend to return it to the Kingdom of Darbion. The Lion of Thunder will settle in this territory by then, and the steel wings of Daly will be enough to make Florence stand firmly. heel.

But even so, Sean almost scrapped the three legions.

Black wings, Cecilia Guards, First Cavalry Regiment.

The combined strength of these three troops is now less than two thousand, and the Jet Black Wings are once again facing the situation of disbanding.

Relatively speaking, the two real main forces of Sean, Steel Wings and Thunder Lion, are completely intact. In other words, even if it is damaged, it can recover its combat power in a short time. After all, Steel Wings still has more than 3,000 reserve troops, and the main force composition of the Thunder Lion is also the northern barbarians, so the two units can still share the same source of troops.

On the contrary, it is very difficult for the Jet Black Wings and the Cecilia Guards to replenish it. At least for now, it is impossible for the Pandan collar to have excess troops to fill. As for Rina's First Cavalry Regiment, although the difficulty of recruiting troops is not small. But it was much easier than the Jet Black Wings and Cecilia Guards, and William had already put this idea on Yedby.

soon. Xiao En and others were escorted by Iron Wings and Rena and others. Go to the barracks built by Iron Wings nearby.

As for this battlefield, William naturally let Florence and the others clean it. After all, the soldiers who descended were collected by Mensor. In fact, William also took a fancy to these soldiers, just for the sake of the overall situation. Just grab someone.

Looking at the backs of Xiao En and others leaving, Mensuo suddenly became somewhat distracted: "I lost."

Hear Menso's words. Florence and others did not speak.

Nana and Pepe were already in the combat meeting room that day, and all what William said were relayed to Mensor. In this way, how could Mensuo be happy? I have probably guessed that William's plans and ideas are the same thing. But when he really knew that William had planned like this from the beginning, his mood was naturally another matter.

In the beginning, Mensuo was somewhat proud of his victory in assisting the Iron Wings to repel the 2nd Cavalry Regiment of Darbion and forcing the opponent to withdraw from the war due to heavy losses. But when I saw that William had started the layout six days ago tonight, and even learned that the first night was successfully attacked by Thain night, William had deliberately set the game, Mensuo no longer had a trace of pride.

If Thain had vomited blood after losing, then Mensuo would probably be better, at least his mouth is full of bitterness at the moment.

"Our favor, we owe a lot." Mensuo glanced at the soldiers who had surrendered, and said helplessly.

"I have no worries about debts." Mensuo quickly adjusted his mind and smiled casually, but his eyes no longer saw any frustration. Instead, a flame called fighting spirit was burning. "This William Yale is really not easy. Such a person has not appeared on the list of mainland game generals. This is really an incredible thing.... His strategy and tactics have already escaped from the board layout. "

"I didn't expect that you would admit that your skills are not as good as others." Pod smiled hardly.

"Mr. Pod, this is a willingness to surrender." Mensuo said with a smile, "A person like Mr. William, once he calculates the first step, then it is basically impossible to escape his script arrangement. So once he and William If you fight against someone like your husband, you must not enter his script, otherwise there is almost no possibility of winning.... That guy named Thain, really bad luck, has been following his script from the beginning, It's hard not to lose."

"Can you fight him to avoid entering his script?"

Hearing Bod's words, Mensuo thought for a while before shook his head and said, "No. I'm still only a chess player, but he is a higher-level writer than me."

"Ten generals?" This time, Bode was solemnly moved.

"There is definitely a place for him." Mensuo said loudly when he said this. "It's just that it's not easy to say in the ranking.... But none of the people who can enter this list are easy to follow, especially the top six. It's even a monster among monsters."

Ten generals!

This is a ranking that will not be overstated no matter how important it is.

If William can really make it into the top ten rankings. So whoever goes to war with the lord Sean is looking for uncomfortable. Although the generals among the ten generals are sometimes defeated, most of them are caused by some irresistible external forces. But the magic is that in history, there have been unknown generals who beat the ninth-ranked ten generals, but the list of ten generals has not been replaced because of this.

So many people are very curious about how the ranking of the top 100 generals on the mainland is selected.

"But my lord, you don't need to worry. That William is good at fighting, but it doesn't necessarily mean that he is good at governing territories." Seeing the * se in Florence, Bode comforted him. "Now we can be considered to have a territory. With your sir's ability, it is not difficult to manage this territory and even make your family grow stronger.... Moreover, with your friendship with Lord Panda. As long as we don't make the wrong decision, we don't need to worry at all."

"That's true." Florence knew that Pod was worried about himself. He smiled and nodded. "Tin Qi will definitely grow up under my management. Maybe, Shawn guy still needs to ask me how to manage the territory."

"My lord." Seeing Florence's appearance, Dante hesitated for a moment. In the end, it was because of the integrity of the knight Jing that he had to speak, "Master Shaun has an administrative officer named Neal. I have seen it so far. Of all the government managers in China."

Hearing Dante's words, Pod suddenly reached out and patted his forehead.

Florence's face se also became a little awkward.

As for the other followers of Florence, they all have expressions of helplessness: This Dante is good at everything, but the knight Jing is too poisoned.

.....

on the other hand. Xiao En and others have also returned to the camp built by Anno.

When Thain saw this camp, he knew that he was not wronged.

This camp has obviously been built for some time, so you don't need to think about it. Rena and her cavalry unit must have left first, and then joined the steel wings first, and have been here for a while, waiting for them according to William's instructions. Your own troops come over. It is ridiculous that he thought that William had asked Rena and her cavalry troops to intercept him halfway, and cooperated with his troops to come back with a carbine tactic.

If at that time, instead of continuing to pursue, he chose to retreat, would the result be different?

"Nothing will change." It seems that he saw Thain's thoughts, and William spoke calmly. Retreat back, and you also face Alfred and his Thunder Lion in his heyday with an exhausted army.... In any case, Tin Chi has not changed the slightest due to the defeat of the leader."

Hearing this, Thain gave a wry smile, and did not answer.

At this time, he had already seen that it was not the people who acted as eyeliners that he spread out that they were negligent, but that these people had already been dealt with by these northern barbarians. As for the safety signals that have been fed back before, everything is presumably fake, and its purpose is definitely to deceive oneself and feel at ease. Thinking about it this way, Thain knew that the people he sent out to carry out the encirclement tactics naturally fell in William's eyes.

"It turns out that I have been advancing according to your script."

"Almost." William still looked calm, and did not feel proud or proud of it.

In fact, in William's view, this is just a matter of course. Even someone who is as clear-minded as Mensor was calculated by him to follow his script, not to mention a person like Thain whose vision is not as good as Mensor's.

Of course, there is also a place that William did not expect.

"You have the courage to gather all-collar soldiers and attack me. This is really something I didn't expect." Looking at Thain with a sad expression on his face, William still said, "This is yours. The decision forced me to change the original combat plan, which delayed my strategic plan for occupying Tin Chien by a week.... At this point, I must admit that you still have a certain amount of talent."

Listening to William's words, Thain was not happy at all. But soon, he recollected and realized the true meaning of William's words: "Do you want me to surrender? Serve the Lord of Pandaren?"

"Not bad." William nodded.